Encampment At Fort Necessity Set For Weekend

For Necessity National Battlefield, located along U.S. Rt. 40 at Friendship Hill, Pa., will host Captain William Trent's Company at an encampment weekend this Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 5 and 6. The camp will be open to visitors from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

In the spring of 1754, Captain Trent and his company were assigned to build a fort at the forks of the Ohio River, where Pittsburgh now stands. They were evicted before their fort was completed. George Washington, assigned to build a road to this new fort, met the returning Captain Trent at Will's Creek, where Cumberland is now located. The Trent's Company re-enactment group, commanded by Karl Schulmeister of Coraopolis, Pa., will encamp in the Great Meadows, the site of Fort Necessity. Visitors are encouraged to explore the camp and re-enactors welcome inquiries into the happenings of those early years.

General admission to the park is $2 per adult, while children 16 and under are admitted free. The fee is collected at the park's visitor center and is valid for seven days. For more information on this and other programs at Fort Necessity, persons may telephone 724-329-5512, or visit the park's web site at www.nps.gov/fone.

"Dance Legends" Performance Set At Frostburg

Three weeks of modern dance instruction and performance will culminate Saturday, Aug. 5, at 8 p.m., when Frostburg State University presents "Dance Legends: An Evening of Modern Dance," featuring performances by students and some of the greatest performers in the modern dance world. The performance will take place in FSU's Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

The dance concert will include guest appearances by Janet Eilber and Claire Porter. Eilber, in her years as a principal dancer with the former Martha Graham Dance Company, soloed at the White House, danced as Rudolf Nureyev's partner, and danced many of Graham's greatest roles. Porter, a modern dance performance artist, and her company, "Portables," are internationally recognized for using theatrical elements and humor in performances.

Other performances will be by students from the FSU Summer Dance Retreat and members of the Martha Graham Dance Ensemble, a group that has temporarily suspended operations in a licensing dispute. They will perform dances choreographed by the retreat's instructors, Pearl Lang, noted as a "dance legend," Kenneth Topping, who directs the Martha Graham Dance Ensemble, and Tanceredo Tavares. Choreography by Isadora Duncan, Sophie Maslow and Anna Sokolow will also be performed.

In addition, a student from the Retreat will perform "Harmonica Breakdown," by modern dance pioneer Jane Dudley.

Tickets are $10 each and may be reserved by calling the FSU box office at 301-687-3163. Arts programs at FSU are supported by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the State of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Local Resident Earns Citation

Angela Browning of Kitzmiller recently received a Governor's Citation in appreciation for her accomplishments as a Volunteer Maryland (VM) coordinator at the Garrett County Health Department. Browning's efforts were focused on enhancing the volunteer force serving middle school students in two after-school programs.

By recruiting 30 new volunteers (most of them high school students), Browning improved the volunteer/participant ratio from 1-to-6 to approximately 1-to-2. Volunteers helped the middle school students with homework, led a wide range of recreational activities, and participated in many community service projects, including visiting a local nursing home to do crafts with residents and making homemade dog biscuits for an animal shelter. In all, 36 volunteers provided over 1,100 hours of service.

VM Coordinators are members of AmeriCorps, known as the "domestic Peace Corps," who commit to a year of service to make a difference in their community in exchange for a small stipend and an education award.

New technology is changing our world, and toys reflect these changes. The toy telephone no longer has a rotary dial and a bell. It is pushbutton and looks cellular so children can imitate real life. Space toys must keep up and predict the coming technology in order to intrigue future collectors.

Imaginative designers often created toys that predicted the look of the future. The first mass-produced robot toy was Robot Lilliput, which was made in Japan in the 1940s. The 6-inch-high toy now sells for more than $8,500. In the 1950s and '60s Japanese toy makers made many futuristic toys, especially robots. The idea of a robot that resembles a person has been part of science fiction for many years. The most famous of these early robot toys were known as the Gang of Five. These five robots, about 15 inches high, were similar. Each one had a lithographed tin body with graphics that suggested machine parts.

"Lavender" robot and red "Machine Man" were similar but different colors. "Giant Sonic Train" robot was red and made a train sound. "Radicon" Robot was radio remote-controlled. "Target" robot had a red target on its chest. It reversed direction when the target was hit by a dart. They were all made by Masudaya in Japan in the 1950s. "Machine Man" is the rarest and most expensive today. It has sold for more than $42,000.

This is a Hammer
by Samantha Mazzotta

Here's a collection of some of the tips that you have been sending in over the past couple of months. Keep them coming!

• I refinish and rebuild old furniture in my garage. When I'm stripping the finish from chair and tables, I keep the floor clean by placing aluminum pie plates under the furniture legs to catch drippings. I can reuse the stripper that collects in the plates, which saves a little money. — Clark D., Jacksonville, Fla.

• A plastic spatula is one of my essential tools. I use it when removing nails from surfaces that could be damaged by the hammer. Lever the nail out slightly, set the claw hammer in place, and then slide the spatula under the head of the hammer. When you pull the nail out, the spatula keeps the metal hammer from leaving its indentation in the wall or board. — John L., El Paso, Texas

• After a weekend barbecue, I clean my grill easily by spraying it with plain old oven cleaner, then I put it into a plastic bag overnight. The next day, I just hose it down, and all the gunk comes right off and the grill looks like new. — Barry H., New Orleans

• To keep my fingernails from getting caked with dirt while working, I dig my nails into a bar of softened soap before starting work. At the end of the day, the dirt and soap rinse away very easily. — Tim L., St. Louis, Mo.

• I get a few extra hours out of flickering light bulbs by cleaning their connections. Rub the base of the bulb with an eraser, and then draw a metal file lightly across the base. — James W., Macon, Ga.

Pet Care

Phyllis McM. in California asks if I can provide advice on how to set up hummingbird feeders in her backyard.

"I'm originally from Ohio, and I don't think I ever saw a hummingbird there," she writes. "But there are lots of them here, and I would like to attract more by providing them with feeders."

Okay Phyllis, here's what the Humane Society's Urban Wildlife Sanctuary Program advises: Put feeders up in early spring near perching sites, preferably in a shady area protected from breezes. Make sure the feeder you choose can be taken apart for easy cleaning. Clean the feeder with a bottle brush and hot tap water. Do this every three to four days. Do not use soap or detergent. Use one part granulated white sugar to four parts of water to make nectar. Boil the water in a pan and add the sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Remove the pan from the heat and allow the "nectar" to cool completely before filling the feeder.

Never use honey. It can kill hummingbirds. And, do not use red food coloring to attract the birds. Instead, hang a red ribbon on the feeder or use a feeder that has red markings. Also, smear salad oil or petroleum jelly around the feeder opening. This will discourage insects from using it.

Note: There are several plants that provide nectar for hummingbirds including columbine, flowering crabapple, foxglove, fuschia and zinnia. Your local nursery may be able to advise you which plants would be best for your garden.

For more information on the Urban Wildlife Sanctuary Program, contact the Humane Society of the United States at 2100 L Street, Washington, DC 20037, or by e-mail at www.wildneighbors.org.

Peter Edwards can be reached via email at letters.kfws@hearstsc.com or via snail mail at King Features Weekly Service, 628 Virginia Drive, Orlando FL 32803.

Eight graduates of the Northern High School class of 2000 have received Michael Vaughn Vitez Memorial scholarships from the Garrett Community College Foundation to attend GCC this fall, according to Bretta Rinehard, GCCF advancement officer.

Nathaniel Bittinger, son of Marshall and Doris Bittinger of McHenry, will enroll in an engineering program and plans to eventually obtain a bachelor of science degree in electronics engineering. His interests lie in computer programming and learning about computer operations. He and his family spend time together outdoors hunting, fishing, swimming, and riding fourwheelers.

Jessica DeWitt, daughter of Brad and Dianne DeWitt of Friendsville, will major in psychology at GCC. Eventually she would like to become a university psychology professor. She played volleyball at Northern, and continues to play the sport. Her interests are reading and watching movies.

Melanie Harvey, daughter of Charles and Rebecca Harvey of Friendsville, is undecided about her college major. She enjoys sports and camping. She was a starter for the Huskies' varsity volleyball, basketball, and softball teams, was a member of the National Honor Society, and served as treasurer of the Varsity Club.

Joshua Hook, son of Jim and Pamela Hook of Friendsville, will study engineering in college as he pursues his goal of obtaining a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering/avionics. He served as president of both the NHS National Honor Society and the school's chapter of Vocational Technical Clubs of America. Hook was also drum major of the marching band, and played junior varsity and varsity baseball. His interests include baseball and music.

Heather Miller, daughter of Craig and Carla Cumberworth of Grantsville, has received both the Vitez Memorial Scholarship and the Friendsville Rotary Scholarship. In high school she was historian of the Northern Students for Christ Club, was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students, was a member of the National Honor Society, was on the staff of the school newspaper and yearbook, and was named the 1999 Homecoming Queen. She will major in elementary education at GCC and plans to become a teacher. Miller is a member of the youth group at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, where she also serves as teacher in the Sunday school and Bible school programs. Her hobbies include reading, cross-stitching, and babysitting.

Steven Smith, son of Joseph and Margaret Smith of Friendsville, is undecided about his college major. In high school he played basketball and participated in the PIVOT program. He enjoys basketball, hunting, fishing, hiking, and playing the guitar. Smith and his family have lived in eight different states, as far east as Delaware and as far west as Nevada.

Stacy Stein, daughter of Cecil and Lucy Stein of Grantsville, has received both the Vitez Memorial Scholarship and the William Henry Schmidt Memorial Scholarship. She is still undecided about her college program but wants to enter the medical profession, possibly in pediatrics or physical therapy. In high school she participated in softball, basketball, theatre club, and the athletic trainers club, as well as the NHS Marching and Concert bands. She was also the student member of the Garrett branch of the AAUW. She engages in hunting, fishing, camping, biking, and ice skating. Stein said her desire to help people led her to volunteer at the Goodwill Nursing Home, where she assists with crafts and games.

Phillip "P.J." Workman, son of Phillip and Debra Workman of Friendsville, plans to study engineering in college. He has received both the Vitez Memorial Scholarship and the Edward and Hazel Hinebaugh Scholarship. In high school he played baseball, basketball, football, and golf, served as a student council representative, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. Workman is a member of the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren and serves as junior captain of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department, where all members of his family serve as volunteers.

Kids 'N' Corp. Program Notes Successful Year

The Grantsville Kids 'N' Corporated held its graduation ceremony recently. Approximately 100 parents, volunteers, community members, and advisory team members were present as Kids 'N' Corporated program director Linda Green addressed the gathering. During her remarks Green noted that the program had many success stories, one of which was an expansion grant that allowed an increase in the number of students that could attend the program.

The coordination between Frostburg State University's Allen Hall Stars, a group of 14 students, and Garrett County Community Action was another success story, according to Green. The Allen Hall Stars, who provided tutoring and mentoring to students attending the after-school program, were recognized for their dedication to the program. "This year I feel that we have finally mastered the tutoring program. With the assistance of the Allen Hall Stars, we were able to make the program unique and diverse," commented Karen Wood, Kids 'N' Corporated program coordinator.

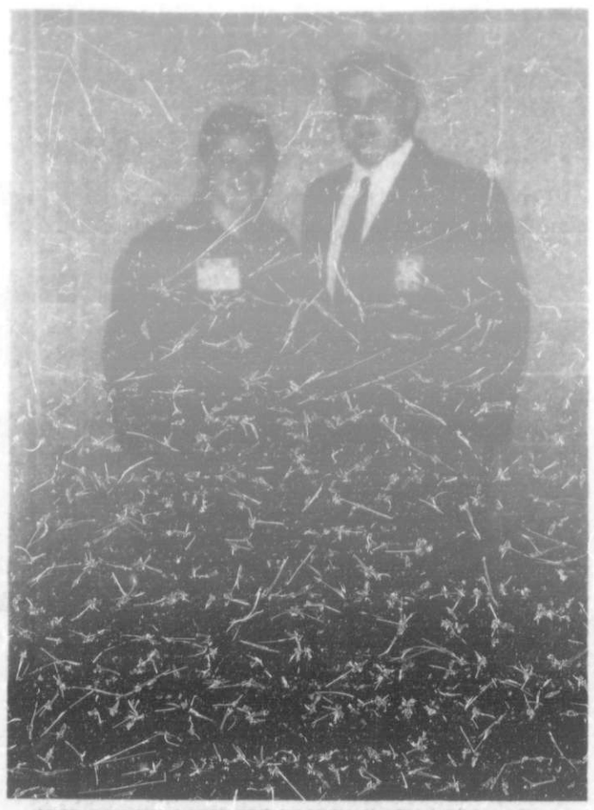
All of the students who participated in the after-school program advanced to the next grade, and a number of awards were announced at the graduation ceremonies. Among the students who were recognized with specific honors were Cristy Orner, most creative; Vincent Fazenbaker, perfect attendance; Stephanie Fazenbaker, most improved; and Karla McKenzie, best positive attitude. The "Hard Worker" award was presented to Amber Hare, Lara Beitzel, and Kathy Rounds.

Noted as students of the month were Vanessa Fazenbaker, September; Cristy Orner, October; Stephanie Fazenbaker, November; Katy Towers, December; Amber Hare, January; Karla McKenzie, February; Amanda Wilhelm, March; and David Warnick, April.

Brenda Frazee of the Garrett County Health Department presented T-shirts and certificates to the students who participated in the "Smart Moves" class. The Smart Moves group then performed two N-Sync songs for the guests, Lara Beitzel entertained the group with a song, and Amanda Wilhelm performed a hula hoop act using 10 hula hoops.

The after-school program will begin its fourth year of providing tutoring, mentoring, and recreational activities on Monday, Sept. 11. The program operates Mondays through Thursdays from 3:15 to 6 p.m. at the Grantsville Senior Center. The after-school program is recognized as a service learning site for those students in need of completing hours. Parents with children in grades 4-8 who reside in the 21536 zip code area interested in participating in the program or in receiving additional information may contact Wood at 301-387-9157.

The after-school program is sponsored by the Governor's Office for Crime, Control, and Prevention, the Stanley P. Smith Family Foundation, and the Garrett County Community Action Committee.



NHS GRADS COMPETE IN VICA NATIONALS — Recent Northern High School graduates Laurie Beth Lewis, left, and Josh Hook, represented the state of Maryland in the national Skill USA VICA competition in Kansas City recently, where each placed eighth in the nation in their respective categories. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Dale Lewis of Accident, competed in the Action Skills Demonstration when she disassembled and re-assembled a rear brake drum. Hook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hook of Friendsville, took part in a Job Skill Demonstration A, where he showed how to solder a component together. Robert Moranduzzo, who serves as Northern's VICA advisor, and his wife accompanied the competitors to Kansas City.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

You know how sometimes you say to someone, "Really we should do something together sometime?" Then weeks and months go by without doing it? But this last Saturday in July, Linda Buckel finally made a date with me to go "saleing," which means yard sale shopping. Ever since last summer at her big family yard sale at Lottie Brenneman's house we talked about how much fun yard shopping is, especially with talking with people and finding little treasures. So last Saturday morning Linda called and off we went yard "saleing."

It was a perfect day since there were three in a row on Rt. 495 and another just down the road from my house at the Powell home. We had a ball finding some things we needed, or just some fun stuff. We visited Zella Bittinger and I snapped a couple of pictures of her rag loomed rugs. Next door another garage sale was held at my mother's house sponsored by her grandchildren. We detoured on a back road trying to find a wild grape vine that I need for a craft project. Then we hit the road, as we were afraid we might get caught. I don't think anyone would really care since it was on a back road without any house close by. I plan to try to root it and see if I can make it grow for my grape arbor, which so far I don't have much luck getting any new vines to grow on it. Maybe I can have better luck with a hardy wild vine.

I just brewed some more willow rooting solution. You never know how it may work until you try something.

We stopped by Lottie's house while I admired her gladiolus. Mine are not doing anything so far. I noticed one stalk of a gorgeous scarlet flower that was broken down and I begged Lottie to let me have it so I could paint it. Now I have a lovely bouquet of scarlet gladiolus with a handful of wild tiger lilies that we picked on that back road. The older I get the more I love flowers, and I do like to paint them.

Last column I wrote about the last remaining kitten that was looking for a good home. It paid off perfectly since Mary Ann Hare read about it and, since her family loves tailless cats, and her daughter, Heidi, was having a birthday this Sunday, this was a perfect gift of our beloved "Beauty" to his new mother. If anyone does needs kittens, Calico and the rest of her family moved down to the Poholsky house, so just call Sally if you want a kitten. They are a little wild, so you might have to chase them a bit.

The Northern High School's Class of 1955 celebrated its 45th class reunion this past weekend, including from Bittinger Pete Buckel and Bob Smith. They started the week-long event with a pizza party at the Bittinger fire hall and a session of Karaoke. Many of the class took the mike and performed, including Pete and Linda Buckel, but Bob Smith was too shy to perform. Then they gathered again at the fire hall for dinner and some best acts encored again. Forty-five graduates and their spouses attended. One member of the class, John Sisler, Deer Park, drove down in his '55 convertible. They took the class around that classic car. On Sunday the class took a cruise on the lake.

Lottie Brenneman was a busy lady, with two family reunions last weekend. Her mother's family (the Moon clan) gathered at the Loch Lynn pavilion. Each year Lottie makes a comforter to raffle off at the reunion. This year her brother John was the lucky winner. Then on Sunday, it was back to the south end of the county to Broadford Lake for her father's family reunion (the Hardesty's). Both events were attended by about 75 people.

This week the Garrett County Health Department will hold the final series of community day camps in various communities of the county. This one is for kids from the Grantsville and Bittinger areas who completed grades 1 through 8. The camp is run by our own Jessica Cooper, featuring bike rodeo, biking, community service projects, and various kinds of recreation, plus great food and a family picnic to be held on Friday, August 4. The camp is concluding this week. Meredith is attending the camp starting on Monday. Claire and Caitlin were worn out from the big yard sale they had with their cousins. They may go later in the week since they are crazy about Jessie.

A seminar on "Healthy Congregations" is being held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. This is a timely subject for our congregation, as we have had our share of conflicts in recent years.

Margaret and Jim Wagner had a houseful of company who were in town for the Wagner family reunion held at the Bittinger fire hall on Sunday. Overnight guests were Donna and Wayne Wagner from North Carolina.

Dwaine, Lisa, Adam, and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg, spent the weekend with relatives here, and attended a memorial service for Carol Platter at Cherry Glade Church Saturday morning, and a family dinner afterward at the Floyd Platter home.

Sunday lunch guests at the Salisbury, Pa., home of William and Linda Oester were Sheli and Ashlin Gray, Hanover; Julius, Karmen, and Tony Carey, Frostburg; Jim, Tom, and Cheryl Glotfelty; and Ida Reckner. Guests arriving later were Warren and Josephine Oester, Salisbury, Donna and Tim Glotfelty, and Amanda Platter.

Visiting Ellen, Sam, and Brent Housley over the weekend were Dan and Ginger Clark and sons from Baltimore.

Sally, Lenny, and Torrey Poholsky and Ferne Beachy spent four days with Steve and Mary Ellen Presgrave at Fenwick Island. They lived next door to Beth Shafer's parents from McHenry. Beth's three daughters, Amy, Megan, and Jenny, visited with their grandparents, Ron and Marlene Mold. Leah Stanton, Baltimore, also visited the gang at Mel's place. It wasn't the greatest week for the beach and there was some rain and lots of jellyfish. If you get stung by one of those you really know it, as it is so painful.

Dave and Nancy Beachy of McHenry vacationed near Philadelphia recently.

Cynthia Knight was recently ill with a kidney infection. It then developed into a kidney stone requiring her to be hospitalized for one day. She is at home now recovering, but is busy preparing for a visit by her mother, Hazel Lohr Shecells, 103, from Baltimore. Then Cynthia and her husband Harry expect visits from the whole bunch of their sons and daughters and grandchildren this weekend. Cynthia plans to bring her mother over this way to visit her first cousin, Ida Reckner. Hazel and Ida are "tough as nails," so to speak.

The last few days were so hot and humid that when I was home alone on Sunday afternoon I ripped off my T-shirt and just sat for a few minutes in just my jogging bra, not expecting anyone to stop by. Luckily I put back on an apron that was nearby because without any warning, a long-time guest of our barn party, Janice, and her husband Ted, and their two kids stopped by. They are staying at a cabin on the lake for a week and just dropped in to say "Hi" to Carol and me. But concerning the main subject of the humidity, the heavy rain this afternoon took care of that. Thank goodness that the air is breathable again.

for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person/persons who were responsible for the breaking and entering of our historic home located directly across from Cathedral State Park near Aurora, WV on or about July 22, 2000 resulting in the theft of three full sized victorian beds (fully carved, cast face spoon carved victorian), one stand in mahogany victorian, six Windsor backed dining room chairs circa 1905 (black in color), 1905 Tiffany style hanging leaded glass lamp and more. The farm gate was removed to gain entry to the property. These were family heirlooms and very important to us and we'd like to get them back.

TO THE RESIDENTS OF LOCH LYNN

Many of you are probably unaware that a couple of residents have asked for our records and minutes for the past five years. I want to publicly support our councilpersons, clerk and treasurer. These are a group of honest, hard-working citizens, and I am convinced that no one has made any intentional mistakes. Each decision that has been made was made with the best interest of the residents of Loch Lynn in mind.

When I was elected Mayor of Loch Lynn Heights, the new town hall had recently been built. We had one truck and no other equipment to work with. The new town hall had a flat roof and we had problems with leaking, so we had a new roof installed. We finished paying off the new building and now have three trucks, a backhoe, and a four-wheel drive loader, a new riding lawn mower, weed eaters, and a new power tamper to repair the streets. We purchased a used cinder spreader so that we do not have to shovel cinders off the back of the truck manually. We have paved streets that had been gravel, and the list goes on and on.

The town is financially stable at this time, and I truly believe that this was all accomplished by the councilpersons, treasurer and clerk. They have always worked together and have always been able to work issues out together.

I would like to personally thank these people and congratulate them on a job well done and hope that each of the residents of Loch Lynn are as pleased with their elected members as I have been over the years.

Sincerely,
Charles H. Tressler

YOUGH GLADES DAR CHAPTER MEETS — Members of the Youghlogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution gathered recently for a luncheon meeting at the Will O' the Wisp. The afternoon featured a business meeting, which opened with a ritual ceremony led by Regent Phyllis Trickett. Vice Regent Leona Hardesty introduced the guest speaker, State Regent Mrs. Ellan Thorson, who discussed the organization's activities on the national and state levels in her program titled "Friendship Through DAR." The meeting concluded as Hardesty presented Thorson with a gift on the local chapter's behalf, and Yough Glades officers presented their reports. Lillian Reckner and Roseanna Sherwood arranged the luncheon, which drew a total of 24 DAR members. Pictured from the left are Hardesty, Thorson, and Trickett.

College. Her educational plans are to continue at GCC for the next two semesters, then transfer to Allegany College of Maryland to obtain a degree as a registered nurse. After obtaining her RN degree, she wants a career as a trauma nurse in either Morgantown, W.Va., or in Baltimore. After getting settled into her career Nolla said she wants to travel across Maryland, to Delaware, then to Canada, England, and Australia.

Allison Hamilton - Ms. Hamilton is a recent graduate of Southern High School, and this fall will be entering Delaware Valley College as a freshman, majoring in large animal science.

The 18-year-old daughter of Cathy Hamilton, she is currently living on a 32-acre farm in rural Swanton. On the farm she and her mother raise dairy and meat goats and train many different types of horses, along with a steer named Norman and some chickens.

Around the farm her responsibilities are to care for the livestock, which includes giving medications such as wormer and if needed antibiotics, feeding, and trimming the animals' feet. Other responsibilities are fencing, hay-making, cleaning barns, and planting a garden.

In the home she helps with the laundry, dishes, and the cleaning.

Allison's agriculture, school, and community activities include 4-H, S.T.E.A.M. (Student Tobacco Elimination Among Minors), and National Art Honorary Society.

She has been a member of the North Glade 4-H Club for six years. During these years she has held the offices of president and vice president. This year through 4-H she will be carrying the market lamb, market goat, dairy goat, and horse projects.

In school Allison is a member of the National Art Honorary Society, through which she has held the offices of vice president and historian.

Allison said her largest community activity involves the group called S.T.E.A.M. As a group they participate in various tobacco and cancer awareness activities such as the Relay For Life and teaching elementary and middle school students about the harmful effects of tobacco. Recently they joined up with Eisner Communications, an advertising agency, in a state wide competition to create a new and effective tobacco-free advertisement.

Her hobbies and special interests include anything that involves the outdoors such as mountain biking, camping, hunting, or working with animals as in farriery, horseback riding, and shearing sheep.

One of her favorite indoor hobbies sewing, and this year her biggest and definitely her favorite project was her prom dress which was completely hand-sewn from curtains.

In the future she plans to become a large animal veterinarian, concentrating on horses. After college she would like to return to the area and open her own horse hospital.

Thank you to everyone in Accident who graciously accepted our flags this past 4th of July.
We enjoyed seeing you at the booth and look forward to seeing you again next year.
We appreciate your continued support!
A special thanks for a job well done by the Oak Grove Church of the Brethren Youth Group!

Southern States And Agway Finalize Merger Agreement

Southern States Cooperative Inc. of Richmond, Va., and Agway Inc. of Syracuse, N.Y., have finalized the former's purchase of Agway's consumer wholesale dealer business. Effective immediately, Southern States assumes all dealer marketing, development, operations, distribution and logistics for this business. Financial terms were not disclosed.

Under the terms of the agreement, Southern States will supply farm, lawn, home and garden, vegetable seed and bird food products for 500-plus Agway consumer dealers in Ohio, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Maine.

Per the agreement, the dealers in these states will continue using the Agway name, as will new independent dealers established by Southern States as it expands the dealer network within this geography. Agway will continue to manufacture, promote, distribute and sell its Agway and Legends bagged feed products through the dealer channel in the Northeast. Agway will also continue to manufacture its branded products, including Feathered Friend® bird food, Agway seed and Seedway vegetable seed and turf seed products, for distribution by Southern States.

"We are very excited about this relationship and very comfortable serving this type dealer base and their product lines," said Carl Cromwell, vice president of the farm and home business unit. "At Southern States, we are excited about the growth opportunities this presents for us and for the Agway dealers. We will continue to offer Agway branded products, as well as those that Southern States sells today."

"This new relationship between our cooperatives means that Agway dealers will be part of a system with significantly more size and scope," said David Durr, president of Agway's consumer marketing group and president of Agway's Keystone agriculture enterprise. "We are truly excited about the many opportunities that this new relationship creates for our cooperatives as well as for the Agway dealers."

The independent dealer concept is well established within Southern States; the member-owned farm supply cooperative already has an independent markets division that works with more than 425 retail outlets in 16 states.

Independent dealers are proprietary businesses that agree to handle Southern States products, capitalizing on the cooperative's name and logo as well as its training, merchandising and advertising programs. The Agway dealers will have access to and benefit from these programs, along with continued use of the Agway name and logo.

Combined with company-owned stores and managed-member co-ops, Southern States operates through more than 1,250 retail outlets now that the Agway agreement has been finalized.

Southern States has hired about 30 former Agway employees. Most of these are dealer sales and customer service reps. Employees at distribution centers in Westfield, Mass., and Elizabethtown, Pa., may have opportunities for employment with Southern States also. Southern States will manage these two distribution centers to continue to serve the Agway dealers.

Southern States is a farmer-owned cooperative founded in 1923. With this agreement, Southern States will operate in 26 states from Maine to Louisiana. With its affiliated co-ops, Southern States has more than 550,000 active members. One of the largest U.S. farmer cooperatives, Southern States purchases, manufactures and processes feed, seed, fertilizer and fuel. It also sells farm, animal health, pet food, home, and garden supplies. In addition, Southern States gins cotton, procures peanuts, markets livestock, small grains, corn, soybeans and fish. In its fiscal year which ended June 30, Southern States had sales of about $1.5 billion.

Agway is owned by some 71,000 farmer-members in 12 northeast states. Established in 1964, the Syracuse, N.Y.-based cooperative produces and markets dairy and livestock feeds, as well as agronomic products and services. Agway's subsidiaries are involved in natural food processing and marketing, energy products, lease financing, insurance, and other agriculturally related businesses. Agway had sales and revenues of $1.5 billion in its fiscal year ended June 30, 1999.

Farming In Maryland.....

Wet Weather Hampers Field Work In MD.

Wet, cool weather last week throughout the state allowed for only 3.3 days of field work, according to Ray Garibay, Maryland state statistician. Topsoil moisture is 76% adequate, and 24% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 2% short, 84% adequate, and 14% surplus. Precipitation for the week ranged from 1 inch in Garrett County to 3.6 inches in Anne Arundel County. High temperatures for the past week ranged from 76 degrees on Wednesday to 84 degrees on Sunday.

Crop progress may be slowed by rains and overcast weather. Soybeans in low lying areas are beginning to yellow. Corn maturation could be slowed if warmer, drier weather doesn't arrive soon. Cucumbers are also facing disease because of the wet, cool weather. Field corn is 78% silked, 3 points below last year, but 8 points higher than the five-year average. Soybeans are 35% bloomed, 16 points below last year and 7 points below the five-year average.

Crop progress for the week which ended on July 30, listing the crop and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows.

Crop harvesting: apples 5, --, 1, 2; cantaloupe 38, 29, 43, 47; cucumbers 55, 52, 54, 53; lima beans 30, 25, 11, 9; peaches 21, 18, 27, 25; potatoes 73, 72, 68, 63; snapbeans 50, 36, 44, 46; sweet corn 43, 33, 50, 46; tomatoes 30, 21, 37, 32; watermelons 18, 13, 22, 28.

Crop progress: field corn silked 78, 62, 81, 70; sorghum headed 43, 25, 34, 31; soybeans bloomed 35, 29, 51, 42; soybeans setting pods 20, 12, 20, 14.

Hay harvested: other hay, 2nd cutting 70, 62, 79, 69; other hay, 3rd cutting 20, 14, 36, 23; alfalfa, 2nd cutting 90, 84, 99, 94; alfalfa, 3rd cutting 35, 26, 42, 33.

Crop conditions for the week which ended July 30, listing the crop and percentages for very poor, poor, fair, good, and excellent, are: corn 1, 1, 4, 49, 45; range and pasture 1, 2, 8, 59, 30; sorghum 0, 0, 0, 71, 29; soybeans 6, 10, 19, 48, 17.

High Moisture In Hay Can Cause Fire!

Fires that damage or destroy hay and barns cost farmers thousands of dollars in lost revenue and in building and feed replacement. This has been a difficult season to dry hay properly, so beware!

Hay fires usually occur within six weeks of baling, but may occur in hay that is several years old. The most common cause is excessive moisture.

When bailing hay, the moisture content should not be higher than 18 percent to 22 percent for small square bales, 14 percent to 18 percent for large round bales. Higher moisture levels increase microbial activity, causing bales to heat and mold.

Heating will occur to some extent in all forages with more than 15 percent moisture. Usually, the temperature will peak 3-7 days after baling. The temperature then normally takes 15-60 days to decline to non-damaging levels, depending on outdoor humidity, bale density and amount of rainfall soaked up by the bales. The longer it takes for the temperature to decline, the more damage is done to the hay.

New hay that has been stacked in the field or placed in a barn should be checked at least twice a day for abnormal heating. When storing hay inside, check the barn roof and any plumbing for leaks, and be sure surface water cannot run into the barn.

Use a temperature probe to monitor temperatures inside the bales. A probe can be built using a 3/8-inch diameter pipe with a pointed tip screwed to the end and holes drilled in it. A thermometer can then be inserted into the pipe and retrieved and read after 10-15 minutes. To check temperature without a thermometer, push or drive a 3/8-inch or 1/2-inch diameter metal rod into the hay; remove the rod after 10-15 minutes. If you can hold it in your bare hand comfortably, the temperature is below 130 degrees F. If you can hold the rod, but it is uncomfortable, the temperature is in the 130-degree to 160-degree F range. If the rod is just too hot to hold, the temperature is greater than 160 degrees F, and a fire is imminent.

If the hay temperature reaches 130 degrees F, move the hay to allow increased air circulation and cooling. If the temperature climbs above 150 degrees to 175 degrees F, call the fire department, and be prepared to inject water to cool any hot spots before moving the hay.

Don't open the barn door if hay is smoking; the added oxygen could cause the hay to burst into flames.

Did You Know...?

From W.H. Miner Farm Report

Along with baking wire, duct tape is one of the most useful tools on a farm. Perhaps we need to add to this list Coca-Cola and Bounce dryer sheets. (We suspect that any brand of cola and dryer sheets will work about as well.) Here's an abbreviated list of what these can do:

Coca-Cola will:

· Clean stains from the milkhouse toilet. Pour a can into the toilet and let sit for one hour, then flush. It works better on porcelain, although we don't know that this has any application to false teeth.

· Remove rust spots. Dip crumpled-up aluminum foil in Coke and scrub away the rust.

· Loosen stubborn bolts. Soak a rag in Coke, apply to the bolt for a few minutes.

· Help remove grease in clothes. Pour a can onto the greasy spots, put in the washer on regular cycle.

Bounce dryer sheets will:

· Repel mosquitoes. Tuck one in your belt loop.

· Freshen the air in farm trucks. Put one beneath the seat where nobody can see it, thus avoiding potentially embarrassing questions.

· Collect dog and cat hair. Static cling allows dryer sheets to remove pet hair from your favorite seed company jacket.

· Deodorize boots. Put a dryer sheet into each boot, leave overnight. It might not hurt to leave the sheet in there when you put your boots on the next morning.

Engineering Events For 4-H, FFA Scheduled

The 4-H and FFA Engineering Events have been scheduled for two days in August this year. The program offers youth an opportunity to demonstrate their knowledge through written tests and participation in skills competition. The first events will include competition in the following five areas: small engines, electricity/energy, automotive care, bicycle safety, and computers. These events will be held on Aug. 5 at Garrett Community College in rooms 306 and 309. Events will begin at 8:30 a.m. and preregistration is required.

The second day of competition will occur during the Garrett County Agricultural Fair on Wed., Aug. 16. Registration will begin at the 4-H stage at 8:30 a.m. The two events held at the fair will be tractor operator and lawn tractor.

The engineering events are open to all Garrett County 4-H and FFA members. Top performers in the Garrett County events will be selected to represent the county at the Maryland State Fair. Youth may participate in more than one area in the local events. Information, such as course lay outs, study guides, and permission forms are available at the Garrett County Extension office.

Five Young Women Compete For Garrett County Farm Queen Title

This year, five young women will compete for the title of Garrett County Farm Queen, with the winner going on to compete at the state level for the Maryland Farm Queen title. An orientation dinner was held for the contestants and their mothers last week by the Garrett County Farm Bureau Women's Committee. Following is information on each of the five representatives of the local farming community.

Melissa Dawn Upole - Ms. Upole is 19 years old and lives on a farm that borders the Youghiogheny River in Oakland with her parents, Donald and Shelly Upole, two sisters and one brother.

Because her brother is disabled and her older sister is married, she has taken on many additional responsibilities on the family farm. Her inside chores include dusting and doing dishes, with outside chores being splitting firewood and building fence. She said that hay season is always enjoyable to her, except that she hates bees and always manages to get stung while making hay.

Melissa said she has been around animals as long as she can remember. She grew up raising beagle puppies and thinks that hobby will stick with her forever. Other animals she has raised on the farm include everything from turkeys to turtles. With a passion for horses, she said she has been riding probably since before she could walk, and has helped train and break numerous horses along with her grandfather. She raises rare breeds of chickens like Red Frizzle, Cochin, and Phoenix, and said she raises them not because they are rare, but because they are neat. She likes those breeds because they are great sitters and produce quality eggs. Melissa has also raised steers, and last year was the final year she was eligible to show a steer at the Garrett County Fair. She said she misses having a steer this year, but eventually will get into showing breeding stock.

In 4-H and FFA throughout high school, Melissa competed in vegetable judging and ag bowls. She attended the National Junior Horticulture Association Convention in Florida this past year as a result of winning the state contest.

She is now serving as president of the Agriculture Club at Garrett Community College, and last year helped the club sponsor a pig sale at the fairgrounds and a banquet in May to honor all the agriculture program supporters in the area.

This is her second year at Garrett Community College, where she is majoring in agricultural business and farm management. After obtaining her associate degree in applied science, she plans to transfer to a four-year college, maybe West Virginia University, to get her bachelor of science in agriculture degree. It's important to her that the college she attends is close to home so she can still help manage the farm.

In addition to attending college full time, she holds down two part-time jobs, and said her employers have been great about letting her schedule her time on the job around classes and farm work.

She says this is her favorite time of year, as her hobby is gardening, and in addition to her huge vegetable garden, she enjoys hunting, fishing, sports, and star gazing through her telescope.

Her future plans are to visit the seven natural wonders of the world and have her own farm. She plans to continue raising and training horses, and hopes to, one day, bring Red Angus cattle into the area and have them do as well here as Black Angus.

Diana Dawn Mayfield - Ms. Mayfield is the 18-year-old daughter of Butch and Debbie Mayfield. She lives with her father, mother, older brother and sister on a nine-acre farm along the Fingerboard Road in Oakland. The family also owns and operates a 415-acre beef cattle farm.

The smaller farm is where she and her sister raise their market steers and hogs. As an FFA project, Diana raises chickens for both egg production and meat. On the larger farm, Diana owns and maintains a small herd of Hereford/Angus cattle. She also owns her own herd of registered Herefords. Diana and her family also raise Belgium draft horses on the farm, where she owns a Quarter horse and two mules.

Diana has many responsibilities on the farm. She helps at hay-making time by raking, baling, loading, and unloading the hay. She helps feed and care for both the cattle and horses, and feeds, prepares for show, and cares for her fair steer, breeding cattle, and market hog.

Diana tends to, and milks, the family's Jersey cow. The family keeps a few milk cows to have fresh milk and butter.

She also tends the family garden, and her home responsibilities include helping prepare meals, caring for her dogs, house cleaning, and preparing her eggs for sale.

This year Diana is a freshman at West Virginia University, where she is an animal science major and is working toward a bachelor of science degree in agriculture. She is actively involved in the Oakland FFA Chapter, where she is presently holding the office of junior advisor. She also helps with fund-raisers throughout the year and actively participates in judging contests such as dairy foods, parliamentary procedure, and farm business management.

Diana, along with other FFA members, has traveled throughout Maryland to participate in contests and represent the local chapter. In September, Diana and two other members will represent the Oakland FFA Chapter and the state of Maryland in the Farm Business Management competition in Massachusetts.

Through FFA, Diana has received many awards, including leadership pins, outstanding FFA leader award, and the state agricultural degree. As a member of FFA she has helped her community by educating elementary students with the Food For America program. In this program she and other members teach grade school students where their food comes from. Diana is currently the Oakland FFA representative on the Garrett County Livestock Association board of directors.

She is president of the Trailblazers 4-H Club where she carries the market swine and gardening projects. She is also actively involved in her club's community service projects. One of her club's most successful community service projects is the Adopt-a-Highway Program. Diana and her fellow club members try to keep a section of Rt. 219 in Oakland litter free.

Diana has several hobbies and interests that inciude swimming, 4-wheeler riding, and hunting. Her future plans are to receive a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from West Virginia University.

Crystal Colmer - Ms. Colmer is the 17-year-old daughter of Anna and Joseph Colmer Sr., and lives on a 330-acre farm along Fosters Inn Road, Grantsville, with her parents, younger brother, and grandparents.

Crystal is an employee of Grantsville Burger King, Grantsville Stockyards, and the Pennsylvania Livestock Auction. She will be attending Garrett Community College this fall, where she will major in agricultural science.

She is a nine-year member of the Grantsville 4-H Club and the president of the Northern Garrett FFA Chapter.

When not working, she enjoys 4-wheeler riding, horseback riding, and going out with friends. She said she spends around 85% of her time on the farm, making hay, selling sweet corn, feeding the animals, cleaning the barn, or just playing with her fair animals.

Crystal said that this year the amount of time that she spends on the farm has increased after her grandfather suffered a heart attack, but the extra time that she has spent on the farm has been fun and a great experience. Since her grandfather is now unable to work on the farm, the amount of work that she does there has increased, Crystal said.

She graduated in the top 15% of her class and was senior class president. While in high school, she maintained a 90% GPA, while being involved in many different organizations. She was a member of the National Honor Society, the varsity girl's track team, and a student council member.

Crystal was a member of the Garrett County Association of Student Councils and chaired the annual honor banquet. She also participated in planning the school's annual bloodmobile and also donated blood.

She finished third in the Regional Science Fair, and is a three-year winner with Whose Who Among American High School Students. She received the DeKalb award for outstanding FFA members and an award for the outstanding agricultural student.

Crystal participates in community activities, such as Grantsville Days, at which she helps in the 4-H booth, including set up and clean up. She also participates in the parade. She volunteers at the nursing home in Grantsville from time to time and goes caroling with her youth group on Christmas Eve.

When at home, she is responsible for keeping the house cleaned and the laundry washed, and she helps with supper and other odd jobs. She also keeps the flowers and garden watered, weeded, and cultivated. She makes sure the animals are fed and watered throughout the day, and helps with the meats, vegetables, and fruits, such as the beef, pork, and chicken that the family preserves each year.

She has participated in such agricultural activities as the Garrett County Fair, has been a member of the Grantsville 4-H Club for nine years, and has taken many agricultural classes in school. Crystal has taken lambs, pigs, horses, and steers to the fair, along with a wide array of indoor exhibits such as vegetables, canned items, flowers, and farm crops such as hay.

She has won Grand Champion for her 4-H pleasure mare for five years in a row, and Reserve Grand Champion Market Lamb.

Through 4-H, she has participated in the Hoard's Dairyman's Contest. She has also participated in individual events involving her horse, market lamb, market hog, market steer, and broiler projects.

She said the agricultural classes she took throughout high school helped her improve her knowledge of agriculture in Garrett County and surrounding areas. Through FFA, she participated in such activities as spring judging at College Park.

Her future plans include attending GCC for two years in order to get an associate of science degree. She then plans to attend West Virginia University or Virginia Tech to obtain a veterinary science degree. Crystal would like to some day get married, operate her own veterinary office in Garrett County, and take over the family farm.

Nolla Sue Broadwater - Ms. Broadwater resides with her parents, Virginia and Gary Broadwater, and younger brother on their third-generation dairy farm on Brobst Road in Accident. The farm consists of 585 acres divided between the farm she and her parents reside on and the farm her grandparents reside on.

The farm she lives on has 110 head of cattle, including milk cows, fat steers, yearlings, and baby calves. Her outdoor responsibilities are milking the cows, helping unload hay and straw, and feeding calves. She also helps with minor farm repairs and other light farm chores.

Her home responsibilities are light house work, helping prepare meals, and planting and upkeep of the half-acre garden. She also helps her family can 300 quarts of vegetables each year.

Nolla's agriculture activities includes being a former member of the Cove Kids 4-H Club for two years. She then became a member of the North Star 4-H Club for five years, where she served as the treasurer and vice president for a year in each position. While she was a member of the North Star 4-H Club, Nolla entered three animals at the Garrett County Fair: two lambs and one veal calf.

During her senior year at Northern High School, she was a member of FFA. At NHS, she received a service learning award for over 100 hours, and was a member of the Students for Christ Club for all four years of high school. Her last two years at high school she belonged to the Emergency Medical Service (EMS) Club. During her senior year, she became a licensed Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) with the state of Maryland through her Health Technology Class.

Extreme Weather Conditions Cause Floods, Outages

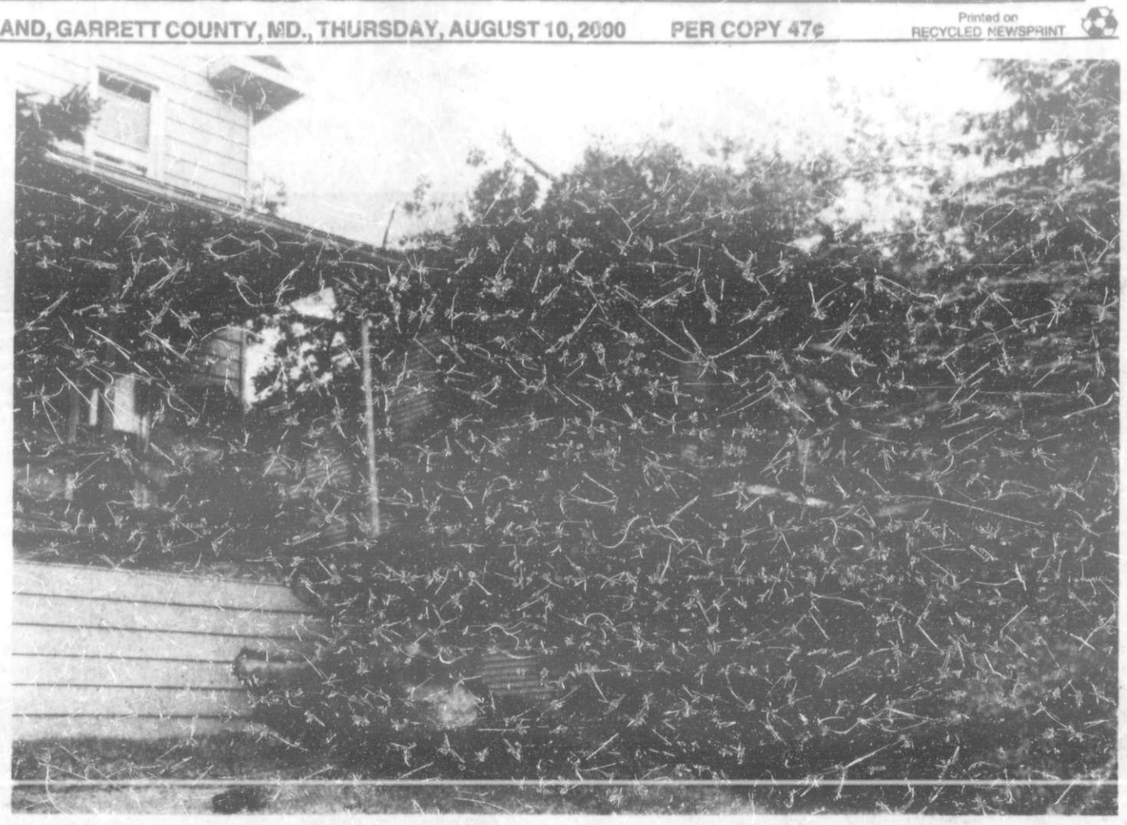
Weather patterns in Garrett County have brought flooding, high winds, and power outages to residents over the past week, beginning on Sunday with a steady downpour of rain. After several hours of constant rainfall, flooding was reported in various parts of the county, mostly in the northern portion. The areas of Friendsville, Accident, and Grantsville were hardest hit.

More than 20 county roads were either damaged or temporarily closed Sunday as the rain continued to fall. Friendsville reportedly received at least three inches in a short time period, causing the Youghiogheny River to rise, as well as smaller creeks and streams. The volume in Oakland was less.

The Pig's Ear Bridge was damaged by the flood, according to a report from Fred Polce, county roads superintendent. He said the road to the bridge is now closed for major repairs. A completion date has not been determined.

An electrical storm with high winds yesterday wreaked havoc in the Oakland area, bringing down at least two large oak trees. One fell across North Second Street, hitting a telephone pole and cutting out power to several town homes. Allegany Power crews worked for nearly eight hours to clear the debris and restore service to the residences. Work continued this morning to remove the sizable tree.

Another oak fell on Center Street, striking the house of Betty Jane Cook. No injuries were reported, but Cook reportedly stayed with friends overnight awaiting a safety inspection of her house.



ANOTHER OAK LOST IN OAKLAND — A sudden, quick rush of high wind took its toll in Oakland yesterday, as at least two enormous oak trees snapped at their bases and fell, causing structural damage to the house shown above, and resulting in a power outage at a Second Street location. The house hit by the tree here is owned by Betty Jane Cook, who at the time the photo was taken had not ventured to the third floor of her home to inspect the extent of the damage. She was staying with friends until her home could be adequately inspected, and the massive tree could be removed. The wind was reportedly gusting at 90 miles an hour as the storm system whisked through town. Photo by John McEwen

Richard A. Wright Sentenced To Life In Prison For Naser Murder

Richard Allen Wright, 42, formerly of Grantsville, was sentenced yesterday to life in prison with no possibility of parole for the March robbery and murder of Grantsville resident Elsa Rodgers Naser, 64.

Wright faced Judge Fred Sharer in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday morning and entered guilty pleas to the charges of first degree murder and robbery. The judge imposed the life term on the defendant for the murder charge, and a 15-year concurrent sentence for robbery. In light of the Allegany County proceedings, charges of child abuse and second degree assault incurred by Wright in Garrett County are being dismissed, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney.

"I have always been confident that a jury trial on the child abuse and second degree assault charges would result in a conviction," Welch said. "However, with the sentence imposed in Allegany County, our goals of protecting the victim in the local case and the community have been accomplished. There is no logical reason to expend additional tax dollars to prosecute. Regardless of the disposition in our case, Richard Wright will spend the rest of his life in prison."

Naser's body was found on March 14 near Rocky Gap State Park in Allegany County, ending a 24-hour police search for her. Investigators reported that she had been shot to death, and that they had found her body with the help of her

Former Oakland Man Sentenced To 12 Years

A former Oakland man was sentenced to 12 years in jail last week during Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings. Judge James Sherbin ordered Joseph Andrew Muscalli Jr., 34, to the Department of Corrections for the 12-year term for second degree sexual offenses. For a second charge of child abuse, Sherbin gave Muscalli an 8-year sentence, to run concurrently.

Charges were filed in 1997 against the defendant after sheriff's office investigators determined that he had sexually abused a child on numerous occasions. The incidents took place in various locations around Garrett County from 1993 through 1996, according to a report from the state's attorney.

Muscalli was formally charged last year after being arrested in Florida and returned to Maryland, according to the report. He entered guilty pleas to the charges in March of this year and has been in the local jail awaiting sentenc-

Commissioners Move To Adjust Deep Creek Zoning Ordinance

Following several weeks of discussion and input, the Garrett County commissioners this week adopted an amendment to the Deep Creek Lake Zoning Ordinance that will basically alter the definition of "rear lot line." The issue is part of the county's ongoing adjustment to the state's purchase of the lake.

Another amendment requested by property owners concerning campgrounds was not accepted by the commissioners. Both actions were made on the recommendations of the Garrett County Planning Commission.

The amendment to the current zoning ordinance redefines the rear lot lines for property owners, in light of the pending "buy-down" being offered by the Department of Natural Resources. Basically, lake property owners will have the opportunity to purchase more land between their homes and the shore of the lake. A public access strip will remain around the lake, owned by DNR, and no structures will be allowed there. But a buy-down will change the location of a property owner's rear lot line, placing it closer to the shore. This could allow property owners to build structures closer to the lake.

The adopted amendment does not stop construction necessarily, but does set forth four conditions that must be met in order to obtain a variance. The planning commission has supported the change from the outset, as has the Deep Creek Property Owners Association. The owners have maintained their wish that the sale of Deep Creek to the state be as "seamless" as possible, and the status quo could only be sustained by making this change to the ordinance. John Nelson, director of the county's planning and zoning office, was present Tuesday for the commissioners' action.

"We are not just concerned about adjacent property owners' views of the lake," Nelson said. "We strongly feel that we must protect the aesthetic features of the lake itself, regardless of those who own land around it. This change will help us do that."

The zoning amendment includes an adjustment to Article 10 for the appeals board. It states that the board may approve a rear yard variance on a lake front lot (purchased from the state after Jan. 1, 2000) for construction closer to the rear lot line if the variance will not be contrary to public interest, if the granting of the variance will be

Music, History, Home-Cooked Dishes Planned For Folk Days

Music, art, history, and heritage are on the agenda for Puzzley Run Folk Days, in addition to a pig roast. The event is slated for August 18, 19, and 20 at Bietschehof Farm, near Grantsville. Exhibits, vendors, and activities for children and adults will be set in the 1880 barn and the surrounding fields and woodlands.

Horse-drawn farming techniques will be demonstrated, as will gun smithing, soap-making, spinning, and weaving. Musicians playing harps, dulcimers, banjos, and fiddles will perform traditional bluegrass, gospel, and folk songs, plus share the history of the instruments and the music. "This year we are encouraging area pickers to join us for some informal musical sessions under the trees," said Bill Durst of the Puzzley Run Folklife Center.

Among the items for sale this year will be vine wreathes decorated with dried flowers, dried flower arrangements, live herb and berry plants, and Garrett County honey from the hives of Yough Manor Farm, Friendsville.

Hayrides will be offered as will children's games such as pin the tail on the donkey, penny pitch, ring toss, and bean bag throw. Children and parents will also be able to visit the animals of Bietschehof, including ancient Irish Dexter cattle, horned Jacob sheep, llamas, donkeys, goats, chickens, and geese.

Friedman Bringing Chamber Players Back To Deep Creek For 2000 Season

ERICK FRIEDMAN

The Deep Creek Chamber Players will return to Garrett County in August to present two concerts featuring five world-renowned musicians. Tension Mounts Over Closure Of Oakland Bridge

About 35 people met with the Garrett County commissioners Tuesday to express their frustrations about the Third Street bridge closing in Oakland.

The bridge was closed three weeks ago by the county roads department after a consulting engineer deemed the span to be possibly "on the verge of imminent collapse." It remains closed, and the question of what entity is responsible for its repair appears to be unresolved.

"This is going to have to be a group effort," said Commissioner Ernest Gregg this morning in an interview. "CSX, the town, and the county are going to have to cooperate to get this problem fixed."

The former B&O railroad built the bridge in the early 1900s. At that time, only horses and buggies passed over it. It is a single-lane span that up until its closure was being crossed by large trucks and other heavy vehicles. School buses have not been allowed on the bridge for some time. At the time of its construction, the railroad had the responsibility of maintaining it for traffic. Engineers with CSX claim that the responsibility only covered that original traffic load, not the current heavy use.

Stephen Thienel, CSX regional vice president for state relations, attended the meeting Tuesday. Although he could not speak completely for the company, he said it is possible that CSX would consider conveying the span to a public entity, and would offer support and assistance in its rebuilding. CSX reportedly tried to give the bridge to the town several years ago, but the offer was not accepted.

The structural problems are widespread, according to a report from Kennedy-Porter & Associates (KPA), the consulting engineer firm contracted by the county to

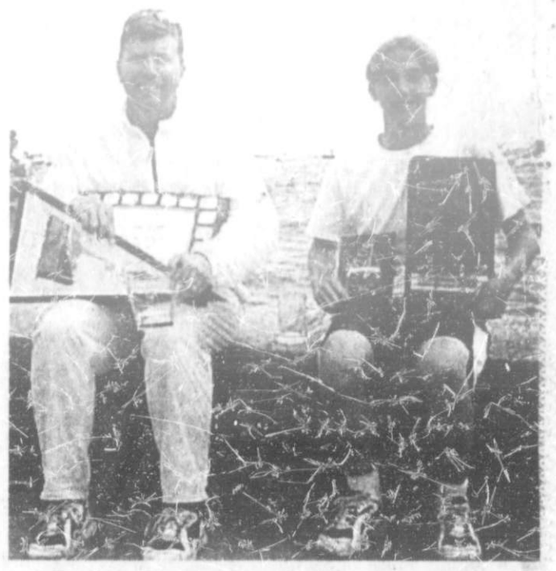
Oakland Father/Son Duo Sail To North American Regatta Crown



THE FAMILY THAT SAILS TOGETHER — Oakland residents Harry Carpenter, left, and his 16-year-old son Jimmy sailed together to the crown of the annual Flying Scot North American Championship (NAC) Regatta last month, along with the event's Father and Son Trophy. The victory, which came on the waters of Long Island Sound off the shores of Greenwich, Conn., preceded Harry and his 16-year-old daughter Carrie's victory in the Sandy Douglass Memorial Invitational Regatta victory on Deep Creek Lake two weeks ago. "The first ride our kids had on a sailboat came on the inside," a bemused Harry Carpenter said, noting that he and his wife Karen (who sailed with her husband to the NAC title in 1988) have been sailing together since before the birth of their children. The senior Carpenter is president of Flying Scot Inc., the Deer Park firm that manufactures the world-renowned Flying Scot sailboat.

Harry Carpenter and his son Jimmy, a father/son sailboat racing crew from Oakland, have brought home the winner's trophy from the 2000 Flying Scot North American Championship (NAC) Regatta, which was held last month on the waters of Long Island Sound near Greenwich, Conn. Among the other competitors in the July 17-20 event were area sailors Don and Charlotte Hott of Keyser, W.Va., who have not missed an NAC Regatta over the past four decades.

The Carpenters rode the breeze to victory over 60 other boats in the prestigious regatta, which was hosted by the Indian Harbor Yacht Club. In addition to taking the North American Championship, the Carpenters also laid claim to the competition's Father and Son Trophy, marking the first time in the history of the Flying Scot class that a racing team has won both of those titles in the annual regatta.

The sailing conditions on Long Island Sound were less than ideal for the event, according to regatta observers, and each crew was challenged to make the most of a wide variety of circumstances. Winds varied from quite heavy, pushing up large waves, to soft breezes that had to be managed with a light touch to provide all the sailing power that could be mustered.

Jimmy Carpenter served as crew member for his father, working to catch the wind with the boat's sails and propel the vessel across the water. The 16-year-old trimmed the jib, the smaller sail on the forward end of the boat, and the spinnaker, the large, billowing nylo

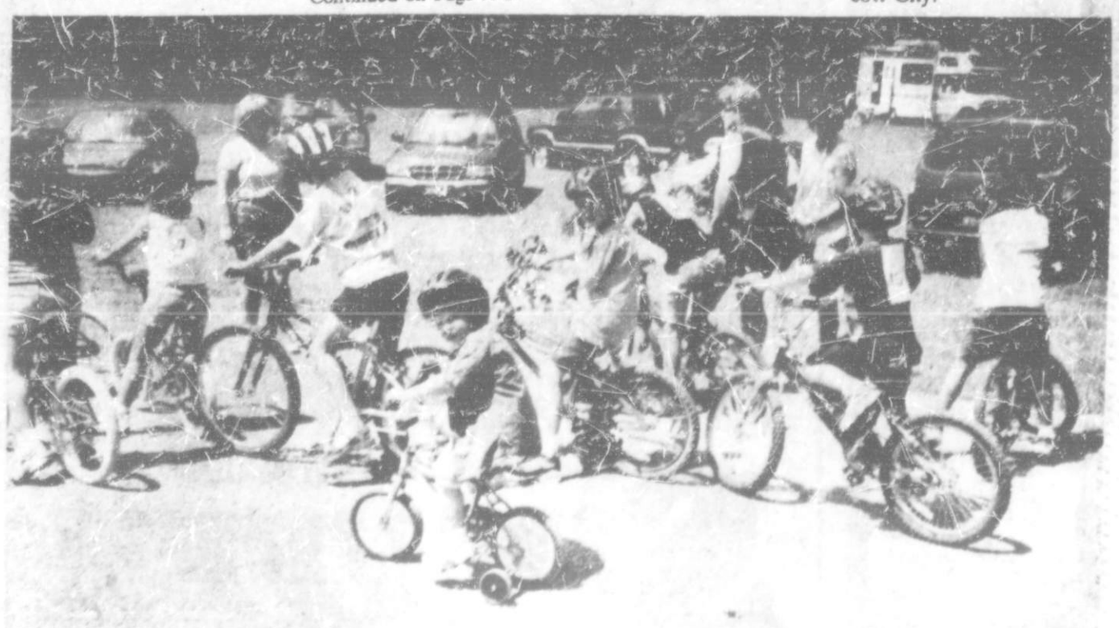
Bartlett To Visit Garrett County Monday

Congressman Roscoe Bartlett will be in Garrett County next week as part of a statewide tour. He said he wants to hear the concerns of citizens and answer any questions persons may have.

His stop in Garrett County will be in Oakland at the Ruth Enlow Library on Monday, Aug. 14, from 4:30 until 6 p.m. Bartlett said meeting the people he represents is "one of the most important and enjoyable parts" of his job.

"That is why I hope as many 6th District residents as possible will be able to take the time to come to one of my 'town hall' meetings," the congressman said.

After his visit in Oakland, he will move on to Cumberland that evening, and then to Hagerstown the following day. He will end his tour on Aug. 21 in Ellicott City.



STAYING SAFE, HAVING FUN - It is never too early for riders to learn about bicycle safety. So during the Friendsville Days celebration last weekend, a bike rodeo was held in Friendsville Community Park, which brought together more than 50 youngsters ranging in age from 3 to 15. All riders were given free helmets, donated by Northern Rescue Squad. Brenda Frazee, the Outreach worker for the Garrett County Health Department who coordinated the event, demonstrated for the bike riders proper helmet fitting and safety use. Michael Gibbons of the health department showed the youngsters how to inspect bicycles for maximum safety. "Everyone had a good time at the bike rodeo and learned about safety. The event was a huge success," Frazee said.

Gary Cooper & High Noon will bring the sounds of bluegrass to the Great Hall at Penn Alps in Grantsville on Saturday, Aug. 12, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured instruments include the typical bluegrass quintet of mandolin, fiddle, banjo, guitar, and upright bass. These musicians are bluegrass veterans, with more than 161 years of combined experience.

Cooper, guitar and lead vocals, has been playing bluegrass for over 35 years. A native of the mountains of southwest Virginia, he "grew up with bluegrass." Now living in Upper Marlboro, he is a retired professional pilot.

Also singing lead and harmony, Pixie Christie volunteers at WAMU radio in Washington, D.C. Born in England, she grew up in New England and attended the Juilliard School of Music. In the late '50s she "discovered" bluegrass. Christie has been with High Noon since 1994.

Dobro player Joe Jacobs has played bluegrass and country for more than 40 years. A retired Washington, D.C., Metropolitan Police officer, he lives in Berwyn Heights. He has played and recorded with some of the top Washington area bands.

Bob Wilkerson, banjo player, is another 40-plus year veteran of bluegrass who has worked with Washington area bands. A resident of Columbia, he is retired from the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory.

Bassist Joe Prevost has 25 years' experience with bluegrass, and has been with High Noon since 1992. A retired shop foreman for a major steel fabrication company, he lives in Dundalk.

Brian Dorothy of Silver Spring has played fiddle and mandolin with High Noon for 15 years. He is accomplished in swing, blues, and bluegrass.

Clarification Noted Regarding Fatal Accident

Some confusion regarding a fatal motor vehicle accident in Oakland has reportedly resulted from the fact that there are two young Garrett County women who have similar names. Amanda K. Mayle, 19, McHenry, was not in any way involved in the July 28 accident that claimed the life of an Oakland juvenile.

Sunday Evening Vesper Service Will Open Fair

The traditional vesper service, sponsored by clergy of the Mt. Top Ministerial Association, will be held Sunday evening, Aug. 13, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, McHenry, beginning at 7 p.m. It will be the opening event of fair week and will precede the crowning of the Farm Queen, scheduled for later in the evening.

Special music for the evening will be presented by the Community in Harmony Chorus from Accident.

One of the scripture lessons for the service will be read by Miss Susan Mayfield, the present Farm Queen.

Guest preacher for the evening will be the Rev. Warren Friend. His sermon will touch on the harvest theme and its references in Holy Scripture. Rev. Friend is pastor of the McHenry United Methodist Church, which is across the road from the fairgrounds.

Organ music for the service's hymns will be supplied by Mrs. Lillian Reckner.

State Grant Won By AAA To Help Stop Elder Abuse

Garrett County Community Action Area Agency on Aging was awarded a state grant this week to help fund an elder abuse prevention project. The award was among those announced Monday by Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend as part of the Governor's Neighborhood Crime and Substance Abuse Prevention Grant Program.

According to Adina Brode, director of the local AAA, the $2,225 grant will fund the continuation of certain projects and the initiation of others. "The money will allow us to extend the contract for the elder abuse prevention billboard in Oakland. We will be able to keep it up another four months," she explained.

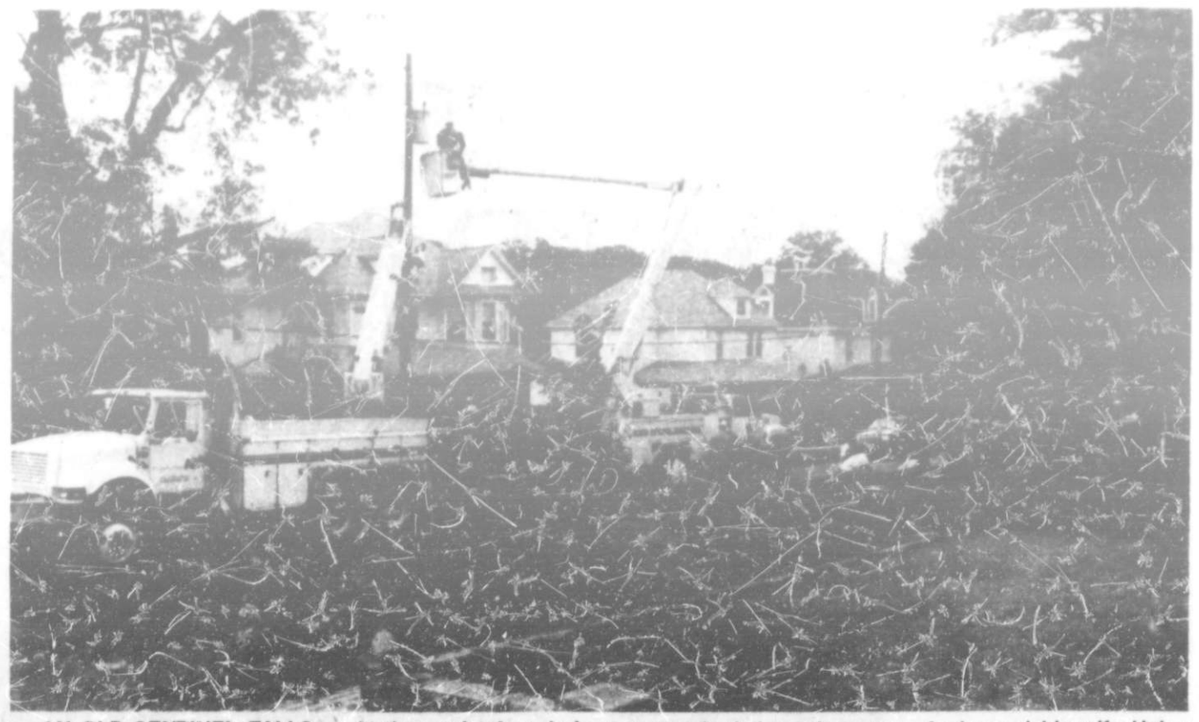
In addition, the agency will use part of the money to develop information fliers and produce a public awareness slide to be shown before the feature presentation at the local movie theater. "Our goal for this project is to keep the issue of elder abuse in the public eye. We want people to be aware of elder abuse and to take action to prevent it," Brode said.

MLP Man Faces Charges After Monday Incident

A Mtn. Lake Park man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Monday afternoon after he reportedly struck his girlfriend in front of a deputy who had been summoned to investigate a domestic altercation.

John William Hinebaugh, 32, was reportedly still arguing with the woman when DFC Rob Corley arrived at the Decatur Street apartment at approximately 4 p.m. Hinebaugh refused to comply with requests to calm down, and allegedly struck the woman in the chest in full view of the deputy. He then grew combative as he was being placed under arrest, and reportedly swore, spat, and attempted to bite the arresting officers.

Hinebaugh was arrested and charged with second degree assault and resisting arrest. He was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $1,500 bond set by a district court commissioner.



AN OLD SENTINEL FALLS — At the peak of a windy storm yesterday afternoon, this old oak gave way, falling across Second Street and taking out a utility pole. The power was out in parts of Oakland for eight hours as Allegany Power crews worked to repair the damage. Tom Kahl has lived on Second Street for nearly 40 years and has watched the oak mature. As he and his wife Helen were exiting their car yesterday, they heard a loud crack. "I turned and saw it coming down, almost slowly. Very stately," Kahl said. The clean-up of the area continues today, as crews await a crane to lift the heaviest part of the trunk.

Anonymous Tip Leads To Drug Charges In MLP

A Garrett County Narcotics Task Force investigation spawned by an anonymous tip last month has resulted in drug charges against three men, according to spokesperson Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for the county.

The tip, which was received by the sheriff's office on July 13, reported that three individuals were allegedly using drugs in a parking lot located behind the Simon Pearce glass manufacturing plant in Mtn. Lake Park. The subsequent investigation resulted in the recovery of suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia from two vehicles involved in the incident.

The three persons who were charged on criminal summonses with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were: Jerry McComas, 41, Oakland; Roger Jarrell, 32, Accident; and Barry Bias, 38, Kingwood, W.Va. Each suspect was released upon the service of the respective summonses pending a trial date in Garrett County District Court.

"All citizens are reminded that they can provide drug information anonymously by calling the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force at 301-387-9566 or 301-895-5889," Thayer Welch noted.

PG County Man Arrested After Traffic Stop

A Prince George's County man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on a variety of charges stemming from a traffic stop in Oakland early Monday morning.

Robert Alvin Murphy, 41, Upper Marlboro, was stopped shortly after 12:30 a.m. along Oak Street at Sixth Street by DFC Rob Corley, who had observed Murphy's Ford Ranger weaving along the roadway. After failing field sobriety tests, Murphy was arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI) with an additional charge of failing to drive to the right of center line.

A subsequent vehicle search uncovered a quantity of suspected marijuana and drug paraphernalia, as well as a loaded 9-millimeter handgun which was discovered under the driver's seat. The findings resulted in additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and illegal transport of a handgun in a vehicle, as well as a possession of a firearm by a convicted felon charge when a computer check revealed that Murphy had been convicted on felony drug charges in Virginia 15 years ago.

Following an appearance before a district court commissioner, Murphy posted a $2,500 bond to secure his release from the Garrett County Detention Center.

Narcotics Task Force Makes Multiple Arrests For Various Drug Violations

The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force reported arresting numerous persons on drug violations as a result of a traffic detail Tuesday in the Oakland area, mounted in cooperation with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. According to Sheriff Richard Sanders, the radar unit was in use for about three hours along Route 39 near Hutton, and a number of routine traffic stops led to arrests for drug violations.

The following persons were charged with possession with intent to distribute LSD, possession of marijuana and LSD, and possession of drug paraphernalia: James Ferguson, 24, Wheeling, W.Va.; Ashley Kralovic, 18, Wheeling; and a juvenile, 16, Moundsville, W.Va.

The following were charged with possession of marijuana, LSD, MDMA (ecstacy), and drug paraphernalia: Paul Reidl, 21, Patrick Riley, 19, and Robert Hagerty, 19, all of Bristol, R.I.

The following were charged with possession with intent to distribute fake CDS and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia: Justin Rinker, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, and a juvenile from Oakland.

The following were charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia: Allan Bensimon, 44, Rockville; Lloyd Klebau, 40, Olney; Charles Speers, 20, Norristown, Pa.; Russell Yates, 18, Gloucester Point, Va.; a juvenile from Gloucester Point; Joshua Halley, 19, Westchester, Pa.; Clayton Nolde, 18, Richmond, Va.; Christopher Trice, 19, Richmond; and two juve-

50,000th VISITOR HONORED - Kim Stillwell of LaPlata was surprised when she walked through the door of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce Visitors Center in McHenry last week because she had no idea at the time that she was the 50,000th visitor to that center since it opened its doors in 1998. She received a variety of gifts for her "achievement" and was greeted by Ken Wishnick, chamber president, and two of the three Garrett County commissioners. Pictured from left, front, are the Stillwells' children, Jullian and Katie. In the second row, same order, are: Kim Stillwell, husband Craig, Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday, and Wishnick. See story for details.

Guest Number 50,000 Visits Visitor Center

Garrett County guests flocked to the Visitors Center in McHenry last Friday, much like any other day during the summer. However, for Kim Stillwell of Charles County, it was a special day, as she became the 50,000th visitor to stop at the center since opening its doors in late 1998.

Joined by her husband Craig, a deputy sheriff with the Charles County Police Department, and daughters Katie and Jillian, Stillwell was given a gift pack of "goodies" from Garrett County businesses. Stillwell is a second grade school teacher and was one of 16 family members vacationing together. She had never been in Garrett County prior to this trip and says she is already making plans for her family's return.

The Stillwells say their favorite thing about the area is "the relaxing atmosphere and that it is so peaceful." Since arriving in Garrett County, the Stillwell family has already been boating, fishing, horseback riding, riding personal watercraft, and visiting Swallow Falls State Park. "We stopped by the Visitors Center looking for even more things to do," Kim said.

Gifts were donated by Black Bear Restaurant, BumBle Q's, Four All Seasons, Funland, Garrett 8 Cinemas, McDonald's, Penn Alps, Smiley's, Water Street Marketplace, and WTBO radio.

GLAF To Again Present Student Piano Recital

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and Our Town Theatre will sponsor the fourth annual Student Piano Recital on Sunday, August 13, at 3 p.m. The recital will take place at Our Town Theatre (OTT) in Oakland and is free to the public.

The recital will take the form of a Teen Musical Coffeehouse, an afternoon of sharing musical experiences by both playing and talking about their mutual interest in the piano, according to Beth Johnson, executive director of GLAF. Jane Avery, artistic director of OTT, will guide the students in their informal discussions.

Garrett County pianists to be featured are Melissa Flanagan, student of Nelda McNeil; Jordan Halsig, student of Ellinor Benedict; Erin Neill, a current student at West Virginia University (WVU); Michael Rohrbaugh, former student of Nelda McNeil and a current student at WVU; and Crystal and Amanda Yoder, both students of Ellinor Benedict.

The afternoon will also include a performance by Nicholas James, a former student recitalist of Kitzmiller who is pursuing a career in music. A self-taught pianist, James began playing the piano at the age of 3. He is currently studying at West Virginia University on a full scholarship.

All area music teachers and students are encouraged to attend the recital and discussion. For more information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. each day.

MSPAP Fails...

We have on earlier occasions in this column criticized the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP), and a recent assessment of the program by the Abell Foundation reaffirms our position that the test is flawed by ambiguity and should be scrapped. Not only is the test ambiguous, but there is no usable feedback for the school systems and teachers that indicates in what areas the students' performance is weak.

The philosophy behind the MSPAP is worthy. Its purpose is to measure not the various facts and figures a student has learned, but the level of his critical thinking skills. It was discovered by educators a few decades ago that our children were doing reasonably well learning that 2 plus 2 equals 4, but they were lacking in how to think, how to assess and process information to reach conclusions or determine a course of action in particular situations.

But the difficulty in measuring something that is so subjective is just that — it is subjective. Objectivity is easy to grade; 2 plus 2 will always equal 4. But five different evaluators reading the same MSPAP response will most likely render five different scores, which in and of itself makes it a flawed test.

In the meantime, the facts and figures, the objective information, which is also important, has taken a back seat. Proper word usage, grammar, sentence structure, and punctuation are also of lesser importance.

As mentioned before, there is also no useful feedback to the students and the teachers, and there is no baseline information upon which to build. There are still other problems with the test too numerous to list here.

We believe that the best available measure of our students' performance is the California Test of Basic Skills (CTBS), which does provide specific feedback and which was recently enhanced to include critical thinking skills assessment. We already use that particular test anyway, in addition to the required MSPAP test.

The response of Nancy Grasmick, Maryland state school superintendent, to the Abell Foundation evaluation was that it was biased and performed by people who are "hostile to performance-based assessments." Mark Moody, head of the state's education testing program, described it as "unprofessional and inflammatory."

We submit that if one were to collect the opinions on MSPAP from all of the state's school teachers and principals, the overwhelming majority would agree with the Abell Foundation assessment.

Grasmick has said that she wants to commission an objective study of the MSPAP. We suggest she do so immediately, or step down as superintendent.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Do you know why a lot of people don't vote? Those darn new machines. They cost us a lot of money and we didn't need them. I and some of my friends are debating to vote or not. We were embarrassed to have to vote two or three times to get it right. We're not dumb either.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Oliver Weimer

To the Editor:

Thank you for allowing me to correct the grammatical error in my commentary last week ("Highest Happiness") of which the last line should have read "In honor of my Westminster (and greater Grantsville's) friend, James C. Hahn."

C. Speicher

To the Editor:

Aug. 2 I had the unfortunate experience of a breakdown with my car on Chestnut Ridge Road.

A gentleman from Swanton was getting off work and took the time to help me, even though he was going to be late for dinner, I'm sure.

Then a gentleman who lives across the road came over and got me on my way.

When I offered to pay them they declined, saying, "We'll be like Joe!" (Referring to the country song "Chain of Love.")

Kindness lives in Garrett County. Pass it on.

Thanks, guys!

To the Editor:

Regardless of whom is elected president this fall, a Medicare crisis is looming on the near horizon. With huge deficits compounding daily, it is necessary to demystify the issue.

There are two Medicare Trusts that pay health care bills, the Medicare Hospital Insurance Trust Fund, or Part A, and the Federal Supplemental Medical Insurance Trust Fund, or Part B. Each is funded differently. Part A receives its funds from three sources: a 2.9% payroll tax which accounts for 88% of the fund, interest income which makes up 10%; and Social Security benefit taxes which contribute 3%. [Rounding increases total above 100%.] Part B is funded by general revenues [73%], beneficiary premiums [23%], and interest income [4%]. Each fund covers different services. Part A pays for in-hospital costs, while Part B pays for physician services, Medicare managed care, outpatient hospital costs, and home health care.

The basic cause of the looming crisis is simple. For part A, there are not enough workers in the system to pay for 70+ million baby boomers when they reach age 65. A surge will begin in 10 years. At year 2010, spending will exceed income. At year 2023, the fund will be bankrupt. Part B also will be severely stressed by the surge of 70+ million baby boomers and will require more and more of the GNP to maintain the fund. Premiums will rise precipitously.

To place the problem in a broader perspective, Medicare's looming crisis, left unsolved and combined with the Social Security problem, becomes a national security issue. In 1999, there were 4.0 workers per benefit recipient. In the year 2023, there will be only 2.3 workers per benefit recipient. Even our present accounting system fudges the real federal Medicare budget deficit by recording the liability only when it is paid, not when it is earned. The potential deficit may be in the trillions of dollars.

As a voter, I want to know what each candidate has to say about this issue and the other soaring healthcare costs facing us, particularly prescription drugs.

Dr. Terry McGuire

To the Editor:

This reply is composed in response to a letter to the editor of The Republican that was signed by Harriett King Becker of Rockville and printed on August 3, 2000. The Board of County Commissioners would like for you (Ms. Becker) to contact their office to schedule a time to discuss the allegations made in your letter. We have tried to contact you directly, but there is no one by your name who has a valid Maryland driver's license, is a registered voter in the state of Maryland, has a listed telephone number, or is a real property owner anywhere in the state of Maryland. You have stated to the editor that you and your husband are the owners of property at Deep Creek Lake, but there is no one by your name listed on the records of the Garrett County Treasurer's Office or the Maryland Department of Assessment and Taxation.

The office of the Garrett County Commissioners anxiously awaits your response.

To the Editor:

For the past eight years we have had the good fortune to live and raise our children in Garrett County. On numerous occasions we have heard and read of various misfortunes and the kindnesses extended during those times of need and crises. It is one of the many things we appreciate about Garrett County. It is now our turn.

We wish to express our most heartfelt gratitude and thanks to the good Samaritans of Garrett County, and the unsung heroes of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, the Grantsville Fire Department, and the Maryland State Police.

This past Sunday, August 6, following the severe thunderstorms, our daughter and friend suffered a motor vehicle rollover mishap on Route 40 between Keyser's Ridge and Grantsville. Before they were out of the vehicle, two Garrett County good Samaritans stopped to assist and stayed with the two shaken young ladies until personnel from rescue, fire, and state police arrived.

To Rodney and the other, unfortunately unknown, gentleman who stopped, thank you very much for your kindness and concern. To the personnel of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, the Grantsville Fire Department, and Trooper Mark Clapper of the Maryland State Police, also a BIG thank you. Most of the time your professional services are expected, even demanded, and your thanks often overlooked, but not this time. Garrett County is a better place because of your professionalism and dedication. Thank you very much for your service and aid.

Our daughter and her friend are both doing very well, with only minor bruises and scratches, thanks to their wearing seatbelts. Although the vehicle is a total loss, they survived because the vehicle's safety systems did their job and held them securely in place. For anyone who doubts the worth of seatbelts, don't; just use them! They do save lives and lessen the severity of injuries.

Thankful parents,
Bill and Sandi Flockhart

To the Editor:

Is our court tough enough on drunk drivers in Garrett County? Are we safe in our town from drunk drivers?

There has been an astounding number of repeat drunk driving arrests in Garrett County this past year, as The Republican has well documented for its citizens.

Why are there repeat offenses? Are the penalties not stiff enough for these individuals? What about slick attorneys that represent these individuals? I say call it what it is, they are no better than snake oil salesmen. Some of the attorneys in this town have a line so long, you can hang clothes on it. They are experts at convincing the judicial system that their clients have had hardships growing up and that their clients deserve special consideration such as mandatory AA meetings, probation, rehabilitation, and/or community service. I disagree with these methods of light sentencing, especially when individuals have double digit DWI convictions! Make no mistake about it, my friends and neighbors, this is happening right under our noses.

As a town, if we do not stand united on this front, our friends', neighbors,' and relatives' lives are in danger daily. For you see, they don't wear signs warning you they are under the influence as you walk, bike ride, or drive past them.

Your children won't see them coming until it is too late. These individuals have no responsibility, morals, or values. And yes, they are always sorry when in front of the judge; but only sorry they got caught and had to appear in court. I have personally seen these individuals leave our local court after being told they had to perform community service for a DWI and, when outside, "highfive" their attorney while laughing.

To make matters worse, some of these individuals are driving with revoked or suspended driver's licenses while intoxicated and receiving community service for multiple offenses!

Recently such an individual was picked up yet again for DWI in the early morning hour. No license; it had been revoked years ago for DWIs. Later that same morning, and while still intoxicated, this individual was pulled over again, this time by a different state trooper. Two DWIs within about 4 hours on the same day!

This second DWI occurred at a time when most of us were driving to work, or driving our children to daycare, or out and about. Any one of us could have been the victim on our little streets in our quiet town.

Isn't it about time for Garrett County to enact a get tough policy against these dangerous individuals?

Sincerely,
Susie Wright

Bridge Closure

inspect the area bridges. Erosion, severe abutment problems, and damaged cribbing are cited in the report.

Residents along Third Street also voiced their concern. Gene Helbig, who owns a home on Third not far from the closed bridge, called Tuesday's meeting to ask the commissioners what could be done. Residents in that part of town said they had heard the bridge was closed and would not reopen.

Although the only detour sign on the roadblock points traffic to the left onto Reese Street, cars and trucks are actually using the newer Oak Street bridge, turning onto Second Street, and then on to Water Street, and back to Third. Charles McIntyre, proprietor of Grand Central Station, said Tuesday that people stop in his store regularly to ask directions. He said the closure is hurting business for several area establishments.

The stoplight at the intersection of Second and Oak is also causing frustration. The wait at the red light is approximately four minutes, Gregg said this morning, and the green only allows about two cars before changing back to red.

"People can't go on like this. The light is simply too slow to accommodate all the added traffic," the commissioner said.

Delegate George Edwards and Oakland mayor Asa McCain attended Tuesday's session, along with county and state roads staff. Edwards said the state could assist in the project with some technical assistance, and Fred Crozier of the State Highway Administration suggested the possibility of a temporary span.

McCain said the 22-foot height requirement will be a problem, although an exception can be obtained. (The Oak Street bridge is 19 feet high.)

"This is not really a county responsibility, but we have to step in and help get things moving," Gregg said. He reported this morning that CSX is now evaluating KPA's report and that the railroad officials have assured the county that they will be in communication with the town and the commissioners soon.

SUMMER PILGRIMAGE

What causes a Presbyterian minister to join Catholic lay people of the local parish on a daylong pilgrimage to regional Catholic holy sites? For that is what I did last week, and a wonderful day of prayerful refreshment it was.

With about 40 other day pilgrims, I visited four churches and shrine in the city of Baltimore. While there was much to be learned, the greater part of the trip was the occasion for prayer together with plenty of time, too, for individual devotion.

This is a good time for faith questions. Christians who attend churches which change pulpit or altar cloths as one liturgical season yields to the next know that we are now in the season of green. The long season through the summer and fall is called Pentecost or Trinity or Ordinary Time, but like the scene outside our windows, it is the green season, the season for growth.

With the exception of the Episcopalians and, to a lesser extent, the Lutherans, Protestants have not had much to do with the liturgical seasons. Our tradition — especially for Presbyterians, others of the Reformed tradition, and even more for non-Catholics of less or even anti-liturgical traditions — has been that of a spare, iconoclastic Christianity. Our historic form of devotion has sought to usher the believer into an unmediated intimacy with God through Christ.

The spare, imageless, and often unemotional devotional practice of historic Protestantism has largely died. There are isolated remnants here and there, but the fires that enlivened the Reformers in the 16th century, the Puritans in the 17th century, the Wesleyans in the 18th century, and the holiness churches in the 19th century blazes no longer. Those committed to that fire work very hard to keep alive a meager flame.

Many of us in non-Catholic churches recognize spiritual needs which our own traditions no longer meet or even try to meet. We have had to look elsewhere. Sad to say, this undirected wandering has led some Christians into a de facto apostasy. They have wandered out of Christianity. Others of us have wandered into Catholicism, as has been my case, or into Orthodoxy, the bulwark of eastern Christianity.

A Protestant can make pilgrimage to the Holy Land, as my son and I did earlier this year. But where is there for us to go closer to home? Who is there to guide us in a day of prayer? When we do set aside a day for prayer, it is usually run like a prayer fashion show, trying on one thing after another. The Episcopalians and Lutherans are ahead of the rest of us Protestants, but their own ground has also shifted considerably during the past 40 years.

Pope John Paul II has promoted the year 2000 as a year of jubilee and of pilgrimage. The bishops and priests of the Catholic Church have been busy ensuring that practical opportunities are available for the fulfillment of the papal challenge. In the pilgrimage guide put into my hands there are the churches and shrines in the Baltimore area, some which I visited last week, but there are others all around the region. Western Maryland was not forgotten; St. Patrick's in Cumberland and St. Peter the Apostle in Oakland are both listed as pilgrimage sites. For people on vacation at the beach there is St. Mary Star of the Sea in Ocean City.

If Wednesday night prayer meeting isn't what it used to be, if tents and churches are mostly empty for revivals, if the only non-Catholic churches that are growing are those divorced from the Reformation — the independent, nondenominational churches — then those of us in the Protestant churches of the 16th, 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries need to ask what we are about.

If our old fires have nearly died out, then we need to ask where is the fire of the Holy Spirit burning?

Oakland Man Faces GCSO Drug Charges

A young Oakland man who was questioned by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy curious about why he was walking along Garrett Highway shortly before 4 a.m. was arrested on drug charges Friday morning.

Jacob Eugene Lynch, 18, and another young subject were observed on foot near the Oakland branch of the Terra Alta Bank by DFC David McLaughlin at 3:54 a.m. In speaking with the pair, McLaughlin asked for and received permission to check the contents of a bag Lynch was carrying on his back. Found inside were approximately 27 grams of suspected marijuana and five smoking pipes containing suspected burnt marijuana residue.

Lynch was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. He was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $500 bond as set by a district court commissioner.

DFC McLaughlin carried out a second arrest involving suspected drugs the following morning in the course of a 2:38 a.m. traffic stop Saturday McHenry Drive.

A vehicle driven by Michael John Way, 18, Sutersville, Pa., was observed weaving along Garrett Highway by the deputy, who stopped it near Deep Creek Drive. Way was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) and violation of a driver's license restriction.

A subsequent search of the vehicle uncovered a film canister and a smoking pipe, both of which contained suspected marijuana. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia were filed, and Way was later released after he posted a $500 bond.

Two Tuesday evening traffic stops initiated on vehicles speeding along Hutton Road resulted in drug arrests as well. DFC Chris Helbig, who was assisting the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in a special assignment, carried out both of the arrests.

A Toyota sedan containing two 18-year-old men, Gregory Nicholas McGreevey, Harve De Grace, and his passenger, Matthew Brooks Pennington, Bel Air, was stopped for speeding at 5:15 p.m. After the deputy ascertained that the underage subjects were in possession of alcohol, he searched the vehicle and discovered a smoking pipe and a glass bottle, both containing suspected marijuana.

Each of the men were arrested on charges of possession of marijuana, and both were subsequently released on their own recognizance.

Two hours later, a Chevrolet Geo Tracker was stopped for speeding, and the driver and lone occupant, Summer Lynn Cosica, 21, Philadelphia, Pa., produced a ceramic smoking pipe containing suspected marijuana residue from under the driver's seat. A search that followed also located a plastic bag containing suspected marijuana.

Cosica was charged with possession of marijuana, and subsequently released on a $500 bond.

DWIs

Sheriff's deputies also arrested two subjects for DWI over the course of the week. Harrison Lee Cogar, 37, Webster Springs, W.Va.; and Timothy Ray Nuzum, 29, Swanton.

Schallert Making Return Visit To Oakland Area

Jon Schallert, a nationally known retail consultant, will return to Oakland on Wednesday, August 23, to conduct a retail training session for local business owners. Schallert's 2-hour seminar will begin at 7:30 a.m. at the Oakland Town Hall. His presentation is titled "Competition's Knocking. Are You Going To Answer?"

The session is sponsored by the Maryland Main Street and the Oakland Main Street programs and the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA). The presentation will focus on business improvement tactics that retail businesses should implement to remain competitive with chain "super stores," according to Glenn Tolbert, Oakland's Main Street manager. GOBA members may attend the session free of charge. There will be a $5 fee for non-GOBA members.

This is the second visit to Oakland for Schallert. He first came to the town last year when he presented his "Competing with Retail Giants" seminar to 60 business owners in the greater Oakland area. Schallert then visited individual retail stores and conducted onsite consultations with selected business owners.

All of Schallert's seminars teach independent retailers how to turn their businesses into consumer destinations that have the ability to attract consumers from many miles away, Tolbert said. His retail consulting firm, Schallert and Associates Inc., is the only consulting firm in the nation conducting business-owner seminars with individual on-site evaluations in order to help retailers improve the profitability and productivity of their stores.

"Most retail businesses that fail today would not have to close if they had adapted to easily recognizable marketplace changes and focused on becoming consumer destinations," said Schallert. "It is an oversimplification to say that all small 'mom and pop' businesses are doomed because of super stores like Wal-Mart, or because of the proliferation of malls throughout the country.

"I'm looking forward to seeing the changes that businesses implemented in their stores since my last visit, and helping them make any necessary adjustments to their businesses so they can remain healthy despite the new Wal-Mart competition coming to Oakland," he said.

Schallert has been working with independent retailers since 1983 and contributes his retail perspective to national publications such as the Wall Street Journal and The Washington Post. He conducts over 70 seminars annually in towns and cities across the country, attended by thousands of retailers, Tolbert said. Because of his rigorous schedule, only 500 business owners across the country are able to work with Schallert in their individual stores.

As part of his visit to Oakland, Schallert will conduct on-site business evaluations at five town establishments.

Those wanting to learn more about Schallert may visit his Internet web site at www.Retail-USA.com. Retailers may subscribe to Schallert's free monthly online newsletter, The Retail Advisor, which gives retailers advice on turning their businesses into consumer destinations.

Schallert's company is located in Sorrento, Fla. Schallert is a member of the National Speakers Association, the National Main Street network, the International Downtown Association, and numerous chambers of commerce.

Business owners interested in attending his seminar may call Tolbert at the Oakland Main Street office at 301-533-4470.

Grantsville High Class Of 1947 Reunites

Members of the Grantsville High School graduating class of 1947 observed the 53rd anniversary of their graduation on July 29, with a reunion at St. Ann's Hall/Community Building in Avilton. Reminiscence and renewing acquaintances were the highlight of the social hour.

Greetings and a welcome were extended, and the invocation was given by William Durst prior to the buffet dinner being served.

A memorial service was held to commemorate the lives of William Grimm, teacher, who died since the last reunion, and six classmates who have died since graduation. A tall white candle was lit by Joan Resh, as Leota Baker read the poem "Schoolday Reflections" as a tribute to the memory of Mr. Grimm. Mrs. Resh also lit a pink candle in memory of each of the six deceased classmates: Robert Beachy, Kenneth Crowe, Leah (Hetrick) Campbell, Eva (Blocher) Bittinger, Edison Weimer, and Cecil Schaefer, as Miss Baker read the poem "Time." The candles burned throughout the evening.

A program of vocal music by the Bittner family had been planned, but was canceled because of a death in their family.

Kermit Failinger spoke briefly, and Marvin Broadwater talked about the past years and his trip to Alaska.

The class president, Dale Kinsinger, commented briefly and expressed his appreciation to classmates for their role in making the reunion a "memorable occasion."

William Durst, vice president, presided over the business meeting. The treasurer's report and the minutes of the last reunion, held in 1997, were read by Betty Jo Swauger, who was commended for her continual participation in planning the reunions, which have been held since graduation.

A total of 12 reunions have been held by the class since 1947. The largest attendance of classmates present was in 1960, with a total of 30. This year, 20 classmates attended, with a total attendance of 36.

It was resolved to have the next reunion in two years, during the month of July. A date will be announced later.

Pictures of interest were on display, having been received from fellow classmates Mary (Hetz) Hott and Norma (Opel) Markley, who were unable to attend. Helen Zeller also displayed a photo album of pictures of classmates taken during elementary and high school years.

Members of the graduating class who were present included: Fred Wagner, Marvin Broadwater, Kermit Failinger, William Durst, Dale Kinsinger, James Baker, Dale Glotfelty, Agnes (Wilhelm) Carey, Marcella (Wampler) Groer, Wilma (Robertson) Evans, Betty Jo (Otto) Swauger, Patsy (Miller) Blocher, Cleo (Merrill) Hetrick, Martha (Kamp) Sebold, Helen (Layman) Zeller, Norma (Butler) Broadwater, Joan (Butler) Resh, Evelyn (Boyer) Bolden, Lillian (Baker) Crowe, and Leota Baker.

Each was presented with a printed program and a 53rd anniversary reunion plaque.

Aside from spouses of classmates, guests included three former classmates who moved from the area prior to graduation: Louise (Lewis) Vought, Brenna (Hoke) Mackell, and Kenneth Bittner and his daughter Faith.

The class officers — Dale Kinsinger, William Durst, Lillian Crowe, and Betty Jo Swauger — and Patsy Blocher, Jo Ann Bowser, Martha Sebold, Marvin Broadwater, Marcella Groer, and Kermit Failinger served on the planning committee. All were retained to serve another term.

The closing prayer was offered by Fred Wagner.

The following is dedicated to a wonderful lady who was a very special part of our life. Our Grandmother, Myrtie Paugh, left us on May 11 to finally rest in peace. She left behind many great memories for us to cherish. We have a lot of respect and gratitude towards her, as she raised us from young children. Therefore, when the funeral arrangements and expenses were left in our hands, we were very honored to be there for her as she always was for us. We would like to thank everyone who showed support and respect during such a difficult time. Our grandmother touched our lives in a way that we will always be grateful. Her smile and tender loving ways will be greatly missed. She may have been our grandmother, but in our hearts she will always be:

"Our Loving Mother."

It takes a Mother's love to make a house a home,
A place to be remembered, no matter where we roam.
It takes a Mother's patience to bring a child up right,
Her courage and her cheerfulness to make a dark day bright.
It takes a Mother's thoughtfulness to mend the heart's deep hurts,
And her skill and her endurance to mend little socks and shirts.
It takes a Mother's kindness to forgive us when we err,
To sympathize in trouble and bow her head in prayer.
It takes a Mother's wisdom to recognize our needs,
And to give us reassurance by her loving words and deeds.
It takes a Mother's endless faith, her confidence and trust,
To guide us through the pitfalls of selfishness.
And that is why in all the world there could not be another,
Who could fulfill God's purpose as completely as a Mother.

Love and Respectfully Yours,
Ethel Harvey and Lee Paugh

BOE Reviews Extra-Curricular Handbook, Program of Studies

Among the agenda items before the members of the Garrett County Board of Education during the regular monthly meeting Tuesday were an update on the handbook for curricular, co-curricular, and extra-curricular activities and the suggested revisions for the social studies program of studies K-12.

Extra-Curricular Handbook Discussed

The handbook, introduced recently to parents of Northern High School students, was well-received, according to Martin Green, director of secondary education. "Parents have had a positive response to this attempt for uniform treatment of students," he reported to the board.

The handbook, outlining the terms of student participation in extra-curricular activities sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Education, proposes initially that "all students have the right to participate...." Following this premise are the responsibilities engendered by that right.

The handbook stipulates the student's enrollment status, conditions of school attendance on the day of an activity, and grade requirements for participation in extra-curricular activities. "The standard to be used for eligibility purposes is that students may not fail two or more credits per reporting period, regardless of their grade level," the handbook states.

Rules of conduct for participation in activities require the student to adhere to a prescribed behavior code "from the first day of practice and through an ensuing 180-school-day period of the present and the next school years but not during the non-school year, summer break days except for yearlong activities," the manual states.

Some of the prohibited behaviors are use of tobacco, alcohol, controlled substances, and profanity as well as insubordination or misconduct in the school or community.

The handbook will be introduced to parents of Southern High School students in the near future, Green said, and reported his optimism concerning its acceptance. "I think it is working very well," he noted.

Program of Studies Explained

Dr. Donald Forrester, director of elementary education, joined Green in presenting to the board the results of a weeklong planning session among social studies teachers K-12. Both program directors acknowledged that there is a need to view the curriculum as a continuum of learning for students. "When considering the continuity of our programs, we are starting to look at K-12," Forrester said.

No longer is it acceptable to consider elementary and middle schools as less concerned with subject matter than high school, Green and Forrester said. "This is the first time we have assigned teaching of history to grade school," said Green, referring to the proposal of "U.S. History to 1790" as a fifth grade required course.

Teaching subject matter in the earlier grades will require that students "carry" the product with them through the ensuing grades, Forrester and Green explained. "We will really need to be focused on what the students need to know," Forrester emphasized.

BOE president Rodney Durst raised the question of who determines what the children should learn. The two administrators agreed that it is those who develop the assessment tools who delineate what students are expected to know. "We are assessment-driven," Forrester commented.

Programs of study for K-5, 6-8, and 9-12, along with the K-12 sequence and textbook recommendations, will be on display for public review and comment at the Garrett County Board of Education office in Oakland.

Other Issues Considered

The board voted to approve the videos recommended by the School Health Advisory Committee addressing acquaintance rape and sexual abuse. The materials were on display for review and public comment during the previous month.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, reported to the board that construction projects at Northern and Southern high schools are progressing as anticipated.

Officials Eying Garrett Adopt-A-Road Program

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners is currently considering the implementation of an Adopt-A-Road program for county roadways. The issue will be decided at the commissioners' next regular meeting, which will be on August 15 int the courthouse conference room.

The program, drafted by the county's risk manager, Linda Gnegy, is intended to help reduce litter along county roadways, thereby enhancing the natural beauty of the area, officials said.

Through this program, individuals or organizations may adopt a 1- to 3-mile section of roadway for a minimum of two years, with clean-ups taking place four times each year. Adopters may request a specific section of roadway; however, for safety reasons, some roads with narrow or no shoulders or with limited sight distances may be ineligible for adoption.

The program, to be coordinated by the Garrett County Roads Department, will delineate adoption and participation requirements, program responsibilities, clean-up procedures, and safety guidelines. The roads department will erect signs at each end of the adopted section reflecting the individual or organization's name, and will provide safety and collection information, safety warning signs, orange safety vests, and litter bags.

Persons interested in adopting a section of county roadway may attend the commissioners' August 15 meeting, which will begin at 9:30 a.m. An overview of the program will be presented at that time. Potential participants may contact the Garrett County Roads Department at 301-334-3988 in order to obtain a copy of the program.

Rain A Factor In Accidents On Local Roadways

Heavy rainfall last weekend was noted by Maryland State Police as a contributing factor in two accidents on Garrett County roads, which resulted in injuries to occupants of the vehicles involved.

A single-vehicle accident near the 22-mile marker of I-68 on Sunday, Aug. 6, was investigated by officers from the McHenry barrack around 11:45 a.m. Teddie M. Lipps, 43, was reportedly operating her vehicle westbound when she lost control on the wet road surface and struck the embankment.

Northern Rescue Squad and Grantsville VFD responded to the scene. Lipps was taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where she was treated and released.

In a separate incident, a vehicle operated by Christina Flockhart, 16, McHenry, was eastbound near Route 40 in Grantsville, when it reportedly went out of control on the wet road surface, struck an enbankment, and flipped over.

Northern Rescue Squad and Grantsville VFD responded to the scene. Flockhart and a 15-year-old passenger were taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland, where they were treated and released.

Mettiki Honored For Water Quality Project Successes

Mettiki Coal LLC was awarded the "Good Neighbor Award" recently by the Nemacolin Chapter of Trout Unlimited at its annual environmental symposium. The Nemacolin TU Chapter, based in Allegany County, recognized Mettiki for its efforts to improve the quality of life in the area. "Mettiki's efforts over the years to improve the water quality in the Potomac River and improve the quality of the trout stocking program in the state of Maryland serves to improve the quality of life for everyone in this area," said chapter secretary Dr. David Press.

Maryland's largest coal producer, Mettiki operates a deep coal mine complex located in the southwestern part of Garrett County near the head waters of the North Branch of the Potomac River. Mettiki's state-of-the-art water treatment plant discharges an average of 10 million gallons per day of high quality alkaline effluent into the Sand Run tributary of the North Branch. This discharge is equivalent to continuously dumping more than three tons of lime every day into the North Branch.

The water quality of the treatment plant effluent is also ideal for trout. Mettiki's ongoing partnership with Maryland's Department of Natural Resources Fisheries has resulted in over 24,000 trout that have been raised and released into Maryland's streams. The state recently upgraded the facility, increasing the trout-raising capabilities by 200 percent.

"When I began my career with Mettiki in 1979, Sand Run and the North Branch of the Potomac were both devoid of fish life as a result of prior mining practices in the area," said David Thomas, corporate affairs manager at Mettiki, adding that the mine had begun operating two years previously. "We as a company began to realize that with a conscious effort and some creativity we could have a dramatic and positive effect on the fishery downstream." As a result of these efforts, trout were stocked in Sand Run for the first time ever in 1994, and then in the North Branch the following year.

Jim Ashby, manager of environmental affairs at Mettiki, has worked closely with the state in the development of the trout-raising facility. He also is active in helping develop strategies to mitigate acid drainage from the old Kempton Mine, the largest single source of acid mine drainage into the North Branch. Ashby said he believed that the technology employed at Mettiki, utilizing coal combustion byproducts from nearby power plants for beneficial uses like acid mine drainage abatement in the underground and surface sites, could very well have the same positive impact at the Kempton site.

Elk Garden Man Injured In One-Vehicle Mishap

An Elk Garden, W.Va., man was slightly injured Sunday morning when he lost control of his vehicle on a rain-soaked Kitzmiller Road in the Vindex area, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Casey Morgan Michaels, 18, was traveling north on Kitzmiller Road at 11:30 a.m. when he attempted to pass another vehicle near Vindex Road. He lost control of his Ford Mustang on the wet roadway, hydroplaned off the road and struck a truck parked in a driveway. His car ricocheted off the truck, spun around, and struck a house, damaging the front door.

Michaels was transported by the Elk Garden Ambulance Service to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. The Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. Charges of passing in a no-passing zone and negligent driving have been filed against Michaels.

Sportaerobic Athletes Fare Well In World Championship Contest

Four Garrett County youths represented their home county and country at the 11th annual World Aerobic Championships, held in Disneyland, Calif., last week and sponsored by Gold's Gym. The varsity trio team of Amanda Bell, Heather Hanline, and Jessie Railey, along with individual competitor Marlana Beitzel, fared well in the competition that involved over 500 athletes from 33 countries.

Beitzel came in eighth in a field of 51 competitors, and the trio ranked seventh in the finals, up against 16 other teams.

"Each year the competition increases in the number of competitors as well as the caliber of talent," said Coach Brenda Brosnihan. "Marlana Beitzel competed against 51 very gifted athletes. The top 10 competitors ranked so close in score that any one of them is capable of winning a gold medal..

"Marlana is a world class contender, as her ranking after preliminaries had her tied for fifth place," Brosnihan continued. "She was just a small margin from the medals. The final round really brought out everyone's best and the scores got even closer. The score spread between Marlana's eighth place finish and the medal winners was just fractions of a point.

"Marlana is an inspiration to all the other U.S. athletes who train so hard to compete with our sport's top performers. The World Championship gives our team a realistic perspective about their capability in relationship to their international peers. Competing can raise their personal standards and give them a sense of what the sportaerobic world is like — highly competitive," said Brosnihan.

Tracy Umstot, team physical therapist, reported that the trio team "gave two dynamic performances, displaying unity, poise, and skill." Following preliminaries, the team was ranked fourth. They moved on to the finals ranking to earn their seventh place berth.

"I am so proud of the way our team handled yet another contest controversy as a team from Italy was added to the final round because of a scoring error," Brosnihan said. "We were not made aware of this change until seconds before we went on stage. When events like this happen, the athlete's mental state and psychological edge are really tested. We may not be winning medals yet, but the controversies that sometimes surround competition are certainly providing some valuable lessons."

Bell said the competition was "fierce."

"We feel our performance was first rate and highly respectable," she said.

Competitors from the 33 nations were invited to march in the Main Street Parade at Disneyland prior to the finals of the adult competition.

"The parade was awesome. We felt such pride as we marched behind our American flag," said Beitzel. "The energy from the crowd applauding and yelling USA made me imagine what it must be like to represent your country in the Olympics. For us, this world competition is the Olympics of sportaerobics."

The athletes said they are grateful to their families and friends and the community for all the support throughout the year.

"We hope our success will inspire our younger teammates to continue to train so they can be part of this incredible event," said Hanline.

Brosnihan said training for this event is costly and time consuming. She reported that Mountain Fitness donated memberships to help the girls with their strength training, while Umstot assisted the team with injury prevention and treatment.

The adult competition along with highlights from the youth event will be aired on ESPN on October 2. The team has a web site where additional information can be viewed. It can be located at www.sportaerobics.org.

GARRETT ATHLETES FACE WORLD COMPETITION — Four young women from Garrett County traveled to California last week to face over 500 world athletes in sportaerobic competition. The local champions fared well in competition, with the trio pictured above earning a seventh place rank in a field of 16 competing groups, and Marlana Beitzel, at right, earning eighth place in a 51-athlete contest. The 11th annual World Aerobic Championships were held in Disneyland, Calif., last week. Part of the girls' experience included marching in a parade down Main Street, representing the United States. See story. The trio members above are, from left, Heather Hanline, Amanda Bell, and Jessie Railey.

dog, who led them to the scene. Her vehicle was missing, as was a second dog owned by the victim.

On a tip received from a woman in Front Royal, Va., Wright was arrested there on March 16, where he was found to be in possession of Naser's car, her dog, and a handgun. Following a car chase, he was apprehended by officers of the Warren County (Va.) Sheriff's Office.

He had apparently known the victim and her late husband and had done odd jobs around her Grantsville home. On March 13, she was seen driving with an unidentified male in her car, and the two made a stop at the bank, according to reports. Naser was last seen at about 11:30 a.m. that day, driving along Rt. 40 west of Grantsville.

On the day of his arrest in Virginia, Wright was scheduled to appear in Garrett County Circuit Court on the child abuse charge. He was accused of beating a young girl along the sidewalk of National Pike during the Grantsville Days parade.

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held Wednesday, Aug. 2.

•Numerous concerns and complaints have been brought to the attention of the mayor and council about area youths creating hazardous conditions while skateboarding in town. It has been reported that these individuals ride skate boards in the streets, posing a danger to themselves and to drivers. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

•The council reviewed paving bids for projects including Cemetery Road and the tennis courts. The contract was awarded to Keystone Paving.

•An update was given on the 200th anniversary of the settlement of Accident. A historical re-enactment and music performances have been scheduled; vendors are booked; and various local dignitaries including Sen. John Hafer and Del. George Edwards have accepted invitations to attend. Anyone who would like to volunteer to help on the day of the event, Sept. 30, may contact Virginia Fike at 301-746-8944.

•A benefit dinner and musical performance to help defray medical expenses for Alexi Fratz-Orr will be held on Saturday, Aug. 26, at Zion Lutheran Church. The meal will be served from 4 to 7 p.m. with the concert to follow at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in performing in the concert may contact Pastor Wilfred Karsten at 301-746-8170.

The date of the next town meeting will be announced in the near future.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held on Monday, Aug. 7.

•Council president Carroll Forsyth resigned his position because of his change in resident status.

•Jess Whittemore was elected to fill the post of council president.

•Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle announced that the town has received a $3,000 grant from the Governor's Office of Crime Prevention. Brenda Frazee, Outreach worker for the Friendsville area from the Garrett County Health Department, and Jenny Schroyer, president of Friendsville Residents Against Drugs, had prepared the grant application with the assistance of Capt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

•Park benches and bicycle racks are being ordered for the Friendsville Community Park using POS grant funding.

•The Garrett County Animal Control and Shelter has cat traps available for use in catching stray cats in town. There is a heightened concern about the large number of stray cats and loose dogs in town because of the increase in the incidents of rabies throughout the county. Any resident interested in using a cat trap may contact the animal control officer at 301-334-3553. These are humane traps which do not harm the animal.

•The sealed bid from Keystone Paving was opened and approved. This is for various town paving projects which will be initiated in a few weeks.

The next town meeting will be held on Tuesday, Aug. 22.

GRANTSVILLE

The town meeting was held on Monday, Aug. 7.

•The audit bids were opened and the contract awarded to Devine and Sheffield.

•The mayor and council discussed some of the areas in town flooded during heavy rain over the weekend, and considered actions that might reduce future flood damage in these places.

•Grantsville resident Bill Martin submitted for council review a model curfew ordinance which he had requested and received from the state attorney general, Joseph Curran.

•Boy Scout Troop 49, along with leader Alan Van Sickel, attended the council meeting to fulfill a merit badge requirement.

"A revelation — a model of eloquent virtuosity," stated a Dallas Morning News critic.

"Mr. Friedman is a superb artist. There was in his stylistic individuality and inspired eloquence an unmistakable quality of greatness," said a London Daily Telegraph writer.

Friedman and Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, a Garrett County native and daughter of Robert and Hannah Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, became partners in music nearly 16 years ago when they met at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. They both acted on a dream to bring orchestral music to a rural area, namely Garrett County, together building the foundation for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. For 13 years, the two presented the Symphony at Deep Creek, which was discontinued this year.

The Chamber Players will present two concerts of varied offerings, featuring Friedman, violin; Lu Sun, violin; Jesse Levine, viola; Stephen Kates, cello; and Ian Hobson, piano. See next week's issue for detailed information on each musician. The programs of each evening are planned as follows:

Program I
Friday, August 18

Terzetto in C Major, Op. 74, Antonin Dvorak; Six Etudes, Op. 10, Frederic Chopin; "Arabesques on the Blue Danube," J. Strauss-Eyler; Caprice No. 20, Op. 1, Niccolo Paganini/Fritz Kreisler; Concerto (second movement), Carl Goldmark; Introduction and Tarantella, Pablo de Sarasate; and Piano Quartet in G Major, Johannes Brahms.

Program II
Saturday, August 19

Sonata in C for Two Violins, Sergei Prokofiev; Sonata for Viola and Piano, Johannes Brahms; Sonata for Cello and Piano, Claude Debussy; and Piano Quartet in E flat Major, Op. 87, Antonin Dvorak. (The programs are subject to some change.)

Arsenal Football Tryouts Slated For Saturday

Arsenal Football of Oakland will hold tryouts for the fall outdoor soccer season this Saturday, Aug. 12, at the track field of Southern High School. The schedule is as follows: girls and boys born Aug. 1, 1988, or after may try out for the U-12 girls' and boys' teams at 9 a.m.; girls and boys born Aug. 1, 1986, or after may try out for the U-14 girls' and boys' teams at 10 a.m.

Participants are to bring cleats, shorts, shin guards, and socks that cover the shin guards. Scrimmage practice jerseys will be provided to wear over a T-shirt. Soccer balls will be provided.

A parent must accompany the player to the tryout, as a waiver form must be completed before a child may participate in the session. Any player who has not played in the Arsenal program before must also bring a copy of his/her birth certificate for age verification, and must also provide a Social Security number. There is a $20 charge for the tryout, which, if accepted into the program, will cover the registration cost with the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association. If the player is not accepted into the program, the $20 will be refunded. Tryouts are limited to players who reside in Garrett County.

Those accepted into the program will be expected to attend one or two 1-hour practice sessions per week, plus matches, which are played on Sunday afternoons. If a player is also participating in the Mountaintop Soccer Association recreational program this fall, fewer Arsenal practice sessions will be required of that player.

Because Arsenal Football plays in a travel league, parents will be asked to assist in providing transportation. There will be home matches, and the away matches will be at a maximum travel distance of 90 minutes. The travel season will run from Sunday, Sept. 10, through October 29, with matches on five of the eight Sundays during that period.

For more information, persons may telephone Arsenal coordinator Mel Menker at 301-334-5906.

Tri-State To Meet Elkins In Pen-Mar Finals

The Pen-Mar Baseball League will hold its championship games at Garrett Community College's baseball field this Saturday, Aug. 12, and Sunday, Aug. 13, beginning at 2 p.m. both days. The Tri-State Titans, winner of the regular season title, will face Elkins in the best-of-three format, with a single game Saturday and a doubleheader, if necessary, on Sunday.

Tri-State defeated Rosemont in a best-of-three series last weekend to advance to the finals, while Elkins topped Hot Stove in a single-elimination game and Fairmont in a best-of-three series.

"These were the two best teams throughout the regular season," said league president John Culp, "so we should have a great championship series this weekend. Both Gary Bennett of Tri-State and Chris George of Elkins have done wonderful jobs in leading their respective teams to the championship series.

"I would also point out these games were originally scheduled at Elkins on Saturday and Cumberland on Sunday. But because we have such a great facility at Garrett Community College, the teams requested that the entire championship be played here. This is a great tribute to GCC baseball coach Ed Wildesen and his terrific staff."

Boosters To Hold Meeting Sunday

The Northern Athletic Boosters will hold their first meeting of the new school year this Sunday, Aug. 13, at 7 p.m. at Northern's fair booth in McHenry. Parents of athletes and fans of all Northern High School sports are asked to attend this meeting. For more information, persons may call Phil Workman at 301-746-8717.

WITH A CHILL IN THE AIR (comparatively of late) thoughts turn to one of the Garrett County's many fall pastimes. Southern High School head football coach Fred Gregg got a jump on his avocation this week as he and current and former Rams' coaching staffers Jay Stewart, Mike Sloan, Tim Foley, and Tom Bosley hosted an Oakland Youth Football League clinic at Oakland's Glades Park. Gregg is shown above demonstrating the technique of a perfect handoff to a fledgling quarterback, one who may be competing for the job as the Southern field general a few years down the road. The grunts and groans of Gregg's Rams and Northern skipper Phil Carr's Huskies will be filling the air this coming week as high school football practice gets under way in earnest. The athletes of the county's other interscholastic fall sports — soccer, volleyball, cross country, and golf — are working hard to prepare for another season as well. Photo by John McEwen.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

NO WIND SATURDAY, LIGHTNING ON SUNDAY, SAILORS GROUNDED
by Dan Muss

I had patrol duty on Saturday and, as I motored out past the Committee Boat, there seemed to be patches of wind that might form into a steady breeze, but by race time at noon, it was dead. Mo Willey, race commander, postponed for a while as the boats bobbed and the sails flapped. He finally canceled the first race and announced that a decision would be made on Race 2 by 2 p.m. A number of motorboats in the area towed the sailors back to their respective docks. At 2 p.m. there still wasn't enough wind to race and so Race 2 was also canceled.

Sunday morning dawned with a light rain that developed into a serious thunderstorm. I was not surprised to hear Race 3 was also canceled. A sailboat with a 27-foot high mast is not the place to be in an electrical storm.

I've been sailing on this lake for 17 years, and I cannot remember a weekend when all three races were canceled.

So with no race results to report, this gives me the chance to discuss a subject I've been meaning to talk about: namely, where does an experienced racing skipper set the centerboard? A few weeks back I referred to the fact that, in addition to propelling the boat forward and making it heel to leeward, the thrust of the wind on the sails produces a rotational torque around its center of resistance. That center of resistance is the centerboard. In other words, the force on the jib pushes the boat off the wind while the force on the main pushes the boat into the wind.

In heavy air this net torque will tend to make the boat round up into the wind. The helmsman will keep the boat on course by cocking the rudder. This is called a "weather-helm." But by cocking the rudder, one adds resistance to the boat's motion and the boat is slowed. A small amount of weather-helm is healthy, but, in heavy air, an experienced skipper will ease the mainsail, not the jib. If the weather-helm is still too great, he may also pull up the centerboard an inch or two to have the jib counteract the weather-helm.

On a reach, off the wind, one wants the minimum of centerboard so as to reduce the wetted area of the boat and maximize speed. If, for example, one is sailing with the wind abeam (at right angles to the course), one wants the centerboard down enough to prevent sideslip and to balance the jib and main forces so as to neutralize the helm. There is no exact formula for where the 'board should be; it depends on the point of sail and the wind strength and, to some extent, the sailing characteristics of individual sailboats. The skipper has to feel the helm and watch his wake.

As a guideline for beginners, the 'board should be all the way down (or almost all the way down) for sailing close-hauled; the 'board can be all the way up running dead before the wind. (But remember, running dead downwind is not the fastest point for your sailboat.) Think of this: boom all the way in, 'board all the way down; boom all the way out, 'board all the way up. In between it's more or less proportional.

Happy Sailing!

Correction Noted

Last week's column contained incorrect information regarding the results of the Sandy Douglass Memorial Invitational Regatta, which was held on Deep Creek Lake July 29. The Flying Scots A Fleet race was won by Harry Carpenter and his 18-year-old daughter Carrie, both of Oakland. The incorrect information also appeared in the regatta photo caption on the front page of last week's issue of The Republican.

Broadford Lake To Host Water Ski Tournament

Slalom water skiers from Deep Creek Lake and surrounding areas will converge on Broadford Lake this weekend, Aug. 11-13, for an annual tournament organized by the Deep Creek Lake Water Sports Club.

A practice session will be held Friday afternoon at which skiers can become familiar with water conditions and placement of the slalom course on the lake. Registration will begin Saturday at 8:30 a.m., with competition starting at 9 a.m.

The competition is broken into age divisions and each skier is given three rounds to run the course to completion. Trophies will be awarded based on a skier's best performance of the day. A ski clinic will be held Sunday at which tournament participants and others interested in trying the slalom course can attend. Coaching will be provided by several top skiers, including Sam Ingram from Swanton.

Ingram is the current Maryland state champion, Maryland state record holder, and Eastern United States regional slalom champion.

Husky Football Meeting Tonight

Phil Carr, head football coach of Northern High School, will conduct a meeting this evening at the NHS football field for parents and all Northern football players, grades 9-12. It will get under way at 6:30 p.m.

Carr said that attendance at the meeting is important; however, those parents/players who cannot attend should telephone him at 301-387-8478.

Christian Men's Softball League Results Noted

There were six doubleheaders played in the Garrett County Area Christian Men's Softball League this past week, two of which were sweeps by Bethel United Methodist, giving that team a 23-3 record and a solid grip on first place in the league standings.

Bethel took a pair from Maple Glen Mennonite, 19-8 and 19-11, and whipped Gortner Union, 17-4 and 16-12. Mike Fazenbaker was the winning pitcher in three of the four games, and John Sharpless earned the win on the mound in the second game against Gortner.

Mike Fazenbaker hit a pair of home runs for Bethel against Maple Glen, while teammates Rodney Bird and Terry Chapman each hit one. Dave Kennel hit one homer for Maple Glen.

Against Gortner, Fazenbaker and Terry Chapman each hit two round-trippers, and Kevin Gibson and Ryan Adams each had one.

After dropping the doubleheader to Bethel, Maple Glen came back to sweep two more twinbills, topping Cherry Glade Mennonite, 5-3 and 18-3, and defeating Oak Park Church of the Brethren, 15-14 and 25-8. Laban Tice was the winner on the mound in all four games.

Jason Rush and Dwayne Overhold each recorded a home run for Maple Glen against Cherry Glade, and Dave Kennel hit two against Oak Park. Kevin Artice and Ron Gnegy each hit a homer for Oak Park.

Maple Glen also split a doubleheader with Crellin Assembly of God, winning the first game, 18-12, and dropping the second, 15-9.

Behind the pitching of Rick Brenneman, Glade Mennonite took a pair of games from Cornerstone Assembly of God, 22-5 and 14-9. Adam Brenneman hit two homers for Glade, and his father Rick smacked one. Carl and Brian Durst each hit a home run for Cornerstone.

Behind Bethel (23-3) in the league standings are: Crellin United Brethren, 19-3; Mt. View, 15-5; Crellin UM, 17-7; Glade, 17-9; Maple Glen, 15-9; Maranatha, 7-11; Oakland Nazarene, 7-13; Cherry Glade, 7-15; Pleasant View, 5-11; Cornerstone, 5-15; Oak Park, 6-18; Gortner, 4-14; and Crellin AG, 3-17.

Oakland All-Stars Halted After Strong Start In Region Tourney

The Oakland All-Stars, Maryland state champions of the Senior Division Baseball League, fell in the Eastern Regional Tournament this week after getting off to an impressive start in the double-elimination competition that drew eight top teams from seven states to West Deptford, N.J.

Oakland opened with Saturday's 9-1 thrashing of Vestal, N.Y., and followed that tri-umph up with an 18-9 win in a Sunday slugfest with the West Deptford hosts. The All-Stars stumbled Tuesday evening against Newark, Del., as they dropped a 3-2 heartbreaker in extra innings, then last night the Garrett County squad was defeated by South Vineland, N.J., 8-0. (Details of last night's contest were not available as of this morning.)

Despite being eliminated one game shy of the title game, Oakland made an impact on the tourney's record books, re-writing or tying several marks. Slugger Ricky Reams belted a home run in each of the All-Stars' first three contests, tying the tournament record for most consecutive games with a home run. Sunday's contest featured a total of 25 hits by the powerful All-Star line-up, which eclipsed by five the standing record of 20 hits by one team in a single contest. Joel Helbig and Steve Eiswert each tallied five hits during that game with West Deptford, both tying the individual record for most hits in a contest. Bryson Meyers, one of Oakland's mound aces, struck out 12 Vestal batters the previous day, and that tally combined with the opposing pitcher's 14 strikeouts to set a new record of 26 combined strikeouts in one outing.

Oakland's eight-run win over Vestal in Saturday's debut saw Meyers toss a sterling seven-inning complete-game gem. He allowed only three hits as he mowed down a dozen batters on strikeouts, and gave up only one run in the fifth when a bloop single to short rightfield scored a runner who had reached base on a walk, then advanced to second on an uncharacteristic wild pitch.

The All-Stars' Reams blasted a three-run homer in the top of the first inning to give Vestal something to think about early on. A long two-run home run shot by Steve Eiswert, who put in an outstanding tournament performance overall, in the third inning made the score 5-0. Oakland added another run before that stanza was through when Brad Palmer stroked a run-scoring double.

After Vestal broke onto the scoreboard in the fifth, Oakland responded with a run in the sixth when pitcher D.J. Wiggins issued a bases-loaded walk. The All-Stars added two more runs in the seventh, one of which driven home by a Tobi Stoner single.

Oakland jumped out quickly in the next evening's contest with West Deptford, scoring twice in the opening inning on RBI singles by Palmer and Joel Helbig. The All-Stars took their lead to 5-0 in the second inning when Helbig whacked an opposite-field line drive home run with two runners aboard. Reams had helped set up the three-run blast by lining a clutch two-out single to left field as he faced an 0-2 count.

The third inning featured more Oakland fireworks, as Eiswert launched his second home run of the tourney, a two-out, two-run shot, and Meyers doubled in a run to put the All-Stars up by a seemingly insurmountable 8-0 lead.

West Deptford wasn't ready to throw in the towel, however, and cut the lead in half with four unearned third-inning scores of its own as Oakland uncharacteristically committed three infield throwing errors. The All-Stars' fielding woes continued in the next inning, and the hosts were able to score three times on two hits and two errors, including a controversial bases-loaded wild pitch that cost two runs. Not doubting that Oakland pitcher Bryan Hauser had committed a miscue with the errant toss that allowed one baserunner to easily scamper home from third, observers still took note of what happened when, in retrieving the ball, backstop Palmer appeared to be pushed through a gate and out of play. A second runner was able to score on the play as the catcher scrambled to get the ball back into action.

Oakland responded in the fifth inning when Reams lofted a solo home run shot, but West Deptford scored twice in the bottom of the stanza to knot the contest at 9-9. The All-Stars scored twice in the sixth inning on back-to-back RBI doubles by Ryan Ewing and Jay Tressler, then followed those shots up in the same inning with back-to-back singles by Chad Panther and Eiswert. Oakland added three more runs in the seventh inning to account for the final nine-run margin.

Tuesday's eight-inning, 3-2 heartbreaker of a loss to Newark featured an outstanding pitching performance by Reams, who over the course of the tournament proved himself to be one of the top players in the Eastern Region. Taking the mound for the first time in five weeks, the two-way star struck out nine batters, allowed only six hits, and gave up only two earned runs over his 150-pitch complete-game effort. His Achilles' heel proved to be nine walks, three of which came as he understandably began to tire in the eighth and deciding inning.

Newark drew first blood in the leadoff inning with a solo home run shot, and added a second score in the fourth inning after a runner who had reached first base on a fielder's choice stole second, and advanced the rest of the way around the horn on two wild pitches.

The All-Stars' batting lineup was held hitless until the fourth inning, when Reams took matters into his own hands by launching an Eric Spiese pitch into orbit by way of straightaway center field, over the 344-foot sign. Oakland knotted the score at 2-all in the following stanza after Chad Kroll led off the inning by cracking a double to left field. Head coach Doug Copeland then summoned Hauser in for pinch-running duty, a move that paid off almost immediately when the fleet-footed runner raced home on a clutch two-out double by Panther.

Reams and Newark relief pitcher Mark Rash continued the game's pitchers' duel for the next three innings until the eighth, when the valiant Oakland hurler began to fade. A pair of walks helped load the bases, then Newark batter Regis Phelan worked the Reams to a full count before drawing a third walk that forced home the winning run.

Details of last night's 8-0 loss to South Vineland, and the comments of All-Stars' head coach Copeland, will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Rains Interrupt Tennis Tournament; Several Divisions Not Yet Completed

Torrential rains last Thursday and Sunday ultimately prevented completion of several classes of competition in the 79th annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships at the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club clay courts; however, the winners in many other divisions were decided at the park courts and at the Fergusons' private court in Oakland.

According to tournament referee David DeGrafft, players came from Maryland, neighboring states of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, from as far away at Florida, New York, and Hawaii, and even from Denmark, Germany, and Italy to compete in the oldest clay court tournament in the Mid-Atlantic region and one of the oldest continuous United States Tennis Association sanctioned tourneys in the nation.

The only singles divisions that were completed were the men's age 75 division and the women's singles. Ed Kilgore of Hampton, Va., defeated Doyle Royal of Bethesda, 6-2, 6-3, to capture the men's 75 title. Michelle Davis, Arlington, Va., won the women's singles title by default.

All other singles divisions will be completed at agreed-upon sites and times by the players.

All of the doubles finals were completed at the indoor courts at the Rawlings Tennis and Fitness Club. Winning the men's open doubles championship was the team of Peter Eck of Germany and Manfrede Tesauro of Italy, which defeated the team of Jeff Fowle, Germantown, and Sam Lieber, Laurel, 6-4, 6-4.

Sarah Tritt, New Tripoli, Pa., and Sarah Convery, Cumberland, who are teammates at Southwestern Texas University, easily defeated Dot Hill, Chambersburg, Pa., and Virginia Stayman, Hagerstown, 6-1, 6-0, to capture the women's open doubles title.

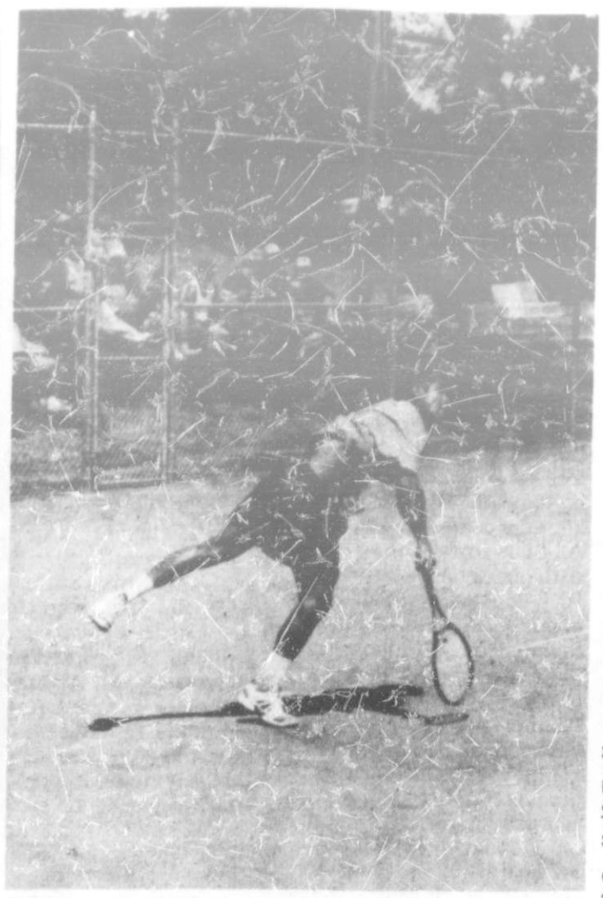
Taking top honors in the men's 45 doubles was the team of Harvey Ratner, Washington, D.C., and Ken Howard, Olney, which stopped John Meyer and Jim Smith, Waynesboro, Pa., in the final match, 6-4, 6-4.

The men's 65 doubles championship was claimed by the team of Elton Suter, Baltimore, and Kile Williams, Cockeysville, which coasted to a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Earle Brown, Potomac, and Murdaugh Madden, Washington, D.C.

Winning in the mixed doubles final was the team of Michelle Davis and Franz Roland, Arlington, Va., which defeated the husband-wife team of Bob and Virginia Stayman, Hagerstown, 6-2, 6-1.

Besides DeGrafft, other tournament officials were: William Tritt, tournament director; Kathie Smith, tournament secretary; and Kathleen Gibbs, Kathy Johnson, and Nan Gangler, assistant secretaries. The officials noted their appreciation to Simon Pearce and Grand Central Station for their donations of prizes, Stewart Funeral Home for providing tents, and Bumble Q's Restaurant for having food available at the courts.

DeGrafft also stated that the success of the tournament was also dependent upon the cooperation of the mayor and town council of Mtn. Lake Park, as well as the numerous volunteers who assisted with preparations and hosted various social events connected with the tournament.



PLAY WAS FAST AND FURIOUS at times at the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club courts this past week, as top amateur players from many states, and several other nations, attempted to complete their matches between several torrential rain storms. Above left, Manfrede Tesauro of Italy prepares to drill a serve in the finals of the men's doubles. He and his partner, Peter Eck of Germany, won the title by defeating Jeff Fowle, Germantown, and Sam Lieber, Laurel, in the final match. Above center, Robert Costillo puts everything he has into a shot. Costillo was a finalist in the men's open singles division, but the championship match could not be played in the Park by Sunday and had to be moved to the Washington, D.C., area. Spring Turkey Season Sets New State Record

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Sarah Taylor-Rogers announced this week the "resounding success" of the recently completed 2000 spring turkey season. Sportsmen set a new Maryland harvest record for spring turkey hunting in 2000, with a reported harvest of 2,705 wild turkeys.

Garrett County had by far the largest harvest, with 533 birds taken, up from 511 last year.

"Wild turkey populations continue to expand across Maryland," Secretary Taylor-Rogers said. "This year's record-setting turkey harvest indicates the increasing quality of Maryland's wild turkey habitat. We would not be able to sustain this level of harvest without good, quality habitat. Likewise, annual production has been sufficient to sustain turkey populations at levels that can support a continued spring harvest."

Spring harvests continue to increase in areas where turkey populations were established through the trap and relocation program. Harvests in southern Maryland and the lower Eastern Shore continue to increase, as turkeys expand into new territories. Harvests in these areas continue to set new records at the county level.

The turkey population in the more traditional counties in western Maryland seems to have stabilized. Turkeys have occupied all suitable habitat in western Maryland, and population levels are more a factor of the success of the current year's production. Hatching success and poult production have been below average in western Maryland for three of the last four years, which is reflected in the decline in the spring harvest in those counties.

Counties reporting harvests in excess of 100 turkeys are: Garrett, 533; Allegany, 331; Dorchester, 297; Washington, 240; Worcester, 225; Wicomico, 184; Somerset, 164; Charles, 138; Frederick, 134; and Calvert, 105.

Weather conditions were fairly good for most of the season, except for statewide rains during the first several days of the season. Reports received from hunters indicated that turkeys were gobbling early in the season, but then remained relatively quiet for the last several weeks.

GARRETT COUNTY POSTS TOP NUMBERS IN RECORD-SETTING SPRING TURKEY SEASON

Maryland Department of Natural Resources announced this week that sportsmen set a new Maryland harvest record for spring turkey hunting in 2000, with a reported harvest of 2,705 wild turkeys; 533 were tagged in Garrett County.

The DNR said that the turkey population in the more traditional turkey-producing counties of western Maryland seems to have stabilized. Turkeys have occupied all suitable habitat in western Maryland, and population levels are more a factor of the success of the current year's production. Hatching success and poult production have been below average in western Maryland for three of the last four years, which is reflected in the decline in the spring harvest in western Maryland counties.

Weather conditions were fairly good for most of the season, except for statewide rains during the first several days of the season. Reports received from hunters indicated that turkeys were gobbling early in the season, but then remained relatively quiet for the last several weeks. Despite these setbacks, Maryland's hunters still enjoyed a very successful spring turkey season.

BIG BASS HITTING AT BROADFORD

Fishermen tired of high traffic on the water might find Broadford Lake just the ticket for successful bass fishing. The word is that big bass are hitting minnows aggressively.

Even with the summer traffic, Deep Creek Lake has been producing some nice size northern pike. Recent catches have been reported in the 40-inch range. Pickerel and perch are also hitting, though at times they have been hard to find.

IMPROVE YOUR DOCK FISHING SUCCESS

Electronic fish finders are commonplace on fishing boats, and in winter they are even used to locate fish through the ice. But what few anglers seem to realize is that these devices can improve dock fishing as well by locating submerged objects that hold fish.

Here's how to do it. Draw a map of your dock and mark off distances in five-foot intervals in all directions out to, say, 100 feet or so. Using your or a friend's boat's sonar, slowly move away from the dock and mark the depth at different distances. Pay careful attention to anything out of the ordinary that could hold fish.

Armed with this information, you can put your bait or lure in the most productive fishing zones.

USE EXTRA CARE IN SUMMER WITH CATCH-AND-RELEASE FISHING

Catch-and-release mortality studies have shown that under most circumstances catch-and-release hook and line fishing has a low mortality of the released fish. However, there are circumstances under which release mortality can be high.

Studies have shown that physical injury and physiological stress are the two major causes of the death of a released fish. It is the angler's responsibility to minimize those factors over which he has control.

The mortality of deep hooked fish is lower with circle hooks than conventional J-style bait hooks. Stress from the physical exertion of fighting can cause a higher rate of mortality among released fish when temperatures are high. Minimize the fight time by using tackle stout enough to land the fish quickly. The angler should keep the fish completely in the water during release.

Be prepared ahead of time to release the fish in the water by means of a dehooking device. If the fish must be removed from the water, use a soft rubber net and a wet cloth while handling the fish, and have pliers available for hook removal. Bending down the barb on any type of hook can speed up the release time to the benefit of the angler and the fish.

TROUT FISHING STILL GOOD ON LOCAL RIVERS

The recent heavy rains put a damper on what had been some pretty good trout fishing conditions. And, as water levels return to normal, look for conditions to rebound as well.

North Branch of the Potomac River: Anglers should be using March Browns, #14 and #16, and Caddis, sizes 14 and 18.

Savage River: Water levels have been close to ideal recently. Fly suggestions include size 18 and 20 Blue Quills, #14 and #16 Sulphurs, #14 and #16 Yellow Sallies, and 18-22 Blue-Winged Olives.

Youghiogheny: Try #14-20 tan and olive caddis, #20 Blue-Winged Olives, and #22-24 cream Midges, and #12 cream and dun variant in the evening.

TIME TO GET OUT THE BOW

With bow season only a month or so away, local archers have been sharpening their skills on targets and local 3-D courses. Dan Milavec of D&B Sports Shop reports that his course has been busy recently.

Regatta Crown

mast sail most obvious to landlubbers on a day with a sailor's breeze.

Harry Carpenter captained the boat from the aft, manning the tiller to steer the vessel. "There was a strong current flowing," reported Garrett County resident Dan Muss, who writes the weekly "Sailboat Racing on Deep Creek Lake" column for The Republican. "The skipper had to do some vector addition in his head and aim above his mark to compensate for the current drift."

The Carpenter household had to make room for its latest National Championship trophy, the second the family has earned. Harry and his wife Karen, sailing as captain and crew, respectively, won the North American Championship Regatta in 1988 at Lake Norman, N.C. Carrie Carpenter, the couple's daughter, is also an accomplished sailor in her own right, and she crewed her dad's boat as the father/daughter duo sailed to victory in last month's Sandy Douglass Memorial Invitational Regatta on Deep Creek Lake. Carrie also teaches at the sailing school of the Deep Creek Lake Yacht Club.

"It's a lot more fun having family members who are interested in the same sport you are," Harry commented. "It's neat to share both the competition of the racing, and, maybe even more important, the quiet time you spend together sailing out to and back from a regatta course. Time with your family can be very hard to find these days.

"We've all sailed together so much, we can anticipate what each other is going to do. There's not much yelling back and forth, and when we're working really well together it can be surprisingly quiet during a race. It's competitive, of course, but done in a friendly atmosphere."

"My dad's my favorite person to sail with," Jimmy remarked. "He's a great teacher, with a short-and-to-the-point style. It's great to spend time with him, and he's taught me something I'll be doing for the rest of my life. It's a fantastic feeling when the breeze pops up the spinnaker, and the boat rises up on a plane and really moves out."

Harry Carpenter is president of Flying Scot Inc., the company that manufactures the Flying Scot sailboat in its Deer Park boat building plant. "Harry has made major contributions to sailboat racing here at Deep Creek Lake and nationally through his tireless support of the Flying Scot class and through innumerable seminars on sailboat racing techniques and tactics," Muss commented, adding that several years ago Carpenter was named National Sportsman of the Year by the United States Sailing Association.

Honors aside, no trophy case could contain the pride Harry and Karen Carpenter have in their children. "We're out on Deep Creek Lake together every chance we get," Harry said, noting that the tack less traveled can provide an important lesson for success on land as well as water. "Sailing, like any sport will do, has taught our kids the value of sportsmanship in both winning and losing. When you do it long enough you realize that, even with hard work, you don't win all the time — but you still try to do your best."

Weight Loss Puzzles Doctors
ATLANTA, GA -- Doctors were surprised when two separate studies found that a natural dietary supplement could help cause significant weight loss.
Although not conclusive, both studies found that patients receiving the formula called Bio-Rex 3000®, lost more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to decrease the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.
According to a spokesperson for Phillips Gulf Corporation, the exclusive North American distributor of Bio-Rex 3000, the company is considering additional studies in order to get federal approval to make pharmaceutical claims. Currently, weight loss claims for the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement are limited. However, with the requisite approval, the company could say that Bio-Rex 3000 decreases sugar cravings, increases metabolism and interferes with the body's ability to produce excess fat.
Bio-Rex 3000 is currently available as a dietary supplement and plan in pharmacies and nutrition stores or by calling 1-800-729-5446. www.phillipsgulf.com.

LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL - Friendsville's 21st annual homecoming celebration began last Friday evening with a parade through town to the park, where music, entertainment, food, and crafts were available. Saturday's activities started off with a 2-mile Fun Walk at 8 a.m. and continued through the day, under sunny August skies. Kids and adults played games, sampled familiar and exotic foods, took part in a pie eating contest, horseshoes, and a hula hoop contest. The fun carried into the evening and was capped off with a fireworks display. Families, friends, and visitors attended the festivities and shared in the fun. The photos, beginning above left, depict some of the activities of the weekend. This tot is fishing for prizes at the Garrett County Health Department's game booth. The group above, representing the Friendsville Residents Against Drugs, is preparing to climb on their parade float with McGruff, the Crime Watch dog. Below, several adults playing a games of chance watch the wheel spin, while others admire one of the cars from the auto show held earlier in the park.

Frostburg State University Theatre Announces 2000-2001 Season

Frostburg State University Theatre has announced its 2000-2001 slate of productions.

The hit musical comedy A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum will open the season on Friday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. Additional evening performances will be on October 7, 12, 13, and 14 at 8 p.m. A Saturday matinee is set for October 7 at 2 p.m.

With credits by the master of the modern musical Stephen Sondheim, along with television/radio greats Larry Gelbart and Barry Shevelove, this throwback to vaudeville is, according to The New York Times, a "glorious old-fashioned farce that...celebrates everything that man holds dear but can't deny himself: lust, greed, vanity, ambition; in short, all of those little failings that make man human."

Set in Rome, circa 200 B.C., the audience meets Pseudolus, the laziest slave in Rome, who will do anything to earn his freedom. The fun begins when he is left in charge of his owner's young son, who has fallen madly in love with a beauteous young virgin in the house of Lysuc. The young boy promises Pseudolus his freedom if the slave can arrange the boy's marriage to the lovely virgin before his father returns. Of course, Pseudolus agrees and havoc ensues.

The season's second production, Icarus, by Edwin Sanchez, is based on the famous Greek myth about a man whose efforts to fly fail because his artificial wings of feather and wax melt when he flies too close to the sun. This play, which is recommended for mature audiences, was described by The New York Times as a "contemporary fable about the perceptions of beauty."

Performances will be on November 17, 18, and 30, and December 1 and 2 at 8 p.m. in the PAC Studio Theatre. A matinee is scheduled for November 18 at 2 p.m.

The central character is Primitivo, a disabled boy trying to rise above his physical limitations. With help from Mr. Ellis, a janitor of dubious sanity, his disfigured sister Altagracia rescues Primitivo from the hospital and brings him to a deserted New England beach. Primitivo dreams of becoming a world-famous swimmer who can swim so far and with such strength that he touches the sun. Across the boardwalk lives "the Gloria," an over-the-hill actress obsessed with her looks. And Beau, a mysterious man who hides his own disfigurement and eventually falls in love with Altagracia, completes the cast.

A suspenseful melodrama featuring the classic struggle between good and evil, innocence, and villainy, Under the Gaslight is set in the post-civil war period of the 19th century. Written by Augustin Daly, one of the first modern directors, the play will open March 2, with additional performances scheduled for March 3, 8, 9, and 10 at 8 p.m. and March 3 at 2 p.m. in the PAC Drama Theatre.

The action begins in Manhattan when the pure and lovely Laura Courtland's engagement to rich playboy Ray Trafford is thwarted after the villainous Byke calls her birthright into question. With her position in high society destroyed and her engagement ended, Laura seeks answers among her former high society peers and the city's rough street people, none of whom are what they appear to be. In the play's most famous scene, Laura is kidnapped by Byke and plunged into a raging river while a wounded soldier tied to the railroad tracks faces a locomotive rumbling right toward him — on stage. By the play's end, family secrets and characters' hidden motives are exposed.

Arthur Miller's first successful play, All My Sons, is a classic tragedy set during wartime that deals with family, loyalty, greed, self-deception, cowardice, and remorse. Performances are scheduled for April 20, 21, 26, 27, and 28 at 8 p.m., and April 21 at 2 p.m. in the PAC Studio Theatre.

The Kellers seem like the perfect Middle-America family, living happy and ordinary lives — that is, until a secret is exposed. During World War II, Joe, the family patriarch, authorized a shipment of cracked P-40 cylinder heads that caused the deaths of 21 pilots whose planes crashed as a result. Each family member must struggle to accept painful truths and examine his and her own concepts of honor and loyalty.

Information about and reservations for all University Theatre productions can be obtained by calling 301-687-4145 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Season Discount Cards are available for $21, a value of four shows for the price of three. Tickets are $7 for non-students and $3 for students.

SPACE COWBOYS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:09 - Released 8/4/00

The idea for Clint Eastwood's Space Cowboys, about four aging astronauts who are given another chance to break the surly bonds of Earth, may have come from Mercury astronaut John Glenn's recent return to space; in fact, Glenn's trip is even mentioned in the script. Director Eastwood has chosen wisely in casting a well-known quartet of action-hero actors (himself included) to fill the leading roles; however, despite good casting (and good acting, for that matter) and a credible premise, Space Cowboys barely rises above the mediocre level thanks to an unfortunate screenplay full of plot holes and unrealistic dialogue, written by Ken Kaufman (Muppets From Space) and Howard Klausner (his debut). The film tries to achieve the level of The Right Stuff or the HBO miniseries From The Earth To The Moon, and the effects and stunning Earth-from-space photography help a lot, but story-wise, what emerges is something more akin to Armageddon: technical mumbo-jumbo, slick-but-inexplicable action sequences, and a trite romantic subplot.

Frank Corvin (Eastwood) is one of the four surviving members of the 1950's pre-NASA astronaut team Daedalus. Although he has long since retired, he is called on by his old colleague (and enemy) Bob Gerson (James Cromwell), who is now an administrator at NASA, because an antique Russian satellite is about to crash to Earth thanks to a glitch in its navigation system. Since Frank designed the system, whose technical specs predate today's computerized equivalents, he is needed to advise the crew of the top secret recovery shuttle mission, who, although they hold multiple engineering degrees from M.I.T., can't figure it out. See, that's what comes of letting kids use calculators on their final exams.

Frank agrees, but only if he can take along his old Daedalus buddies, "Hawk" Hawkins (Tommy Lee Jones), "Tank" Sullivan (James Garner), and Jerry "No Cool Nickname" O'Neil (Donald Sutherland), who are all happily retired but decide to go along anyway. No reason is given as to why this group of geriatric former envelope-pushers is needed on the mission, as Frank is the only one with special expertise, but they are all approved, along with two young upstarts (Loren Dean, promoted from his desk job in Apollo 13, and Courtney B. Vance). With only a month of training, Hawk learns to fly the shuttle (while the two experienced pilots sit in the back seat and say "you can't do that" over and over), Tank learns to operate the robotic arm (apparently that's his only job), and Jerry learns how to schmooze babes.

The first two thirds of the film yield some funny situations, like the part where Sutherland tries to hide the fact that he is unable to keep his dentures in place, but when the shuttle mission finally gets underway, nearly an hour and a half into the film, the humor dries up and gives way to spectacular space scenery and action sequences designed to obfuscate the lack of script integrity. The old astronauts bicker with the young astronauts. The American space agency guys bicker with the Russian space agency guy. William Devane plays the mission director like some sort of hardass comic book character, and the romantic angle, which involves Marcia Gay Harden as a NASA exec reduced to the role of a lovesick schoolgirl, is cloying, not to mention superfluous.

I'm not saying it's a bad movie, it's just that it could have been a tighter, more intelligent film with a little more careful scriptwriting and a little more vigilance by Eastwood. He's relying on star power and effects to cover for an irresponsible script, and the result is a disappointing film not worthy of the actors playing in it. ★★★½

COYOTE UGLY

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:41 - Released 8/4/00

It's not often that a movie comes along as willingly empty of substance as Coyote Ugly. Written by Gina Wendkos and directed by freshman David McNally, it is bereft of style, character, or anything remotely resembling an interesting story, stuffed instead with boobs, butts, and a stomach-turning love story tacked uncomfortably onto the back end of its tight designer jeans.

Coyote Ugly stars the young, fresh-faced Julia Roberts lookalike Piper Perabo, recently seen cavorting with cartoon wildlife in The Adventures Of Rocky And Bullwinkle, as a small town girl who moves to New York City to become a songwriter, but, lacking an agent or the intestinal fortitude to audition for anybody, is forced to work at a sexist, exploitative bar where she rakes in the dough from a roomful of drooling, lecherous drunks dying to get in her pants. I'm not sure, in a city where actual strip bars and prostitutes are readily available, why a joint like Coyote Ugly would survive. Filled with pretty girls who dance but don't strip, regularly set the bar on fire, and dump ice on the customers, it would seem a fiscally risky venture at best; still, it appears to be the most popular watering hole in the Big Apple.

Against the wishes of her widowed father (John Goodman) and best friend (Melanie Lynskey), Violet (Perabo) leaves the comfort of South Amboy, New Jersey, to seek her fortune. Right away she meets a nice, unattached young man (Adam Garcia) who spends the rest of the movie romancing her, and gets a job at the aforementioned Ugly bar. It's almost unnecessary to mention her boss (Maria Bello) and co-workers (including Izabella Miko and supermodel Tyra Banks), because they really offer very little to the film other than butt-wiggling and whooping it up. But the love story between Perabo and Garcia is also not really worth mentioning, either, because it is so perfunctory it fails to cause the slightest emotional ripple. Not only is there no chemistry between these two, but the supposed "conflict" that arises between them is laughably trivial — stupid, really. So let's go to the obligatory my-father-doesn't-understand-me subplot. Nope, nothing there either. Goodman, good old reliable Goodman, who's showing up in all the best and worst films these days with reckless abandon, actually seems embarrassed to be seen here, and I don't blame him. His characterization as the toll booth attendant (you heard me), so dependent on his daughter that he doesn't even know how to wash his own socks, is way below anything I've ever seen him in. And the scene where he tearfully reveals the "big secret" about Violet's mother is nothing short of vomit-provoking, an after-school-special moment if there ever was one. I didn't know the man was capable of anything this bad.

Frankly, there's just no story here. And for those eager young lads who watched the trailer and thought there would at least be some decent T&A...sorry, fellas. Try Hollow Man. ★½

HOLLOW MAN

Rated R - Running Time: 1:54 - Released 8/4/00

At some point or another, every young boy (I can't speak for girls) has fantasized about being invisible, primarily for the purpose of hiding in the girls' dressing (or locker) room and witnessing the inexplicable delight of...females undressing. The practical applications of invisibility have never been explored beyond this prepubescent fantasy, mainly because as one matures, one comes to realize the physical impossibility of such a concept. Darn it. Unfortunately, that realization has escaped the producers of Hollow Man, and so the script (by Gary Scott Thompson and Andrew W. Marlowe) and direction (by Paul Verhoeven) never rise above that immature viewpoint, either. Even a capable actor like Kevin Bacon is embarrassingly unable to salvage any credibility from this text, and although he is invisible for most of the movie, there are a few scenes where the poor guy's face is recognizable. Hollow Man is stupid beyond all formerly held definitions of stupidity, but, as with so many films concocted around the possibility of interesting digital effects, its visuals save it from being a complete waste of time. A waste of money, yes.

Dr. Sebastian Caine (Bacon) is a genius scientist who, along with his crew, has been conducting a top secret experiment contracted by the pentagon: an injection designed to turn people invisible. There is little question why the military would want such a thing; just think how much more fun Tailhook would be, for starters. Sebastian's crew includes his old girlfriend, Linda McKay (Elisabeth Shue), her new boyfriend, Matt Kensington (Josh Brolin), "the best veterinarian in the country" (Kim Dickens), and a few other scientists who are involved because of the obvious locker-room-viewing potential. After the "bio-quantum phase shift" process is ready, Sebastian decides to be the first human guinea pig. Sure enough, he is soon transparent, and suddenly his scientific ethic devolves into scaring kids and raping women. But when the process for returning him to visibility fails, the fun's over, and after 10 days, Sebastian begins to get tired of hanging out in the bathroom watching for panties. Finally, Linda and Matt decide to admit to their superior, Dr. Howard Kramer (William Devane) that the mission has failed. But Sebastian knows what that will do to his career, so he decides to maintain his professional standing by killing everyone. Talk about Dr. Evil.

Apart from inexplicable character changes, howlingly bad dialogue, and the various physical impossibilities of the script, director Verhoeven (Starship Troopers) seems to rely on violence and style-copying to save a film that's gone off track. The final half hour resembles a run-of-the-mill slasher film more than a sci-fi adventure, and much of the action is lifted almost directly from Alien.

Let's face it, folks: invisibility is impossible. We're just going to have to keep putting mirrors on the tops of our shoes until something better comes along. ★½

Adjust Zoning

"in harmony" with the general purpose of the zoning ordinance and would "not be injurious" to the neighborhood, if the applicant provides adequate evidence that the structure will not adversely affect adjacent property owners, and if the structure is not built closer than 100 feet to the high water elevation (2,463 feet above sea level) in the lake residential zone, or closer than 50 feet in any other zoning district.

The commissioners unanimously voted to adopt the change to the ordinance.

Another Deep Creek Lake issue discussed Tuesday was the request made by a group of lake property owners concerning campgrounds. Currently, campgrounds and gun clubs are allowed in lake residential only by special exception, as noted in Article 3 of the ordinance. The group of citizens requested that the article be amended to completely prohibit such endeavors in lake residential areas.

The planning commission did not recommend such a change.

"The commission members felt that we should not discourage any land-based recreation use around the lake. This helps relieve some of the pressure on the actual lake surface, which is important," Nelson said. "Lake residential covers such a large area. We just didn't see how we could completely prohibit the possibilities of more land-based opportunities. As it is now, anyone seeking to develop a camp ground or gun club already has to apply for and obtain a special exception. We feel that provides a sufficient safeguard."

The commissioners agreed with Nelson and the planning commission, leaving the current article intact.

"The planning commission has our support," said Wendell Beitzel, commissioner chairman. "The members worked hard on the Deep Creek ordinances, and we trust their judgment."

Celebration Set At Thomas Education Center

The Thomas Education Center, Thomas, will host on August 13 a celebration for the successful completion of a two-year master's degree program in elementary education. Seventeen students will be honored at the Blackwater Falls Conference Center at 2 p.m.

The Thomas Education Center was founded in 1995 to provide educational opportunities, both life enriching as well as academic, for Tucker County and surrounding areas. Over 200 students have taken the various classes at the center, ranging from "Interpersonal Communication" and "Classroom Organization and Management" to "Stone Masonry" and "Classical Indian Dance." The August celebration will be the first completion of a full degree program conducted solely at the Education Center, which is housed in the former St. Thomas Aquinas School.

This education project is an outgrowth of the New Historic Thomas organization, which was established in 1993 to address certain problems and opportunities in the town of Thomas. It was determined at that time, by the appointed committee, that post-secondary education, both traditional and non-traditional, should be available within the town or within a reasonable distance. At first, it was suggested that a community college be established, but an official of West Virginia University stated that no more community colleges would be established in West Virginia; this was two years before the establishment of Eastern West Virginia Community College. This obstacle did not deter the founding committee, as members formed a nonprofit organization, the Thomas Education Center, to pursue these educational aims.

The keynote speaker at the commencement celebration will be Dr. Bruce C. Flack, newly appointed chancellor of the West Virginia College System. Also speaking will be Dr. Sue Day-Perroots, representing the West Virginia University Division of Extended Learning and the Provost's Office. Senator Jon Blair Hunter and other state and community leaders will also attend.

Sites To Sing

Gospel artist Cindy Sites will be ministering in song at the Whitedale Brethren Church in Terra Alta this Sunday, Aug. 13. Her program will begin at 7 p.m. The congregation invites all to attend, free of charge.

Precautions Noted To Minimize Risk Of Mosquito Bites

Although health officials stress that there have been no cases of the mosquito-borne West Nile virus reported to date in western Maryland or the surrounding vicinities of Pennsylvania or West Virginia, a proactive approach has been suggested to help area residents guard against mosquito bites this summer.

The West Nile virus, which caused over 60 serious illnesses and seven deaths in New York last summer, could conceivably be working its way down the coast to Maryland, according to Garrett County Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty. "There's no cause for worry at this point," Glotfelty stated, "but it's a good idea to be aware of the virus and take measures to control and avoid mosquitoes."

A newcomer to the United States, the West Nile virus was first discovered during last year's New York outbreak. The virus is found primarily in birds, especially American crows. Mosquitoes transmit the virus by feeding on infected birds and then passing the virus to humans when they bite.

"For most people, West Nile virus is not a serious disease," explained Glotfelty. "Most people exposed to the virus have no symptoms. Some experience fever, muscle aches, a rash, and swollen lymph nodes. The illness usually starts 5 to 15 days after the mosquito bite and lasts just a few days."

A small fraction of persons exposed to West Nile virus develop encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain, or meningitis, an inflammation of the tissues surrounding the brain. Encephalitis and meningitis can cause death, although this is rare, and individuals over 60 or who have a compromised immune system have a higher risk of developing the disease.

"Horses may be infected through mosquito bites; however, infected animals can't pass the virus to each other, or to humans. Humans carrying the West Nile virus can't pass it on to others through kissing, sharing cups, utensils, or toothbrushes," Glotfelty stated.

"The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) has joined forces with the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to develop a plan to respond to any sign of mosquito-borne disease. The plan focuses on prevention efforts, such as monitoring and reducing mosquito populations, and testing mosquito, bird, and other wildlife species for signs of the virus."

Glotfelty suggested that area residents utilize the following strategies to minimize their chances of exposure to West Nile virus:

- Avoid the outdoors when mosquitos are most active — dawn, dusk, and early evening.
- Wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants while outdoors.
- Use insect repellent on areas of exposed skin. Follow the product directions carefully, especially when using on children.
- Remove any standing water from yards, which may be found in such locations as old tires, flowerpots, pet water dishes, and children's swimming pools or sandboxes. Mosquitos breed in standing water.
- Keep gutters clean and change the water in birdbaths twice a week.

The Maryland DHMH, in cooperation with the Maryland DNR, has established a seven-day, 24-hour hotline to answer citizens' questions about the West Nile virus. The toll-free number is 1-888-584-3110.

Breast Cancer Resource Offered By Md. First Lady

Patients with newly diagnosed breast cancer may now access an information resource made available through the efforts of Maryland's first lady, Frances Hughes Glendening and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH).

Noted that approximately 3,700 women in the state will be diagnosed with breast cancer this year, Glendening said she recognized the need to help these women cope with the physical and emotional difficulties they face. Working with DHMH, Glendening identified a book and accompanying video which provide "straight forward" information about treatment options and guidance on developing a support system.

The book, titled Be a Survivor — Your Guide to Breast Cancer Treatment, is available at no charge to new breast cancer patients through offices of oncologists and surgeons. "This will go a long way in helping to ease the enormous burdens women face when they've learned a tumor is malignant. On behalf of Maryland women, I thank the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene for implementing this program," Glendening said.

She also encouraged patients to obtain this valuable information through their health care providers.

"Breast cancer is a traumatic experience for women and their families. This program is a way for the state to help increase awareness about the many resources available," said Dr. Georges C. Benjamin, secretary of the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

AHEC Students' Project Presented To Garrett Seniors

A training manual for a senior health and fitness program was introduced last month at the Grantsville Senior Center. The program was designed by students enrolled in the Interdisciplinary Prevention In Rural Communities course at the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC).

The resource manual outlines the benefits that exercise offers to seniors including improving moods, lowering blood pressure and blood sugar, reducing stiffness, and increasing energy. Information is also given on using exercise to manage symptoms of various diseases and to remain independent. The manual describes the different programs of exercises that can be followed, offering a choice of aerobics, strength and endurance training, and flexibility workouts.

The team that developed the resource manual was composed Christy Stromberg, Katherine Hettleman, Kathy Root, Pat Forbes, Ronna Keagle, Goldie Edwards, Margaret Alston, and Regena Stevens-Ratchford who are students or practitioners of physical therapy, nursing, and occupational therapy.

The agency combined students in various health disciplines to bring different perspectives and information to the project, explained Sue Dotson of AHEC. This is the purpose of the summer program offered by the center, which focuses on the particular health needs of rural areas, she explained.

The projects undertaken by AHEC students in this summer course target identifyable groups within the rural community and formulate methods of disease prevention through healthier lifestyles.

"Heart-Healthy" Dining Choices Listed By AHA

The American Heart Association (AHA) has published a list of "heart-healthy" food alternatives to consider when dining out that can cut some of the calories from meals and enhance heart health.

Though a person cannot control all of the risk factors for cardiovascular disease, diet is something that one can take charge of, according to Sarah Parker of the AHA. By monitoring fat intake, one may help lower blood cholesterol and control weight, which Parker describes as two important steps in the prevention of heart disease and stroke.

The AHA dietary guidelines recommend that an individual's total fat intake be less than 30-percent of his/her total calories, and cholesterol intake less than 300 milligrams a day.

"The following fatty food alternatives allow for a both delicious and nutritious dining experience," Parker said.

- Instead of cream-based soups, order broth-based soups rich in vegetables.
- Trade in buffalo chicken wings for peel-and-eat shrimp.
- Instead of fried oysters, fish or chicken, try boiled shrimp, or baked, broiled or grilled fish or chicken.
- Ask that salad dressing or sauces be served on the side to control portions.
- When ordering Italian, choose pasta with marsala or marinara sauces rather than dishes with butter or cream sauces.
- If choosing potatoes, order them baked, boiled or roasted, not fried. Substitute salsa or pepper or chives for butter and sour cream.

Agency Reps At 1st International Forum On Aging

Three staff from Garrett County Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging and one staff from the Cooperative Extension office attended the 1st International Conference on "Rural Aging — A Global Challenge" held recently in Charleston, W.Va. The conference was sponsored by the West Virginia University Center on Aging, in partnership with the United Nations Programme on Aging, the World Health Organization, and the International Association of Gerontology.

Staff from the Area Agency on Aging attending the conference included Leona Beckman, coordinator/case manager for the Senior Care program; Veronica "Ronnie" Padmos, coordinator of the Older Americans Act programs; and Adina Brode, Area Agency on Aging director. "We face many unique challenges in trying to provide seniors in Garrett County with appropriate and adequate services using limited resources. Our staff attended the conference with the intention of learning from others facing similar challenges as well as networking," stated Brode.

The conference provided participants with a chance to benefit from the knowledge and experience of a broad range of professionals. "It isn't often that we have this type of unique opportunity available to us. The wealth of information available at the conference was presented by countries from Australia to Zimbabwe," Brode said.

Irmgard Koscielniak, M.S., Ph.D. candidate, CFLE, Extension educator, Family and Consumer Sciences, University of Maryland Cooperative Extension, Garrett County Extension Service, presented a paper at the conference titled "Matriarchs in Kyrgyzstan Lead a Surprising Life." The report compiled observations made on two trips to Kyrgyzstan in Central Asia, where Koscielniak was assigned to teach through the Winrock International Farmer to Farmer Program.

Brode noted that the theme of the conference, "Rural Aging — A Global Challenge," appropriately describes challenges faced around the world. "Demographics indicate that the 'age wave' creates an urgency to be ready for the increasing numbers of elderly, particularly in rural areas," she stated, explaining that the proportion of persons age 65 and older is greater in many rural areas than in urban areas and is growing faster.

"We need to be ready to respond to the needs of the growing elderly population in our community, and that means increased resources and a greater commitment from funders." Brode concluded.

Rx Program Now Offered In Garrett County

Garrett County residents of all ages who are chronically ill and require daily medications but do not have prescription coverage through private insurance or Medicaid may now qualify for assistance through the Western Maryland Prescription Program. To participate in the program, a person must also meet the financial guidelines set by each pharmaceutical company. Upon request, eligibility may be determined prior to the assessment of financial need for assistance.

Angela Lucas is coordinating this program for local residents through the Garrett County Health Department's Adult Evaluation and Review Services (AERS). "On behalf of low-income, uninsured or underinsured patients of any age, we apply to drug manufacturers to obtain medications at no or low cost to the patient. The drug companies determine final eligibility based on income and asset information provided," Lucas explained.

A person may apply directly or may be referred to the Western Maryland Prescription Program by a doctor or social services. "AERS personnel then visit the applicant to determine eligibility for the WMPP as well as other programs which are available," Lucas said.

Applicants will be required to submit detailed income and asset information for the household and must supply documentation to WMPP along with prescription information, Lucas noted.

"A program representative will complete an application for each referral, which includes a financial needs questionnaire. When a physician's signature is needed, the application will be forwarded to the physician's office and then mailed to the pharmaceutical company along with the prescription," Lucas said. The total process, she explained, takes 6-8 weeks. Each prescription requires a separate application through the WMPP.

For more information on this program, persons may call Angela Lucas at 301-334-8253 or 301-895-3113.

Abilities Network Expands Support Services In County

The Epilepsy Foundation support group, operating under the recently adopted name of the Abilities Network, is offering expanded services to residents of Garrett County. According to area coordinator Sara Hoffman, a grant to the organization has permitted the addition of programs.

The foundation, while continuing to provide public education on epilepsy and other seizure disorders as well as support for individuals with epilepsy and their families, will now serve a broader base, Hoffman said. "The grant we received will allow us to help parents of children with disabilities. It does not limit our service to those with epilepsy," she stated.

The new Abilities Network/Epilepsy Foundation program will cover costs of protective equipment as well as certain evaluations that insurance will not pay for. "It could be very beneficial to parents of children with disabilities to contact us. We may be able to help them," Hoffman noted.

The next Abilities Network/Epilepsy Foundation support group in Garrett County will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 23, 7-9 p.m., at the Community Services Building of Garrett Memorial Hospital.

For more information on programs and services, persons may call Hoffman at 301-387-7723.

Allergy Group Advises Action Against Insects

Every summer, over 25 million Americans are stung by bees, wasps, hornets, and yellow jackets, according to the American College of Allergy, Asthma, and Immunology. "For many, a sting is nothing more than a painful nuisance, but for others, a sting can be life-threatening," said a spokesman for the organization.

To encourage greater safety, the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology recently published the following recommendations for individuals allergic to insect stings:

1. Consult an allergist regarding evaluation for preventive treatment. Insect sting allergy is treatable with a highly effective vaccination program administered by a local allergist. Anyone who has experienced an allergic reaction to an insect sting (hives, dizziness, nausea, difficulty in breathing, or unconsciousness) should see an allergist for evaluation.

2. Carry self-injectable epinephrine. Allergic individuals who have not had protective vaccination should carry self-injectable epinephrine (bee sting kits) with them at all times. This drug is emergency rescue medication designed to stop an allergic reaction in progress. One should always seek professional medical attention immediately following the use of this device.

3. Practice insect avoidance. The risk of an insect sting can be minimized by avoiding the insects and their habitats. Yellow jackets live in the ground and in wall cavities. Hornets and wasps nest in bushes, trees, and under eaves of buildings. One should use caution in these areas and never walk barefoot in the grass. Fragrances used in cosmetics and soaps may attract stinging insects, as may exposed food and beverages at picnics and open garbage areas.

For persons interested in more information, a free brochure written by the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology is available by calling 1-800-23-STING. For the name of a local board certified allergist, one may call 1-800-842-7777.

Local Potter's Ceramics On Display At GCC

The works of local potter Elee Bookout are currently on display in an exhibit titled "Pottery for the Millennium," which continues at the art gallery of Garrett Community College through Friday, Aug. 25. A public artist's reception is slated in the gallery for this Saturday, Aug. 12, from 8 to 10 p.m. Exhibited work will be available for sale, according to gallery coordinator Ron Skidmore, but must remain on display until the conclusion of the exhibit.

The title Bookout chose for her display is meant to express the changes and growth in her work over the past few years, and symbolizes a comprehensive overview of her experiences with clay culminating in a variety of ceramic forms, glazes, and new decorating and firing techniques. She recently experimented with wood-firing her work, and is "excited about the process of being so closely in touch with the fire," according to a gallery press release.

Much of Bookout's work shows the alterations of wheel-thrown forms and of constructing several forms together into one piece. She credited several recent workshops with broadening the scope of her work and enhancing the knowledge of her craft, and said that the outside influences are reflected in her current work.

Bookout is a professional potter who has been working with clay for 50 years. She earned her bachelor's degree in art education at the University of Maryland in 1954, and her master of fine arts degree from the Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan in 1957. Her artist and teaching career experiences are extensive, and include work at the University of Maryland, the Corcoran Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., the Prince George's County Board of Education, and the Torpedo Factory in Alexandria, Va.

For many years Bookout taught private lessons in her own studio and presented workshops in the Washington metropolitan area. Her works have been exhibited in a variety of venues, including the Smithsonian Institution, the Chicago Art Institute, the Detroit Museum, and many galleries in the Washington area. She has received a number of awards and honors.

Bookout, who lives in a wooded area near Accident, said she draws inspiration for her work from the woods. She maintains a working studio at her residence that is open to the public, and tours and viewings may be arranged by calling her at 301-746-8896. She also participates in the gatherings of the Thursday Night Art Group at GCC, and is also an active member of the Designers Craft Guild of Morgantown, W.Va.

"It's nice going through life just making mudpies that people enjoy viewing, using, and owning," Bookout observed. "Playing with clay is not age-specific — I don't have to retire — it's not bad for one's health, and it's very self-satisfying."

The GCC gallery exhibit of Bookout's work is open to the public during regular college hours and on weekends and evenings during special events. For more information, interested persons may contact the GCC Art Department at 301-387-3024, or the artist at the number listed above. The exhibit is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Openings Remain For "Becoming An Outdoors Woman"

The upcoming "Becoming an Outdoors Woman" (BOW) workshop, set for Friday, Aug. 18, through Sunday, Aug. 20, at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger, still has slots open for interested participants.

BOW workshop participants learn about fish- and wildlife-based recreation in a supportive atmosphere, and a number of courses in a variety of activities are available, including firearm safety and handling, backyard habitat and wildflower gardening, kayaking and canoeing, outdoor cooking, backpacking, and mountain biking.

BOW workshop participants will be housed in dormitory style cabins with wood stoves. Meals will be provided by BOW staff. The cost for the three-day workshop is $200 per person and advance registration is required. Individuals must be 18 or older to take part.

For more information or to register, interested persons may call Karina Blizzard at 301-478-2146, or consult the workshop's web site at www.dnr.stae.md.us/wildlife/2000bow.

Sixth Annual Country Fest And Auction Scheduled At Fairgrounds

Plans are under way for the sixth annual Country Fest and Auction, scheduled for August 26 at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. The event last year drew an estimated crowd of 2,200.

When the gates open at 8 a.m., visitors will be greeted with the aroma of pancakes, sausage, biscuits, and fresh, warm doughnuts to go with their morning coffee. New on the menu this year will be homemade bread baked on the premises and served with Beachy's apple butter.

In the large exhibit building will be several departments: Crafts, Home Baked Goods (including homemade noodles, jams, and jellies), the "Choice Books" Book Stand, and a Gift & Card Shoppe. These exhibits will also open at 8 a.m.

Throughout the day there will be various demonstrations, including homemade bread baking, apple cider pressing, ice cream freezing, milking, separating and butter churning, hammermill grain grinding, and quilting.

For children there will be a live animal petting zoo, a pedal tractor pull, pony rides, the "Barrels of Fun" ride, and wholesome children's videos. Horse and buggy rides, hay rides, and horse and wagon rides with the Halflinger horses will be available for all ages.

The auction will begin at 10:30 a.m. and feature a variety of crafts, oriental rugs, wooden furniture, and many other new items. "In-Home Dinner" meal tickets will be sold throughout the day. These meals are prepared and served in the holder's own home by families from the sponsoring church, and buyers can choose the type of meal and the number of tickets they wish to purchase.

The quilt auction will begin at 1 p.m. Approximately 20 full-sized (double or queen) quilts will be auctioned, plus a number of wall quilts and other smaller items. In 1999 the top quilt sold for $2,100, with an overall average price of $795. Many of the quilts are sold to buyers from the Washington-Baltimore-Northern Virginia or Pittsburgh areas. However, some were sold to buyers from as far away as Arizona and the New England states. All quilts will be on display from 8 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., when they will be taken down to be auctioned.

At the Country Fest there will also be fresh, hand-rolled pretzels, funnel cakes, homemade ice cream, barbecued chicken, and a variety of lunch menus.

In the chicken barbecue pavilion there will be gospel singing throughout the day by the Willis Sommers family of Salisbury, Pa. The Sommerses have six children ranging from ages 5 through 17, and have produced several a capella recordings.

The Dry Run Mennonite Church sponsors this event. Proceeds are used for the building project at the church and school, and also for Christian Aid Ministries, a mission-relief overseas ministry. Admission is free. For more information, persons may call 301-895-3268 or 301-746-8429. E-mail is received at lmaust@juno.com.

HOMEMADE, HAND-ROLLED SOFT PRETZELS will be one of many delectable items available for purchase at the sixth annual Country Fest and Auction, scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 26, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Above, volunteers are pictured rolling the pretzel dough at last year's fest. Homemade doughnuts, hotcakes and sausage, applebutter bread, funnel cakes, barbecued chicken, homemade ice cream, and fresh-squeezed lemonade will also be available. Among the items that will be sold during the auction will be wooden furniture, Oriental rugs, crafts, and handmade quilts. There will be a variety of demonstrations, exhibits, and activities. Pictured at right is Nancy Bender of the Dry Run Mennonite Church as she works on the 2000 State Bird and Flower quilt. This quilt is one of the most popular sold each year at the auction, but none will be made for the 2001 auction. All proceeds from the Country Fest and Auction are used to support Dry Run Church and school, and for various missions programs. See story for details.

Unger Earns Holy Cross Scholarship

Garrett County native Robert J. Unger has been awarded an Alumni Memorial Scholarship to attend the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, Mass. The 1999 graduate of Southern High School plans to major in history and will be a member of the NCAA Division I Holy Cross Crusaders football team.

The oldest Catholic college in New England, the College of the Holy Cross is a four-year undergraduate institution that ranks among the nation's leading liberal arts colleges. The college was founded in 1843 by the Society of Jesus (the Jesuits).

Unger completed one year of study at Potomac State College in Keyser, W.Va., where he was a member of Sigma Phi Omega Honor Fraternity and the last Catamount football team. For both the fall and spring semesters, he was named to the President's List of Distinguished Students and was also a member of the Athlete's Academic Honor Roll for achieving a 4.0 grade point average.

Lloyd Day Earns Certification As Résumé Writer

Lloyd Day, job service specialist at the Maryland Job Service, a division of the Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation in Oakland, has successfully completed testing to be a certified professional résumé writer (CPRW), issued by the Professional Association of Résumé Writers headquartered in St. Petersburg, Fla.

According to a spokesperson for the department, certification is an important distinction in providing Job Service customers with the assurance that they are receiving the best professional résumé assistance possible. The CPRW designation establishes that a résumé writer knows the best industry standards for meeting client strategic goals and has mastered the craft of résumé preparation, using the most current information and techniques.

Could there be a more significant and satisfying occasion for a photograph? How blessed it is to gather together four generations of a family. This is not as common today because families are often living in different regions of the country or even separate parts of the world!

Yet, as science and medicine progressively discover more means of longevity, we will see five and maybe six generations co-existing within the new millennium. The potential for the older generations to share wisdom with the young is tremendous as communication becomes more sophisticated and instantaneous around the world.

Even with all of today's technology, we still must make the wisdom of a strong faith in God foremost. Psalm 100:5 says... "His truth endureth to all generations." Worship together as a family. "My Sabbaths ye shall keep: for it is a sign between Me and you throughout your generations." Exodus 31:13

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE MYSTERY OF LIFE

August 14, 2000

Background Scripture:
Colossians 1
Devotional Reading:
John 1:1-5, 9-18.

When I was a high school sophomore, I tried out for the Reading Civic Opera Company (Reading, PA) and became the youngest member at that time. We didn't actually do operas, but light operas—"The New Moon," "Naughty Marietta," "The Mikado." One of my favorite songs was by Victor Herbert and Rida Johnson Young: "Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life!" I was intrigued by the thought that there was a "mystery" about life and these composers thought they had found it:

Ah! Sweet mystery of life at last I've found thee,
Ah! I know at last the secret of it all;

For 'tis love, and love alone, the world is seeking,
And 'tis love and love alone that can repay!
'Tis the answer, 'tis the end and all of living,
For it is love alone that rules for aye!
(Witmark & Sons, 1910)

But, by the time I became a young man, I no longer wondered about the "mystery" of life. I lived as if there was no mystery because I thought I knew what I was doing and where I was headed. I worked on the unspoken assumption that if I thought, worked and prayed hard enough, long enough and intensely enough, there wasn't any problem I couldn't face. Eventually, however, after some hard bumps along the way, I began to wonder once more about the mystery or mysteries of life. Today, periodically, I ask myself of life, "What's this all about? What am I all about?"

Joining the Pieces

Inevitably I return to the conviction that the answer to the "mystery" of life is in Jesus Christ. As Paul says in Colossians, "...in him all things hold together" (1:17). There are so many bits and pieces in life that it seems there is no way we can make sense of them. But in Christ, I have found for myself, "in him all things hold together." He puts the pieces together and makes of them, if not something I can comprehend, at least something I can apprehend. I may not be able to understand how all of life hangs together, but I can at least experience that reality in him.

Through most of my life I have been a rationalist, in that I believed all the questions about God could be arranged in some kind of order if I could only approach the job with enough clear thought

TV PIPELINE

Lansbury played Mrs. Pollifax

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Angela Lansbury

Q: Some time ago I read that Angela Lansbury was making a series based on Dorothy Gilman's Mrs. Pollifax books. Was anything ever done with it? --A reader in Flint, Mich.

A: Lansbury played amateur spy Emily Pollifax in The Unexpected Mrs. Pollifax, a CBS movie that aired in May 1999. There are no plans at this point for either a series or more Pollifax movies.

The endearing Murder, She Wrote star recently told me she goes into rehearsals this fall for a return to Broadway in a new musical called The Visit.

Q: I know Ossie Davis once starred in a movie called Purlie Victorious, but my mother says there was another movie called Purlie with Cleavon Little and Sherman Hemsley (The Jeffersons). Does this latter movie actually exist? –Brandye in Atlanta.

A: Purlie was a 1970 Broadway musical adaptation of Purlie Victorious, starring Hemsley, Little and Melba Moore (Little and Moore both won Tonys).

What your mother remembers seeing is a made-for-cable adaptation of that musical, taped in live performance, with the three stars re-creating their stage roles.

Q: I am an avid fan of L.A. Law, which is set in the offices of McKenzie, Brackman, Chaney and Kuzak (later Becker). We all know who plays McKenzie, Brackman, Kuzak and Becker, but who was/is Chaney, and why is he never mentioned? –Frank Kenny, Wenonah, N.J.

A: In the opening scene of the series premiere, partner Chaney was found dead, slumped over a lawbook.

Q: Who played Sgt. Carter on Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C.? Is he still living? –E.K., Saint Clair, Pa.

A: Frank Sutton, who played Sgt. Vince Carter in the 1964-69 sitcom, suffered a fatal heart attack in 1974. He was only 51 years old.

Q: What can you tell me about Charles Lane? He was one of the most famous movie and TV grouches of all time, but no one knows much about him. –A. Arledge, Howell, Mich.

A: Perhaps best known today as villainous Homer Bedloe on Petticoat Junction, Lane – who was still alive as of this writing – was born Charles Levison in San Francisco on Jan. 26, 1905.

Lane's long career stretches from his uncredited movie debut as a desk clerk in 1931's Manhattan Parade to 1989's miniseries War and Remembrance.

The Internet Movie Database lists nearly 300 movie and TV credits for Lane, including such classics as Twentieth Century, It's a Wonderful Life and You Can't Take it With You.

TRIVIA

Alicia Coppola (Bull) played Lorna Devon on the NBC soap Another World and made guest appearances on Profiler and Sports Night.

TRIVIA

Ernie Hudson (Oz) got his stage training at the School of Drama at Yale University after graduating from Wayne State University.

Judd Nelson and Yancy Butler star in The New Adventures of Spin and Marty: Suspect Behavior, a TV movie premiering Sunday, Aug. 13, on ABC.

Marty's (David Gallagher) parents give him an ultimatum before they leave on a trip to Paris: Either make new friends while they are gone or get ready for summer camp.

Marty strikes up a friendship with Spin Evans (Jeremy Foley), and the duo sets out to investigate the odd couple (Nelson, Butler) who recently moved into the neighborhood.

Roby Recognized For Real Estate Sales Performance

Lana Roby of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty has been recognized for ranking fourth out of the Coldwell Banker Real Estate Corporation's 1,496 Maryland-based sales associates in buyer controlled sales, and sixth in closed revenue units, for the second quarter of 2000. She was also among the corporation's top 10 Maryland-based sales associates in buyer controlled sales in the first quarter of the year.

"Lana Roby exemplifies the standards of excellence for which Coldwell Banker sales associates are known," said Steve Bright, the corporation's Northeast Region regional director. "It is an honor to recognize her as one of the top 10 sales associates in the state of Maryland."

"Lana has consistently been an outstanding sales associate, and this has been a very good year for her," commented Robert Huebner, broker for the corporation's Deep Creek office. "We're delighted to see Lana receive statewide recognition for her good work. Even more importantly, we know that her customers and clients are being well served."

Roby, who has been a real estate sales associate for 15 years, received top sales honors for Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty in 1999.

Colmer-Warnick Reunion Slated

The descendants of Clara (Garlitz) Colmer-Warnick will hold their 25th reunion on Sunday, Aug. 20, at the New Germany State Park.

Senior citizens and all children in car seats will be permitted free entry. All others will be charged $2 per person at the gate. All family and friends are welcome to attend.

Persons are asked to bring food and plan to stay all day. Swimming, paddle boats, and horseshoes will also be available.

Guidelines Noted For Reduced/Free School Lunches

The Garrett County Board of Education recently announced the revised income eligibility guidelines for free and reduced-price school meals and for free milk. The guidelines are set by the federal government and adopted for school students across the state. They are effective from July 1, 2000, through June 30, 2001.

Criteria

Household size and income determine eligibility. For example, a child from a family of four would be entitled to a free lunch, and where available, a free breakfast and/or free milk if the household's current annual income is below $22,165. If that same family's income is between $22,165 and $31,543, the child would be eligible to purchase lunch at the reduced price of 40 cents and breakfast for 30 cents.

Families On Food Stamps/TCA

Households receiving food stamps or Temporary Cash Assistance (TCA) will receive a letter at the start of the school year stating that their children have been approved for free school meals. The letter will also state that those households should not complete a form for free meals this year.

All Other Families

Households not receiving food stamps or TCA will receive a letter and a meal benefit form to apply for free and reduced-price meals on or before the first day of school. Copies are also available in the principal's office.

To apply for free or reduced-price meals, parents/guardians should fill out the form and return it to the school. Information provided on the Meal Benefit form will be used to determine eligibility.

Information Required

Households not receiving food stamps or TCA must list the names of all household members, the household's monthly income, the signature of an adult household member, and the social security number of an adult household member, or a statement that the household member does not have a social security number.

Changes In Status

Households receiving food stamps or TCA must notify the school when they no longer receive these benefits. Other households are required to notify the school if their income increases by $50 or more per month or $600 a year if their family size decreases. If household income decreases during the school year or family size increases, households may reapply.

Foster Children

Foster children may be eligible for free or reduced price school meals and/or the special milk program. Guardians should fill out a meal benefit form to determine eligibility.

Verification And Use Of Information

School or other program officials may verify information provided on the form at any time during the school year. The name and eligibility status of children may be given to local Title I officials for allocation and evaluation purposes, used for MSPAP and the National Assessment of Educational Progress analyses, or given to other federal or state education or state health programs. No other use of this information is permitted.

In accordance with federal law and U.S. Department of Agriculture policy, this institution is prohibited from discriminating on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, age or disability. Attends Medical Forum; Noted By Who's Who Southern High School senior Cassandra Kave attended the weeklong National Youth Leadership Forum on Medicine (NYLF/MED) in Washington, D.C., recently. Kave, who will be completing her preparatory studies this year as a participant in Garrett Community College's Early College Admission Program (ECAP), was also recently recognized by Who's Who Among American High School Students for the third consecutive year.

Kave was among 360 high school juniors and seniors at the NYLF/MED conference who learned about a variety of medical-related topics, including medical ethics, the global effects of infectious disease, genetic research, and public health. Participants visited several medical schools, including the Georgetown University, George Washington University, and Howard University schools of medicine, to interact with doctors and other medical professionals to gain an understanding of medical history, standards, and trends. The program culminated in a simulation that explored medical ethics.

"The National Youth Leadership Forum on Medicine gives students like Cassandra Kave an early opportunity to explore in depth what it takes to reach their career goals," said Donna Weldin, NYLF executive director. "Many students arrive knowing they want to pursue a career in medicine. We provide some of the essential resources for these young people to determine where inside the medical universe they wish to land."

Kave's third straight year of Who's Who recognition puts her in the select category of a Multiple Year Award recipient. While approximately 20,000 schools are represented by their students, only ½ of 1 percent of all high school students earn Who's Who recognition for two or more years.

Kave is the daughter of Angela and Gary Kave of Gainesville, Va. She resides in Oakland with her grandparents, Clyde and Vesta Lilier.

Fike Genealogist Donates Book To Grantsville Library

Visiting Garrett County last weekend for a family reunion, Merilyn B. Fike Morrow stopped in at the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library system and donated a copy of Christian Fike and his Descendants, a 1,360 page genealogical study which she has published.

"The work covers 10 generations, concentrating on the sons of Christian Fike, John, Christian Jr., and Jacob," Morrow explained, adding that John settled near Selbysport prior to 1800, while Christian Jr. settled in Somerset County, Pa., and Jacob in Markleysburg, Pa.

Early generations of the Fikes married into families that included some of the following names: Arnold, Biser, Blough, Frantz, Frazee, Friend, Glover, Gnagey, Griffith, Guard, Hamstead, Lichty, Maust, Meyer (Meyers), Miller, Schrock, Thomas, and Weimer, Morrow reported.

The red, hardcovered volume contains a name index that runs more than 125 pages and contains well over 2,000 names. Anyone who would like to purchase this book can order by writing to Merilyn B. Fike Morrow, 5215 Casa Grande Road, Temple, Pa. 19560 or call her at 610-929-5426.

"People who think they might be interested in ordering the book can stop in at the Grantsville library and look at it first. Many people have bought them as gifts for family members," Morrow said.

ASSISTING HABITAT FOR HUMANITY In Garrett County recently was a group of volunteers from churches in the Rockville area, pictured above staining and applying polyurethane on trim molding for a house being constructed for the Buddy Herman family in Mtn. Lake Park. The group was working inside the former Winters Dairy barn, as owners Clay and Sandi Winters donated the use of the space when foul weather prevented working outside. The group from Rockville spent five days working on wiring, insulation, dry wall, roof shingling, and putting siding on two Habitat houses currently under construction. Evening meals were provided by the Gortner Amish Church, Otterbein United Methodist Church, the Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries, and the Habitat board of directors. The final church groups to assist Habitat this summer were from Wesminster Presbyterian Church, Westchester, Pa., and Christ Reformed Church, Middletown. Wayne Johnson, executive director of Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, noted his appreciation to all of the visiting volunteers, Clay and Sandi Winters, and the local churches that have supplied meals.

Jobless Rates For June Show Modest Increase

According to state figures released this week, Maryland's unemployment rate for June was 3.6 percent, the lowest level on record for the month. Although unemployment actually increased from 3.2 percent the month before, it was the 11th consecutive month of record-low monthly jobless rates. The slight rise from May to June is attributed to an influx of summer job seekers into the labor market, which also caused the national rate to jump by .3 percentage points. Maryland's unemployment rate remained below the national figure of 4.2 percent.

Garrett County's jobless rate increased to 6.4 percent in June from 5.7 percent in May, but was still below the June 1999 rate of 7.2 percent.

"Maryland's record high employment level reflects the combination of sound economic policy, long-term investment in our people and infrastructure, and the use of advanced technologies by business to increase productivity," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "Eleven consecutive months of all-time monthly high employment rates is truly an accomplishment. We will continue to work hard to provide opportunity and a better quality of life for Maryland families."

"The employment rate is a real indicator of the health and vitality of Maryland's economy," said Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend. "Maryland's highly educated and innovative workforce is a great advantage as we successfully move to the new technology-based economy."

Locally, unemployment trends were mixed, with unemployment levels increasing in the Baltimore metro, D.C. suburban, and western Maryland areas because of labor force expansion. On the Eastern Shore, seasonal hiring helped unemployment to drop in six of the nine local jurisdictions within the region.

Unemployment increases are typical in June, the release said, when the flow of students and other job seekers into the labor market exceeds job availability. Even with the expected increase in unemployment, the 3.6 percent unemployment rate is the lowest ever recorded for June. At the same time last year, the unemployment rate was 3.9 percent.

During June, hiring activity was reported throughout the private sector, as the services and retail trade industries led the seasonal expansion. Gains in amusements, hotels, business services, restaurants, and general merchandise stores boosted hiring. Employment in construction also surged ahead in spite of rising interest rates, providing an attractive source of employment for vacationing high school and college students.

Antiques by Ralph and Terry Kovel

The storage unit available to most people in the 1700s was a rectangular boxlike chest with small feet, narrow drawers at the bottom and a lift-top lid. It must have been difficult for many matrons to bend down to find the linens in the bottom drawers. Consequently, a new design appeared. The chest was placed on a stand that had longer legs and a decorative front. A plain chest often had an elaborately carved and gilded stand. The chest-on-stand soon metamorphosed into the chest-on-chest, and the storage unit had two parts with long drawers that were easy to use.

When builders started putting closets into homes in the late 1800s, the need for storage in furniture lessened. The large chest-on-chest lost favor and the simple chest of drawers became fashionable. A mirror was often hung above the chest. The addition or subtraction of carvings, hardware and elaborate feet, and the color of the wood and other details have taken the 20th-century chest of drawers through Arts and Crafts, Art Deco and the Fifties look, plus other periods of design. The idea still remains. The box for storage has gradually changed to more easily used stacks of drawers at a convenient height.

Q: My two Eskimo dolls are wearing boots marked "Ko" and "Klee." They have composition faces, cloth bodies and furry Eskimo clothes. What can you tell me about them?

A: You have some advertising dolls made by Effanbee in the 1920s for the Cliquot Club company. The dolls were named Klee and Ko for the company. Each doll is worth about $100 today.

Tip: Avoid salt water and chlorine when wearing good jewelry. They can erode the metal and dim the shine on the stones. Hair spray and perfume also make many gemstones dull.

OH, THE EMBARRASSMENT — SWEATY TOILETS

Q. We've had a constant problem with water condensing on the outside of the toilet tank. I put a cloth cover around the tank, but it hasn't helped — the liner just gets soaked. What causes a toilet to sweat like this? — J. Karoly, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. Condensation around the outside of a toilet tank can be a real problem. Not only is it unsightly, but water dripping from the tank can damage some types of floors (like vinyl) over time. The constant moisture also shortens the life of those fuzzy cloth tank liners that are supposed to stop the tank from sweating.

Its cause is simple — warm air outside a tank filled with cold water. The effect is especially noticeable after a shower. In winter, when very cold water fills the tank and the central heater blows warm air into the bathroom, condensation may be constant.

There are two ways to stop the sweating, one more expensive than the other. A plumber can warm the water entering the tank by adding a mixing valve at the tank inlet. However, try putting a liner inside the tank first. You can purchase a liner kit at the hardware store, or cut your own liner from sheets of polystyrene or foam rubber. Drain the tank, let it dry, and then glue the liner to the walls and bottom of the tank with silicone cement. Wait 24 hours for the adhesive to dry completely.

HOME TIPS

• I refinish and rebuild old furniture in my garage. When I'm stripping the finish from chairs and tables, I keep the floor clean by placing aluminum pie plates under the furniture legs to catch drippings. I can reuse the stripper that collects in the plates, which saves a little money. — Clark D., Jacksonville, Fla.

• A plastic spatula is one of my essential tools. I use it when removing nails from surfaces that could be damaged by the hammer. Lever the nail out slightly, set the claw hammer in place, and then slide the spatula under the head of the hammer. When you pull the nail out, the spatula keeps the metal hammer from leaving its indentation in the wall or board. — John L., El Paso, Texas

Pet Care
by Peter Edwards

A reader, Eric, says he's 11 years old and doesn't understand why his father and mother won't let him apply to adopt a wolf cub that was found by a neighbor on a camping trip. The cub was taken to the Humane Society which plans to raise it until they can release it into the wild.

Eric says wolves probably make great pets because not only are they "just like dogs," but you also see them on TV all the time. He mentions "Due South," in which Frasier the Mountie travels with a wolf, and he remembers that in "Dr. Quinn: Medicine Woman," the hero had a wolf.

The fact is Eric, that wolves are not dogs. They may share many traits in common with their canine cousins since dogs and wolves descend from a common ancestor. But dogs have been domesticated by human beings for thousands of years, which means they've been genetically bred so that their lupine (wolf) qualities could be adapted to suit human needs.

For example, dogs and wolves are loyal to their packs. That's why dogs will risk their lives to save their human families whom they consider their packs or den mates. Wolves on the hunt will force a herd to form a circle so that the weakest member of the herd is exposed and can be picked off. Dogs do the same when herding sheep, except they've been bred not to cull out a lamb for dinner.

If you're still interested in getting a canine companion, ask your parents if they can take you to the pound where you can adopt one that needs a "pack" — namely your family.

Another reader, Carl, cites a column I did on why a cat would suddenly forget her toilet training and use any corner of the house as a litter box. He says: "You were right to mention how important privacy is to a cat. I put up a small screen (available at most pet supply outlets) around my cat's litter box, and I've never had an accident since."

Pratt Promoted To Captain At Sheriff's Office

Paul J. Pratt has been promoted to the rank of captain with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, Sheriff P.R. "Dick" Sanders announced recently, and will be assuming duties as assistant chief deputy. He will serve as supervisor for the patrol division and perform administrative duties.

A native of Kitzmiller, Pratt graduated from Elk Garden (W.Va.) High School in 1971. He received a degree in criminal justice from the Hagerstown Regional College. Last year he graduated as a member of the 197th session of the FBI National Academy, located in Quantico, Va.

Pratt began his law enforcement career in January 1975 with the Hagerstown City Police Department, then joined the GCSO in March 1979 under Sheriff "June" Evans. Since then he has performed a variety of police duties, including patrol functions and service with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. He was promoted to the position of assistant chief deputy of the sheriff's office in 1983 under Sheriff Frank Finch, a position he held until the term of Sheriff Martin Van Evans concluded in 1994.

Pratt is certified by the Maryland Police Training Commission as a police training instructor with a specialty in defensive tactics. He also serves as the maintenance supervisor for the agency's vehicles, breath test supervisor, and as a certified intoximeter operator. As Garrett County's Crime Watch coordinator, Pratt has been responsible for instituting the citizens' program in communities throughout the county.

Pratt is an active member of the Western Lodge #99 Fraternal Order of Police. He is an avid recreational vehicle enthusiast, and an amateur radio operator (HAM). He and his wife Christina reside in the Swanton area.

Sons Of American Revolution Form Regional Chapter

The Sons of the American Revolution met at the Grantsville Holiday Inn last month to officially inaugurate the SAR Little Meadows Chapter, the first local branch of the nationwide organization. "This has long been a goal of the other 14 SAR chapters in Maryland," commented Dr. Cecil Massie, former state president of the organization.

The meeting was opened by Paul Shockey, chapter president, and the invocation was delivered by Kenneth Legge Hardesty, secretary-treasurer. The Rev. John Grant presented a history of George Washington's encampments at Little Meadows and showed slides of the geographical area. Grant, who played numerous bagpipe tunes from the Revolutionary War period, also played to lead the ceremonial entrance of the Color Guard, composed of Color Guard Captain James McCafferty and Color Guard Barrett L. McKown.

Brief comments were delivered by William Wakefield, president of the Maryland SAR organization, and the benediction was offered by Robert F. Rodeheaver, newest member of the SAR Little Meadows Chapter.

July's inaugural meeting followed an earlier meeting that took place at the Penn Alps Restaurant this past April, during which the prospective chapter was officially organized and the chapter name was selected. A number of SAR members and prospective members from Garrett County were in attendance at that organizational meeting, as well as dual members from eastern Maryland and Pennsylvania. Massie, then serving as the SAR's state president, worked with the group in forming the chapter and has continued to lend his assistance during the process of receiving official status.

The local SAR chapter is open to prospective members from western Maryland and surrounding areas of Pennsylvania and West Virginia who can furnish proof of a blood-line ancestor who served as a member of the Continental forces during the Revolutionary War. Membership in the local chapter of the Children of the American Revolution (CAR) is also available. Interested persons may call Hardesty for further information at 301-334-1221.

LOCAL SAR CHAPTER FORMED — The Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) Little Meadows Chapter was inaugurated recently during a meeting at the Grantsville Holiday Inn. The organization, as well as the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) Youghiogheny Chapter, and the local Children of the American Revolution (CAR) chapter, is open to persons who can demonstrate an ancestry line running back to include a blood relative who served in the War for Independence from Great Britain. Members of the newly formed SAR chapter are shown above, along with some invited guests who helped organize the local group. Seated from the left are past SAR Maryland chapter president Dr. Cecil Massie, Little Meadows chapter president Paul Shockey, Little Meadows secretary-treasurer Kenneth L. Hardesty, and current Maryland chapter president William Wakefield. In Row 2 are James McCafferty, Rev. John Grant, David Shockey Sr., CAR member Daniel Shockey, past national vice president general Wilson King Barnes, Robert F. Rodeheaver, Ray Jackson, and Ed Burns. In the back row are Gregory Shockey, Stephen Shockey, Fred Leadbetter, Harvey Peter Meyers, Granville W. Wehland, and Barrett McKown. Not pictured are fellow SAR Little Meadows chapter members William J. Armstrong, William C. Austin, Col. Carl Bessent, Howard Boltz, Marion Carmack, Christos Christou Jr., Edwin Dotter, Luther Parrack, Ray Potter, David Shockey Jr., Tom Rasmussen, and Jacob Yingling. Interested persons may call Hardesty at 301-334-1221 for further information.

Zion Women Of ELCA Meet

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on August 2.

The study session had been canceled in July, and two sessions of the study — Rest and Renew, were combined. The topics, "Everyday Holiness: Practicing the Presence of God," and "Renewing Gratitude: Practicing God's Jubilee," were led by Leota Baker.

Devotions opened with the hymn "God of All Hopefulness." The lessons encouraged "living the journey" by keeping a sabbath time each day, embracing the Word of God, and committing it to memory, especially portions of scripture that relate to Jesus' sabbath moments that fulfilled his ministry, as well as Mary's answers in the Magnificat.

Devotions closed with the lighting of two candles, one for invocation and one for remembrance, and a prayer used by a woman in the home, in a traditional Jewish Sabbath Eve service. A litany and blessing followed, with each person participating.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

It was noted that the West Virginia-Western Maryland synodical convention of Women of the ELCA was being held August 3-5 at Priest Field Pastoral Center, Kearneysville, W.Va., under the theme "A New Beginning — Let It Begin With Me." Zion was not represented by a delegate, but a love offering was sent for the convention.

Brief highlights of the trip taken to the companion synod, Betoiky Synod in Madagascar, by four persons from the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod are available for those interested in reading them.

Thank-you cards were received from the Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa., and the Alice Resh family.

A package of men's clothes was sent to Lutheran World Relief, and an assortment of canceled postage stamps was sent to the stamp club at the National Lutheran Home, Rockville.

A birthday offering was presented by Shirley Yommer and a gift offering was received from Viola Meyers, a former member. An assortment of cards was received from Judy Stanton and Shirley Yommer for the greeting card ministry.

Tribute to the memory of Mrs. Alice Resh is being made through an offering to Women of the ELCA — Churchwide specific ministries, designated for Leadership Development for Women. A gift offering, given in memory of Verta Durst on her birthday anniversary, is being forwarded to specific ministries also, designated for the crisis program, Children at Risk.

The quarterly offering was sent to the American Bible Society for the Bible-A-Month ministry.

A washcloth shower is being held for the Lutheran Home at Kane, Pa., and donations will be received until September. A package of sweaters will be prepared for residents at the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation in Box Elder, Mont.

The new study beginning in September begins with the first of a nine-session Bible study, "Acts: The Promise is for You."

Democrats To Picnic Aug. 27

The Garrett County Democratic Club will hold its annual picnic on Sunday, Aug. 27, at the Lions pavilion on the Garrett County Fairgrounds. All foods will be prepared by the "connoisseur of chicken," Alfred "Blue" Marucci.

Tickets for the event are $10 and can be obtained by contacting Doris Goldsborough at 301-334-3007, Roselee Finch at 301-334-4076, or Floyd Baker at 301-387-4088 after 5 p.m.

The festivities will begin at 6 p.m. with Congressional candidate Don DeArmon as the special guest, and music by Joann Fletcher.

Persons are urged to come early and browse through the special fundraiser yard sale, which will be from noon and 6 p.m.

Raymond David Piper

August 14, 1995

We thought of you yesterday and days before that too.
We thought of you with love today and that is nothing new.
We think of you in quiet times and often speak your name.
We only have our memories now and pictures in our frames.
Our keepsake is our memory with which we'll never part.
God has you in His loving care and you're always in our hearts.

State Organic Farm Program Has New Leadership Appointed

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virts has announced the appointment of Valerie Frances as agricultural marketing specialist and manager of the state's organic farm certification program, giving Maryland's organic farmers a new ally for planning and marketing their products.

"At a time when organic farming is growing rapidly and the rules governing what is organic are being better defined, Valerie Frances' 15 years of solid experience in food policy and sustainable agriculture will further accelerate Maryland's organic certification program," Dr. Virts said. "Not only does she have first-hand knowledge about managing a small-scale organic farm, but she has strong experience in fresh produce marketing that will greatly benefit our growers."

Frances comes to MDA from Fresh Fields/Whole Foods Market, where she served as a marketing specialist. She also worked with the Bio-Integral Resource Center (BIRC) in northern California managing a small-scale organic research and market farm integrating plant and animal systems. While at BIRC, she developed outreach strategies to growers and integrated pest management advisors to help reduce pesticide reliance for tomatoes, wine grapes and other crops.

"I am excited about the opportunity to work with Maryland's organic farming community to broaden the market for and the availability of organic produce and animal products," Frances said. "Based on my experience with Fresh Fields in the Washington, D.C., area, and my work with California's burgeoning organic industry, I am confident that Maryland is well-positioned to grow a broad-based organic farm industry that serves an ever-increasing consumer demand for sustainably produced food.

Frances is a registered dietitian with a master's degree in public health from the University of California, Berkeley. In addition to her involvement with organic farming, she has been a policy writer on sustainable agriculture for Friends of the Earth.

Currently, 69 Maryland farms are participating in the organic certification program. Average farm size increased from 60 acres in 1998 to 65 acres in 1999.

Glickman Awards $5.7 Million For Rural Business

As part of the continuing effort to ensure that rural Americans benefit in the nation's strong economy, Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman announced that USDA will award $5.7 million in grants, $4 million of which will go to develop new member-owned rural cooperatives. The grants will help 21 nonprofit corporations assist farmers and other rural residents in organizing new cooperatives.

"Cooperatives play a key role in the rural economy," said Glickman. "They enable farmers to compete more successfully in today's difficult markets. Cooperatives can open doors of opportunity and help preserve the family farm in the 21st century."

The funds will be used to finance feasibility studies, business development plans, market analysis studies and product development plans for new cooperatives. Of the total, $1.5 million is earmarked for programs benefiting small, minority producers. For more information on how USDA helps rural cooperatives, those interested may call 202-720-7558, or visit the web site at: www.rurdev.usda.gov/rbs/coops/csdir.htm.

Glickman also announced more than $1.7 million in grants under the Rural Business Enterprise Grant and Rural Business Opportunity Grant programs to organizations in 24 states to help finance the development of small and emerging private businesses in rural areas. The grants will be boosted by an additional $3.2 million in funding from other sources.

"Not all of rural America is sharing equally in the current prosperity," said Under Secretary for Rural Development Jill Long Thompson. "These grants will help stimulate the growth of new business in areas that need it most. And by leveraging our funds with money from other sources, we're getting more benefit for less."

The Rural Development Center at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (UMES) is one of the recipients of this funding. "The primary role of the center is to provide assistance to new and emerging cooperatives," said Jack Walls, USDA Rural Development state director for Delaware and Maryland. "Through previous funding from USDA Rural Development the center has been assisting a crabmeat co-op, a winegrowers co-op, and a seafood cooperative." New cooperatives the center is working with will help small farms sustain viability in the changing agricultural economy through the use of a greenhouse growers network to enhance farm profitability. The Rural Development Center at UMES plays a major role in enhancing the state's economic strength and growth in rural counties.

USDA Announces Dates, Details For Pork Check Off

Thomas Shockley, state executive director for the USDA's Farm Service Agency, has announced that the USDA will hold a referendum for pork producers to vote on the continuation of the Pork Promotion Check Off Program. Under the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act of 1985, a referendum was held in 1988 where voters approved the Pork Check Off Program. Hog producers will now have the opportunity to vote on whether to continue or eliminate the current 0.45% assessment on the market value of pigs or hogs. These funds are used for pork promotion, research, and consumer information.

Producers may vote in person from Sept. 19 to 21, 2000, at their local Farm Service Agency (FSA) office. Absentee ballots will be available at the FSA offices from August 1 to 18, and must be returned to the FSA office between Aug. 18 and Sept. 21. Absentee ballots will not be accepted if postmarked after Sept. 21.

The public is invited to observe the counting of the ballots at county FSA offices on Nov. 29.

Eligible voters are producers who have owned and sold one or more pigs or hogs between Aug. 18, 1999, and Aug. 17, 2000. Producers are to vote in the county offices where the producers' records are kept or in the county where the producer owns hogs or pigs.

For more information on the Pork Producers Referendum, those interested are ask to contact their local FSA office.

State Cautions Horse Owners

Maryland horse owners are being urged by the Maryland Department of Agriculture to have their horses given immediate vaccinations against eastern equine encephalitis.

The viral disease, which is spread by mosquitoes from birds to horses and people, has been diagnosed or suspected in at least eight unvaccinated horses in southeastern Virginia.

The Virginia Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services laboratories has confirmed the diagnosis in three horses from the southeastern corner of mainland Virginia. Maryland officials believe that horses on the Eastern Shore and in Southern Maryland are most susceptible to the disease because mosquitoes are abundant in these low-lying regions.

Dr. Roger Olson, state veterinarian, urges horse owners in all parts of the state to contact their veterinarian about vaccinating their horses. Ostriches, emus and rheas are even more susceptible to the disease, Olson said.

Renovation of Strawberries

June-bearing strawberry beds can be renovated and maintained for several years. Renovation thins the beds and invigorates the remaining plants. Plant thinning is essential, because beds that retain too many plants yield small berries that are difficult to find under the dense foliage.

The renovation process should begin immediately after the harvest is completed. This gives the plants time to develop the canopy, which in the fall will determine the number and quality of flower buds that will produce fruit the following spring. To renovate, remove weeds, narrow the rows to 6 to 12 inches, and thin the plants so that there is a plant about every 3 to 4 inches. Try to select strong runner (daughter) plants, and remove mother plants when they are 3 to 4 years old, replacing them with strong runner plants. Clip or mow the leaves off and fertilize the plants with about 5 pounds of 10-10-10 per 100 feet of row. Irrigate if the weather is exceptionally dry. Renovation is not commended for day-neutral strawberries. These plants will need to be replaced every third year.

With proper renovation and pest control each year, a strawberry planting should produce abundant large berries for at least 5 years.

Trouble in the Tomato Patch

My tomato plants were doing pretty well this year. They had a touch of Septoria Leaf Spot (caused by a fungus), but this past Monday the disease called Late Blight struck. I really was not surprised because the wet, warm weather provided the ideal environment for the blight fungus. Since I only have six tomato plants, I did not use a preventive fungicide. When Late Blight strikes you may as well figure on visiting the Mt. Fresh Market on Wednesdays and Saturdays to buy your tomatoes. I hope they had a prevention program in place.

WOMEN'S FASHIONS — The Lush Life Lives

This fall, the fashion curve and the economic curve go hand-in-hand and dollar-for-dollar with a blitz of Ritz looks everywhere one turns.

For the '00s, the socialite look is in, albeit in a millennium mood. The Duchess of Windsor would be right at home in suits that are softly shaped with jackets that end at the hipbone. Matching pairs — jackets and skirts, or jackets and pants — replace the mixed doubles look of recent seasons. Even the matching three-piece ensemble in the signature Chanel tweed is back. And the divas from Dynasty would welcome the influx of diamonds, pearls, leathers, furs, and ostrich feathers. This is no fashion season for shrinking violets, reports the Soap and Detergent Association.

Leather and crocodile (real and mock crock) are big, in both garments and accessories, in real and faux interpretations. The leather comes in more colors than nature ever dreamed. Red leather has a high fashion profile, as do hand-painted leathers.

Humble fabrics like corduroy, once the cloth of kings, are getting the royal treatment. Some are calling it the new denim. Interpretations, including feather trims and bias cuts with chiffon overlays, win kudos for inventiveness.

Fur is everywhere, in outwear, daywear, and eveningwear. Shearling abounds in everything, including coats, dresses, jackets, boots, and gloves. The fur neck warmer, sometimes tied with a grosgrain ribbon, was a favored accompaniment on many fashion runways. The silver standard has been abandoned in favor of a gold rush. Gold jewelry, gold leather, gold sequins, gold satin boots, and gold metallic laces with matching stockings are fashion highlights.

Legs are luxe, too. Black opaque pantyhose are joined by colored opaque and ombré opaques. Sheer black hose look snappy with red shoes; and black lace stockings match black lace slip dresses.

The polished, well-groomed look extends to hair and makeup, with the trendier set smudging eyeliner and shadow above and below the lids. Hair is long and lifted for volume or pulled back into a low ponytail or a side-swept version.

Dress Casual Is Tops For Men

The growth of office casual and a telecommuting work force, combined with the emergence of techno fabrics in dressy casual knits and wovens, are the driving forces of change in the menswear market.

The Soap and Detergent Association reports that the men's fashion forecast for fall 2000 calls for a boom in knit tops. The move is away from heavy thermals and thick cotton fleeces to a variety of knits that can be layered. Favored ways to do this include crew neck jerseys under polyester fleece tops, fine-gauge knit shirts that work with or without a jacket, and microfiber sport shirts over knit T's. Flannel plaids will continue, but they will be in smaller scales and brighter colors. The cargo pant is the favored bottom for all of these tops.

Several fashion experts are also predicting the return of the sweater, particularly in ski looks and placed stripes, often with cargo shirt embellishments.

LOCAL SCOUTS EARN AWARDS — Boy Scout Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland/MLP Lions Club, spent a wet but very successful week recently at Camp Potomac in Oldtown, where the 16 Scouts present worked toward merit badges and rank advancements. The group earned a total of 60 merit badges while at the camp, and four Scouts completed the first year camper program. Members of Troop 22 are shown above after the camp's "indoor" campfire program: from the left in the front row are Nathan Thomas, Drew Taylor, Ryan Gosnell, Brent Carnell, Alex Taylor, Billy Woodward, Brian Georg, and Brendan Stephens. In the second row are Dennis Garlitz, Neil Cardiff, Andy Murray, Jarred Feather, Lee George, Wesley Thomas, Curt Taylor, and Allen Taylor. In the back row are Bill Thomas and Ken Feather.

Theatre Fest To Conclude With Trio Of Plays

The Top of Tucker 2000 Theatre Festival in Thomas, W.Va., will conclude its summer season this weekend, August 10-12, with all three of its shows in repertory.

Thursday evening's performance will be Tennesee Williams' A Streetcar Named Desire, which has become an American classic since its appearance on Broadway in the late 1940s.

The Mystery of Irma Vep will be performed on Friday evening. This spoof on "who-dun-its" has been playing off-Broadway for years, and since only two actors play all of the roles, it is often referred to as a "quick change show."

A French classic by Moliere, The School for Husbands, will round out the weekend and the season. Some patrons have questioned if an American writer has rearranged Moliere's The School for Wives to speak to modern audiences. "The answer to the question is that he wrote The School for Husbands before he wrote The School for Wives. It is ironic that Moliere wrote this comedy in France three centuries ago so politically correct," stated a festival spokesperson.

All performances are at 8 p.m. on Front Street in Thomas. Persons may telephone 304-463-4490 for more information.

DNR Announces Photo Contest

The Maryland Greenways Commission and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), in conjunction with the Eastman Kodak Company, invite citizens to participate in their 2000 Photo Contest, "Celebrating Maryland Greenways and Parks."

"On behalf of Governor Glendening and Lt. Governor Townsend, I encourage our state's talented photographers — both amateur and professional — to submit their works," said DNR Secretary Sarah Taylor-Rogers. "Maryland's natural resources have long been a vital part of our state's history, economy, and quality of life, and many of the country's most beloved artists have received their inspiration from our breathtaking landscapes. I am thrilled by the potential of this year's contest to celebrate our proud heritage and showcase Maryland's unique beauty."

Photographs must be taken within Maryland, and subject matter can include greenways, parks, trails, or natural areas; wildlife; people engaged in outdoor recreation (on land or water); Chesapeake Bay, tributaries, or wetlands; seasonal landscapes and settings; and aerial views. Prints must be 5x7 inches or larger, unmounted, and should not have any information on the front. The $10 entry fee allows a maximum of three entries per person. Judges will include professional photographers and DNR staff.

The deadline for submitting artwork is December 31, 2000. Employees of DNR and their families are not eligible to enter.

Prizes will be awarded for first, second, and third places; $1,000 will go to the first place recipient, $250 for second place, and a one-year free access pass to Maryland's state parks (a $50 value) to the third place recipient. Winners will be contacted by mail, and an official announcement will be made on or before March 15, 2001. The results will also be displayed on the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us.

For complete contest rules and information, persons may contact Denise Tritaik at 410-260-8777, toll free in Maryland at 877-620-8DNR, x8777, or via e-mail at dtritaik@dnr.state.md.us. Entries should be mailed to Maryland Greenways Commission, 580 Taylor Avenue, E-2, Annapolis, MD 21401, ATTN: Denise Tritaik.

Song By Local Writer On Album

A song written by Grantsville resident Ethel Kinzey is among the selections featured on an album recently released by HillTop Records in California, titled In The Beginning. "Garden of Heaven" is the name of the song for which she wrote the lyrics.

Kinzey, who does not play an instrument, reported that she only sings to herself. But she decided to give song writing a try. "It was the first song I ever wrote. I just decided to do it on the spur of the moment," she explained.

Zion Will Host Mission Festival

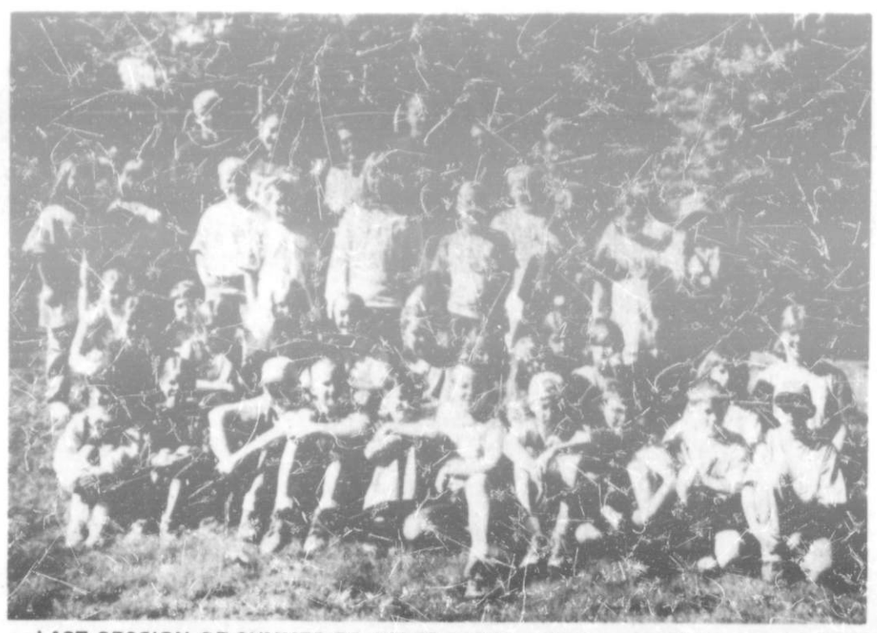
DR. DAVID ADAMS

Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, will hold a special mission festival service this Sunday, Aug. 13, at 10:30 a.m. The guest speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. Dr. David L. Adams of Washington, D.C.

Dr. Adams has recently served as the executive director of the Office of Government Information for the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod in Washington, D.C. Beginning this fall, he will be a professor of Old Testament studies at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis. A special focus of Dr. Adams' work has been the issue of religious liberty. He has traveled to the African nation of Sudan to assess the persecution currently being suffered by Christians there.

Adams is a graduate of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis. He received his doctorate from Cambridge University, England.

The public is invited to the service, as well as to a dinner which will follow.



LAST SESSION OF SUMMER TO START - Hickory Environmental Center, Accident, hosts student campers throughout the summer, who explore the natural sciences along wooded trails and in class settings. The final session of the summer season 2000 will begin next week as students from Dennett Road, Yough Glades, Kitzmiller, and Bloomington take up residence August 14-18. In the photo above are students from Grantsville and Route 40 elementary schools who spent a week at Hickory in June.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

BITTINGER PICNIC

The annual Bittinger picnic will be held at the Bittinger fire hall on Saturday, Aug. 19, beginning at 11 a.m. The chicken barbecue dinners will be served in the afternoon, along with other foods, desserts, and beverages. Everyone is invited to the picnic or to just come for the barbecue dinner.

This Sunday morning I feel kind of "under the weather, so I will not be able to go to church, where our new pastor, Pat Pittsnogle, will be conducting her first worship service at the Bittinger Lutheran Parish churches.

We welcome Pastor Pittsnogle, and she will be a fine asset to the community. Her son, who is a student at W.Va. University, was present.

The punishment I received by staying at home was two shivering and cowardly dogs under my feet. I cannot go anywhere, as I am afraid I will trip over them.

On Saturday it was truly summer weather with a clear blue sky, a few wispy clouds, and a pleasant breeze stirring. However, this Sunday morning we got a very strong thunderstorm. A couple times it sounded like it must have hit within a hundred yards. Then we got several inches of rain within a short period of time.

Early morning it felt like fall was here. Lloyd even saw the first V-flight of geese go over. Since then I have taken off my sweater and an hour later have to put it on again. It goes back and forth between cool to muggy hot and then back again. My girls reported that, after they got home from church, several low parts of the road between the church and Rt. 495 were flooded. It wasn't too bad, but they were excited about it.

Once again on Sunday afternoon Claire loaded her bedroll, suitcase, plus her clarinet, and headed off to the Northern High School Band Camp at Camp Hickory. I heard it will be a whole lot of marching drill initiating the freshmen crop of musicians. Attending from here besides Claire are Robbie Glotfelty and Holly Hare, plus Claire's best pal, Angie Kamp. At least this week the phone will not be tied up. Whatever they can talk about, I don't know.

Meredith said that the Serious Fun Day Camp she attended at the Bittinger fire hall last week lived up to its name. Conducted by Jessie Cooper, the campers were kept busy with crafts, games, competitions, good food, and health activities, like first aid, nutrition, etc., and bike safety. It was sponsored by the Health Dept., and Mere enjoyed bonding with Grace Herpel.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and children returned home Sunday afternoon after spending a week at Chincoteague. They saw a few mares with foals that were too small to swim back to Assateague when the pony swim and auction were held a few weeks earlier. They also enjoyed the good beach weather and did some fishing. They all have nice tans.

Kevin Bass and children also returned home Sunday after a weeklong visit with his parents, Bill and Barbara Bass, from Anderson, S.C. Due to work conflict, Carol stayed home, taking care of their pets, and even did some duty with the 4-H market hogs. The hogs are now gaining the last few pounds before their big week at the Garrett County Fair.

I know that Blakely, Darryl, and Elliot Glotfelty, and Caitlin and Meredith Sussman will be busy working on the Bittinger 4-H booth. They will have to do without Robbie and Claire. Of course, they will have the assistance of Jodi Brenneman, Vicki Teets, and Marci Glotfelty. Claire has already been busy this week writing her letter to send to prospective bidders on her hog. So this week, Caitlin and Mere will have to get busy on their letters, too.

Ellen Housley and Margaret Wagner attended the memorial service for James Hahn on Saturday in Westminster.

Mary Housley and Christopher and Matthew Neitze were weekend guests of Sam and Ellen Housley.

Michelle Geis returned from a week with the Layman and Geis families.

Ferne Beachy and Linda Buckel attended the Synodical Women's Organization of the Evangelical Lutheran Church at the Priestfield Pastorial Center at Kearneysville, W.Va., August 3-5. Thirty women from the organization were present.

Cindy, Sam, and Aaron Stanton, and Harriett and Ken Buckel attended the wedding and reception for Steve Savage and Laura Friend on Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was at the United Methodist Church in McHenry, and the reception was held at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall in Oakland.

Hospice Sets Fair Jail & Bail Benefit

Hospice of Garrett County will sponsor its annual "Jail & Bail" fundraiser at the Garrett County Fair beginning this Monday, Aug. 14. Twenty-four locally well-known "prisoners" have volunteered to be "jailed" from 6 to 9 p.m. throughout the Fair week and will be accepting donations for Hospice to ensure their releases. "We greatly appreciate your donations of bail money to help provide our services and purchase clinical supplies and medications for our patients," said Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County.

This year's prisoners are: George "Lucky" Edwards of the Maryland House of Delegates; Lynn "Sour Dough" Patton, owner of Accident's Old Flour Shoppe Bakery; John "Dog Face" Braskey of the Department of Natural Resources' Adventure Sports; Ed "Rooster" King of Long & Foster Realty; Cathy "Outlaw O'Neil" O'Neil, owner of Perfection Plus; and Jennifer "Penitentiary Paugh" Paugh, Tina "Criminal Cosner" Cosner, and Chrissy "Evil Ervin" Ervin, all employees at Perfection Plus.

Other prisoners slated to serve time behind bars will be Dr. Steve "Backhand" Herman, president of Garrett Community College; Beatrice "Bebe Baby" Opel, former owner of the Long Stretch Market; Colleen "Dimples" Mouyard of Frank Arnold Contractors; Edna "The Mop" Sanders, owner of Edna's Cleaning Service; Sheila "Baby Doll 1" O'Neil, owner of the Loch Lynn Restaurant; and Tammy "Killer Kenner" Kenner, Bridgette "Baby Doll 2" Imhoff, and Connie "Counterfeit Connie" Simmons, all employees of the Loch Lynn Restaurant.

Other jailbirds will be Ron "Maytag" Friend of the Maryland State Highway Administration; Rita "Smiley" Watson, chief deputy of Garrett County's Register of Wills; Mark "The Pinched Preacher" Hickman of Bethel United Methodist Church; Jimmy "The Flirt" Stewart, retired AT&T employee; Ann "Annie Oakley" Collins of TDEC; Dave "the professor" Beard, retired teacher; Freda "Ssenippah" Quintero, the Clown; and Everett "Tractor Doc" DeBerry of FA Tractor and Implement Parts.

Readers of The Republican can get a closer look at these prisoners by locating their "mug shots" in the Hospice Jail & Bail advertisement in today's paper. Donations for their release will help Hospice expand services and continue to serve the terminally ill patients and their families in Garrett County. Hospice provides care for terminally ill patients, such as home health care, medications, medical equipment, medical supplies, and hospital and nursing home care.

Deputies for the week will be Linda Patton, Sheryl MacLane, Betty Trickett, Nancy Green, Angie Glotfelty, Kelley Rinker, Monaca Hedrick, Scott Hedrick, Denise Gerard, Charee Reckner, and Linda Arata.

Six area students have been awarded scholarships by the Garrett Community College Foundation to continue their education at GCC this fall, according to Bretta Reinhard, advancement officer.

Cynthia Kinsinger, daughter of Marvin and Shirley Kinsinger of Grantsville, and a 1994 graduate of Mountain View Christian School, has received the Civic Club of Oakland Helen Baumgartner Memorial Scholarship. In high school she was secretary of her class, editor of the yearbook, and a participant in the Talent Day and Track Day events. In addition to working on the farm, Kinsinger enjoys swimming, gardening, showing dairy cattle, and just "plain country living."

Elizabeth McDonald, daughter of Thomas and Elaine McDonald of Swanton, had received the Bill Crawford Memorial Scholarship and has applied to enter GCC as an ECAP student to study journalism and liberal arts. At Southern High School she has been a member of the varsity cross country team, varsity track team, concert band, and National Honor Society. McDonald will enroll in GCC's Honors Program and plans to become a television/radio journalist. Her interests include running, playing oboe, waterskiing, wakeboarding, and snowboarding.

Jackie Resh, daughter of Randy and Carol Resh of Grantsville and a 2000 graduate of Northern High School, has received the Ann Dilgard Scholarship. She will enter the elementary education program and plans to become a kindergarten teacher when she completes her bachelor's degree, and eventually obtain a master's degree. Her father and two uncles are Maryland State Police troopers.

Jeremy Rice, son of Jeff and Patty Rice of Frostburg and a 2000 graduate of Northern High School, has received the Deep Creek Lake Lions Stewart Jackson Memorial Scholarship. In high school he played varsity basketball and baseball, was a teacher's assistant, and a member of the Letterman's Club, chorus, and yearbook staffs. Rice will enter the General Studies program at GCC and said he hopes to have a career that involves sports and enables him to help others. In addition to playing basketball and baseball, he enjoys playing golf. He is a member of St. John's United Church of Christ in Grantsville, where he serves as a trustee on Consistory, sound systems technician, and grounds maintenance helper.

Debra Stemple, wife of Thomas Stemple of Accident and mother of Jessica Stemple, has received the Civic Club of Oakland Patience W. Grant Memorial Scholarship and the Oakland Rotary Scholarship. At NHS she was a member of the Color Guard and participated in chorus productions. She has enrolled in the Computer Applications for Business program, and said she plans to obtain a good job in a medical office or in another business environment. Her interests include all varieties of crafts, painting, quilting, sewing, and floral arranging. Stemple is a member of the Accident Volunteer Fire Department, a former member of the Northern Rescue Squad, and a participant in Project Linus and the Accident Christmas Tree Lighting project.

James "Mikey" Virts, son of James and Connie Virts of Oakland and a 1999 graduate of SHS, has received the Oakland Rotary Scholarship, the Aza ,Stanton Art Scholarship, and the Lucile H. Notice of the Repeal of the Municipal Charter of the Town of Kitzmiller and the Adoption of a New Charter

Charter Amendment Number 2000, of the Council of Kitzmiller adopted by unanimous vote on July 24, 2000, pursuant to Article XI-E of the Constitution of the State of Maryland and Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), title "Corporations-Municipal," repeals the Charter of the Town of Kitzmiller as it now exists, as found in Volume 4 of Municipal Charters in Maryland, 1990 edition, and establishes a new Charter for the municipal corporation known as the Town of Kitzmiller consisting of twelve (12) new Articles, to stand in place of the Charter so repealed.

The new Charter establishes the general corporate powers and the boundaries of the Town of Kitzmiller. It vests the legislative powers of the Town in a Council consisting of a Mayor and four (4) Council members who shall hold office for terms of two (2) years or until succeeding Mayor and Council shall take office. Council members shall have resided in the Town for at least one year immediately preceding their election and shall maintain a permanent residence within the Town. The Charter makes provision for compensation for Council members, for meetings of the Council, and for procedures for meetings.

The Charter has provisions for the adoption of ordinances which may be passed, amended, rejected, or deferred at any Council meeting held not less than six (6) days or more than sixty (60) days after introduction. The Charter specifies referendum procedures by which actions of the Town Council may be subject to a vote of the citizens.

The Charter provides for the selection process, compensation, qualifications, and powers and duties of the Mayor. The Charter describes the general and specific powers of the Mayor and the Council and enumerates those powers. The Charter specifies the enforcement powers of the Council to enforce the ordinances of the Town and specifies penalties for violation of those ordinances.

The Charter has provision for the registration of voters, the nomination and the election of officials of the Town and establishes a Board of Supervisors of Elections. The Charter specifies the procedures for elections and the appeal procedures of the actions of the Board of Supervisors of Elections. The Charter specifies procedures for the conduct of primary elections, regular and special elections and for the counting of the vote. Penalties for noncompliance with these regulations are specified. The Charter specifies procedures for filling vacancies in the office of Mayor and Council. The Charter has provision for the transition of current election schedule to the terms specified in this Charter.

The Charter provides for the fiscal management of the Town with requirements for budget production and adoption. The Charter specifies requirements for appropriations, transfer of funds, appropriation lapses, and tax levies. The Charter forbids over-expenditures and specifies procedures for issuing checks. Further, the Charter provides for tax anticipation borrowing by the sale of municipal bonds or notes and has specific procedures for the payment of Town indebtedness. The Charter specifies the Town's purchasing and contract authority.

The Charter provides for a Clerk-Treasurer to be appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the Council and specifies the duties of the Clerk-Treasurer. The Charter provides for a Town Attorney to be appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the Council and specifies the powers and duties of the Town Attorney. The Town shall have the power to employ additional legal consultants as it deems necessary. The Charter provides for a merit system for unclassified and classified employees. Garrett Adopt-A-Road Program Is Accepted

Organizations or individuals now have the opportunity to help "beautify" the roadways of Garrett County, as the county commissioners this week adopted a program for litter clean-up. The adopt-a-road program was developed by Linda Gnegy, risk manager for the county and a staff member of the general services department.

According to the officials, the purpose of the program is "to enhance the natural beauty of Garrett County by reducing litter along county roadways. By adopting a road, an individual or volunteer organization can help build a positive image for Garrett County."

The commissioners said they had received positive feedback from the public about starting such a program. Commissioner Ernest Gregg said there has been "a fair amount of enthusiasm" for the program, and Chairman Wendell Beitzel said the input has been "mostly favorable" to the idea. Commissioner Fred Holliday said he initiated the proposal because of how well it works in Grantsville on various roadways.

In order to prepare for the program, officials noted that several months will be needed to get materials and complete needed paperwork. Persons may sign up now for the program, but the first actual clean-up will most likely not occur until April 2001. Gnegy said she is planning for it to be in conjunction with Earth Day.

Program participation is open to any group, organization, family or individual within Garrett County. Businesses may also sponsor a clean-up group. Each individual/organization is asked to adopt a 1- to 3-mile section of roadway for

YOU JUST CAN'T RESIST LAUGHING when you put yourself on a stomach-fluttering ride like this one. There are many such rides available for boarding at the 44th annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair, under way this week at the county fairgrounds in McHenry. The gatekeepers have been kept busy since Sunday, with thousands of residents and tourists taking the opportunity to ride rides, visit farm animals, play games, and enjoy 4-H stage shows. The festivities will continue through Saturday with a parade tonight, senior citizens' day on Friday, and the demolition derby and livestock sales on Saturday, among many other activities. All of the events are of course in conjunction with the ongoing devouring of Rotary fries, civic club pizza, band sandwiches, and piles of cotton candy and candied apples.

Chamber Players To Present Two GLAF Concerts

The Deep Creek Chamber Players will be in Garrett County this weekend, presenting two concerts featuring five world-renowned musicians. A Garrett Lakes Arts Festival offering, the chamber concerts will take place Friday and Saturday, August 18 and 19, in the Garrett Community College auditorium, beginning at 8 p.m. each evening.

Erick Friedman, violin virtuoso (featured in last week's issue of The Republican) has assembled four accomplished musicians to accompany him on the GCC stage. Appearing this weekend with Friedman will be Stephen Kates, cellist; Jesse Levine, violist; Ian Hobson, pianist; and Lu Sun, violinist. The five artists will collaborate to present music by a variety of composers.

On Friday night, the concert will include Terzetto in C Major by Antonin Dvorak, Six Etudes by Frederic Chopin, and "Arabesques on the Blue Danube" by J. Strauss-Eyler. A work by Niccolo Paganini and Fritz Kreisler will be played, as well as pieces by Carl Goldmark, Pablo de Sarasate, and Johannes

Garrett County United Way Sets $81,000 Goal For First Drive

The United Way of Garrett County will hold its first fund drive this fall, and the board has set a goal of $81,000 to be raised to support nine local community services organizations. During the annual appeal, donors will have the opportunity to select the agencies or issues they wish to support with their gifts.

A Community Response committee, chaired by Tom Myers, reviewed programs designed by the nine agencies to address local needs. The United Way of Garrett County will fund specific projects. When agencies again request funding in the spring of 2001, they will be required to report their accomplishments from programs financed by the United Way of Garrett County.

Agencies participating with the United Way of Garrett County include Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boy Scouts Potomac Council, the Dove Center, Garrett County Lighthouse, Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Mountain Glade Adult Day Care Services, the Salvation Army, Western Maryland Catholic Charities, and the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross.

In addition, the Community Response Committee accepted new applications from Christian Crossing, Thrift Ship, Garrett County Community Action Committee, Garrett County Literacy Council, Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Garrett County Habitat for Humanity, and Hospice of Garrett County. Donors may also designate their gifts to these agencies, or allow the Community Response Committee to divide their contributions among the affiliated agencies.

Serving with Myers on the United Way of Garrett County Community Response Committee were Linda Beatty, Elena Carr, Linda Fike, Jeannette Fitzwater, Ernest Gregg, Julie Kelley, Jeff McCauley, Betsy Marple, Linda Moe, Monty Pagenhardt, Ken Perrin, Paul Shogren, Bob Stephens, Lisa Thayer Welch, Fran Wishnick, Ken Witte, and Eric Whytsell.

Information about the United Way of Garrett County may be obtained by telephoning 301-359-8897 or by writing to United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 384, Oakland, MD 21550. Inquiries may be e-mailed to cuw@allconet.org.

Three Women Charged After Fair Fracas

Three women were arrested late last night after they were involved in an altercation with Garrett County sheriff's deputies that took place as the county fair was closing. A variety of charges were filed as a result of the incident, including charges of assault upon a police officer lodged against two of the women.

DFC Chris Helbig reported that at 11 p.m., as he was stationed at the sheriff's office booth on the fairgrounds, he was approached by Amber Dawn Crites, 18, Keyser, W.Va., who inquired about the whereabouts of a pack of cigarettes that had been confiscated by a Maryland State Police trooper earlier in the evening. Helbig told the woman that the ciga-

Nine Injured In Accident In McHenry

An accident on Route 219 in McHenry Sunday afternoon injured nine people, who were transported to the hospital for treatment.

According to a report filed by the Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, the incident occurred around 3:15 p.m. when a 1997 Ford Ranger, operated by Thomas A. Fike, 66, Kitzmiller, stopped in traffic lane while waiting to turn left onto Fort Drive.

Trp. G. Becker reported that a 1995 Pontiac Grand Am, driven by William V. Oualtiere, 43, Wintersville, Ohio, failed to stop behind the Fike vehicle, and struck it in the rear with its front end. The impact allegedly caused the Fike vehicle to travel across the southbound lane of 219 and strike a 1991 Ford Tempo.

The Ford Tempo was driven by Zengfeng Wang, 36, Baltimore.

Northern Rescue Squad, Southern Rescue Squad, and Deep Creek VFC responded to the scene of the accident. Oualtiere and one passenger in his vehicle, Fike and one passenger in his vehicle, and Wang and four passengers in his vehicle were taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital. Of those treated, eight were released and one, Guanglum You, 68, was admitted for treatment. He has since been discharged.

Vehicle Overturns

Four people were injured when a vehicle overturned on I-68 last Thursday evening. The operator of the vehicle, a juvenile, was westbound on the interstate near the 22-mile marker when he reportedly ran off the side of the road, over steered in an attempt to return to the roadway, crossed the median, traveled into the eastbound lane, and overturned. The driver and four passengers were taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland for treatment.

Possessing of CDS

The following arrests were made for possession of marijuana: Thomas E. Parker Jr., 25, Friendsville, Aug. 11; James H. Schmidt, 20, Swanton, Aug. 11; Brian M. Parker, 22, Oakland, Aug. 11; Heather C. Duckworth, 21, Friendsville, Aug. 11; Michelle McRobie, 20, Oakland, Aug. 11; Jessica F. Reichtler, 18, Deer Park, Aug. 11; and Ronald G. Brooks Jr., 27, Alexandria, Va., Aug. 9.

Melissa Dawn Upole Crowned '00 Garrett County Farm Queen

MELISSA DAWN UPOLE was named Garrett County Farm Queen on Sunday, the opening day of the 2000 Garrett County Fair. The new farm queen is shown above being crowned by 1999 Farm Queen Susan Mayfield. Melissa is the daughter of Donald and Shelly Upole of Oakland, and will represent Farm Bureau and agriculture throughout fair week and the coming year, including participation in the Maryland State Fair Farm Queen Contest later this month in Timonium.

Melissa Dawn Upole, the 19-year-old daughter of Donald and Shelly Upole of Oakland, was crowned the 2000 Garrett County Farm Queen Sunday night at the Garrett County Fair. The first runner-up was Diana Dawn Mayfield, the 18-year-old daughter of Butch and Debbie Mayfield of Oakland.

The contest was conducted on the 4-H stage, with 1998 Garrett County Farm Queen Jennifer Barnard introducing the five contestants. In addition to the new farm queen and first runner-up, Crystal Colmer, Nolla Sue Broadwater and Allison Hamilton entered the contest, making it, once again, the largest county contest in the state.

The local contest is sponsored by the Garrett County Farm Bureau Women's Committee, with co-chairmen Becky DeBerry-Tasker and Debbie Barnard in charge. The new farm queen gets a $500 scholarship from Farm Bureau and numerous gifts donated by local merchants and private citizens.

"All the girls did very well. There was only a four-point difference between them all," Barnard said.

A large crowd attended the contest this year. Fair board publicity chairperson Doris Cooper said it was one of the largest Sunday night crowds ever seen at the fair.

Garrett County Farm Bureau vice president Paul Miller gave welcoming remarks from the organization, and 1999 Garrett County Farm Queen Susan Mayfield gave her fairwell speech.

The judges for this year's contest were F.J. Grady from Farm Credit; Arlene Schultz, a retired home economics teacher from Salisbury, Pa.; and Jill Hauser, nutrient management specialist with the Garrett County Extenson Service.

Each contestant was asked: "Recently a book was written titled Everything I Needed To Know I Learned From Farming. How would you write the first chapter of that book?" Ms. Upole's "fish bowl" question was: "Hollywood has a way of glamourizing farm life. If you were to write a movie script, how would you depict farm life?"

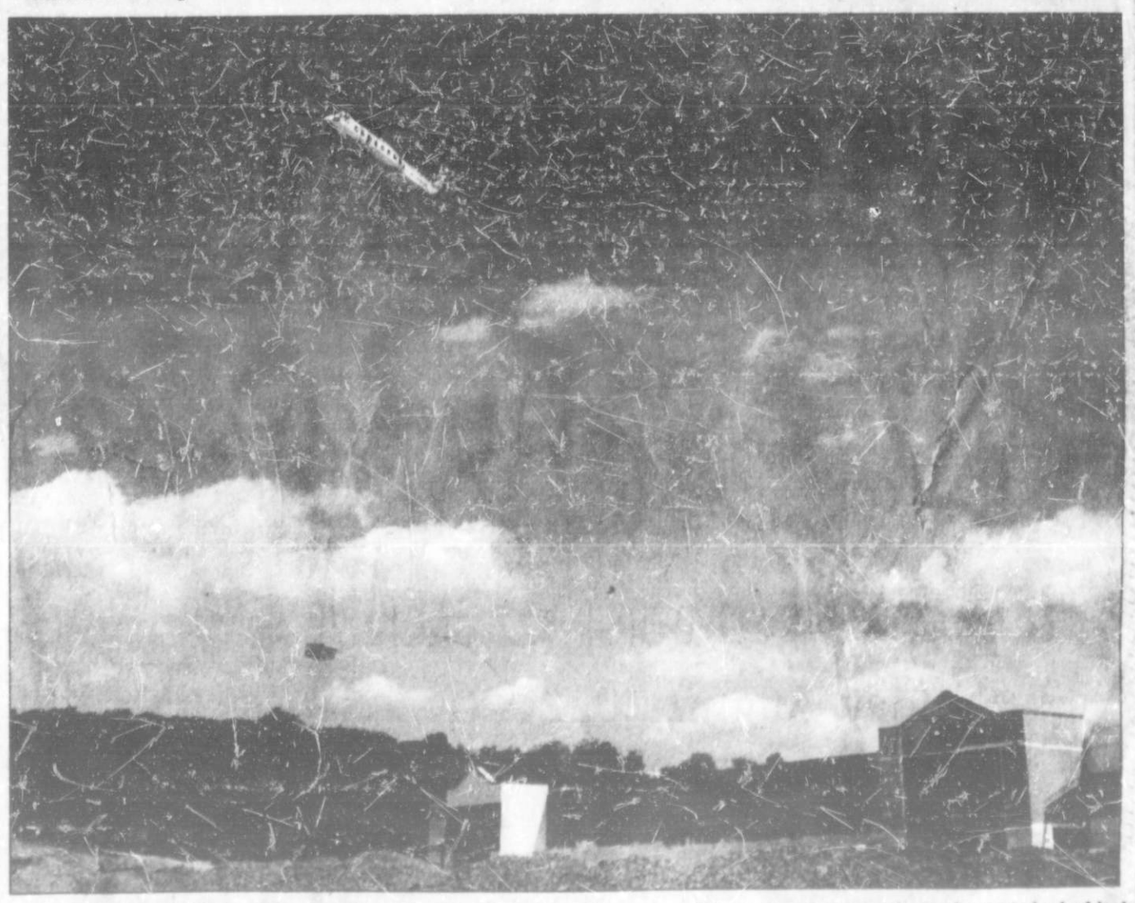
THE DEEP CREEK CHAMBER PLAYERS will return to Garrett County this weekend, as the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival presents concerts on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 18 and 19, in the Garrett Community College theatre, with both beginning at 8 p.m. Erick Friedman, celebrated violinist, is the music director of the event. He has invited four musicians to join him for the concerts. Pictured above, left to right, are Stephen Kates, cellist; Jesse Levine, violist; and Ian Hobson, pianist. A photo was not available for Lu Sun, violinist. The five accomplished musicians will present pieces by Dvorak, Chopin, Debussy, and Brahms, among others. See story. Following the concert on Saturday night, GLAF will host a reception for Friedman and Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, executive director of the classical music series, to recognize both individuals for their work over the past 14 years in presenting the series. The public is invited to attend the reception, which will be held in the GCC art gallery and lobby.

Pig's Ear Bridge Being Replaced

The Garrett County Roads Department announced late last week that the Pig's Ear Bridge sustained major damage as a result of flooding on Sunday, Aug. 6. Because of severe superstructure damage, the bridge is being replaced.

As of this past Monday, the bridge will be closed to through traffic for approximately six to eight weeks. A new bridge will be put in place during that time.

Pig's Ear Bridge is located 2/10 of a mile from Rt. 40 and 7/10 of a mile from the Cove/Pig's Ear roads intersection.



SPECIAL DELIVERY — The Wal-Mart construction site on the northern end of Oakland got a lift from a Philadelphia-based helicopter company yesterday afternoon when a crew from Carson Services arrived to place 29 climate control units on the structure's roof. The heating and air-conditioning units, which had been delivered to the site on Monday, weighed over 2 tons apiece. A great deal of hot air will be needed to heat the warehouse-type structure, which is slated to open for business early next year. For comparison sake, the 154,000 square-foot Supercenter could hold approximately 32 Oakland Town Hall office buildings.

Swanton Man Charged After Monday Wreck

A Swanton man was charged in the wake of a Monday night single-motor vehicle accident in Kitzmiller, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

William Joseph Harvey, 19, was traveling northbound along the town's East Main Street, reportedly at a high rate of speed, at 10:40 p.m. when his 1994 GMC pickup truck skidded off the roadway on the approach to Kitzmiller Road. The truck went over an embankment and struck a tree.

Harvey and his two passengers, Michael Lee Byrd, 20, and Crystal Lynn Tasker, 19, both of Swanton, sustained minor injuries, but all three subjects refused medical treatment. The Elk Garden Ambulance Service and the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department responded to the scene along with sheriff's deputies.

Harvey was charged with driving with a speed greater than reasonable.

A single-vehicle accident at 5:13 p.m. the following day resulted in injury to a driver whose motorcycle left the roadway along Broadford Road near Memorial Drive.

Robert Wayne High, 32, Elk Garden, W.Va., told deputies that the brakes on his 1972 Honda 500 locked up and caused him to lose control. The motorcycle hit an embankment, and he sustained injuries that necessitated transport by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

No charges were filed against High.

Two Charged With Assault In Grantsville

Two Frostburg (Allegany County) men were arrested early Friday morning by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy who had been summoned to investigate a report of a pair of suspects using baseball bats to threaten other individuals.

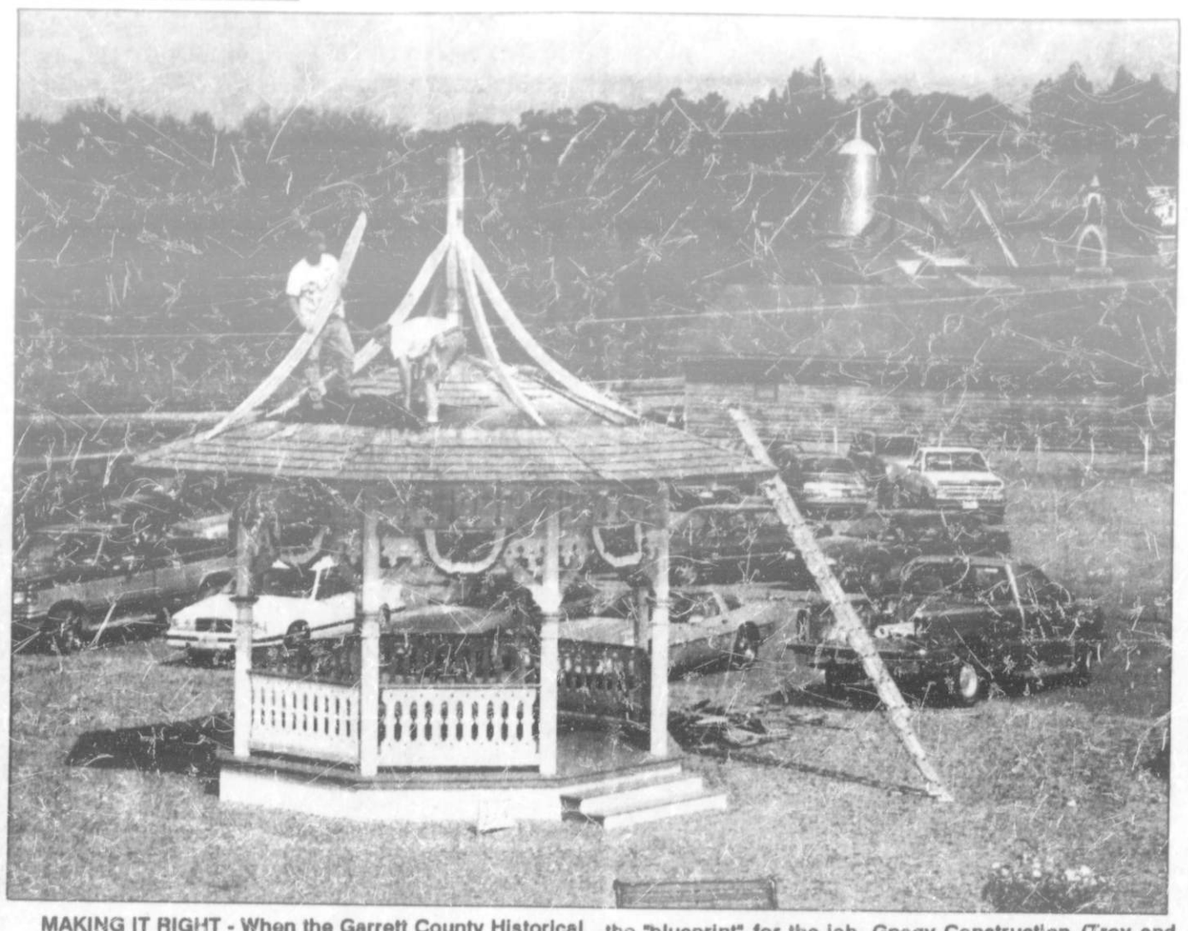
DFC Jeff Green arrived at the parking lot of the Grantsville branch of the First United Bank, located along Main Street, at approximately 3 a.m. to find two subjects in the lot. The men, William Richard Bevan Jr., 27, and Terrance Edward Morgan Jr., 23, both of Frostburg, were immediately arrested for trespassing in the posted lot of the bank, which is a participant in the Grantsville HotSpot Program.

Upon further investigation, Green learned from the suspected victims they had been walking along Main Street when Bevan and Morgan drove up, exited their car with baseball bats in their possession, and threatened them. The victims fled, but a short time later Bevan and Morgan encountered them again, at which point Morgan allegedly took a bicycle from one of the victims. These events were reportedly witnessed by uninvolved bystanders, who corraborated the victims' accounts.

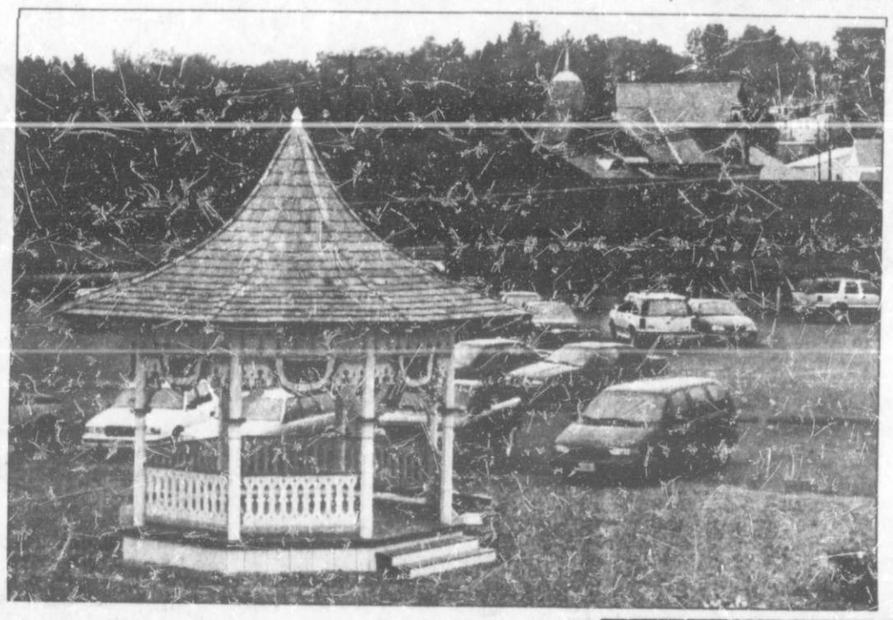
A search of Bevan's vehicle that took place after the arrests uncovered a baseball bat and an M-16 rifle magazine, and a set of brass knuckles was found in his pocket.

Both men face charges of first and second degree assault and trespassing. Bevan faces an additional charge of carrying a concealed weapon, while Morgan faces additional charges of theft and disorderly conduct.

Following an appearance before a district court commissioner, Morgan was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on a $7,500 bond. Bevan posted a $5,000 bond and was released as well.



MAKING IT RIGHT - When the Garrett County Historical Society moved the Deer Park Hotel gazebo to Oakland last year it was known that the present roof on that structure was not like the original. So in order to properly restore this vestige of the past it was decided to replace the roof with one that replicates the original. Old photos of the gazebo when it was on site at the historic hotel served as the "blueprint" for the job. Gnegy Construction (Troy and Steve Gnegy) donated all of the materials and the labor for the project. According to Robert Shaffer, spokesperson for the society, dozens of people and businesses have been donating materials, labor, and the use of equipment for the on-going project beside the society's building on Second Street, details of which will be reported periodically.



Fund-Raiser For Estonian GCC Students Slated

Four students from Estonia will be arriving at the end of this month to attend Garrett Community College as part of the Maryland-Estonia Citizens' Partnership spearheaded by the Maryland National Guard. The American Association of University Women (AAUW) of Garrett County is organizing a "Supper, Songs & Stories" fund-raiser to help the scholarship students purchase textbooks and other necessary items.

The event will be next Tuesday, Aug. 22, at the Riverside Café, 707 Morris Ave., in Friendsville. A supper buffet of salad and two types of lasagna (regular and vegetarian) plus a dessert and beverage will be served from 6 to 7:30 p.m. (cost, $7.50). Entertainment will begin at 7:15 p.m. Suggested donation is $5.

One of the entertainers, Katie Ross from Rawlings, is the alternate prizewinner of the National Storyteller of the Year 2000 Award at the Sweet Corn Storytelling Festival. She has performed at the Rocky Gap Festival, and was a first-place prize winner at the Autumn Glory Tall Tale Festival in 1998.

Another entertainer will be Gail Herman from Swanton, who has performed at the Connecticut Storytelling Festival, the Harvest Moon Festival, the National Storytelling Festival Exchange Place, and the Albert Schweitzer Symposium at the UN, as well as at many schools and colleges.

Joan Whetsell from Addison, Pa., is a local historian and storyteller who has performed at the Maple Festival, Tall Tale Festival, and the Springs Festival. Other musicians and storytellers will be announced.

Persons who are interested in performing are asked to telephone 301-387-9199.

Commissioners Review State Road "Wish List"

To prepare for the annual county visit and review by the State Highway Administration, the Garrett County commissioners this week reviewed the local state road "wish list" of improvements. The SHA officials will tour the county on Sept. 22, meeting with the commissioners that day at 9 a.m. to discuss the various road projects.

John Nelson, director of the Garrett County Office of Planning and Zoning, talked with the commissioners Tuesday about the current list, which the county's planning commission has reviewed.

The first item on the list is the prioritization of the design and engineering for the proposed Oakland bypass. Nelson said he expects the SHA to announce the chosen alignment at the September meeting, assuming the no-build option is not picked. He reported that the planning commission supports the move to the design and engineering stage.

The second item on the list is an update request concerning the status of the Rt. 219 project north of Interstate 68, followed by the third item, which is the continued evaluation of the idea of a state road takeover of the Sand Flat and Glendale roads. Renovations to be made to the Glendale Road close to Rt. 219, which include alignment improvements, are to be reported to the SHA.

Fourthly, the commissioners are requesting the continued evaluation of the existing Rt. 219 corridor, as pertaining to improvements as well as a proposed Accident bypass. The commissioners Tuesday stressed that they are not in support of the so-called north-south corridor, or any massive development of the current route, but that they are more interested in improving the current roadway.

The possibility of a truck climbing lane on Rt. 42 is item number five. The issue has been discussed for several years, but a recent study revealed that such an endeavor would be very expensive for the county, the commissioners said. They have directed Fred Crozier, district engineer of the local SHA office, to re-evaluate a scaled back plan for the road. They also noted Tuesday that large trucks are not to use Rt. 42, but are directed by signs to utilize the Rt. 219 to I-68 route.

Number six on the list is the development and construction of a sidewalk between Southern High School and Mountain Lake Park, to run along the north side of Oakland Drive. The state will construct the walkway, but the town will be responsible for its maintenance.

The seventh item is better signage and/or sight lines for the intersection of Sky Valley Road and Maryland Rt. 495. The last item on the list is the evaluation of a traffic light at the intersection of Eighth and Oak streets in Oakland, where large trucks enter the roadway. The commissioners also expressed the need for improvements in bicycle access and signage along state roads.

Gerry Beachy And Asa McCain Visit Partner Cities In Estonia

Mayors Asa McCain of Oakland and Gerry Beachy of Grantsville joined a delegation of educators, leaders of Maryland economic development, and members of the Maryland National Guard at Dulles Airport on July 29 to begin a Maryland Partnership for Peace visit to Estonia.

Described by Beachy as "slightly smaller than New Hampshire and Vermont combined," Estonia is located west of Russia, north of Latvia, south of Finland, and east of the Baltic Sea.

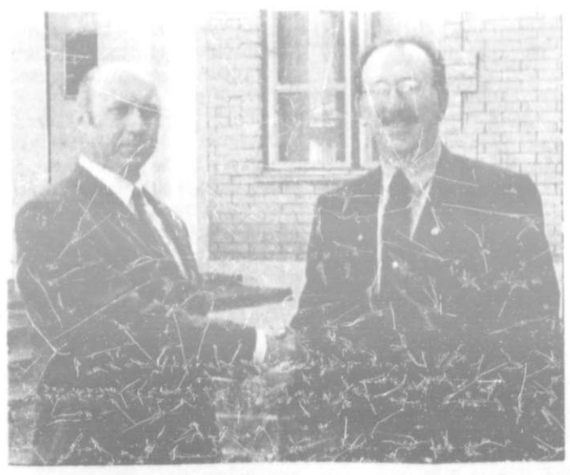
Situated on a latitude higher than Scotland, Estonia's climate is "maritime," meaning it is wet much of the time and has moderate to severe winters and cool summers. The official language is Estonian, although many children are being taught English as a second language. (Some elect other languages, such as German.)

Most residents of Estonia speak English or are learning the language, though Russians still number about 29 percent of the population and most still speak only Russian. "The Estonians have a keen interest in American culture, education, economics, and politics, and are eager to learn more about our country," Beachy reported, noting that Maryland has more people of Estonian heritage than does any other state.

The purpose of the visit to Estonia by the Garrett County mayors was to develop informal relations between Maryland cities and counties with counterparts in Estonia. The hope is that these relationships will develop cultural and political exchanges between the two countries, the Garrett County visitors explained.

"Valga County in Estonia is very much like Garrett County," Beachy remarked, pointing out that Oakland's partner city is Valga, which is also a "twin" city with Valka in Latvia. Grantsville's partner city is Torva (pronounced Turva).

McCain and Beachy visited these cities courtesy of a Minuteman Fellow Grant, made available by the National Guard. The mayors traveled to both Estonian cities, and were welcomed by the mayors of Torva and Valga. Gifts were exchanged, including books and other souvenirs from the towns. Meetings were held to discuss how to begin cultural exchanges.



FORMING PARTNERSHIPS - Garrett County took a major step in the Maryland Partnership for Peace program when two local mayors traveled to Estonia to meet with mayors of partner cities and plan future a cultural exchanges. Grantsville mayor Gerry Beachy (above) met with Vaino Toemets, mayor of Torva, and Oakland mayor Asa McCain (below) met with Margus Lepik, mayor of Valga.

"It was agreed that one class in each of the cities' four elementary schools would be encouraged to start a 'pen pal' relationship with students in the other country. This would give the Estonian children practice with their English, and the American children could learn about the children in another country," Beachy explained.

It was also agreed that the mayors would try to arrange for an exchange of music and dance ensembles to perform in several cities. "It may be possible for Estonia to send us folk singers and dancers, and we could send local performers to their towns through the National Guard Minuteman Fellows program," Beachy said, adding that art exhibits could also be exchanged for shows in several locations.

The mayors agreed to continue communications with each other by e-mail. Newsletters will be exchanged as well as other information that may be beneficial.

McCain and Beachy also visited Salisbury's partner town, Tartu, where they met with two deputy mayors and the director of foreign relations. The assistant director of Tartu University gave a brief history of that prestigious institution and offered the visitors a tour of the university's museum. Other towns visited by the mayors included Tallinn, Otepaa, and Parnu.

The mayors of Valga and Torva plan to visit Garrett County along with National Guard hosts sometime in early September. Mayors McCain and Beachy plan to sign proclamations recognizing the partnering efforts of the towns while the Estonian mayors are visiting. Tours of Oakland and Grantsville will be given to the mayors, as well as highlights of the county, including a visit to Garrett Community College.

Four exchange students from Estonia will attend GCC this fall, and possibly six more will be enrolled for the spring semester. Steve Herman, president of GCC, has been working closely with the National Guard Partners for Peace program, and has also visited Estonia. He will assist the Garrett County mayors in coordinating the county itineraries of the visitors.

Agenda Finalized For Folk Days At Beitschehof Farm

Several additional attractions have been added to the agenda for Puzzley Run Folk Days, the weekend event slated at Beitschehof Farm, near Grantsville. Gates will open on Friday at 11 a.m. and Saturday at 10 a.m. On Sunday a worship service will be conducted by the Rev. Tim Fetterly in the barn, and gates will open for festivities at 10 a.m.

On Saturday, Charlie Glover of Markleysburg, Pa., will offer horse-drawn surrey rides, and Marilyn "Jade" Bittinger will demonstrate the delicate art of scrimshaw. Connie and Rich Ruff of Connelsville, Pa., will offer tips on soap making and sauerkraut making.

The Garrett County Historical Society will mount exhibits on Meshach Browning and the National Pike, and offer historical books for sale. An art exhibit will feature work by Jon Brown and Ed Bever.

Maryland Mountain Trust will provide information on conservation and preservation programs available to Garrett County landowners. Gunsmith Eugene Durst will demonstrate the use of the black powder rifle.

Champion fiddle player Grover Broadwater will provide music for the 6 p.m. square dance in the barn, which Earl Pope will "call."

"We invited everyone to attend this entertaining and educational, family-oriented event," said director Jean Durst.

Area Domestics Result In Four Arrests By GCSO

Four area residents were arrested this week by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who had been summoned to three separate domestic altercations. Each subject was subsequently released from the Garrett County Detention Center.

John William Hinebaugh, 32, Mtn. Lake Park, was jailed on a second-degree assault charge for the second straight week after an early Sunday morning incident. Deputies were called to his Decatur Street residence at 5 a.m., and were told by a hired live-in caretaker that Hinebaugh had broken down the door to her room and assaulted her.

Hinebaugh was later released from jail after posting a $1,000 bond.

A Friday domestic altercation at a home in the 2500 block of Oakland Sang Run Road resulted in the arrest of a woman who had earlier procured an ex parte order against her suspected victim.

Deputies arrived at the scene to find the male victim in the home, and they advised him that his presence there was in violation of the court order. He advised that it was his residence that the woman had left and then moved back into of her own accord, and added that the woman, Tina Darlene' Weimer, 33, had bit him the night before when he attempted to get a set of car keys from her.

Upon questioning, Weimer admitted she had moved back into the man's residence after the ex parte order had been issued, and that an altercation had occurred the previous evening that did involve a bite.

Following her arrest on a second degree assault charge, Weimer was released on her own recognizance.

A domestic altercation at a home in the 600 block of Crellin Mine Road last Wednesday afternoon led to the arrest of both parties involved. Brenda Kay Chapman, 27, of that residence, and Keith Allen Chapman, 33, of another Oakland address, were each charged with second degree assault after they allegedly struck each other during an argument.

The details of the Chapmans' incarceration release status were not available from the Detention Center, although neither subject was being held in the jail earlier this week.

One subject was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI) this week by sheriff's deputies: Robert Lee Frantz Jr., 24, Eglon.

Work, Not Just Words...

Among the precious freedoms of this great country of ours are those of speech and assembly, utilized often by persons to stage public protest of any number of situations, conditions, laws, policies, and behaviors. Public protest of the Vietnam War in the 1960s would probably be the most memorable, and significant, example cited by today's middle-aged and older Americans. In recent days there have been protests at the Republican and Democrat national conventions in Philadelphia and Los Angeles.

While we recognize that there is value to protests in that they sometimes prompt needed changes, and while we recognize that freedom of assembly is crucial to a free society, we submit that many protests are a waste of money, time, and energy, and little more than lip service by the participants. We wonder if these people are just professional protestors, or if they do more for their particular cause than paint a sign, travel around the country to important gatherings, and go out of their way to irritate the police who are being paid overtime to try to keep the peace.

The words on signs at the convention protest this week condemn "corporate America," and note that there is poverty in the world. But we wonder whether or not the bearers of those signs have ever really done anything of a real hands-on nature to help alleviate poverty and starvation. Do they routinely work in soup kitchens, for example? Do they participate in missions trips to third-world nations where real, face-to-face, person-to-person assistance is provided? They are quick to spend their money to travel to and stay in motels at protest sites, but are they as quick to donate their money to charity?

Garrett County has an outstanding record of "getting down and dirty" when it comes to human service and missions work. Just this year there have been many local church groups that have not just talked about world hunger and poverty, but have actually gone to third-world nations and taken a spot on the front line in helping far less fortunate fellow human beings improve the quality of their lives. A large group worked for three weeks in Bolivia early this year, the young people of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry of Oakland spent two weeks working in Nicaragua this summer, and there is still another group working right now in the Dominican Republic. These are just a few examples of our own people truly putting their faith into action, and each one of them returning home enriched and changed in indescribable ways.

Among the individuals in our county, and there have been many, who have made such excursions and projects a personal crusade are Dr. Dona Alvarez and the late Dr. Alvin Friend.

A wonderful benefit to working, in a real and measurable way, to change the world, is that it also changes the worker in a marvelous way. But such change can occur only if there is work, and not just words.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In reply to Mr. Monty Pagenhardt, who writes that "The office of Garrett County Commissioners anxiously awaits your [Harriet King Becker] response;" may I humbly ask the reason for their "anxiety?"

Do they not know whether they are guilty or innocent?

C. Speicher
Grantsville

To the Editor:

Now that the town of Oakland has stop signs on Second Street, it appears they are missing a great chance to pay for all of the parks and the railroad station extravaganza. If the state used the same idea on interstates we would have a stop sign every mile or so! The idea of moving traffic is and has been the logical. Instead of placing stop signs each block, why not do what the state does? If Second Street is a raceway, begin issuing tickets by the hundreds and we can — if traffic continues to travel too fast — quickly pay for a park in each block. Place a police cruiser or two there permanently and simply write tickets.

Let's use some logic and, instead of punishing the legal driver, punish the law breaker. We will all benefit, especially in lower taxes.

If the question is the kids playing in the street, well, perhaps we need to again apply logic. Let's begin to use our God given intelligence for the benefit of all, not to the detriment of most! I will file this under politics. Get my drift?

Thomas E. Doyle
Oakland

To the Editor:

I read with keen interest (on-line through your outstanding web site) your excellent recap of the championship effort put forth last week by the senior boys baseball team of the Oakland Little League. Personally, I had the privilege of attending four of their games. I wish all of the residents of your fine community could have shared this wonderful experience. All of you would have been extremely proud of the way these 13 young men, their manager, and the coaching staff conducted themselves, both on and off the field. Also, you would have been proud of the way your neighbors (their parents and families) conducted themselves, in victory and defeat. If, as has been suggested, youth sports teams are a mere reflection of society, then, simply put, you are blessed with a great community.

This team had an incredible amount of athletic talent. But they also had more. They had poise. They had character. They had class. They were gracious in victory and humble in defeat. They set a new standard for sportsmanship. They redefined the word "champion."

Permit me the opportunity to publicly congratulate Steve Eiswert, Bryan Hauser, Kevin Goralski, Ryan Ewing, Chad Panther, Ricky Reams, Bryson Meyers, Brad Palmer, Chris Remley, Chad Kroll, Jay Tressler, Joel Helbig, and Toby Stoner; their manager, Doug Copeland; and coaches Greg Tressler and James Burns.

And, permit me to thank the parents and relatives who embraced those of us from a rival Maryland district as part of their rooting section. You're a great group of people.

This group of young men and their coaching staff achieved a level of success that the rest of us only read about and wish for. I hope all of you in Oakland are as proud of this team as we are from Havre de Grace. Last year, our mayor gave this team the key to our city. This year they used it to open our hearts to them forevermore. Congratulations, men!

Hit-and-Run Driver, you know who you are, and so do we. We saw you hit and kill our Riley Rosebud. Riley weighed 3 lbs. She was a wedding gift from my daughter three years ago. You ran over her on Oakland Sang Run Road on August 8. You could have stopped. You didn't! Why! You knew you hit her!

Would you have left a child in the middle of the road like that! It would not surprise me if your answer were yes. Well, Riley was our child. Riley will never ride on the backhoe with my husband again! Riley will never ride in the boat with us again. Riley will never run and hide when she hears the bath water running again. Riley will never go to the store with us again. Riley will never travel across the country with us again. We will never have to sneak Riley into motels again. We will never have to save some of our meals for Riley when we go out to dinner because Riley will never be waiting in the car for her treats again. Now my husband can go to the bank drive through and not have Riley waiting for the drawer to open with the doggie bones in it! Riley will never cuddle up in the bed with us at night. I will never have to sit and comb out her long white hair again. Our friends will never have Riley jump up in their laps again.

Everywhere we went, Riley was with us. I held her for the last time when I picked her up from the road and carried her back to the house; she died in my arms.

You couldn't take two minutes out of your busy important day to stop and say, "I'm sorry, it was an accident." We know you didn't hit Riley on purpose! You did drive away and leave her on purpose! When you go to bed tonight maybe you will realize what you have done. It will be a long time before my husband and I sleep without reaching out to pat Riley and to tell her goodnight. We just finished saying goodnight to Riley for the last time, but it's a shame because she couldn't hear us.

To everyone who reads this letter, the next time you see a pet on the side of the road, please stop for one minute and blow your horn until someone comes out and gets their pet. You may stop someone from having the pain this has caused my husband and me.

Sincerely,
Fran Booth

To the Editor:

The 4th Summer Music Concert Series has come to a successful conclusion. Two years ago the series was renamed the Little Yough Summer Music Festival because of the concert location by the banks of the Little Youghiogheny in downtown Oakland. The original goal of the series was to provide the community a free evening to enjoy our beautiful town and see the quality of goods and services offered by local businesses, visit with neighbors, and listen to some toe tapping music under the summer skies. I believe all of the people who helped with the series this year would agree that our goal was realized this summer.

Not only did an average of 600 community and regional concert goers per night have a great time, but they bought hotdogs and helped fund the Little League. They purchased baked goods which provided funding to the Family Agriculture Project of Garrett and Preston counties. They purchased other products which supported other organizations and businesses.

The performers loved Oakland and beautiful Garrett County. Sitting on an outdoor stage, they had to compensate for the vibrations from a metal roof and try to play around the whistle of the evening trains. Many of the performers commented on the attentiveness of the audience. They signed autographs, CDs, or other items, and had their pictures taken with local residents. The first performer, Janis Ian, made a comment during her performance saying, "It is nice to see a town that values itself."

It was a good time. And many thanks to lots of people who helped with the series. This is a community event with many supporters and hard work being done behind the scene. Things got off to a great start with a promotional page on the Oakland web site www.oaklandmd.com designed by David Lee and GCNet. This was supported by wonderful front-page coverage by Don Sincell and The Republican newspaper. We also want to thank Jo Donaldson and her help with publicity in the Cumberland Times-News. A special thanks to the great promotion by Pam Trickett and the guys at WKHJ on the radio. Geni Uphold of Kreepygirl Grafix designed the event posters, and she and Jimmy Crabtree produced the T-shirts and contributed time to help with the concerts. Doug Riley of Copiers Plus provided event fliers, which were distributed in many locations. We also want to thank First United Bank and Trust for allowing us to promote the performers and the series in their window space at the corner of Second and Liberty streets.

This is just one thank-you to the following people and businesses for their generous help. Our sponsors included: Browning's /Arby's, Rob Michael State Farm Insurance, Coca-Cola, Uno Restaurant and Bar, GCNet, The Republican, WKHJ, F&M Bank, Team One, Oakland Rotary Club, Garrett County Arts Council, Greater Oakland Business Association, and the town of Oakland.

In addition to our sponsors, thank you to the following people who donated time or services: Our Town Theatre, Jane Avery, Richard and Melodee Hill, Liz and Jeff Gilbert, Get 'N Go, Laser Cartridge Care and Lillian Steele, Oak Mar Motel and Andrew Fike, Jonathan Kessler, Deb Clatterbuck, and Tammy Haun.

We would also like to thank our faithful food vendors: Oakland Little League, Little Caesar's, BumBle Q's, Garrett County Community Action Area Agency on Aging, Lakeside Creamery, Coca-Cola and Connie, and Bill and Lillian for the sausages and popcorn.

Those who were there every week setting things up, taking things down, and lugging equipment and the stage, issuing checks, and worrying about the weather included: Jay Moyer, Tracy, Gwen, and Susan at Town Hall, Police Chief John Sines, Mayor Asa McCain, Chuck Blamble, Paul Railey, Main Street Manager Glenn Tolbert, Judy Day, Marty Swarner, Connie Margison, and David Lee, as well as other people who were there when something needed to be done.

There were several residents who made individual contributions to help pay for expenses, as well as the audiences who contributed when asked to make donations. Thank you all for the generosity and support. Thanks to Bill Meagher of Lakeside Creamery for donating part of his sales to support the series.

And of course, the most important contribution to the whole event was you, the audience. Thank you to all the local residents, visitors, and tourists who sat in lawn chairs, on blankets, or on the grass to enjoy the performers and support the effort to provide entertainment and social activities in Oakland. Keep your lawn chair handy. We will see you next summer!

And in conclusion, a special thank you to Ken Perrin and his lovely wife Nancy for all the hours of finding performers, reading contracts, finding sponsors, feeding and hosting bands, hauling equipment and setting it up, worrying that a crowd would not appear, and all the other millions of things that it takes to coordinate the Little Yough Summer Music Festival.

Sincerely,
Mikal McCartney

IN THE APPLE ORCHARD

A key to living life successfully is knowing the difference between the "shoulds" and the "have-tos." I have been at work in the apple orchard where the results from know-ing that difference are in evidence.

Last spring, as is usual for me in springtime, I did not have time to get everything done. The pruning which should have been commenced shortly after New Year's Day got started late, and was never finished. I made sure, however, to get the pre-bloom and the three-quarter petal fall sprays accomplished in a timely fashion. The next spraying was late, but accomplished.

The result is that by mid-July I had big bushy trees choked with tall grass, but loaded with mostly good quality fruit. Had I missed those two critical sprayings on either side of bloom, then the fruit on my trees would not have been worth composting. In fact, the fruit would have been best destroyed since it would have been little more than host for a wide spectrum of pests and diseases.

Those two sprays were "have-tos" and the rest that was late or not done at all were "shoulds."

A month ago I set to making the best of my apple crop. First I got rid of the tall grass with the bush-hog (the tractor driven rotary mower). I did a heavy summer pruning of my trees, and got some more spray on them. The trees look remarkably good.

The first apple of my orchard is the Calvin, an old southern variety formerly used for brandy making. I begin harvesting them selectively about the first of August, with the bulk of the fruit being ready about the middle of the month.

The next apple is the Jonathan, my workhorse tree. It produces substantial crops (as much as eight bushels) of good fruit year after year. As important as the quality is that the fruit ripens over a six-week period. The apples are good for pies, usually by Labor Day. They are ready to be eaten out of hand from mid-September into October. By the middle of October they quickly cook into delicious sauce.

The Granny Smith makes great pie timber mid-October, and gradually becomes great eating until it reaches its peak at Thanksgiving or at the beginning of December. This year the Granny Smith tree is absolutely loaded and with the highest quality fruit of any of my trees.

The Roxbury Russet is my favorite apple, but it turns soft very quickly, so it goes mostly for cider, and exquisite cider it is. The Limbertwig only gets fit to eat at the end of October, and improves with a couple months of storage.

At the moment the view from my window shows me a small orchard of heirloom apples which looks pretty good. All in all, I am lucky. The rain and high humidity of this year has given the fungi free range. By cutting the grass and pruning the trees, air is allowed to circulate and the sun can shine into the heart of the tree.

To tell the truth, I am surprised that the fruit did so well, with the minimum of care the trees have received this year. The difference between success and failure was knowing the difference between "have-tos" and "shoulds."

Of course, the more commercially oriented an orchard is, the more items that shift from one column to the other. There is more than a little luxury in having a home orchard. If one wants the luxury of eating good fruit, though, there are certain things that have to be done and have to be done at the right time, no matter what.

So I am eating the Calvin apples now, while looking forward to the Jonathans. I plan to spray the later apples once more. I have mowed a few times since that first radical mowing a month ago. There are still branches that are eligible for summer pruning, and some cull apples that should still be thinned. The work is ongoing, but then so is my pleasure in eating (and drinking) the crop.

To the Editor:

The article about the coyotes in the Baltimore Sun being alarming, but certainly didn't need to be, is ludicrous. If we do not need to be alarmed by what is going on in our area with coyotes then we do not need to be alarmed about our children playing with copperheads! I know from experience! They are on our property. In the past year our niece Louise has seen one above our garden. I have seen one ¼ mile east of our house, and on July 20 at 8:15 I came face to face with two — 75 feet from me — in my backyard. I screamed for my husband to bring a gun, but with the breakfast room, dining area between us and the TV on he did not hear me.

I was going to the kennel with a bucket of dog food when I saw movement and there they were. We more or less stared at each other for what seemed an eternity. Finally I guess my screaming scared them away. I had put my Rottweiler and German shepherd in the mud room to eat so I was on my own, as the dogs in the kennel could not get out. By the time I got in the house I was hysterical. Why were they so close? They smelled my cats and dogs. Even though they are in pens they can be smelled.

Now let us think about this a little bit! We used to drive along the highway, see chipmunks, groundhogs, raccoons, and various other little animals scurrying along. How long has it been since you have seen more than one or two on a long drive?

Could it be that our wild furry friends have ended up a coyote's breakfast? Are the coyotes running out of wild animals and due to hunger coming for our domestic pets?

Also the statement about coyotes are only a threat to deer fawn in the first few weeks of life and after that deer can outrun a coyote — If they are killed the first few weeks of life, how do we know there are any left to outrun the coyotes?

And the statement as far as pets go, anyone with a large amount of cats roaming on a small area of land is asking for trouble... Why is it that we cannot have as many cats as we wish on our land? Coyotes should not be on private property. I do not go into the wild and kill the young coyotes. Also, how beneficial can cats be to farmers if they are penned up? Farmers depend on cats.

Now wait a minute and think hard! The article also stated that sheep farmers need sheep dogs because coyotes would not want to fight another canine... Then why do people call the Humane Society members claiming that Mr. So and So's dog down the street came to their house and either killed or injured their dog? Canine versus canine? You bet!

When I first missed my three cats in the fall I was very upset. At our home animals come, but never leave. Why should they? Most are abused or abandoned. At our home they have plenty to eat, they are warm in winter, cool in summer, and receive veterinarian care and lots of love. I searched frantically for them, called neighbors, and walked the roads in case they had been hit by a vehicle. Nothing. But when I heard two cats screaming in broad daylight two days apart and they never came home, I knew what was going on.

That is when I called Robert Colona at the DNR office in Vienna, Maryland. He told me that in 10 years there would be a 200% increase in the coyote population. He did not tell me anything about a barn, etc., as a Mr. Colona was quoted in the article I am referring to. Having studied biology in college, I know quite a lot about coyotes, and they are not nice animals. I know the average number of young in a litter is six, and they live to be 12-15 years old. They usually grab their prey by the neck and suffocate them. Now it is not often people have litters of six, so how long will it be until they outnumber people?

I have been told some states have bounties. I think it is about time it is considered in Garrett County. Farmers cannot afford to lose too many calves, sheep, and pigs. They have to pasture them. They cannot keep them penned up forever.

How long will it be until a child is killed? Should we learn to live with that also?

When David Green, staff writer for the Baltimore Sun, called and asked for an interview, I was grateful. I thought this would help the people in Garrett County become aware of the coyote problem and what was happening to their small animals they are constantly calling about being lost or stolen. They are lost all right — in some coyote's stomach. Mr. Green said he heard we had to build cages to protect our cats — by the way we haven't lost a cat since, so the missing ones didn't die of something.

He also made the remark of the beauty of our property with the streams, variety of trees in our forest, and the wildflowers. A tranquil place for the abused and unwanted animals to find a refuge. Instead of that, even their "mother" is afraid to go walking in the woods, not knowing if she will be a victim. If two or three dogs can tear a person to pieces, why couldn't a coyote?

I have been reading of persons wanting to get rid of the bears. We have a bear. We call her "Mama Bear." She has been around for years and has never bothered anything. I remember well the day my daughter's dog Betsy was challenging her from the top of my daughter's driveway. My daughter called for me to come, not knowing what could happen. By the time I got on Friendsville Road, "Mama Bear" came up out of our neighbor's lawn, walked on the yellow line in the road for about 200 feet with me following her — in my lane, of course. She finally went up over the bank. Had this been a coyote, Betsy could have been attacked along with my daughter trying to protect her.

We never feed her, as there is plenty of vegetation and always grain in the duck and geese feeders. We grill on the deck, as do our neighbors, but she has never bothered us. When I hear stories about the bears killing and tearing up horses and livestock, I wonder if it is not coyotes, and the bears getting the blame. Coyotes are so sly and vicious alone — so what could they do in packs?

As a retired kindergarten teacher I worry about the wee, small children waiting for the bus in the morning and walking home at night. It is said that they do not attack during the day. I know better from my experience and also our niece and nephew, Joyce and Dale, have seen them in their backyard and then heard their neighbors' fowl screaming. They have also seen them along the side of the road.

I think someone is misrepresenting the people and I do not know why. Apparently some so-called biologists who sit on their "cans" in the city and do not have the problem think we should pen up our animals, let the coyote populations soar, and learn to live with them (Now that is a statement — How? I need to know!) not be alarmed, cut down on pet population, etc.

Also, as far as the statement — "it is something we can get used to, they are not going to take over" — where does this bright idea come from? They are already taking over. As Mr. Green stated in his article, "Bernadine Friend says coyotes are beautiful, and her love for animals makes it hard to hate them, but at this time she has no sympathy for them (because of her missing pets) and there is probably a place for them. It's not in her backyard."

I hope I have succeeded with this letter to let people know they do need to be alarmed.

At this time I want to thank Southern States for their generous discount on the special wire for our cat cages and Sisler Lumber Co. for their donations of the 2x4s.

Bernadine Friend
Executive Director
Garrett County Humane Society Inc.

Dear Mrs. Friend:

The Baltimore Sun front page article of July 28 was titled "Lock Up The Pets: Maryland Coyote Population Soars," a headline seemingly designed to titillate city and suburban readers curious about life in the wilds of western Maryland.

The article stated that coyotes are "suspects" in this summer's disappearance of two cats of a herd of 67 cats that belong to one Friendsville-area resident, as well as the disappearance of three cats from the same group last fall. "Evidence is circumstantial" that coyotes were the culprit, the article went on to say.

Those 67 cats had been allowed to roam free on five acres of wooded ground, and one could presume that at times they partook of wild birds and mice, which fall below cats on the food chain. Coyotes, which no one denies are making inroads in western Maryland and the surrounding region, are a step above cats on the food chain, and would presumably view a cat wandering in the woods much the same way it would view a rabbit, with the added realization that cats are much slower runners. This fact of nature calls into question the wisdom of letting 67 domesticated cats roam free in the woods.

As reported in two separate articles that appeared in The Republican prior to the Sun exposé, the coyote population is increasing in the area, as it has already done throughout the eastern United States. Maryland maintains a 365-day hunting season for coyotes, which can be shot on sight by any licensed hunter. (Landowners shooting coyotes on their own property are exempt from the license requirement.) A coyote trapping season also exists during the late fall and early winter months. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources also maintains a list of trappers who can be hired to trap out of season, and that list is available to the public through the Mt. Nebo Wildlife Office at 301-334-4255.

While we do sympathize with pet owners and sheep and cattle farmers who may lose an animal, there are avenues one can take to approach the potential coyote problem, as listed in the preceding paragraph. That said, the need for drastic alarm is greatly diminished when one realizes that the ebb and flow of nature does not always fit our personal desires. Somehow Mother Nature still finds a way of taking care of things for the best.

Sincerely,
David Foster
The Republican news staff

ANOTHER BIG BOOST for the reNew Grantsville Library project was received recently from 4 Seasons Stitchery, as Jane Benson, owner, made a pledge of $500 toward the effort, making her and her business a Bronze Charter Partner. Benson is pictured above left with Sheila Miller, chairperson of the reNew Grantsville Library project. The goal is to raise at least $100,000 from organizations, businesses, and individuals to induce matching monies from state, county, and federal sources for the construction of a new library building. Donations of all sizes are welcome, with those pledging $500, $1,000, $5,000, and $10,000 receiving permanently displayed bronze, silver, gold, and platinum (respectively) plaques. Others wishing to make a donation may send checks made out to Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, designated Grantsville Library Fund, and send them to reNew Grantsville Library, Grantsville Branch, Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, P.O. Box 237, Grantsville, MD 21532.

ARLEIGH REACHES NEW MILESTONE - Probably the most prolific blood donor in Garrett County is Oakland resident Arleigh Hauser, who was recognized at a recent visit of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile when he completed his 27th gallon, or 216th pint, of donated blood. He is pictured above with Elizabeth Huxford, local blood services coordinator, who noted her appreciation to Hauser for his many years of faithful giving. The ARC continues to issue blood shortage notices, stating that blood donation is being out-paced by blood use in the Johnstown ARC Region, which encompasses Garrett County. All persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health are encouraged by the ARC to become blood donors.

Cycle Accident Claims Life Of Eglon Resident

A weekend motorcycle accident near Aurora, W.Va., that claimed the life of an Eglon, W.Va., remains under investigation by the Kingwood detachment of the West Virginia State Police.

According to a report filed by Tfc J.A. Wyatt, 48-year-old Bruce Edwin Rembold died when the 2000 Kawasaki motorcycle he was operating along Rt. 24, near Aurora, ran off the road and struck a tree.

The report indicates the investigation was initiated following a search by family members and volunteers from the Aurora and Mt. Grove fire departments, after Rembold failed to return from an afternoon bike ride. The accident scene was apparently not visible from the road, and searchers finally located his body at approximately 2:50 a.m. Sunday.

Rembold was born April 17, 1952, in Oakland, the son of Eileen P. (Henline) Rembold, Pittsburgh, and the late John Robert Rembold.

He was employed as a saw technician and served as a deacon at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren in Eglon.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his wife, Mary (Roth) Rembold; two sons, Shaun and Craig Rembold, both of Eglon; and one sister, Sandra Mincer, Ona, W.Va.

In Loving Memory Of Gary Friend "Jr." (Whitey)
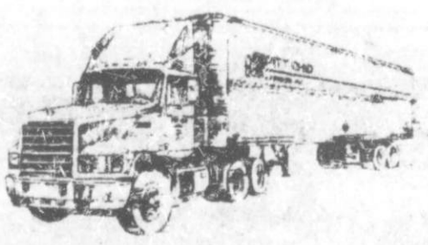
April 12, 1963
April 26, 2000



God provides us many gifts
Not just material things
But completes our lives with loved ones
That keep the wind beneath our wings.

And though we savor our time with them
As often as we should
We fall to our vulnerable knees
When our God "Takes the Good."

There isn't a single day
That our hearts forget to cry,
"Why so soon, Dear Lord?"
"Why so young to die?"

But Heaven offers answers
If we listen close enough
To mend our unsure paths
To pave a road so rough.

He assures us we're not alone
That "Still" our loved one is here
By keeping our faith in his promise
In keeping memories vividly clear.

And as we are comforted by his memory
We're reminded of the love
That we were privileged to share with him
Before our Lord called him to his home above.

He "Tends The Fields" for the Lord now
And "Hauls" for that "Terminal" in the sky
And looks down at us in "Peace"
And asks us not to cry.

For now there's only Joy and Peace Surrounding him above
"Don't weep for me," he says to us
"Just remember my friendship and love."

To all our family and friends,
To everyone far and near,
To each of you that loved him,
Whose lives he's touched throughout the years...

We want to thank you for each gesture
Of love you've shown to us
And for the countless prayers you've sent up high
To our Lord we know and trust.

Our Love & Prayers,
Family of Gary Jr.

Sara Ann Frickey Alexander

July 6, 1903 - July 2, 2000

We give back to You, O God, those whom You gave to us. You did not lose them when You gave them to us, and we do not lose them by their return to You. Your dear Son has taught us that life is eternal and love cannot die. So death is only a horizon and a horizon is only the limit of our sight. Open our eyes to see more clearly, and draw us closer to You that we may know that we are nearer to our loved ones, who are with You. you have told us that You are preparing a place for us; prepare us also for that happy place, that where You are we may also be always. O Dear Lord of Life and Death.

By: William Penn (1644-1718)

In appreciation to those who helped during the illness and following the death of our special loved one, Sara Ann Alexander. We thank Rev. Roland E. Nairn III, the congregation and the Ladies WELCA of St. Paul's Lutheran Church; Dr. Walter K. Naumann; Hospice of Garrett County; Goodwill Nursing Home; Newman Funeral Home; Sara's wonderful neighbors, relatives, friends and all who gave the delicious food, beautiful flowers and gracious memorials; those who came to her viewing with memorable stories that touched our hearts and those who traveled distances to attend her funeral. She has now entered into her rest and the years will glide along but her manner of life will definitely leave an empression on each of us forever. We thank everyone for the kindness given to her and the family.

From Sara's family with love and gratitude,
Doris, Bob & Dreama, Mary Ann & Pete,

In Safekeeping: Preserving Land, Heritage For Future Generations

by Peggy Santamaria

A singularly Garrett County experience opens to one who chooses to turn off Route 42, north of Friendsville, and travel along Buffalo Run. Leaving just minutes earlier the harried pace of the interstate, under the glare of an August afternoon sky, one slips into the cathedral-like hush and serenity of the winding byway. The dense summer green of tree tops and rhododendron cool the still air and forbid the heat of the day to intrude.

One could forget the calendar date in such a place, where the sprinkles of sunshine on the water wink back as it splashes over the rocks in the creekbed. It must have been much like this centuries ago, one might think.

It is along this winding byway beside Buffalo Run that a farm house was built in 1880 by the Humberson family. Today that house still stands, surrounded by woods, fruit trees, berry bushes, vegetable gardens, and grape vines curling along trellises. The farmhouse and 100 acres has belonged to Marilyn Moors since 1972, and thanks to a decision she made a year or two ago, it will remain intact for future generations.

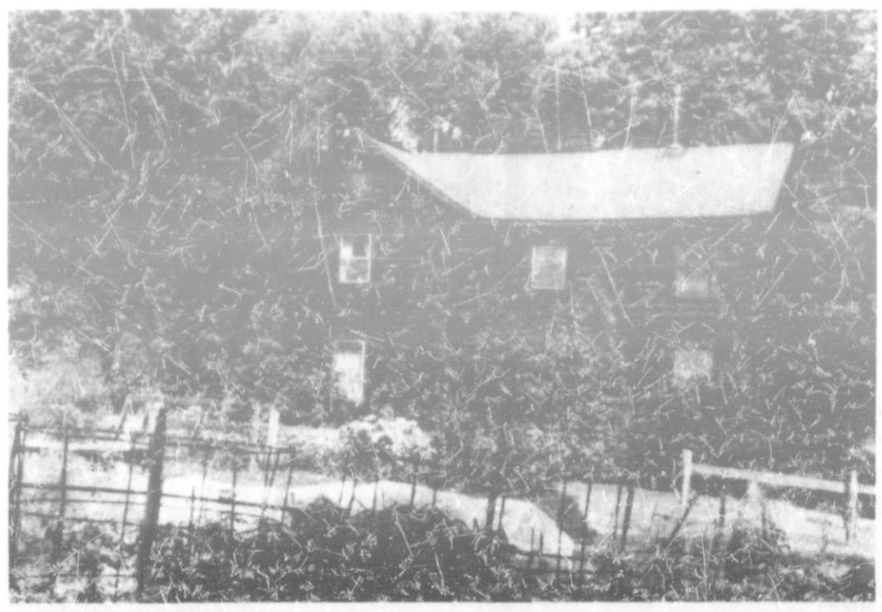
Marilyn has placed a conservation deed of easement on the property. By deed, the 100-acre parcel can never be subdivided, developed, stripped of vegetation, or used for commercial purposes.

"I began thinking about a conservation easement when I saw an article in The Republican about Maryland Mountain Trust getting started here in Garrett County. The article explained conservation easements. I thought that was just perfect for me. It was what I wanted. I didn't know you could do that," she said.

Marilyn began talking with people from Maryland Mountain Trust and Maryland Environmental Trust. She discussed what she learned about land preservation programs with her three children. "The kids all agreed. They want it to remain unchanged as well," she noted. And so the decision was made. The documents were developed, the stipulations of land use were specified, and the deed was properly signed, sealed, and recorded at the Garrett County Courthouse.

A deed of conservation easement becomes a legal part of the property deed and is filed with the county land records. Should Marilyn sell her property, the purchaser (and any other future owner of the land) would be legally bound by the prohibitions to development outlined in the deed.

In exchange for relinquishing to the state the rights of development of the land, the person who contracts a deed of easement in Maryland may benefit from a reduction in state and federal taxes. "This came as a surprise to me. But getting some tax relief was a nice bonus," Marilyn said.



FUTURE GENERATIONS WILL KNOW pretty much how the land along Buffalo Run looked for thousands of years — at least the 100 acres to which Marilyn Moors holds the deed. Placing a conservation easement on this property, she has relinquished future development rights and detailed in her deed what may and may not be done to that property when the deed passes to future holders. The farm house on the property, pictured above, was built in 1880. Herbs, fruits, and vegetables thrive in Marilyn's gardens. Marilyn explains that, anthropologically speaking, she doesn't farm, she gardens. The garden, she said, uses only hand tools.

At Frostburg State University, Marilyn teaches courses in cultural anthropology and gender. She also heads up the national Guatemala Scholars Network, an organization working on behalf of the people of the Maya culture.

Anthropological research and advocacy for the Maya people have taken Marilyn into remote areas of Mexico and Guatemala as well as across the United States. She said she has seen land laid waste by harsh use and the erosive effect on the culture of those who inhabit it. "I have seen ecological destruction in Mexico and in Guatemala. I have seen the devastation of clear cutting of timber in the Pacific Northwest," Marilyn explained.

As the earth and its resources are wasted, the people cannot avoid being affected, she pointed out. "There is such a close connection between the land and the people. Sometimes, the people get pushed into doing things that are ecologically destructive because they see no other way to survive," she admitted.

But Marilyn found that she did have an option. She could make a choice. "I really feel privileged that I can do this and I'm grateful to the state of Maryland for having this program. I wanted to preserve this land; to just give a little piece of it back to nature and to God, and let God do with it what she likes."

State Enhances Water Quality/ Wildlife Plan

Farmers considering participation in the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) have been offered some increased incentives to do so. Governor Parris Glendening and Farm Service Agency administrator Keith Kelly announced last Thursday the augmented benefits to those who subscribe to the program.

CREP was designed to help protect water quality and enhance current ecosystems by reducing soil erosion, controlling nutrient run-off, and increasing wildlife habitat. To achieve these results, farmers entering the CREP program are reimbursed for removing environmentally sensitive farmland from production. In addition, CREP provides landowners the funds for planting forest or grass buffers along streams.

The upgraded incentive package increases the width of buffers located between farm fields and streams. It also allows shallow-water wetlands to be covered by the program. While improving the plan, specific program goals in nutrient reduction and habitat protection were added.

The governor has also committed $10 million to be used to pay a one-time $100 per acre bonus upon enrollment in CREP. In addition, federal monetary reimbursement rates have also increased an average of 30 percent.

"This new action is an extension of previous advantages offered to people entering the CREP program. There is a list of eligibilities for the program, most importantly that the land adjoins a stream," explained Wade Dorsey of the DNR at Mt. Nebo.

To learn more about the CREP program, persons may call Dorsey at 301-334-3296; Mike Crozier of the Farm Services office at 301-334-6955; or Garry Morfoot of the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service at 301-334-6950.

"Maryland's farmers are demonstrating their stewardship by removing these sensitive riparian areas from agricultural production," said Sarah Taylor-Rogers, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources.

Coach Copeland Reflects On All-Stars' Fine Run

After a superb Senior Baseball League regular season, a Maryland state championship, and a strong showing in the Eastern Region Tournament, the Oakland All-Stars fell to South Vineland (N.J.) by an 8-0 margin in last Wednesday night's semi-final regional contest.

"It was a tough way to end the year, but I'm very proud of the kids," All-Stars head coach Doug Copeland commented afterward. "We had a great season, and won the state title for the first time. The guys have a lot to be proud of and remember for a long time."

Copeland said his squad's hitting fell off in its last two outings (which included a heartbreaking 3-2 loss to Newark (Del.) the night before the semi-final defeat) because of some tremendous pitching by the opponents. "Newark had a pitcher who consistently threw in the upper 80s, and South Vineland's pitcher had an outstanding curveball. When you don't see pitchers like that too often, it's hard to prepare for," the coach said.

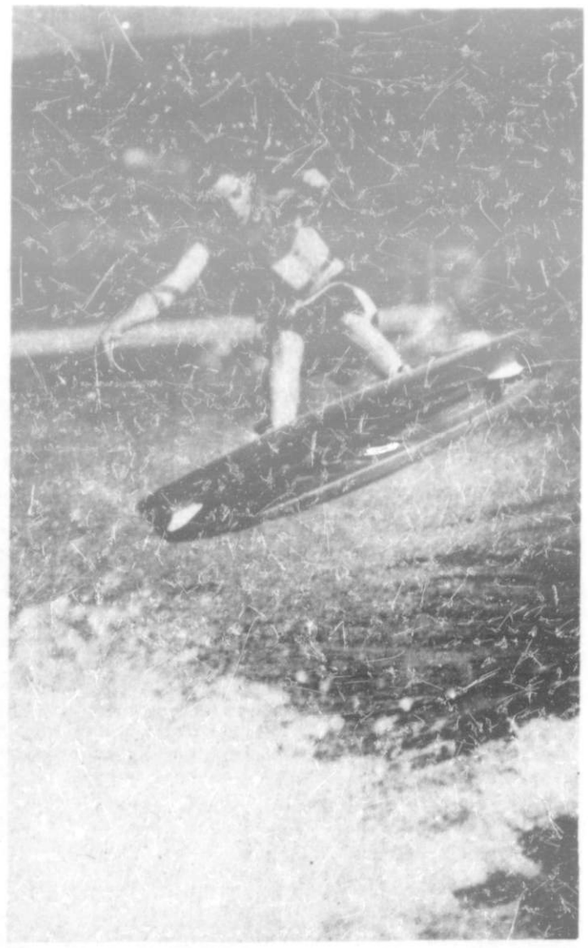
As the semi-final matchup got underway, South Vineland, the New Jersey state champs, jumped out to an early lead on a solo home run in the second inning. A two-out double steal before the inning was out made the score 2-0.

South Vineland hit paydirt two innings later with three home runs, a two-run shot and two solo blasts. Down 7-0, the Oakland squad, seemingly emotionally spent after Tuesday night's extra-inning loss, was unable to mount an attack. South Vineland pitcher Carlos Ortiz held the All-Stars to seven hits on the night while striking out eight batters and issuing only two walks, while his squad racked up 10 hits, including a tourney record four home runs.

Bryson Meyers paced Oakland's output by going 3 for 3 with a double, while Chad Panther added two singles and Ryan Ewing contributed a double.

"We started off strong in the tournament, and broke a number of tourney records," (as reported last week), said Copeland. "I was pleased with the strong team effort overall. We got a number of strong individual performances, especially from Meyers, Steve Eiswert, Ryan Ewing, Ricky Reams, and Chad Panther.

"This will be a hard group of guys to replace. Coaching them was easy, it seemed like all we had to do was fill out the lineup card and let them go out and play. I've never seen 13 kids so close to one another, either. There were no personality conflicts, they were like 13 buddies who went out every game to play hard as a team. I'll miss them," Copeland concluded.



WAKEBOARDING is a growing sport both on a national level and locally, and a demonstration of such will be provided by participants in the annual Bust Largness Wakeboard Contest at Deep Creek Lake, slated for this Sunday, Aug. 20, in the waters in front of contest sponsor High Mountain Sports along U.S. Rt. 219. The event, which is sanctioned by the Hyperlite Wakeboards Hypertour, gives contestants two 30-second passes to demonstrate for the judges various freestyle moves, such as "grabs," "riding fakie," and "getting big air." The wakeboard boat will be provided by Patterson Boat Company. "Getting big air" in the photos above are Julie Bortz of Olney, left, and Swanton's own Grant McDonald. Registration for the contest will begin at 7 a.m. Sunday, and the event will get under way at 8 a.m. while the surface of the lake is still calm. Spectators are welcome and should be able to find good seats for the event on the shore in front of the Trader's Landing complex. Sounds Fun Entertainment DJ Jonny Rock will provide music. Persons desiring more information may telephone Steve at 301-387-4199.

The courses will provide information on hunting regulations, cleaning of bagged game, basic first aid, firearms safety and handling, and shooting practice. The classes will be held at the Herrington Manor State Park office, and transportation will be provided to the Savage River Firing Range for the Wednesday night shooting practice session.

Participants under the age of 12 must be accompanied by an adult, and all participants under 16 will receive a Hunter Safety Certificate, which is required of all youth who intend to participate in the Junior Hunt Day.

Interested persons may note that several other free hunter safety courses are being offered at various locations throughout Garrett County over the next several weeks. Each of those three-session courses will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and one Saturday morning, over the span of a single week. See separate story for details.

WOMEN AND LASERS SAIL INVITATIONAL REGATTAS
by Dan Muss

Deep Creek Lake was the scene this past weekend of two regattas, run in parallel. One was the Woman's Eastern Regional Flying Scot Championship; the other was the Laser Invitational Regatta. Both regattas sail two races on Saturday and one on Sunday.

Every woman's regatta that I can remember since it started has had quite heavy wind, and this past weekend was no exception. I went out in my sailboat to watch the regatta and, as near as I could determine, it was blowing out of the north at over 10 knots and gusting to over 15. I heard later that there were gusts in the second race over 20! And, typical of Deep Creek Lake, it was both puffy and shifty, giving the crews plenty of work.

The woman's regatta is sailed in two fleets: the Championship Division, which has all-female teams, and the Challenger Division, which has female skippers, but may use men in crew positions. The Laser Regatta is sailed with the usual A and B Fleets. There were 18 Flying Scots and 12 Lasers competing.

Noteworthy events included the fact that Jane Mahan hit the leeward mark in both races on Saturday and had to do penalty turns both times. (Hitting a mark is easy to do in those conditions.) She might well have come in first in the regatta if she could have avoided those miscues.

Brand-new and very gutsy sailors Ann and John Schneider sailed a valiant race in the first race on Saturday, but capsized and then turtled on the finish line. Our hats are off to you, Ann and John; it took courage to sail in that wind.

Ryan Schubert, a graduate of the Deep Creek Sailing School, also capsized his Laser on Saturday, but was awarded first place in the Laser B Division. That was really heavy air for such a little guy.

At the start of the second race on Saturday, the race commander, Dave Mahan, called both Pat Farrell and Jane Meehan over early and they had to restart. (We are not sure what befell Dave for calling his wife over early; he was just doing his duty.) Jane had another problem in the first race on Saturday — her portside jib cleat broke and her forward crew, Jenifer Meehan, had to hold the jib in without any mechanical help. I'll bet she was glad when her skipper came about onto starboard tack.

At the end of Saturday there was a three-way tie for first place in the women's regatta between Meredith Dodd, Jane Mahan, and Stephanie Mahan, so everyone was waiting for Sunday with baited breath.

Well, Sunday arrived with very little air at race time. There was a postponement for a while, but when a breeze came up out of the north the committee went ahead with the start and got the race off in very light, variable air. It was a stark contrast to the howler of the day before.

Brahms.

In the second program, on Saturday, the musicians will present the Sonata in C for Two Violins by Sergei Prokofiev, Sonata for Viola and Piano by Johannes Brahms, Sonata for Cello and Piano by Claude Debussy, and Piano Quartet in E flat Major, Op. 87, by Antonin Dvorak.

Jesse Levine is the music director and conductor of the Norwalk Symphony Orchestra, as well as a professor of viola and chamber music at the Yale School of Music. He has served as music director and conductor of the Chappaqua Orchestra, the Feld Ballet, and the Orchestra Del Principado de Asturias in Spain. He was principal violist of the Buffalo, Dallas, and Baltimore symphony orchestras, and was a member of the faculty of the State University of New York at Buffalo and Stony Brook. He has also taught at the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore. Levine is frequently invited to present master classes in viola, and he has done so internationally, from Spain to France to the United States.

Ian Hobson comes to Garrett County with an international reputation as a pianist, conductor, and teacher. Born in Wolverhampton, England, he studied music at the Royal Academy of Music and Cambridge University in England, and then at Yale University. His international career was launched in 1981 when he won first prize at the Leeds International Piano Competition. Hobson is the permanent conductor of Sinfonia da Camera, a chamber orchestra he formed in 1984 that quickly gained international recognition through its recordings. He has performed with numerous major orchestras around the world.

Lu Sun, violinist, debuted at age 17 as a solo guest of the San Francisco Symphony. She has since performed extensively throughout the United States, Europe, and South America. Having received her bachelor's degree in music performance at Indiana University, she has studied with world renowned violinists Franco Gulli and Erick Friedman. She is currently a performer with the Hartford Symphony, as well as a regular guest soloist in various international music festivals.

Stephen Kates, an internationally known cellist, is in his 25th year as a professor of cello at the Peabody Conservatory of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, where was recently elected chairman of the string department. He has performed as a soloist with most of the major American orchestras, including New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. In October of 1998, Kates presented the American premiere of the Cello Concerto by Laurent Petitgard, with Jesse Levine conducting the Norwalk Symphony Orchestra.

Tickets to the chamber concerts are $12 for adults and $2 for youth ages 18 and younger. For more information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082.

Immediately following the Saturday evening concert, a reception will be held by GLAF to honor Friedman and Kathryn Sincell-Corwell. The two have collaborated for 14 years to present the annual classical music series, which until this year also included a weekend of orchestra music with the Symphony at Deep Creek. Since the series' inception, Friedman has served as the music director and conductor of the series, and Sincell-Corwell, a native of Mountain Lake Park, has been the executive director. The public is invited to attend the reception.

The sponsors for the Deep Creek Chamber Players are Sincell Publishing Company Inc. and Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. These companies are season sponsors, along with the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. The GLAF programs are also funded in part by grants from the Garrett County and Maryland State arts councils, which in turn are supported by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Road Program

a minimum of two years. The sections will remain with the specific participants as long as they actively participate in the program.

Participants may request a specific section of roadway for adoption. However, for safety reasons, some roads with narrow or no shoulders or with limited sight distances may be considered ineligible. The county officials are reserving the right to deem any section of county roadway unsafe for adoption, Gnegy said.

Litter clean-ups must be performed on each side of the roadway at least four times each year. Additional clean-ups may be done if the participant feels they are necessary. The suggested time frame for the four clean-ups is April, June, August, and October. Clean-ups are only to be performed during daylight hours and only in good weather conditions, officials said.

Participants must be at least 12 years old, and groups with members under the age of 16 years must be supervised by an adult (18 years or older) at all times during the clean-up. At least one adult is required for every five participants under the age of 16. Children under 12 will not permitted at clean-up sites.

Participants in the program must each sign an adopt-a-road agreement with the county verifying that the clean-up and safety procedures are understood and will be followed. Each organization will be asked to select a group leader to serve as a liaison with the county's program coordinator, which is the staff of the county roads department. The group leader will be responsible for signing the adopt-a-road agreement, scheduling cleanup dates, distributing and collecting safety gear, and ensuring compliance with clean-up and safety procedures.

When participants sign up to join the program, the county roads department will install signs displaying the individual/organization's name at each end of the adopted section of road. (No business logos will be displayed on the signs.) If a business sponsors a group, the sign will note the employees of that business. Signs will be removed in the fall and replaced in the spring in order to minimize damage during winter plowing operations.

Each participating group will be provided with safety and collection information, orange safety vests, litter bags, and portable, lightweight safety warning signs. Participants will be required to supply their own gloves. The roads department will supply the individual/organization with all necessary forms related to the adopt-a-road program, and will collect the litter bags following each clean-up.

Participants will be asked to schedule all clean-up activities with the roads department at least five days in advance. The department can be contacted at 301-334-3988 during normal working hours of Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

While the clean-up activities will not begin until next spring, persons are encouraged to sign up for the program now, Gnegy said. This will allow time for ordering materials and making the individual signs.

Life's Treasures by Sylvia Douley
Moms are life's treasures
She nurtured and held you, loved you, and stayed up late, fed you and dried you.
Thank God for a mom's love.
Appreciate what you have, a mom is God's precious treasure.
He made a mom special, all are unique in a special way.
Memories linger, hidden in the heart like a treasure.
They cannot be taken away, what seems like a lifetime to get.
Mom, you are God's treasure now resting in his arms.
But we hold you deep in our hearts, always being our greatest treasure, our mom.
We love you and miss you.

Edwards School of Medicine at Marshall University, Huntington, W.Va., for having attained a 4.0 grade point average during the 1999-2000 school year. Cook, who began his second year of medical school this week, and each of his fellow honorees from the Edwards School of Medicine were presented with a plaque by Dr. Patrick Brown, associate dean of student affairs at Marshall University.

A 1994 honor graduate of Southern High School, Cook graduated summa cum laude from West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, W.Va., in 1998 with a bachelor of science degree in biology. Between his graduation from Wesleyan and the beginning of medical school, he served for one year as a member of the AmeriCorps program in Charleston, W.Va. His AmeriCorps duties included working with the Sissonville Elementary School to obtain grant monies plus educational supplies and programming for the rural community.

Five Residents Graduate From MCC Program

The Maryland Conservation Corps (MCC), based out of Potomac Garrett State Forest, has concluded another session as five local corps members completed the forestry, fisheries, and wildlife work skills program.

Tara M. Byrne and Georgia R. Guyton, both of Mtn. Lake Park, and Aaron J. Cline, Mark D. Snyder, and Eric B. Parks, all of the Swanton area, completed the 1,700-hour AmeriCorps-sponsored program. Each participant received a $4,725 tuition reimbursement, earned certification in wilderness first responder and in swift and cold water rescue, and participated in a wildland firefighter training program.

Parks and Guyton were called out this past Saturday as members of two fire crews deployed from Maryland to help battle the wildfires burning in Montana. The fires have been burning for over a month, and over 367,531 acres have been scorched, and dozens of structures have been lost. As of this past Monday the pair were stationed at base camp in Missoula, Mont., awaiting their respective assignments. They should be returning to Garrett County by August 28, according to MCC spokesperson Patti J. Glotfelty.

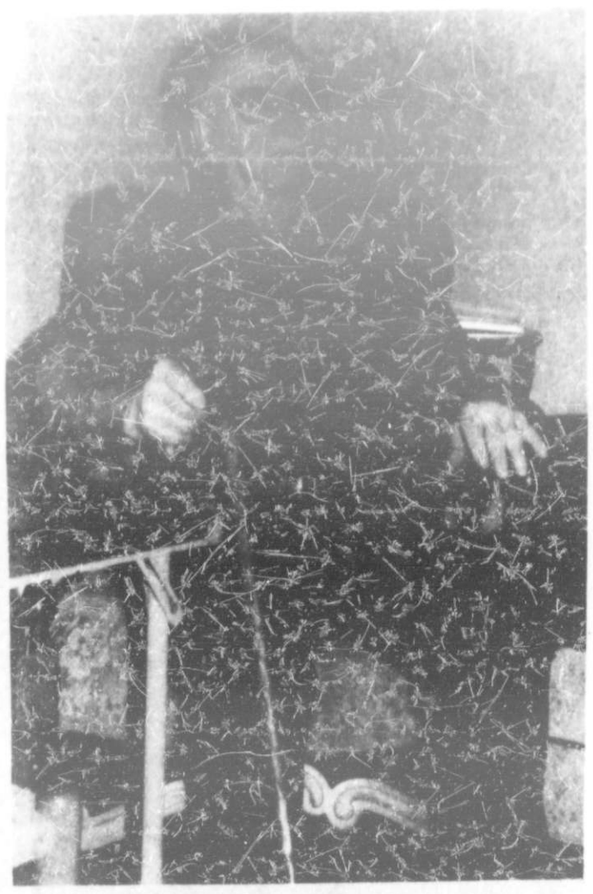
Homer Rembold To Celebrate 100th Birthday On August 28



REMINISCING WITH FAMILY MEMBERS - During his century of life, Homer Rembold has stored up a whole pack of memories. With daughter-in-law Alice Rembold (left) and daughter Thelma Shoemaker he recently recounted stories from his early childhood and shared photos and memories of days gone by.

by Peggy Santamaria

It will be a special birthday celebration this year for Homer Rembold of nearby Springs, Pa. On August 28 he will be joined by friends and family to mark his 100th birthday. Born just south of Oakland in Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., he grew up on the family farm with his two brothers and one sister. Homer, the youngest, is the last living member of that family.

Homer is known by many people in the area for his woodworking. His trademark products were miniature baseball bats that he made as souvenir items at the Springs Folk Festival to demonstrate the tools of the woodworker's trade.

Some of Homer's earliest memories are of walking to school, he said. "It was a one room school with a wood stove. One teacher taught all grades, 1-8. Not like today at all," he recalled with a smile.

In addition to attending school, the Rembold children had their farm chores to tend to each day. "Caring for the livestock and cutting the firewood — those were the things we were responsible for," he said.

The first radio that Homer remembered was also very different from the ones listened to today. "The radio had ear phones. Only one person could listen to it at a time. If someone else wanted to listen, well, you had to get some more ear phones," he recalled.

At age 20, Homer set out on his own and went to Keyser, W.Va. "That's where I got my first real job — picking apples. I thought that was a pretty good job, too. I picked 60 bushels per day," he recounted.

It was in Somerset County, Pa., in 1921, that Homer met Nettie Livengood, who would become his bride. "We were married for 71 years and 6 months," he noted.

Together Nettie and Homer raised their children: Edgar, Olen, Cleo Saylor, and Thelma Shoemaker. The struggle of the Depression challenged the Rembold family as it did others, Homer remembered. Though they raised some food crops, other income was necessary to support the family. "I got a job in a cabinet shop around 1930. That when I started woodworking. I earned 20 cents and hour and was glad to have the job," he said.

His woodworking skills led Homer to a long-term career, which included owning his own business. In 1968 he retired but continued to work in his woodshop and made the bats, rolling pins, and noodle cutters for the festival in Springs.

Today, still living in the house he built for his family, Homer is surrounded by family. In addition to his four children, he has 13 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren, and 5 great-great-grandchildren.

Women Charged

rettes had been confiscated because they had been in the possession of her younger sister, who was underage, and that they had likely been destroyed.

Upon hearing this, Crites grew disorderly and used obscene language directed toward the deputy and in the presence of other citizens. She was asked to calm down and lower her voice, a request that allegedly resulted in a renewed outburst as she began to walk away. DFC Helbig and DFC Chuck Nolan approached her to ask her to cease her behavior again, and she responded with more obscenities.

At that point Crites was placed under arrest, but as she was being led away by the deputies she reportedly attempted to resist by pulling away and wrapping her legs around a fence post. The deputies pried her free and led her to a police cruiser, where they attempted to place handcuffs on her. She continued to resist, and allegedly headbutted, kicked, and bit DFC Nolan, and kicked DFC Helbig before being subdued.

During this altercation, Alberta Mae Miller, 58, Grantsville, entered into the fray in a suspected attempt to hinder Crites's arrest. She pulled DFC Helbig's shoulder to try and get him away from Crites until Sheriff Dick Sanders intervened and restrained her. Miller was then placed under arrest, at which point she reportedly kicked DFC Helbig in the leg.

While Crites and Miller were being restrained, Karen Elaine Nazelrod, 37, Oakland, reportedly confronted Major Gary Berkebile of the sheriff's office. She was advised to remain clear of the scene, but refused, and was subsequently arrested by Major Berkebile.

The full extent of the charges is as follows: Crites — assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, and disorderly conduct; Miller — assaulting a police officer, disorderly conduct, hindering a police officer, and failure to obey a lawful order; and Nazelrod — disorderly conduct and failure to obey a lawful order.

All three subjects spent the night in the Garrett County Detention Center. Following an appearance before a district court commissioner this morning, Miller and Nazelrod were both released on their own recognizance. Crites's appearance before the commissioner was still pending as of this morning.

Carefirst Offers Rural Seniors Rx Drug Program

State legislators, working with CareFirst BlueCross/BlueShield, have provided temporary relief for seniors in 17 Maryland counties who currently lack access to a Medicare HMO and the prescription drug coverage such plans typically have provided, according to information released last week by Dr. Eric R. Baugh, senior vice president of medical affairs and network management for the insurance company.

"Under Maryland's new Rural Senior Pharmacy Program, as many as 15,000 seniors can receive up to $1,000 in prescription drug benefits annually as well as additional discounts on prescription medicines for a monthly premium of $40," Baugh explained.

Three insurance carriers, led by CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield's $8.8 million contribution, are providing $1.8 million in subsidies over the next two years to help underwrite the program. CareFirst is currently enrolling seniors who previously had received their health care through a Medicare HMO plan in Garrett County.

Seniors interested in learning more about how they can benefit from the new program may call CareFirst at 1-800-972-4612; Angela Lucas of the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8253 or 301-895-3113; or June Heselbach of the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403.

We Care

In the middle of the night
When I feel heartbroken and sad
A loved one ill and dying,
And sinking very fast.

I look up to the Master
For we have walked this path before
And I talk with Him and ask Him
To be with this precious soul.

My loved one whom I've cherished
And cared for every day
In sunshine and in sorrow,
In night time and in day.

I feel so very helpless
And I don't know what to do,
I'm just believing that the Master
Will carry us through.

Our strength is gone
And the trials have weakened us along the way,
But I'm thankful for my faith in God
It is my hope and stay.

It doesn't matter that I'm worn
For God, I know you're there,
To keep your children in your arms
And nestled in your care.

And when this dark hour has passed us by
I know you'll make a way,
To guide us and protect us
Until a better day.

"For my grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness." II Corinthians 12:9

Poem written July 11, 2000, in memory of Thomas E. White by his wife of 9 years, Shirley.

Showcase For Musicians Slated At Spruce Forest

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville, will hold its September Musicians' Showcase on Saturday, Sept. 2.

Ellinor Benedict, a bluegrass fiddler from Grantsville, will be set up outdoors amidst the 75-year-old spruce grove, beginning at noon. Jesus Cares Ministries of Oakland will follow at 1 p.m.

"The first Saturday of each month throughout our summer season we showcase the talents and artistry of local musicians, who offer gentle and mellow sounds for the hundreds of visitors who venture to Spruce Forest on the weekends," said village administrator Trish Morgan. "While folks are enjoying the music in the village, we invite them to stop inside any of the authentic log cabins and schoolhouses to visit and talk with expert artisans as they work at their craft."

Spruce Forest Artisan Village is open Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., May through October, and admission is free. Activities at the village are sponsored in part by the Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils. Artisans at work at Spruce Forest include Meriam Brode, basketweaver and spinner; Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, stained glass artists; Jody Best, blacksmith; Ann Jones, weaver; Lynn Lais, potter; Gary Yoder, bird sculptor; Peggy Nixon, slate painter; and Connie Stark, teddy bear artist and herb specialist.

For more information about the Musicians' Showcase or upcoming village activities, persons may contact Ms. Morgan at 301-895-5332 or visit the organization's web site at www.spruceforest.org.

Salas, Stuckenbruck, Kim To Present GLAF Chamber Concert

Veronica Salas, Dale Stuckenbruck, and Haewon Kim (Stuckenbruck) will present a chamber concert on the stage of Garrett Community College on Saturday, Aug. 26, at 8 p.m. The concert is being sponsored by Fred and Nancy Learey and presented by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

"These three popular musicians have been integral members of the Symphony at Deep Creek for 10 years, and have graciously welcomed the opportunity to perform once again for Garrett County audiences," said Beth Johnson, GLAF executive director.

The performance will feature Salas on viola, Stuckenbruck on violin, and Haewon Kim (Stuckenbruck) on piano. The program will include Concerto for Viola and Piano in D major, Opus I, by Stamitz; Sonata for Violin and Piano in G major, Opus 96 #10, by Beethoven; Rondo Capriccioso in E major, Opus 14, by Mendelssohn; Duo Violino E Alto by Villa-Lobos; and Trio for Violin, Piano, Viola in E flat major by Brahms.

Salas, a native of Chile, has been hailed by The New York Times as "powerful, creating long flowing phrases," and by Stradivarius Magazine in a solo viola performance as "deeply moving." She received her bachelor's, master's, and doctorate degrees in music from the Juilliard School, where she studied with Lillian Fuchs. She has appeared as soloist with the Aspen Festival Orchestra, the Southern California Symphony, and the Colonial Symphony of New Jersey.

Violinist Dale Stuckenbruck engages in a diverse musical life as a soloist, concertmaster, chamber musician, and teacher. He has performed as a soloist with the Brooklyn Philharmonic, Philharmonia Virtuosi, New York Virtuosi, New York String Ensemble, Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestra, and the Taipei City Symphony Orchestra. He performs with his wife, Haewon Kim, pianist, in recitals and chamber music.

Kim's studies began in her native Korea, where she appeared frequently from the age of 7 with the Korean Broadcasting Symphony Orchestra and the Seoul Philharmonic, most recently with the KBS at the opening of the Sejong Arts Center. Subsequently she has won numerous competitions with these organizations, and has appeared frequently on television and in radio. Today she is in much demand as a partner in recitals in New York and elsewhere with such artists as Erick Friedman, Sergiu Luca, Marion Davies, Dennis Brott, and her husband, Dale Stuckenbruck.

Tickets for the program, which are $12 for adults and $2 for youth 18 and younger, may be purchased in advance by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, and will also be available at the door.

Season sponsors for Garrett Lakes Arts Festival are Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Deep Creek Mountain Resort, Sincell Publishing Co., and the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. GLAF is supported in part by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts.

BLESS THE CHILD

Rated R - Running Time: 1:47 - Released 8/11/00

You know, you give someone an Academy Award, and suddenly she thinks she can act. Kim Basinger, who got the 1997 supporting actress nod for L.A. Confidential and followed up with her gut-wrenchingly inept performance in I Dreamed Of Africa, is on hand to make us all cringe again, but this time the concept is on an even par with her inability. A lame retread of last years God-vs.-Devil film End Of Days, which was not a particularly good movie in and of itself, Bless The Child is an unholy waste of time, money, and celluloid. Not only is Basinger unable to generate the slightest trace of sympathy with her wooden performance, but Rufus Sewell, this year's model of Satanic evil, is about as scary as an angry uncle. (You know he's mad, but he doesn't really have any significant power over you.) Meanwhile, 7-year-old Holliston Coleman, who plays the titular child, isn't really asked to do anything but look scared (she only has about 5 lines). The only actor able to convince is Jimmy Smits as the seminary-student-turned-FBI-officer, who delivers a modicum of believablility playing the same reliable good guy he has portrayed many times over.

The film, written by Thomas Rickman and Clifford and Ellen Green, based on the novel by Cathy Cash Spellman, and directed by Chuck Russell (The Mask), opens during Christmas time in New York City, when we are shown and told that there is a special star in the sky just like the one in Bethlehem all those centuries ago. Maggie O'Connor (Basinger) is a divorced psychiatric nurse unable to have children, who is visited by her heroin-addict sister Jenna (Angela Bettis). It seems that Jenna is able to have children; in fact, she's got one with her, and after a few terse verbal exchanges, she leaves the child in Maggie's care. As little Cody grows (eventually played by Coleman), it becomes clear she is different, and doctors attribute the girl's head-banging, seldom-speaking behavior to autism. She is enrolled in a Catholic "special needs" school where she begins to make progress.

When Cody is six years old, however, Jenna returns with her new husband, the famous drug-rehab guru Eric Stark (Sewell), and the couple demands custody of the child. Naturally, after caring for Cody for six years, Maggie is reluctant to give her up to a couple of cleaned-up druggies, especially since Eric has horns and a pitchfork. Just kidding. As it turns out, Cody is a new Christ, and Eric is a representative of Satan who is attempting to capture her and turn her to his demonic ways. But the kid has difficulty deciding, since her uncanny ability to spin plates could land her a lucrative job in the circus.

If this film were just written badly, or just acted badly, it might have some value. But here we have a double negative. Basinger and company seem unfortunately suited to the hackneyed material, and director Russell's inclusion of a few hallucinatory bats and rats is not enough to make it worthwhile. ★

AUTUMN IN NEW YORK

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:43 - Released 8/11/00

It's amazing what a little bit of talent can do with a so so idea. Autumn In New York, written by Allison Burnett and directed by actress turned director Joan Chen, is a formulaic, tear-jerking update of Love Story (terminally-ill young woman meets love of her life), but somehow Winona Ryder and Richard Gere make it worth seeing, especially Ryder, who is effervescent in her doomed character's lust for life. Gere, who portrays the suave, charming playboy (again), counterbalances her youthful exuberance; he may be playing the same part as ever, but perhaps this is simply the film it was made for. Their chemistry is largely responsible for any success Autumn might enjoy, although the weakness of its present competition certainly doesn't hurt.

Gere plays 48 year old Will Keane, bachelor, socialite, and known womanizer, who is the owner of one of New York's most prestigious restaurants. He meets artist/poet Charlotte (Ryder) when she celebrates her 22nd birthday party at his establishment. The two are introduced by Charlotte's grandmother, Dolly (Elaine Stritch), the mother of Will's old friend Katie (now deceased), who was Charlotte's mother. Although Will is old enough to be her daddy, the two hit it off and begin a carefree relationship which he considers nothing more than another of his frequent Cassanova-style flings. But when Charlotte tells him she is dying of a heart condition and may only have a year left to live, he is struck with conflicting feelings: should he allow this young, terminally-ill girl to fall in love with him when he is unable to make a serious commitment? On the other hand, if she really cares for him, should he deny her the experience of love during her last days? What he doesn't expect is the depth of the feelings he has for her. And what finally changes his life is the visit he receives from his own long-lost daughter (played beautifully by Vera Farmiga), who makes him realize how much he needs to change his ways for Charlotte.

Gere is not doing anything new here; he's the same character he played in Pretty Woman, Sommersby, First Knight, Red Corner, Runaway Bride, etc., etc. Sometimes it works; sometimes it doesn't. This time, perhaps thanks to Ryder, it works. Gere is charming, conceited, debonair, and, eventually, humble. His character takes heat from grandma Dolly, who saw what he did to her daughter all those years ago and begs him to "leave (Charlotte) alone," and his friend and bartender John (Anthony LaPaglia), who reproaches him with cynicism: "she's the perfect girlfriend — young, pretty, and on her way out." Even Charlotte is brutally pragmatic about the situation, saying, "In a year or so, I'll be this terrific sob story you can use to bag more chicks." Ryder is breezy and energetic; she bouys the film up from its depressing subject matter, as was clearly director Chen's intention.

Romances can wear thin, and Burnett's script is nothing special, jumping from one predictable, melodramatic twist to the next. But Autumn In New York shows that the right couple of actors can make the difference. ★★★½

THE REPLACEMENTS

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:58 - Released 8/11/00

It's amazing to me how consistently predictable sports comedies are. Everyone knows how a film like The Replacements is going to turn out after the first five minutes, just like we know it for Major League or The Mighty Ducks. Even Oliver Stone's self-indulgent football opera of last year, Any Given Sunday, was predictable, and it took itself much more seriously than this. The Replacements, written by Vince McKewin (Fly Away Home) and directed by Howard Deutch (Grumpier Old Men), definitely does not take itself seriously; in fact it seems to suffer from a conflict in tone. While quarterback Keanu Reeves and coach Gene Hackman see themselves in a serious drama about second chances, most of the supporting cast, under Deutch's orders, are going for the kind of silly comedy we saw in a hundred Burt Reynolds films in the '70s (like The Longest Yard, for instance). Still, for some reason, we watch, we root, we cheer, we get excited for the team. It's fluff, but it's watchable fluff.

In this year's underdog-team-makes-good story, the premise stems from a situation all too familiar in pro sports: a players' strike. When the nation's pro players suspend the season, demanding an increase in their $5 million salary cap, Washington Sentinels owner O'Neill (Jack Warden) seeks out his old buddy Jimmy McGinty (Hackman) to organize a team of replacement players to finish the season. If the team wins three of its remaining four games, it goes to the playoffs. Jimmy agrees under the conditions that he be allowed total control and that he gets to choose the players.

His first choice is Shane "Footsteps" Falco (Reeves), a promising college QB who choked in the last minute of the Sugar Bowl in 1987 and has since disappeared. In addition to Falco, Jimmy recruits a motley crew of supporting players, including a former Navy Seal who tackles anything he sees, especially if it's wearing red (Jon Favreau); a Welsh soccer star kicker (Rhys Ifans); a runner who can't catch (Orlando Jones); a receiver who can't hear (David Denman), and a couple of phat gangstas (Faizon Love, Michael Taliferro) and a Japanese sumo wrestler (Ace Yonamine) as linemen. Meanwhile, the Sentinels' head cheerleader and Reeves's love interest (Brooke Langton, Melrose Place) recruits a bunch of strippers (is the cheerleaders union on strike too?), whose style substitutes raw sex appeal for team spirit.

The first time we see Keanu Reeves, he is just getting up, yawning, looking like he had a particularly hard night. The trouble is, he acts that way for the duration of the film. Attempting to endow his character with a sullen determination, he simply looks like he's not had enough sleep. Hackman is adequate as always, superior to the material, really. As the team struggles through its final four regular season games, each with a predictable outcome, its members grow, develop cameraderie, engage in various altercations with the striking pro players (led by Brett Cullen as the cocky quarterback), and eventually, inevitably learn to be a team. In between the game sequences, which feature not only the playing but generous doses of the cheerleaders' R-rated cheering, there is the developing love story between Reeves and Langton. Although she carries a sweet simple sexiness about her, Reeves is unable to make much of a spark.

Guest appearances by Pat Summerall and John Madden, as themselves, lends a touch of authenticity to this romp, but The Replacements is mainly just boys-will-be-boys silliness set to the strains of Gloria Gaynor's popular-of-late movie theme song "I Will Survive." ★★★½

Bloomington, Eastern Garrett VFDs Respond

Firefighters from the Bloomington and Eastern Garrett volunteer fire departments were among those who responded to a blaze in Barton Monday evening that destroyed a single-story pole barn. Also responding to the 6:49 p.m. alarm were units from the Barton, Lonaconing, Potomac, Piedmont, Shaft, Midland, Tri-Towns, and Clarysville VFDs.

According to a report from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, the barn was located along Russell Road in Barton. A passer-by used a cellular telephone to report the blaze, which had nearly consumed the structure prior to the arrival of the first fire units. The barn and the approximate 700 bales of hay inside were destroyed. The loss was estimated to be $40,000.

The cause of the fire remains under investigation.

Little did we know that morning
The sorrow that day would bring.
God took you into heaven
To hear the angels sing.
Some may think that we're not lonely
When at times they see us smile.
Little do they know the heartache
That we suffer all the while.
Dear Lord tell him how Much we miss him
And give him all our love.
It's been so lonely without him
And life hasn't been the same.
In life we loved him dearly.
In death we love him still.
God knows how much we miss him
As this ends three lonely years.

Gone from our home, but not from our hearts.
Lovingly missed by wife Huldah and family

Health Promotion, Wellness Project To Involve AC, Frostburg, WVU

Public health in the tri-state stands to improve thanks to a ground-breaking partnership among three higher education institutions in the region and a rare grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, according to a release from Allegany College of Maryland.

The Health Promotion and Wellness 2+2+2 Partnership Project, funded with $305,000 in one of only 10 grants awarded in fiscal year 2000 by the federal agency, involves Allegany College, Frostburg State University, and West Virginia University. The three-year effort is designed to address chronic health shortcomings in this central Appalachian region, relative to the nation as a whole, by educating individuals for careers in health promotion and wellness.

At present, there are no allied health programs in western Maryland and the surrounding region with that purpose. This project will fill this gap by creating a coordinated degree track from the associate's to the bachelor's to the master's degree levels.

Graduates of this 2+2+2 continuum are expected to have a direct role in health promotion and wellness by countering the region's increased risk of heart disease, cancer, and mortality, and the consequence of such behaviors as obesity, smoking, and avoidance of exercise, the release said.

"The audience for this effort is students who are the first generation in their family to attend college, hence its start at the community college level. The hope is that graduates will influence not only persons in their work, but also members of their family and community," stated an AC spokesperson.

Holders of these degrees will be prepared for health, fitness, and wellness careers with private- and public-sector employers, nonprofit organizations, and residential communities, among other settings.

"In both their professional and personal lives, these graduates will assess and respond to the health needs of residents in a rural, underserved region," the spokesperson said.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services grant provides for continuing education for health and wellness personnel now in the field and in the future through establishment of a regional training center. Based at AC's Center for Continuing Education, this entity would offer education and training to help professionals remain current and gain certification through such groups as the American College of Sports Medicine and CHES, for certified health education specialists.

Creation of a health promotion and wellness resource library, also part of the federal grant, will support the education and training of current and future professionals. Materials there, especially a well-regarded computer software program, will also help these professionals directly serve their clients through health assessment and prevention.

The three-year period of HHS' Public Health Services grant began July 1, and planning among the three higher education institutions involved is ongoing to implement the 2+2+2 degree program in the fall 2000 semester.

At Allegany College of Maryland, a health promotion and wellness emphasis is being given to an existing arts and sciences associate degree in health and physical education. Frostburg State University will continue that emphasis with a community health promotion track to its bachelor's degree in health, physical education, and recreation. West Virginia University offers a master's degree in community health promotion that represents the final third of the 2+2+2 degree track.

Throughout these six years of full-time education, students will acquire basic skills and health promotion and wellness. Elements of research, leadership, and administration are added in the final, graduate level. Also at that level, students' classroom work will be enhanced with clinical training in schools, clinics, health departments, physicians' offices, hospitals, and employers of various kinds. Student involvement in these clinical placements will serve to spread the health promotion and wellness knowledge to those who can benefit from it, and also create contacts for permanent employment in this field, the spokesperson explained.

The application for HHS funding for the project was developed by Donna Walbert, AC director of health and professional continuing education, and David Jones, AC director of grants writing and fund-raising, in cooperation with faculty and staff from the two partner institutions.

Nurses Complete Class For Family Practitioners

The University of Maryland School of Nursing will graduate its first Cumberland class of family nurse practitioners this month, which will include six local nurses. They began their course work in January 1998, attending classes at the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC), where they received both on-site and long-distance instruction in the center's interactive video classroom.

The students, who also earned their master of science degrees, are now eligible to complete the Family Nurse Practitioner credentialing examination. Successful completion of the exam entitles them to certification by the state of Maryland, by the American Nurses Credentialing Center, and the American Academy of Nurse Practitioners.

Jackie Snelson, MSN, CRNP, who instructs both graduate and undergraduate nursing students for the University of Maryland School of Nursing, explained the future opportunities that await these graduates. "After passing their credentialing exam, they will be able to function as nurse practitioners. In Maryland, nurse practitioners, under agreement with a physician, are able to diagnose and treat acute and controlled chronic conditions, and make referrals to other health care providers," she said.

Snelson also noted that being a family nurse practitioner can expand career opportunities. "Many of our graduates have already had job offers," she said.

In September the School of Nursing will admit a new class to the Family Nurse Practitioner track. For more information, persons may call 1-800-328-8346.

To learn more about nursing programs offered in western Maryland by the University of Maryland School of Nursing, persons may contact Dr. Gail Mazzocco at 301-777-9150, ext. 112, or call the School of Nursing at the toll free number above.

Tribute Paid To Those Who Risked Their Lives To Restore Liberty

by Peggy Santamaria

Perhaps no image more clearly speaks of valor in the face of horror than that of the American soldiers, spilling forth from the safety of ships to scramble unto the beaches of Normandy, France, under the rain of German shelling: Operation Overlord, D-Day, June 1944. Among the soldiers hitting Omaha Beach in that invasion was 22-year-old Walter Hanft from Garrett County.

The Regional Council of Normandy, in tribute to the men and women "who fought in Normandy to restore freedom," commissioned the Monnaie de Paris to mint commemorative medals. A ceremony was held in June to present the Medal of the Jubilee of Liberty to the surviving members of that fighting force. Walter could not be among those accepting this tribute. Walter is in the advanced stages of Alzheimer's disease.

Ryan Needer, Walter's 10-year-old grandson, wrote a letter to Congressman Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. explaining why his grandfather could not attend the ceremony and requesting that a medal be sent to him. Ehrlich's response was swift and generous. "This medal and certificate are only small tokens of appreciation, but please be assured that our respect for your heroism runs deep and crosses generations and, now, centuries," Ehrlich wrote.

Speaking of the heroic efforts of the soldiers in Operation Overlord, Ehrlich said, "Their actions compelled the world to acknowledge freedom is not a right that can be usurped by tyrannical leaders, but rather a divine right that belongs to all human beings."

It was with both pride and compassion that Walter's wife Myrtle received this letter and the gold medal of tribute. "I told him about this. I don't think he understands, but maybe he does," she said.

Caring for her husband as his condition has taken its toll on his mind and body, Myrtle continues to speak with Walter about the daily events and family members. Her photo albums and scrapbooks keep past moments alive and present. One album she has chronicles a trip that she and Walter made back to Normandy in 1994. "He had told me about all these places and things he had seen. I finally had the chance to see them myself," Myrtle said.

She flipped through pages of glossy color photos of places that once reflected the atrocities of combat. The beaches of Normandy, she said, her struck her with their vast openness. "Walter said that before they landed they were told that there were two kinds of people on that beach: those who were dead and those who were going to be dead," she recounted.

Walter had not believed he would be among those who lived. "He told me he never dreamed he would even make it to land. The stuff he was wearing and carrying was so heavy in the water that he thought he would drown," Myrtle said. And on shore, the German soldiers, from deep within their thick concrete bunkers, pummeled the advancing troops with mortar rounds.

But Walter did survive to cross the beach and push inland. "He didn't sleep for three days straight. When he did sleep, it was through the sounds of the shells exploding," Myrtle said.

The French people of the countryside had evacuated homes as fighting drew closer. "Walter and the men he was with came to a farm. He knew how to milk a cow and so they had some milk. The only food they had was rations. It was either a can of beans or a can of stew," Myrtle reported.

She also later heard a story about one of the men who neglected to open his can of rations before heating it. "The can exploded. It made such a loud noise, they thought he had shot himself," Myrtle recounted with laughter.

One of the photos that Myrtle took while they were in France was of the hedgerows along the roadside. "He talked about the hedgerows a lot. He said they were really scary to walk by because they were so thick you just didn't know what might be behind them," she explained.

Danger and treachery abounded, and soldiers in Walter's division were being killed. "He said he was always surprised at the end of the day how few of them were left," Myrtle said. A fellow member of the division, Fred Harnish, later spoke to Myrtle about "close calls and miracles" in conflict.

"Fred said Walter one time jumped up out of his foxhole and everyone was yelling at him to get down. Walter jumped into another foxhole just as a shell hit and exploded in the one he had left. So there are miracles," Myrtle said quietly.

For Walter Hanft, the hours stretched into days and the days into weeks. At the end of July, his unit entered the area known as St. Lo. "Walter told me it was like the description in the Bible that says, 'Not one stone was left upon another.'" St. Lo was to be a turning point in the life of Walter Hanft.

While Sgt. Steve Novak, Harnish, and Walter were clustered together in a St. Lo field, a shell exploded and the shrapnel ripped into all three men. Novak died instantly. Walter and Harnish were evacuated. "Walter was lucky because a medic was able to get to them quickly and he was soon inside a tent hospital. The Germans were still bombing the area."

Damage to Walter's shoulder was extensive so he was evacuated to England and later to Ashford General Hospital (the Greenbriar Resort). "He told me he remembers waking up on the ship and being so sick. He looked down at his shoulder and it was crawling with maggots," Myrtle related. Much surgery and skin grafting were required to repair the damage.

While visiting France in 1994, the Hanfts visited the gravesite of Sgt. Steve Novak. They also went to the spot that Walter said he was certain was the place he was standing when he was wounded.

They visited other gravesites also. "We went to the German cemetery as well. You think about the American soldiers who were killed, but there were a lot of Germans killed, too," Myrtle reflected.

Walter Hanft, though seriously injured, returned home to his family farm in the Cove. He and Myrtle married and raised six children. Reflecting on these parts of their life together, Myrtle pointed out a poem in a scrap book. It was written by some unnamed soldier long ago. "I, among all men, have been really blessed," she read aloud, adding, "Yes, that is so much like us. We have been so blessed in our life."

THE PEOPLE OF NORMANDY REMEMBER - The courage and heroism that compelled the soldiers of the Allied Forces to invade, Normandy, France in 1944 to help restore freedom has not been forgotten. Medals minted in Paris on behalf of the Normandy Council were presented recently to the American soldiers who took part in Operation Overlord. Walter Hanft of the Cove was among those to hit the beach in June 1944. Now suffering from Alzheimer's disease, Walter received his medal and certificate of gratitude at his home. Walter's wife Myrtle will display these along with his other citations, among which are the Purple Heart, the Good Conduct and the American Defense Service medals, and the Combat Infantry Badge.

NOW IT IS RYAN'S TURN - Walter Hanft read to all of his six children while they were growing up. He carried on that tradition with his grandchildren as they came along. Now, 10-year-old grandson Ryan Needer returns that gift to his grandfather, who rests wrapped in the twilight of Alzheimer's disease.

6/29/00

Dear Congressman Ehrlich,

I am very sorry my grandpa could not be fortunate enough to attend the June 1st ceremony for veterans. My grandfather, Walter Hanft, has Alzheimer's and he has forgotten how to walk so he could not go to the ceremony. Will you please send him a Jubilee of Liberty medal?

Walter was in the 175th Infantry and he was a Mortar Gunner. He made the landing on the beaches of Normandy on D-Day plus 1. He fought through the campaign and into Northern France until wounded. So I would be quite thankful if you were kind enough to send him the medal.

Or you could contact me if you need any further information or feel that this request needs any further verification.

Thank you most kindly for your time and efforts to honor the service of our dedicated citizens who fought in foreign wars.

Sincerely,
Ryan Needer

Realtor Board Holds Annual Crab Feast

The realtors of Garrett County gathered on July 27 for the annual crab feast, hosted by the Garrett County Board of Realtors. The event was held Deep Creek Lake State Park.

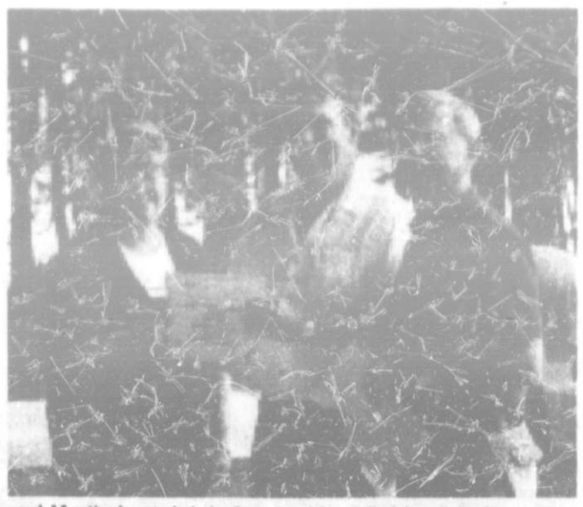
This year the event included the usual softball and other activities, but it also provided an opportunity for funds to be raised for the family of Rich Orr (Railey Realty). Orr's daughter Alexi suffered a near-drowning incident this summer and is now in rehabilitation at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va. Over $1,000 was raised during the picnic to help offset the family's medical expenses.

The check was donated to the Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, which is helping to manage the Alexi Fratz-Orr Trust at First United Bank & Trust. All donations, for a limited time, made through this church will earn equal matching funds from the Lutheran church, according to a spokesperson. For more information on how to donate to the fund, persons may call 301-746-8170.

Several realtor awards were presented at the picnic by Bob Custer (Custer Realty), president of the board, and Ron Martin, director of member services, Maryland Association of Realtors.

Ed King of Long & Foster was named Realtor of the Year; Ann Smith of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty earned the Community Service Award; Bobbi Sisler was named the Affiliate of the Year (Susquehanna Mortgage at F & M Bank) and Lana Roby, Coldwell Banker, was named Distinguished Sales Associate.

Over eight bushels of crabs were consumed by the 100+ attending the event. Goldie Shugars, Tara Folickman, and Ann Smith headed up planning committees for the function.



AWARDS PRESENTED AT CRAB FEAST — The Garrett County Board of Realtors held its annual crab feast on July 27 at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The annual event this year included contributions being presented to the Rich Orr family to help defray his daughter's hospital expenses. See story. TAKING THE WHOLE PRESCRIPTION

Don't stop taking a prescription drug after you begin to feel better unless your physician approves. This is most important. Often anything less than the full course of treatment may prevent the medicine from completely correcting the condition.

For example, not taking the prescribed amount of an antibiotic allows either the "bug" or your body to become resistant to it. Not enough of the required medicine may be worse than none at all.

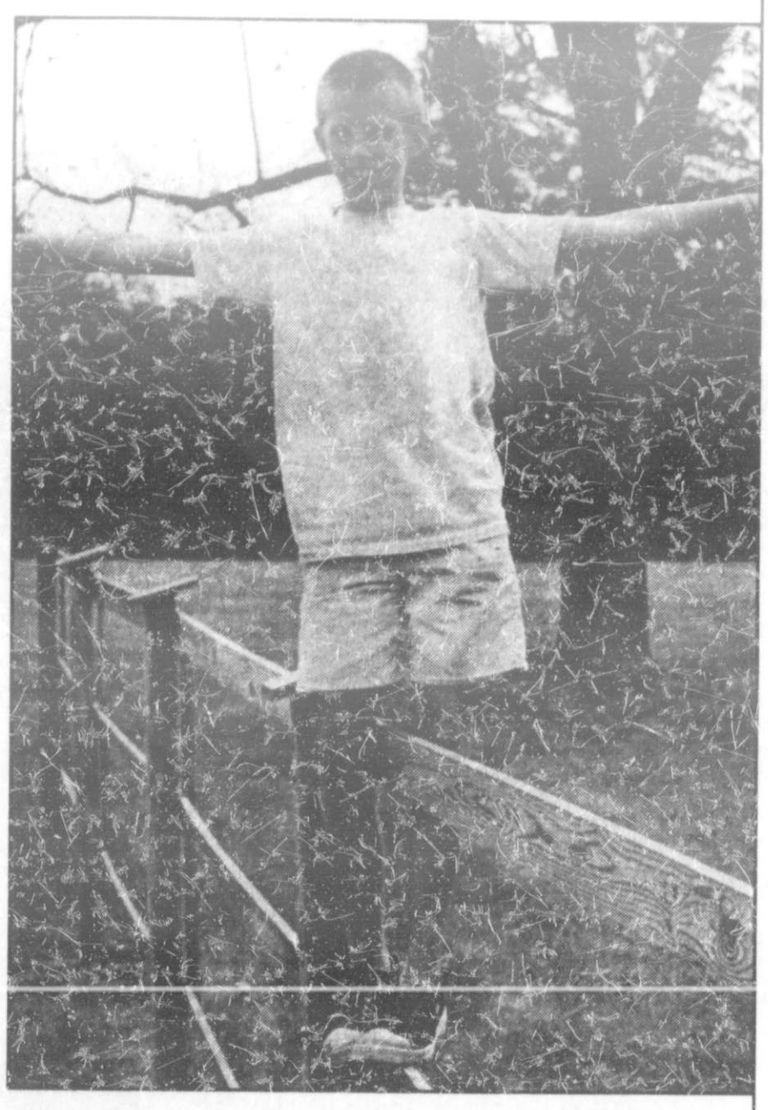
A Delicate Balance



As we lead our youth from childhood into adolescence, we approach a crucial period that will influence their entrance into adulthood. Often, it is difficult to know how to obtain the appropriate response from our son or daughter. How do we maintain the control of a parent and still be a friend our child can confide in? Not an easy feat; a parent needs help!

There is help for us and for our children. Enroll your children in Sunday School, Bible School, and youth groups that provide wholesome and exciting activities. Make sure they are guided by youth leaders who have studied the best ways to communicate at such a turbulent time in human growth and development. Enroll yourself in Bible study and find your strength and wisdom through weekly worship, sharing with those with similar concerns. This will help you work with your children while serving as an example.

Worship this week. Tilt the balance in your family's favor.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SET YOUR MIND!
August 20, 2000

Background Scripture:
Colossians 3:1-17.
Devotional Reading:
Mark 12:28-34.

We all have known children who greatly resemble, sound like or act like one of their parents or even another family member. We attribute these resemblances to either genes or unconscious emulation, or both. Even more amazing are husbands and wives who, after some years of their marriage, begin to physically resemble one another. This we cannot chalk-off as genetic inheritance. It suggests to us that we can tend to become very much like that thing or person with whom we spend a significant amount of time.

Nathaniel Hawthorne once wrote a story entitled "The Great Stone Face." If I remember it correctly, it is set in the locale of Franconia, New Hampshire, in the shadow of the "Old Man of the Mountain," a huge stone promontory on the mountain. It is about a boy named Ernest, whose mother tells him the legend of the "Great Stone Face," that the local people believe that some day a native son of the valley would return to it and his face would bear the image of the "Great Stone Face."

Ernest grew from childhood to boyhood to manhood, ever breathless awaiting the return of the hero of the legend. Various natives of the valley did return, but none of them fulfilled the legend. Until one day the people of the valley made a discovery! It was Ernest himself who looked like the "Great Stone Face." He had lived so long in the presence of his ideal that he had at last become like his ideal.

You Can Choose

In this life we can choose—in fact, we do choose—what we will let occupy our minds. Many of us do this rather unconsciously and end up preoccupied with things that generally drag us down, rather than lift us up. Occupy your mind with your troubles, defeats and infirmities and you will end up with a mind that has little room for Jesus Christ. Continually think about how unfair life has been to you and your life will be even more shaped by your thoughts. Ernest, in the story above, lived every day of his life with the legend of "The Great Stone Face" in his consciousness and so he grew to resemble it.

Isn't that what being a disciple of Jesus Christ is—living in his presence day after day so that our lives become more and more like his? That is what Paul is telling the Colossians: "If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is...Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth" (3:1,2) For Brother Lawrence it was a matter of taking Christ along with him into the monastery kitchen where every day he scrubbed the pots and pans. He became Christlike because he spent every day in his presence. He lived as close to Christ as he could. In what presence—what thoughts, what attitudes, what habits—do you spend the better part of your time?

How Can You Tell?

If we live as close to Christ as we can—reading about him in the Bible, thinking about him, speaking to him and even listening to him—then we will become more like him. How can we tell that we are becoming "more like him"? Once again, Paul speaks to us as well as the Colossians: "Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness and patience forbearing one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other..." (3:12,13). Notice he doesn't mention arguing about doctrines and beliefs, doing battle with people who don't agree with us or "protecting our churches from the influence of sinners." Why is it that some Christians become just the opposite of what Paul outlines above?

If we live as close to Christ as we can, if we fix our minds upon him, we cannot help but become more like him. "And above all these," says Paul, "put on love..." (fix your mind on it!) "...which binds everything together in perfect harmony. And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts" (3:14,15). What rules in our hearts is not something that gets there by accident, for what is there simply reflects that upon which we fix our minds.

County GOP Women's Clubs Hold Picnic

The Northern and Southern Republican Women's clubs of Garrett County held their combined picnic in Accident on July 20, which was attended by members of both groups as well as local dignitaries.

Opening remarks were made by president of the northern club, Carolyn Ganoe, and a blessing before the dinner was offered by Del. George Edwards. Various guests made brief comments to the group, including Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg, Fred Holliday, and Wendell Bietzel; Cliff DeWitt; Patty Glover; Charlotte Sebold; Ruth Umbel; and Brenda Butscher.

A fruit basket, brought by Butscher and Sheila O'Neil and raffled off, netted $127. It was won by Pat White.

The next meeting of the Northern Republican Women's Club will be held August 29, 7 p.m., at the Hill Top Inn, Grantsville. The guest speakers for the event will be Charles Johnson and Brenda Butscher. Johnson is chair of the Allegany County Republican Central Committee, the county director for the George W. Bush presidential campaign, and a national delegate to the Republican convention. Butscher was selected as an alternate delegate.

The fruit basket for the meeting raffle will be supplied by Cleda Baker, Stella Edwards, Laura Turner, and Louise McKenzie. Interested Republicans are invited to attend.

PLANS ARE BEING FINALIZED for the sixth annual Country Fest and Auction, which will be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry on Saturday, Aug. 26. Among the events will be an auction of some 20 handmade quilts, examples of which from last year are pictured above. The quilts will be on display from when the gate opens at 8 a.m. until the auction at 1 p.m. There will also be an auction of crafts, oriental rugs, wooden furniture, and other items; lots of activities for "kids of all ages"; and plenty of homemade food such as doughnuts, hotcakes and sausage, bread, funnel cakes, ice cream, barbecued chicken, and even cotton candy, a serving of which was enjoyed last year by Cubby George of Cumberland (pictured right) while riding on his dad's shoulders. The Country Fest and Auction are sponsored by the Dry Run Mennonite Church, and all proceeds are used to support the church and its school, as well as various missions projects. Admission to the festival is free.

COVER STORY

Disney series spotlights teen-age lifesavers

By Jacqueline Cutler
©TVData Features Syndicate

Christopher Ralph

When your heart's fibrillating wildly or your baby decides now is the time to be born, you want a doctor – preferably one who graduated with honors from a prestigious medical school – but you're probably willing to settle for an experienced paramedic.

As you're lying there with pain searing your body, do you really want someone who considers 'N Sync the best music has to offer, pizza a sound nutritional choice for all meals and the mall a cultural mecca?

Yet throughout the country, when people call 911, teen-agers respond in ambulances. Trained in lifesaving techniques, some are juggling honors classes and varsity sports with answering 911 calls. Others are racking up court-mandated community service hours.

Inspired by real teens, the Disney Channel premieres a new series, In a Heartbeat, on Saturday, Aug. 26, with a special one-hour pilot. The show then assumes its half-hour form and airs Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, with new episodes premiering on Saturdays.

In a Heartbeat is careful to avoid gruesome scenes. Even when the characters say someone is bleeding terribly, there's nothing the squeamish can't take. It's also not overly technical the way adult hospital dramas can be.

The drama follows the lives of four young emergency medical technicians. Tyler Connell (Shawn Ashmore, Animorphs) and Hank Beecham (Danso Gordon, Hang Time) are stars on the football team, good friends and great students. Tyler's the compassionate kid whose parents divorced when he was young. Hank is the son of a surgeon and under a lot of pressure to measure up to his family's expectations.

Val Lanier (Reagan Pasternak, Jail Bait) is a cheerleader who worries about her parents bickering over money. The fourth squad member is Jamie Waite (Christopher Ralph, Animorphs), the "bad boy" who, by most teens-gone-wrong standards, is still a pretty decent kid. He's doing community service as an EMT "because I liberated some guitar picks from a music store."

Val's unlikely best friend, Caitie Roth (Jackie Rosenbaum), is a diluted version of a Goth kid. Indeed, the pilot does an admirable job of introducing the characters and setting up relationships. In it, Val reminds Caitie that they were best friends before they were born because "our moms took Lamaze together."

The show also does a good job of keeping the drama flowing without letting it go over the melodramatic top. And unlike so many shows starring teen-agers where parents and other adults are either absent or idiots, this program depicts aduits as real, multifaceted people involved in their children's lives.

The actors, all from Canada, where the series is shot, have taken some classes to learn about CPR. "It's a lot of fun for me," Ashmore says. "What I really like is having the aspect of the EMT situations. We get to do the sort of everyday teen-ager, high-school problems, then you have the interesting aspect of going out on the calls."

Ashmore credits teen EMTs as responsible and dedicated, adding that he doubts he could ever do the job. Were he ever in a situation that required a call to 911 and teen-agers showed up, Ashmore says, "anyone who is trained to do the job, I would love the help. I would definitely let teen-agers work on me."

IT'S SMILES ALL AROUND when the pet therapy animals make their visits to Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland. The animals are supplied by local volunteers willing to share their shaggy ones with residents who eagerly look forward to the activity, according to C&W therapeutic recreation director Bette Jo Hudnall. Shown above at the left is Cecilia O'Haver of Crellin and Gert, while to the right Squirt gets a snack from Oakland's Mason Rodeheaver. These "lap lambs" were accompanied to the nursing home by their owners, Holly and Candace Bamble, daughters of Richard and Donna Bamble of Wilson-Corona Rd. Pictured below to the left is Bill Nedrow of Crellin as he holds Pretzel, who belongs to Donna Paul, part-time resident of the Deep Creek Lake and Pittsburgh areas. To the right is volunteer Anthony Daniels, 12, son of Liz Daniels of McHenry, and Gus. The golden retriever, who belongs to Sister Joanne and Sister Mary Ann of the House of Hope, is an old pro at the activity, and his weekly visits have been a highlight of Thursday mornings for over two years. The nursing home is accepting other pets whose owners are willing to participate in the program, and interested persons may call Hudnall at 301-334-2319 for further information.

Accident Twins Prepared For Final Year Of Naval Academy Education

Midshipmen Rachael and Stephenie Gosnell, twin sisters from Accident, completed their summer training for the United States Naval Academy recently. The pair are ready to begin their final year of academy education later this week when they return to Annapolis for the re-forming of the brigade.

Summer training for the twins began with a trip to Spain for studies in language and culture. Each day 40 midshipmen participated in five-week advanced Spanish courses in the city of Salamanca. The group also spent four days visiting the capital city of Madrid, as well as the cities of Segovia and Toledo, and the Mediterranean island of Mallorca.

Following the trip to Spain, Stephenie joined the crew of the Dutch frigate HrMs. Van Galen on a foreign exchange cruise. The ship was patrolling the Caribbean engaging in various maritime operations, including drug interdiction. Actions taken by the crew during Gosnell's stay aboard resulted in the seizure of several thousand pounds of cocaine.

Gosnell spent the last block of her summer training interning in the office of Secretary of Defense William Cohen. Her assignment was in the European policy branch, where her duties included research and prep work for visiting dignitaries, such as the Slovak minister of defense and the president of Switzerland. She also attended press conferences and luncheons, where she met several foreign dignitaries.

The midshipman completed her junior year with a 4.0 and is named on the Superintendent's List. She is also a member of the Golden Key National Honor Society, which recognizes the top 15 percent of juniors and seniors in all fields of study at more than 300 leading universities throughout the world. She is the vice president of the academy's chapter of the Language Honor Society.

The midshipman is a member of the Navy's ski team, and also serves as the team's operations officer this past season. The Navy team competes in the Mid-Atlantic Region, and Gosnell was named to the 2000 All-Conference Ski Team. Her community service includes work with an adult tutoring program in Annapolis.

Gosnell will return to the brigade to serve as first regimental executive officer. She will begin her graduate education in January, when she will participate in an academy program which permits 20 midshipmen to begin work in graduate studies the second semester of their senior year. She will complete her graduate studies in December 2001.

Rachael followed her trip to Spain with duty on the USS Nassau, an amphibious assault ship that participated in Fleet Week, which was part of the Fourth of July observance in New York City. The Nassau served as the reviewing ship for International Naval Review 2000, which included hundreds of sailing vessels. She was a member of the reviewing party when the commandant of the Marine Corps, General Jones, came aboard the Nassau. The midshipman also participated in several community service projects in the city.

Along with her sister, Gosnell is a member of the Navy ski team and served as team vice president last season. Her community service consisted of work with the "Mids for Kids" tutoring program for elementary students.

Gosnell completed her junior year with a 3.7 grade point average and was named to the Superintendent's and the Dean's lists. She is a member of the academy's Language Honor Society and has been recommended for membership in the Golden Key National Honor Society. When she returns to the brigade she will serve as a company operations officer.

Both midshipmen are majoring in political science and have completed their minors in Spanish. Following graduation and subsequent commissioning as Navy officers, the twins will each serve a 5-year military commitment.

Glass has been made in Italy for hundreds of years. About 1910, there was new interest in the glassmaking industry. Totally new, modern designs appeared. The Murano, Italy, glass industry began anew with Carlo Venini in the 1920s. He did away with delicate glass with curlicues and filigree, and turned to plain pieces with clean lines and color. Many creative artists added their designs to the Italian output, and by the 1950s, Murano glass was again famous worldwide. The glass vases and figurines made since the 1950s are selling for high prices today. A vase can cost several thousands of dollars if it is well-made and by a top designer. Bargains are still to be found because most pieces are unmarked and often unrecognized.

Q: I would like to know if dining-room furniture by Jacobean is of value. My set is about 80 years old.

A: Your set was not made by Jacobean. It was made in the Jacobean style that first became popular in England in the early 1600s. The furniture was made of carved, dark wood. Large balls were often used as feet. Many of the old styles were redesigned as "colonial revival" pieces that were suited to the 20th century. Dining-room sets included servers, buffets, large tables and other pieces that would not have been used in the 1600s. The decorating styles of the 1950s required straight lines and little carving, so the revival styles went out of fashion. They are just returning to favor, and the dining-room sets are selling well. Price depends on quality, importance of the maker and the condition.

Pet Care

The increasing number of students going to summer school in recent years has caused many families to delay their vacation outings with their children. But now, with summer sessions over in most parts of the country, it's still possible to enjoy a wonderful family experience in a national wildlife refuge that will also be educational for the youngsters.

To get started, you'll need your binoculars, a camera, perhaps your fishing gear and the special "Great Outdoors" package made up of three informative publications from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service:

The first publication, "National Wildlife Refuges" includes a map and lists refuges that offer public recreational opportunities.

The second publication, "Conserving the Nature of America," shows you how the service protects the fish, wildlife and plants in more than 500 refuges.

The third publication, "Fishing Is Fun for Everyone" is an easy-to-read guide that provides a variety of information on fishing.

The Great Outdoors Package is priced at $1.50 (this includes all three booklets) and is available by calling (888) 8 PUEBLO (878-3256), weekdays 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. EDT. Ask for the "Great Outdoors" package and have your credit card handy. Or you can send your name, address and a check or money order for $1.50 to Federal Consumer Information Center, Great Outdoors, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

RAIN GUTTERS: WHY BOTHER?

Q. Why does my house need rain gutters around the roof? They seem like nothing but a maintenance hassle. — Derek M., Anniston, Ala.

A. Rain gutters handle the important task of shunting rain water (and melting snow) away from the house. Without gutters, that water would quickly seep under the house, creating all sorts of problems.

So, give your rain gutters plenty of TLC. Each fall and spring, put up your ladder (don't work from the roof — it's unsafe) and inspect them. Clear away debris with your hands and toss it onto the ground or a tarp. Clean the screens covering the downspouts, and replace any that are broken. Tug on the gutters as you work to check for loose sections.

Using a hose, run water through the gutter. If the water pools instead of heading straight for the downspout, adjust the gutter's angle by repositioning the nails or screws in the cross-straps that hold the gutter to the roof.

If the water pools at the top of the downspout, try clearing the clog by directing a strong stream of water from your hose down the spout. Run a plumber's snake (not a stick, which could break) all the way through the spout to clear it, then run water down the spout again.

Then, run water through the gutter one more time, and check for leaks on the underside. Patch small holes (1/2-inch or less) with roofing cement and a putty knife (make sure to completely clean and dry the area first). Use canvas or vinyl patches to patch larger holes, and secure them with roofing cement.

Finally, make sure that the water pouring from the downspout actually drains away from your home. Do this by adding a spout extension. Some home-improvement experts recommend a 20-foot extension, which is fine if you have the space; attach a watertight plastic drainpipe to the downspout and run it away from the foundation.

If an extension isn't possible, guide the water away from the foundation by placing a grooved paving stone beneath the spout, or dig a channel six inches wide and three feet long, away from the spout, and fill it with gravel.

Record Maryland Corn Harvest Forecast Issued By Ag Statistics

Maryland's corn yield this year is expected to be the highest on record, the Maryland Agriculture Statistics Service (MASS) has announced. Based on conditions on or around Aug. 1, the projected corn yield is 150 bushels per acre for a total production of 60 million bushels. That is up 57 bushels per acre from last year's drought-impacted yield of 93 bushels per acre. The current record corn yield is 139 bushels per acre in 1996. That year Maryland produced 64,635,000 bushels of corn for grain. The most corn ever produced in Maryland was 70,400,000 bushels in 1985.

"Farmers statewide are calling this their best corn crop in memory," said Maryland state statistician Ray Garibay. "The frequent periods of soaking rains followed by warm sun and the absence of damaging wind or hail provided ideal conditions for the corn to grow and mature. If these conditions prevail through the harvest, the yields will be the best ever."

Farmers planted 480,000 acres of corn this year, slightly over the 1999 total of 470,000 acres. About 400 acres are expected to be harvested for grain with the remaining 70,000 acres being chopped for use as livestock feed (silage). The record number of acres of corn ever harvested is 726,000 in 1891. Over the past decade, corn production has averaged 107 bushels per acre on 506,000 acres.

"The yield for corn as well as soybeans and other grains this year is a real boost for our farmers in the wake of the drought year of 1999," said Maryland secretary of agriculture Henry A. Virts. "We can hardly wait for the harvest to begin so they can start to reap the benefits of all that hard work and careful planning."

According to MASS, soybeans also are progressing well with an expected yield of 36 bushels per acre, second highest on record, producing 17,640,000 bushels, fifth highest. In 1996 farmers reaped 37 bushels of soybeans per acre, and in 1994 a total of 19,525,000 bushels were harvested, both all-time records.

Reuters news service reported last week that these record yields hold true all across the United States, where farmers will harvest their biggest corn and soybean crops ever. The government just released its first estimate of the fall harvest—an astounding 10.369 billion bushels of corn and 2.989 billion bushels of soybeans.

The mammoth outpouring—vastly larger than 1999's crops—would be accompanied by the second-largest cotton crop on record, 19.2 million bales weighing 4,980 pounds each, and a moderate 2.26 billion bushels of wheat, the Agriculture Department said.

Reuters said these huge crops, however, would mean a fourth year in a row of low grain and soybean prices.

"There's no floor on how low it can go," said private consultant John Schnittker. Analyst Greg Doud of the consulting firm World Perspectives pointed to the possibility that hot, dry August weather might reduce crop size somewhat, especially soybeans in a critical reproductive stage, but large crops seemed certain.

"It's sure been the case this week that nobody wanted to stick their toe in the water (to test prices)," Doud said. "The theme for this year is going to be a big crop with big demand. That is plainly clear."

Based on surveys of 22,000 farmers, field inspections, and conditions at the start of August, the estimated corn crop would be 932 million bushels larger than last year. Soybeans and cotton would be 13% larger than a year ago. Corn prices, estimated at $1.65 a bushel at the farm gate, would be the lowest in 28 years, and soybeans, pegged at a season-average $4.35 a bushel, would be lowest in 29 years.

Other grains in Maryland are also projected to be at or near record levels. Winter wheat is forecast at 63 bushels per acre and 12,915,000 bushels total, both the third best ever. The record yield for winter wheat is 68 bushels per acre in 1977, while the largest harvest ever was 14,400,000 bushels in 1995.

Barley is expected to yield a record 84 bushels per acre, well above the 1995 record of 81. With 55,000 acres planted, production is projected to be 4,200,000 bushels, the highest since 1994 but well behind the all-time record of 5,963,000 in 1987.

MASS also forecasts that the 2000 tobacco harvest in Maryland will set a yield record of 1,600 pounds per acre, besting the 1997 harvest rate by 100 pounds. At that level, Maryland would produce 9,600,000 pounds on 6,000 acres, the lowest acreage on record, but the most tobacco produced since 12 million pounds were harvested in 1997. The record for tobacco production in Maryland was set in 1946 at 46,250,000, a record that will never be broken as the state moves to end the production of tobacco.

Quarterly Milk Production Reported By MDA

Maryland dairy operators produced 325 million pounds of milk during the April-June quarter, down 8% from the same quarter a year earlier. The number of milk cows was unchanged from a year earlier so yield per cow accounted for the production decrease.

During June 2000, milk production in the 20 major milk producing states totaled 12.1 billion pounds. The number of cows was 7.81 million during June, 65,000 more than June 1999 and up 10,000 from May 2000.

State Grain May Be Used To Fuel Autos

With big stocks of grain in storage and near-record crops predicted by the Maryland Ag Statistics Service, corn and soybean prices are expected to hit 20-year lows.

To help cut into the corn surplus, the Maryland Grain Producers Association is about to open the state's first ethanol station near Annapolis. Ten more outlets are planned for other parts of the state.

Ethanol is a gasoline substitute or extender that is made from a blend of 85 percent corn-based alcohol and 15 percent gasoline. It is one of an increasing number of alternative uses for the corn and soybeans grown in Maryland and other agricultural regions of the country.

Soybean oil and meal are already used to make ink, paint, wood glue, plastic, automotive crank case oil, wood stains, and paint remover, as well as an absorbent to clean up industrial oil spills, according to Stephen G. Wildes, a manager at Midland, Mich.-based Omni Tech International Ltd.

Lynne Hoot, executive director of the Maryland Grain Producers, said her group is about to sign a contract with the owner of a Shell service station at the junction of Riva Road and Harry Truman Parkway, Annapolis, for the installation of the state's first ethanol pump.

Ethanol attracted more attention earlier this summer when oil prices rose sharply, said Kevin McNew, an agricultural economist with the University of Maryland College Park.

Baltimore County grain farmer Ed Stanfield would like more of his corn to end up in automobile gas tanks. "We've got to develop new markets for our grain if we are ever going to get prices up again," he said.

State's Farmers Continue The Crop Harvest

Crop harvesting continued throughout the state despite having only 4.4 days suitable for field work, according to Ray Garibay, state statistician with the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. Cantaloupes harvested advanced the most, with a 14 point increase compared to last week. Cantaloupes are 71% harvested, 1 point above last year but 2 points below the five-year average.

Soil moisture conditions continue to remain in the mostly adequate to surplus range. Topsoil moisture is 3% short, 79% adequate, and 18% surplus. Subsoil moisture is 1% very short, 4% short, 87% adequate, and 8% surplus. High temperatures ranged from 75 degrees on Sunday to 92 degrees on Monday. Precipitation for the week ranged from .2 inches in Baltimore County to 2.6 inches in Somerset County.

The crop progress for the week which ended August 13 listing the crop and percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows.

Crop harvesting: apples 12, 10, 7, 6, cantaloupes 70, 56, 69, 72; cucumbers 71, 60, 69, 73; lima beans 34, 32, 18, 14; peaches 50, 35, 57, 55; potatoes 88, 75, 77, 87; snapbeans 61, 55, 58, 65; sweet corn 63, 53, 71, 66; tomatoes 52, 37, 61, 58; watermelons 40, 25, 58, 57.

Domestic placements of egg-type pullet chicks for future hatchery supply flocks by leading breeders totaled 223,000 during June 2000, up 19% from June 1999. The June 2000 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 748 million, was up slightly from June of the previous year.

There were 615 million eggs in incubators on July 1, 2000, down 2% from a year earlier. Leading breeders placed 6.83 million broiler-type pullet chicks for future domestic hatchery supply flocks during June 2000.

FSA Reminds Grain Producers of Loan Deficiency Payments

Eric McCartney, executive director for the Preston County Farm Service Agency, reminds local farmers of the availability of the Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP) Program. Loan Deficiency Payments may be issued to farmers who, although eligible for a commodity loan, agree to forego the loan in return for a payment on the eligible crop.

To be eligible for an LDP, farmers must have filed a 2000 Crop Acreage Report for his/her farm(s), (late-filed reports may be filed) and have a beneficial interest in the crop. Wheat and feed grains may be harvested as grain, silage, cobbage, cracked, crimped, or rolled and be eligible for an LDP or commodity loan.

New For 2000 LDPs Is That Farms Do Not Have To Be Enrolled In The 7-Year AMTA Program To Be Eligible For This Program.

The 2000 payment limitation for LDP returns to a maximum of $75,000 per "person."

As harvest is completed, interested farmers are asked to contact the FSA office to schedule bin measurements.

Farmers not wanting an LDP may opt for a commodity loan on the above crops. However, for loans, the farm must be enrolled in AMTA.

Farmers may inquire about LDPs or commodity loans by telephoning the Farm Service Agency at 304-329-1923 or fax 304-329-3056. The FSA office is located in the USDA Service Center at 300 Tunnelton Street in Kingwood.

FB Believes Tax Changes Are Needed For Conservation

Congress must approve legislation to ensure equitable tax treatment for farmers and ranchers who lease environmentally sensitive land to the government or participate in other federal programs that benefit the environment, Farm Bureau last week told a Senate Finance subcommittee.

An appellate court earlier this year ruled that farmers and ranchers must pay a 15.3 percent self-employment tax on conservation reserve program payments, while nonfarmer landowners who accept the same payments are not assessed the levy. A Farm Bureau representative told the panel that this inequity is unjust and may deter producers from protecting fragile land.

"This issue not only has an impact on farmers and ranchers, but also on the environment," Pennsylvania Farm Bureau president Guy Donaldson told senators.

"Self-employment tax on Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) payments may discourage a farmer from future participation in this program. Environmentally sensitive acreage that has been taken out of production to protect its natural resources may be forced back into production if CRP payments are subject to self-employment taxes."

The Agriculture Department annually disburses about $1.8 billion in CRP payments, averaging about $5,000 per farm and $45.15 per acre, to around 270,000 farm families.

Donaldson, a fruit and vegetable grower, said the Internal Revenue Service "singles out farmers and ranchers as landlords liable for the self-employment tax," while those landowners holding CRP contracts who are not materially involved in a farm operation are excused from the 15.3 percent tax.

Donaldson praised Sens. Sam Brownback (R-Kan.) and Tom Daschle (D-S.D.) for their bill, S. 2344, which clarifies that CRP payments should not be subject to additional taxes.

Donaldson also commended Sen. Max Baucus (D-Mont.) for legislation (S. 1392) that would provide tax-free incentives to landowners who protect species habitat. The farm leader noted that landowners willingly bear part of the cost for species conservation projects, and he urged committee members to provide additional funding to ensure the cost-share funds for this program are not taxable.

He also urged senators to support legislation (S. 808) that could make the transfer of farmland development rights more financially attractive. He said the bill, which would exclude from gross income 50 percent of the sale of land to an entity intending to put the land in a conservation easement, would help farmers and conservationists alike.

"For farmers and ranchers, the sale of capital assets of this type can trigger huge capital gains taxes," Donaldson said. "The effect of this legislation will provide further incentives to landowners to consider selling either the land or the development rights to that land for conservation purposes.

Grain Stocks Are Down On U.S. Farms

Corn stocks in all positions on June 1, 2000, totaled 3.59 billion bushels, down 1% from June 1, 1999. Of the total stocks, 2.03 billion bushels were stored on farms, down 10% from a year ago. Off-farm stocks, at 1.56 billion bushels, were up 15% from a year ago. The March - May 2000 quarter indicated disappearance is 2.02 billion bushels, 3% below the disappearance of 2.08 billion bushels during the same period a year earlier.

Farm Production Expenditures For U.S. Reported

U.S. farm production expenditures totaled $184.3 billion in 1999, up 0.6% from the revised 1998 total of $183.2 billion. The largest contributors to the increase were: livestock and poultry purchases, up 15.9%; farm improvements and construction, up 10.1%; labor, up 3.7%; and farm supplies and repairs, up 3.3%.

These increases were partially offset by decreases in: tractors and self-propelled machinery, down 10.0%; rent, down 8.1%; and fertilizer, down 6.6%.

The largest two expenditure categories were farm services, which accounted for 13.9% of the U.S. total production expenses, and feed, which accounted for 13.3% of the U.S. total production expenses.

The farm services category includes expense items such as custom work, utilities, marketing charges, veterinary services, transportation costs, and miscellaneous business expenses.

The average expenditures per U.S. farm in 1999 were $84,209, compared to $83,810 as revised for 1998. On the average, U.S. farm operations in 1999 spent $11,746 on farm services; $11,197 on feed; $9,004 on labor; $7,678 for livestock and poultry purchases; and $7,267 on rent.

Revised estimates for 1998 indicated that U.S. farms spent an average of $11,440 on farm services; $11,440 on feed; $8,694 on labor; $6,635 for livestock.

Maryland Farm Queen To Be Named At The 119th Maryland State Fair

Twenty-three young women between the ages of 16 and 19, who have earned their place in the Year 2000 Maryland Farm Bureau Queen Contest by winning their county Farm Bureau-sponsored contests will compete for the Maryland Farm Bureau Queen scholarship and cash awards valued up to $6,500. The reigning Maryland Farm Queen, Miss Evelyn Hardman of Allegany County, will have the honor of passing her title on to her successor, the Year 2000 Maryland Farm Bureau Queen, at the Maryland Farm Bureau Queen Contest on Fri., Aug. 25, 7 p.m., in the Horse Sales Pavilion.

"It has been a wonderful and educational experience to travel throughout the state of Maryland to represent our state's number one industry—agriculture," said Ms. Hardman. "I hope many people will join me as I pass on my title to the first Maryland Farm Bureau Queen of the millennium."

The 23 Maryland county Farm Bureau queens will be critiqued, during a two-day competition, primarily on their agricultural knowledge and experience, civic involvement, appearance, poise and communication skills.

The 2000 Maryland Farm Bureau Queen will be present throughout the run of the state fair to award prizes, and mingle with fairgoers, dignitaries, and media representatives. Her responsibilities will continue throughout the year, as she will participate in a number of activities representing Maryland agriculture. The runners-up will assist the Maryland Farm Bureau Queen with award presentations and serve as hostesses for dignitaries.

The 119th Maryland State Fair, which will offer a variety of livestock and horse shows, midway rides, thoroughbred horse racing, arts & crafts, and home arts exhibits, runs from Fri., Aug. 25 through Mon., Sept. 4, at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County.

Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 9:00 a.m. Exhibit halls are open from 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. The midway opens at 10:00 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays. Admission is only $4.00 for adults, and children under 12 are admitted free.

Rides are individually priced. Thoroughbred horse racing begins Sat., Aug. 28 and runs through Labor Day. Post time is 1 p.m. Admission to the race track is included in the admission price of the fair. Parking on the fairgrounds for a minimal fee and free parking at the Park and Ride location along Deereco Road are available on a first-come, first-serve basis. Fairground officials encourage use of the light rail with an easily accessible Light Rail stop at the Fairgrounds' Cow Palace gate.

For fairgoers' convenience, bank ATM machines will be located in front of the 4-H Building, the Cow Palace, the Exhibition Hall and in the center of the grandstand on the upper and lower levels.

For general information, those interested may call 410-252-0200, ext. 227, or visit the Maryland State Fair web page at www.marylandstatefair.com.

Farm Queen

The new farm queen lives on a farm that borders the Youghioghany River in Oakland with her parents, two sisters and one brother.

Because her brother is disabled and her older sister is married, she has taken on many additional responsibilities on the family farm. Her inside chores include dusting and doing dishes, with outside chores being splitting firewood and building fence. She said that hay season is always enjoyable to her, except that she hates bees and always manages to get stung while making hay.

Melissa said she has been around animals as long as she can remember. With a passion for horses, she said she has been riding probably since before she could walk, and has helped train and break numerous horses along with her grandfather. Melissa has also raised steers, and last year was the final year she was eligible to show a steer at the Garrett County Fair. She said she misses having a steer this year, but eventually will get into showing breeding stock.

Always active in 4-H and FFA throughout high school, Melissa attended the National Junior Horticulture Association Convention in Florida this past year as a result of winning the state contest.

She is now serving as president of the Agriculture Club at Garrett Community College, and last year helped the club sponsor a pig sale at the fairgrounds and a banquet in May to honor all the agriculture program supporters in the area.

This is her second year at Garrett Community College, where she is majoring in agricultural business and farm management. After obtaining her associate degree in applied science, she plans to transfer to a four-year college, maybe West Virginia University, to get her bachelor of science in agriculture degree. It's important to her that the college she attends is close to home so she can still help manage the farm.

Her future plans are to visit the seven natural wonders of the world and have her own farm. She plans to continue raising and training horses, and hopes to, one day, bring Red Angus cattle into the area and have them do as well here as Black Angus.

Diana Dawn Mayfield, the first runner-up in the 2000 Farm Queen Contest, is the 18-year-old daughter of Butch and Debbie Mayfield. She lives with her father, mother, older brother and sister on a nine-acre farm along the Fingerboard Road in Oakland. The family also owns and operates a 415-acre beef cattle farm.

This year Diana is a freshman at West Virginia University, where she is an animal science major and is working toward a bachelor of science degree in agriculture. She is actively involved in the Oakland FFA Chapter, where she is presently holding the office of junior advisor.

Her future plans are to receive a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from West Virginia University.

Both young women will represent Garrett County Farm Bureau and agriculture this week at the fair and throughout the coming year.

Ms. Upole attended orientation for the state contest on Tuesday and will compete in the Maryland Farm Queen Contest Fri., Aug. 25 beginning at 7 p.m. in the Horse Sale Barn on the State Fairgrounds in Timonium.

Confusion On Who Owns The Farm

If it seems like segments of the dairy industry are confused about what constitutes a "family farm," look at who consumers think own the majority of U.S. dairy farms. According to a random survey commissioned by Dairy Management Inc., a majority of those surveyed think "most" dairy farms are owned by business corporations, food manufacturers, or the government, not the families who farm them.

Asked who owns more than 90 percent of U.S. dairy farms, 40 percent of the consumers surveyed said, "business corporations," while 11 percent said "food manufacturers," and another 11 percent said the "government." Only 35 percent said most dairy farms are owned by a family. The other 4 percent admitted they "didn't know."

In reality 99 percent of all U.S. dairy farms are owned and operated by families. "This misperception about who produces our nation's milk is just one example showing the vast gap between consumer beliefs and the realities of dairy farming," he said. "As more consumers become further removed from production agriculture, the gap widens."

Good Time to Kill Perennial Weeds?

When it comes to controlling perennial weeds, growth stage is the key. During spring and summer, the energy reserves are depleted as the sugars and carbohydrates move up from the roots into the shoots to provide nourishment. By mid-summer, the energy reserves are at their lowest point. At this stage of growth the plant begins to stockpile sugars during late summer and fall in preparation for winter survival.

So how does this apply to proper herbicide application timing? To get effective kill of perennial weeds the root system must be destroyed. In the spring the major flow of energy is upward (from roots to shoots), so herbicides applied at this time will be taken up into the shoot and very little will get down into the root structure to kill them.

After the bud-to-bloom stage of broadleaf and the boot stage of grasses, the sugars and carbohydrates are moving down to replenish the root reserves. This is the best time to kill the root system of the weeds.

House Ag Committee Seeks Farm Policy Consensus

Over the past six months, the House Agriculture Committee heard from more than 400 producers at farm policy field hearings nationwide and in written testimony. Agriculture leaders and commodity representatives joined the discussion in July in Washington, D.C. And still there is no consensus on the next farm bill.

Tim Cansler, an American Farm Bureau Federation director of governmental relations, said "there is nothing simple" about forming a comprehensive policy for an industry as diverse as agriculture, but the House Agriculture Committee hearings are "a great start."

"We're grateful to the committee, Cansler said. "There is no farm organization that can say they haven't had the chance to be heard. The Agriculture Committee will use the hundreds of statements they have to reach a consensus that will benefit our diverse industry."

House Agriculture Committee chairman Larry Combest (R-Texas) agreed that while the hearings did not produce a consensus, producer input set a positive tone for future work on the bill.

"Where farmers have been most helpful is in confirming their support for the flexibility of production decisions, tax fairness and broader trading markets for American agricultural products," Combest said. "The value of these discussions with producers is that in the absence of giving us a consensus for any specific policy change, they have signaled their confidence in the committee members' efforts to work for a consensus.

As Congress considers a follow-up to the 1996 Federal Agricultural Improvement and Reform Act (FAIR), which is in effect through the 2002 crop year, Farm Bureau is urging lawmakers to continue allowing producers planting flexibility and the opportunity to respond to market signals. In addition, AFBF president Bob Stallman recently told the committee a countercyclical safety net as a supplement to Agricultural Market Transaction Act payments also is an important consideration.

"The harsh realities of the current transformation of production agriculture are smaller numbers of producers of traditional crops and increasing numbers of farmers are competing in specialized, niche markets," Stallman said. "Hence the need for establishing a permanent program for countercyclical payments for farmers and ranchers."

The Senate added $900 million in emergency spending to recently passed agriculture appropriations legislation that already contained more than $1.1 billion in disaster relief, but said that was the end of such aid this year. In addition to this assistance, Congress has approved over $22 billion in special agriculture funding since 1998.

Stallman said Congress must not throw away the market-based policies of the 1996 farm bill while working on ways to improve income.

"Congress gave farmers their word regarding access to additional foreign markets through trade policy reforms, relief from overburdensome regulations, additional and improved risk management tools, and tax reforms for their support of the FAIR Act," he said.

Some farm-state lawmakers already have ideas about how the next farm bill should look. Sen. Dick Lugar (R-Ind.) and Rep. John Boehner (R-Ohio) recently introduced the Rural America Prosperity Act, which includes tax relief provisions on health care, capital gains, estate tax and risk management. Regulatory relief and trade reform also are key elements of the legislation.

"Farm policy can be compared to a stool with two legs for support," Cansler explained. "The Lugar/Boehner bill is a response to Farm Bureau's call for provisions for that third leg that will give farmers and ranchers stronger reinforcement."

The bill would allow for immediate full deduction of health care costs for farmers and the self-insured; provide a $500,000 exclusion from capital gains on the sale of a primary residence or farm; eliminate estate taxes over 10 years; create new risk management tools including farm and ranch risk management (FARRM) accounts; require that the General Accounting Office assess the overall cost of complying with federal regulations; and authorize fast-track trade negotiations and an agricultural exemption from economic sanctions.

Correspondence Course Aims For Educated Forest Owners

For tree-lovers, the name of Joyce Kilmer, a budding poet killed in battle during World War I, has survived more than 80 years through his famous poem, "Trees." Kilmer's ongoing popularity illustrates the longevity of trees and forests—especially if they are managed properly.

To that end, Bob Tjaden, a Maryland Cooperative Extension regional specialist in natural resources, has developed a General Forestry Correspondence Course. Tjaden is stationed at the University of Maryland's Wye Research and Education Center near Queenstown. He hopes that the course will help forest landowners and other interested persons gain a better understanding of forests, forest ecology, forest management practices, forest policy and regulations, and sources of technical and financial assistance. He believes the course is the only one of its kind in the nation.

Presented as a notebook of lessons and supplemental readings, the course is divided into six units, with questions and assignments at the end of each unit. The major task for each student will be to develop a framework for a forest management plan to fit his or her property. Successful students will be awarded a certificate of completion.

As an incentive to keep students diligent, the course is being offered on a semester basis—once in the fall (September 1 - December 15) and once in the spring February 1 - May 20). A registration fee of $150 covers all required textbooks. For more information and to obtain a registration form, those interested may contact Robert Tjaden, Wye Research & Education Center, P.O. Box 169, Queenstown, MD 21658; phone: 410-827-8056, extension 112; or send an e-mail message to rt20@umail.umd.edu.

HELPING STUDENTS LEARN - A contribution to Kitzmiller Elementary School allowed a group of students to improve their reading skills over the summer. For two days each week for nine weeks, seven second graders gathered at the school for reading skill enrichment sessions. A donation from the C&S Coal Company and the Maryland Coal Association made the tutoring program possible. In the photo above, from left, are Adrienne Ottaviani of the Coal Association, Kitzmiller principal Sheila Miller, and Timothy Schwinsbart of C&S Coal.

EMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

There will be a service of holy communion on Sunday, Aug. 27, at 7 p.m., at Emmanuel Lutheran Church conducted by the Rev. Alex Black and the Rev. Patricia Pittsnogle. This service will be in addition to the regularly scheduled Sunday morning service and will be the final service held in the present church building. Our congregation extends an invitation to all who will join us as we give thanks for this church building, which was dedicated for the ministry of God's word and holy sacraments, but which we will no longer be using for that purpose. As we prepare to move to another building may our hearts be fixed where true joy is found — in Jesus Christ our Lord.

THIS AND THAT

Bill Southerly attended the American Psychological Association conference which was held in Washington, D.C., on August 4-8. His family accompanied him and did much sightseeing at our nation's capital. Joining them on Monday, Aug. 7, were their cousins Kerry, Lindsey, Lauren, and Bret Greer, who got in on the sightseeing as well. On Tuesday, Aug. 8, the Greers and Billy and Blake Bogus met the Southerlys at Six Flags Over America Theme Park for a day of fun. Lines were long, and a power outage occurred, leaving loved ones stranded on a water ride causing them to bail out of the boats and walk to where the ride would have ended. Bill's boat got hit by another boat when the power went out, but no one was hurt. Security personnel escorted those that were stranded to safety. Was it really a day of fun? It really was, despite the problems! The Southerlys spent the evening at the home of the Greers, as well as Wednesday, and returned to Garrett County on Thursday, Aug. 10.

The sheer madness of Fair week is here. Like most of the county, quite a few families also go crazy trying to get their part of the greatest show of the year in Garrett County. I wonder how many mothers are doing the same thing as I am doing right now, collapsing on their beds and running a multiple of details through their minds. What does their family still need to do to get ready? What final touches are needed on their entries? We need to get together a mat and frame for a wonderful painting Caitlin did while attending the GLAF Arts Camp.

I need to get one or two of my paintings framed. Heck, I still did not find one piece of a painting of a Shire Station and have not decided which one of my oil landscapes that I want to enter.

Caitlin's and Claire's cookies still need wrapped in plastic wrap. I don't know quite how to wrap my dry flower arrangement which I worked on obsessively for the last week.

I need to get some entry forms from my sister, Carol Bass, who I am sure has already selected her vegetables and flower specimens that she is going to enter. That means getting together the designer of specimens of a particular kind of vegetable, for example: 10 green beans, perfectly matched in length, color, and straight. The green bean class is one of the most competitive, as there are as many as 20-plus entries in it. I was lucky enough a few years ago to actually win a blue ribbon with my beans. This year I never got any beans planted.

I really do not have any vegetables for the fair. My beautiful broccoli head blossomed two weeks ago, same as my best lettuce plants that went to seed. One of my previous accomplishments was winning the first ribbon for carrots after I had moved back to the farm from New York. I had some good friends here who were very good gardeners. My first crop of carrots was cracked, skinny, and limited — they were a laughingstock.

As I looked through the Fair Book to look up the class for my flower arrangement, I noticed a couple classes in cut flowers I could enter if I have enough ambition to deal with them, and I want to later paint my sweet peas instead of sacrificing them.

The two town boys who married Garrett County 4-H girls with long, deep involvement with the Fair, who are Lloyd and his buddy, Steve Sherrard, got roped into be the Farm Crop superintendents. Today they are busy setting up the tables and getting their shelves in order. Then back home to get the truck and load up the 4-H market hogs. Loading and hauling six young pigs is quite a job for a guy from Silver Spring. I asked Steve if they are crazy over at their house. They put in a full day with fair and then Steve dropped off some rolls of film at Wal-Mart and then selected the picture he wanted to get enlarged to enter competition. Meanwhile at their ranch, with Ann as our new Extension agent, their daughter made her debut in the 4-H Fashion Revue and she won Best of Show.

That event was always tough for me. One year when I was about 14 years old my clothes project was baby doll pajamas, and a gang of friends from the dairy barn and the horse barn were on hand to tease me about my skimpy outfit.

Believe me, I am no way completely ready for the fair, and I need a break from the stress. Claire, Caitlin, and Mere are back from the vesper service where their Gram, Ruth DiPaolo, participated in the service.

Of course, Pappy Dale is up to his neck also at the fair. Other hard-working directors from this area are Delmar Yoder, Doris Cooper, Don Sealing, and honorary directors Loretta Opel, Ruth DiPaolo, and Harley Brenneman.

Dale Glotfelty also attended the Brenneman family reunion (family of Samuel and Sarah Jenkins Brenneman) on Sunday. My girls went along to the reunion with the Bass and Glotfelty families. I did not go, as I have had enough reunions for awhile. Most of the family from Ohio were not here this year. Usually attending are Helen Englar (who is on a trip to Scandinavia) and Betty Hummel, just back from a trip to Greece. My extended family really get around the world, covering Africa, Russia, South America, Europe, Mexico, and China. I know that Lloyd's stepgrandmother did go to China and one of his great aunts, age 90, rode a camel in Egypt.

But the whole Glotfelty clan still thinks the farm I live on now is home for them. Nowhere can replace our beautiful Glotfelty farm in Bittinger. Even my cousins who grew up far away, the Englars, Hummels, and Buckel cousins, remember the fun times spent on the farm. If you talk about the violets in the woods, or any hundred of special things to my Aunt Betty, Helen, or Dot, I draw some tears.

I now write this late Monday afternoon. Lloyd rope this morning. But, someway we did it. I just dropped the girls and their last entries at the fair. Claire did two beautiful wild flower arrangements and I am afraid they will beat mine. They are very excited about a week at the fair. I remember how bad that was. But that was then and this is now. We still

I am convinced that neither death nor life, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Sadly missed by wife and daughters

In Loving Memory of
BARRY E. BEACHY

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes its hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

GCC Pipes, Drums To Give Concert Near Petersburg

The Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums Band will perform Saturday, Aug. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in Welton Park, near Petersburg, by the gazebo. The audience is asked to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets to sit on. In the event of bad weather, the concert will be in the Petersburg High School gym.

This event, sponsored by the Grant County Arts Council, is free and open to the public. It is being presented with financial assistance from the West Virginia Division of Culture and History and the National Endowment for the Arts, with approval from the West Virginia Commission for the Arts.

The band members will perform a program of traditional Scottish music and will give brief explanations of their instruments, the pieces they play, and the influence of Scottish music upon modern and traditional American music. The band will be wearing Scottish tartans.

The GCC Pipes and Drums was formed in 1979 as the "Garrett Highlanders" by Charles P. "Chip" Evans and Fred A. Thayer. A class of eight students started the course of instruction at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College. A member of that class was the Rev. John A. Grant, who continues as a member of the band and is its pipe sergeant. Thayer serves as pipe major and instructor. The band's purpose is to foster and preserve the traditions, values, qualities, and music of the Scottish heritage through musical education and performance.

The band's first performance was at the Wisp's Summerfest in July 1980. Public performances, approximately 20 per year, have continued since then and include an appearance at Rocky Gap to introduce then-Governor William Donald Schaefer at the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra's Western Maryland Concert. The band has performed on several occasions for the Garrett Lakes' Arts Festival and has been the host band at the McHenry Highland Festival since its inception 12 years ago. Something of an international reputation was earned when the Pipes and Drums appeared worldwide on CNN-TV as the featured band of the Alexandria, Va., Scottish Christmas walk. Maryland magazine's, summer 1993 cover story featured the band in an article titled "Oatmeal Warriors," and both Southern Living and Middle Atlantic magazines have given coverage to the band.

Formal instruction in piping and drumming is offered through Garrett Community College in a curriculum designed by P/M Thayer (retired chief judge of Maryland's Fourth Judicial Circuit).

The band roster presently includes: Sue Judy of Petersburg, J.E. Beard, Paul Browning, John Carlisle, A. J. DeFusco, John Donaldson, Cecil Glotfelty, Roselle Gow (Scribe), John Grant (P/Sgt.), Dwight Jeffrey, Gerry McKee, James Reesman, Mary Alice Reesman, and Fred Thayer (P/M), all pipers; and Jerry Browning, Greg Carrico, Jo Donaldson, Virginia Jeffrey, Rick Kutchman, and John Wolfe (D/Sgt.), all drummers. Catherine Donaldson and Phyllis Furr serve as guidons. Each member of the band wears his or her family tartan.

The Pipes and Drums is available for public performances, parades, or other functions as a group, in solo, duet, or other configuration. Information is available through Pipe Major Thayer at 301-387-9439.

The body of Abbey (Cole) Harsh was brought Sunday to Eglon for services and burial. A former resident of this area, she and her husband, Wilmer Harsh, were currently residing in Fort Ashby. She is also survived by her daughter, Carol Imes, and son, Don Harsh, and by three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The body of Bruce Rembold, Eglon, was found early Sunday morning, Aug. 13, along Rt. 24 where he had apparently been killed in a motorcycle mishap. His wife, Mary Roth Rembold, and two sons, Shawn and Craig, survive, as does his mother, Eileen Rembold, Pittsburgh.

Walter "Bill" Hauser died at his Eglon home on Sunday evening, Aug. 13. He was preceded in death by his wife, Pearl "Pal" (Luzier) Hauser.

PERSONAL MENTION

The family of the late Clayton and Lydia Harsh gathered Saturday at Friendship Acres, Randolph, Ohio, for their annual reunion, with 92 family members present. They gathered there from Florida, Maryland, Ohio, West Virginia, and Michigan. Children Alan and Helen Lipscomb, Mary Jane and Lorraine Hanline, and Stanley and Eloise Harsh, along with several members of their families, attended from this area.

Also accompanying Bill and Thelma Whetsell and Dorothy Spaid last week to visit with the David Wilts in Ohio was Mrs. Spaid's granddaughter, Kathy Sisler.

Recent visitors with Bessie Heckert at Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home in Oakland were Sharon Bucklew of Hagerstown and Sandra Chapman of Frostburg, daughters of Everett, Ark.

Dr. Robert Coughlin is recuperating at his Sunnyside home from a fractured leg he received while hiking at Dolly Sods. The Eglon Clinic is accepting phone calls and will be staffed Aug. 22 and 29, with plans for later times not yet formed. Persons who need service may contact the clinic.

A Preston County seniors tour to the Beckley area last week included a visit to the exhibition mine and mining town, to Tamarack, and for "Honey in the Rock" at Grandview State Park. Making the trip from this area were Beatrice Ball, Marie Mullenax, Clifton and Grace Bachtel, and Mildred and Dale Stemple.

Visiting last week with Keith and Delores Douglas and Leota Elsey in Aurora were John, Teresa, and Cody Downs of Rock Bridge, Ohio.

Cora Cullers of Eglon recently attended junior high camp at Camp Galillee, Terra Alta.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Corps Pfc. William A. Fultz, son of Carol and Ralph L. Fultz of Mount Storm, W.Va., recently completed basic training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

Fultz successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits both physically and mentally.

Fultz and fellow recruits began their training at 5 a.m., by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Fultz spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat, and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Fultz and other recruits also received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values — honor, courage and commitment.

Fultz and fellow recruits ended the training phase with "The Crucible," a 54-hour team-effort, problem-solving evolution, which culminated with an emotional ceremony in which the recruits were presented the Marine Corps emblem and were addressed as "Marines" for the first time since boot camp began.

U.S. Marine Corps Cpl. Jerry R. Kelly Jr., son of Jerry R. Kelly and Patricia P. Wolfe of Terra Alta, W.Va., recently departed on a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit, home based at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

Kelly is one of more than 10,000 Atlantic Fleet sailors and Marines deploying aboard the ships of the USS George Washington Carrier Battle Group and USS Saipan Amphibious Ready Group. The groups consist of 11 surface combatants, two submarines, nine aircraft squadrons, and one Marine expeditionary unit.

During the deployment, Kelly's unit will defend U.S. policy and support international interests in the Middle East and Europe.

Prior to deploying, the groups participated in a 17-day Atlantic Joint Task Force Exercise. This exercise was designed to prepare naval forces for contingencies they may encounter during the deployment. Marines from Kelly's unit trained in amphibious warfare operations and maritime interception.

Kelly's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. MEUs are composed of more than 2,000 personnel and are divided into an infantry battalion, aircraft squadron, support group, and command element. With this combination, Kelly's unit supplies and sustains itself for either quick mission accomplishment or clearing the way for follow-on forces.

Kelly, a 1991 graduate of Preston High School, Kingwood, joined the Marine Corps in June 1994.

Paugh Named Boyer Scholar At Messiah Col.

Matthew A. Paugh, Kitzmiller, a 1997 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, was recently notified of his selection as a Boyer Scholar by Messiah College, Grantham, Pa. To be named a Boyer Scholar is one of the highest forms of recognition that Messiah College gives to its students.

Dr. Ernest L. Boyer Sr. (1928-1995) was a national and international educational leader. An alumnus of Messiah College, he was U.S. commissioner of education and president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. The Boyer Center on the campus of Messiah College was established in his honor.

Students who have excelled in the development of intellect, character, and faith, as exemplified in scholarship, leadership, and service, may be recognized as Boyer Scholars during their senior year. The number of nominees for this honor is limited to approximately 5% of the class, and from that 5% final selection is made by the provost.

Paugh, a senior at Messiah College majoring in Christian ministries, will be recognized at the opening convocation on Tuesday, Aug. 29. He is the son of Daniel and Diane Paugh, Kitzmiller.

and all three girls were almost at the end of the rope this morning. But, someway we did it. I just dropped the girls and their last entries at the fair. Claire did two beautiful wild flower arrangements and I am afraid they will beat mine. They are very excited about a week at the fair. I remember how bad that was. But that was then and this is now. We still have to get through the wild scene of the market hog show.

I think all the cousins have outfitted themselves for the show with their canes for ready use. The hog show is really a wild scene. It's not like the dairy show, where the animals stroll around the ring and posed perfect most of the time. It is usually a pretty sedate scene. But the pigs run around, bucking, and rooting in the dirt, sometimes "pooping" on one another; meanwhile the kids are dead serious trying their best to make their pigs go where they are supposed to. Their little faces are pretty grim. If you want to watch, it is Saturday evening.

I loved to hang out in the dairy barn, and of course, also the horse barn. I loved the city people oohing and aahing at the sight of me taking a nap laying my head on my cow shoulder, or off my pony, Misty, with her foal in her stall. After a week at the fair, baby foals get completely gentle and bond with humans. The horse and pony kids often hold informal races on the race track in early morning. Misty was fast for a little spotted pony. Of course, Joey was unbeatable.

The swine barn did not have the same social scene as the dairy and beef barns when I was young. But the fair is a wonderful experience for young people. When I was about 12 years old, I showed a dairy cow, horse, and entered canned goods. Once I won Best of Show in the 4-H canned goods group. I also was in the dress review, the 4-H demonstration contest, and entered a few pieces of art. My sewing project was never was a winner. Cindy Beachy Stanton remembers the torture we went through to get our sewing project finished. Anyway, I won the Rotary Award for the outstanding youth at the fair. When they called me up for the presentation of the award, they thought there must be a mistake because I was young and scrawny for such a major award.

I heard this year that the Bittinger 4-H should be a reprise for a float for the parade. I believe it is one of the greatest ideas for a 4-H club. The 4-H'ers will pile everyone in a nice clean manure spreader holding pitch forks. The sign reads "Special Good News — Join 4-H'." It will be easy and fun. I think we won with it in about 1969. Another of my fondest memories of the fair was in 1970 when the older 4-H youth made up of kids from many clubs made about 100 tie-dye T-shirts. We made lots of money and I think we sold out. That booth was the hip place to be at the fair.

The Bittinger picnic will be held this Saturday, Aug. 19, at the fire hall. It was the most wonderful event when it was held at the former location in Brenneman's Grove. I can remember so many years when I ran wild with distant cousins and Bittinger kids. We pretended we were a herd of wild horses. We walked on top of the split-rail fence. It's not the same at the fire hall, but you can still come and see people that you haven't seen for a long time. The picnic starts at 11 a.m. A chicken barbecue will be held, so come one, come all.

This week I enjoyed a visit from our new pastor, Pat Pittsnogle. We had quite a few common interests. She also likes to collect rocks and fossils, and she grew up on a farm in the area of Winchester, Va., very similar country as around here. She is a 4-H alumna. She did more of the girlish things, like sewing and food projects, but she also helped to tend her family livestock. She feels very comfortable in Bittinger. Her husband Keith still works in Winchester as a computer expert for IRS. He spends half of his time in Winchester. Her two sons are college-age kids, one attending WV University and the other at Shepherdstown. She is very warm and friendly, and I think she is definitely a "keeper." I hope she and I can go on a fossil hunt sometime soon. She also enjoys playing the guitar.

Even more than the Bittinger picnic, the fair brings almost all former residents of Garrett County home. Among those people were Ann Hershberger McLister and children, Natalie, Colleen, and Paul, who escape their suburban life in Frederick to summer in Brenneman's Grove. Monday evening they hosted my girls to a campout party. When I drove them down, we had a perfect August evening. A light mist hovered over the Beachy pond, and if you looked to the east you could see a "blood moon" rising over Meadow Mountain. What I mean when I say "blood moon," is that it is the brightest red-orange full moon. I read a play in college titled Blood Moon by Garcia Lorca, if my memory serves correctly. But the name "red moon" we get in late summer and early autumn.

I dropped the girls off and they ran off for their joyful reunion with their friends.

This summer we kind of took a break from their friendships. While we admired the moon reflection in a window of the old shop building beside Margaret's house, Ann and I discussed many mid-life crises that couples and people around our age endure, and we just renewed our friendship. I look forward to painting that moon soon. I just am wondering whether my girls will get home to get ready for the 4-H hog picture session this morning. I bet they got a little cold last night. I know I was even cold in my bed with a couple quilts. We do not need air conditioning in Bittinger at night very often.

Bad news for the Bittinger 4-H kids who will sell their 4-H market livestock this Saturday night since our most dependent bidder, Margaret Hershberger Wagner, accompanied by her husband Jim, will be out of town, as she planned to attend a wedding in Salisbury of a Hershberger cousin. So, we need someone to step up and take Margaret's place at the auction.

Lesa Whittemore returned from a long visit to Nevada. She went whitewater rafting, hiking on Mt. Rose at Lake Tahoe, and visited in San Francisco, where she attended a Giant football game and attended some good concerts, including Rick Martin's Sting. She even saw a lightning bolt light a fire near Reno. It was a sudden burst of flame. She said it was pretty scary. Another fire burns outside Las Vegas with lots of smoke. They said it was the worst fire season ever. I am sure they would like to have some of that rain we have been having here.

FAIR SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CHARTER
TOWN OF KITZMILLER
Notice of the Repeal of the Municipal Charter of the Town of Kitzmiller and the Adoption of a New Charter

Charter Amendment Number 2000, of the Council of Kitzmiller adopted by unanimous vote on July 24, 2000, pursuant to Article XI-E of the Constitution of the State of Maryland and Article 23A of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 edition, as amended), title "Corporations-Municipal," repeals the Charter of the Town of Kitzmiller as it now exists, as found in Volume 4 of Municipal Charters in Maryland, 1990 edition, and establishes a new Charter for the municipal corporation known as the Town of Kitzmiller consisting of twelve (12) new Articles, to stand in place of the Charter so repealed.

The new Charter establishes the general corporate powers and the boundaries of the Town of Kitzmiller. It vests the legislative powers of the Town in a Council consisting of a Mayor and four (4) Council members who shall hold office for terms of two (2) years or until succeeding Mayor and Council shall take office. Council members shall have resided in the Town for at least one year immediately preceding their election and shall maintain a permanent residence within the Town. The Charter makes provision for compensation for Council members, for meetings of the Council, and for procedures for meetings.

The Charter has provisions for the adoption of ordinances which may be passed, amended, rejected, or deferred at any Council meeting held not less than six (6) days or more than sixty (60) days after introduction. The Charter specifies referendum procedures by which actions of the Town Council may be subject to a vote of the citizens.

The Charter provides for the selection process, compensation, qualifications, and powers and duties of the Mayor. The Charter describes the general and specific powers of the Mayor and the Council and enumerates those powers. The Charter specifies the enforcement powers of the Council to enforce the ordinances of the Town and specifies penalties for violation of those ordinances.

The Charter has provision for the registration of voters, the nomination and the election of officials of the Town and establishes a Board of Supervisors of Elections. The Charter specifies the procedures for elections and the appeal procedures of the actions of the Board of Supervisors of Elections. The Charter specifies procedures for the conduct of primary elections, regular and special elections and for the counting of the vote. Penalties for noncompliance with these regulations are specified. The Charter specifies procedures for filling vacancies in the office of Mayor and Council. The Charter has provision for the transition of current election schedule to the terms specified in this Charter.

The Charter provides for the fiscal management of the Town with requirements for budget production and adoption. The Charter specifies requirements for appropriations, transfer of funds, appropriation lapses, and tax levies. The Charter forbids over-expenditures and specifies procedures for issuing checks. Further, the Charter provides for tax anticipation borrowing by the sale of municipal bonds or notes and has specific procedures for the payment of Town indebtedness. The Charter specifies the Town's purchasing and contract authority.

The Charter provides for a Clerk-Treasurer to be appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the Council and specifies the duties of the Clerk-Treasurer. The Charter provides for a Town Attorney to be appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the Council and specifies the powers and duties of the Town Attorney. The Town shall have the power to employ additional legal consultants as it deems necessary. The Charter provides for a merit system for unclassified and classified employees. The Charter provides for the employment of additional personnel as needed and for the establishment of a retirement system and employee compensation and benefit program.

The Charter defines the public ways within the Town and specifies the control and powers of the Town to regulate those streets and sidewalks.

The Charter specifies the Town's power in regulating water and sewer service and in levying special assessments, and the procedures that shall be followed to levy and collect taxes in the form of special assessments.

The Charter specifies the Town's authority to acquire, possess, and dispose of real property. The Charter specifies the Town's power of condemnation.

The Charter has general provisions for the oath of office for Town officials and for bonding of Town officers and employees. The Charter specifies the preservation of prior rights and obligations and the continuation of existing ordinances of the Town. The Charter specifies that violations of the ordinances are a misdemeanor, and specifies the maximum penalties for violations. The Charter provides for separability of Charter provisions and provides for amendment procedures.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT (FONSI #77)

Project Name/Number: Goodwill Mennonite Home Sewer Line Extension / WQ99-098-12L
Project Applicant: Garrett County Sanitary District
Project Location: Goodwill Mennonite Home / Garrett County
Project Cost/Loan: $400,550 / $400,550

Project Description: The proposed project would extend a public sewer line from the town of Grantsville to the existing Goodwill Mennonite Home. The project will consist of the design and construction of sewage pumping stations and approximately 3,000 linear feet of small diameter (3") pressure sewer line connecting to the Grantsville municipal sewer system for treatment and disposal. The proposed sewer line will be designed to limit service to the Goodwill Mennonite Home. Goodwill Mennonite Home is a private facility serving as a nursing home and housing for the elderly.

The Garrett County Commissioners have applied for financial assistance from the Maryland Department of the Environment's State Revolving Loan Fund Program for the proposed project as described above. In accordance with requirements for complying with the State Environmental Review Procedures (SERP) under COMAR 26.03.11 for such assistance, an Environmental Assessment has been performed by the Department. The Department's review process indicated that either significant adverse environmental impacts would not result from the proposed project or such impacts have been eliminated by making changes in the project. Additionally, the Department has also found the project to be consistent with the Maryland Economic Growth, Resource Protection, and Planning Policy in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1992.27, and Maryland's Smart Growth and Neighborhood Conservation Policy, in accordance with Executive Order 01.01.1998.04.

Consequently, a preliminary decision not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement has been made. This decision has been made based on a careful review of the Environmental Information Document, prepared by the applicant, and other supporting information. This information and the Environmental Assessment are on file at the Department and, additionally, have been made available for public review at the Garrett County Sanitary District, located at 313 E. Alder Street, Room 200, Oakland, Maryland. Copies of the Environmental Assessment will be made available at cost upon request.

Comments supporting or disagreeing with the above preliminary decisions may be submitted for consideration by writing to:

Mr. George Keller, Program Manager
Water Quality Infrastructure Program
Water Management Administration
Maryland Department of Environment
2500 Broening Highway
Baltimore, Maryland 21224

After evaluating any comments received, the Department will make a final decision no sooner than 20 calendar days from the date of this Finding of No Significant Impact. No administrative action will be taken with respect to this proposal during this timeframe.

Water Management Administration

CRELLIN HOUSE GUTTED - Fire of as yet undetermined origin resulted in the gutting of a house in Crellin Tuesday afternoon. Volunteer firefighters from several area departments responded to the 1:19 p.m. alarm, and upon their arrival found heavy flames and smoke billowing from the two-story structure. The house, occupied by Dinah M. Hebb, was a general store for a period of about 25 years (circa 1915-1940). The case is currently under investigation by personnel from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office and other law enforcement agencies. There were no injuries reported. See story for details.

Man Charged With Intent To Disburse MDMA

Acting on an anonymous tip, the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force arrested an Oakland man Friday evening on several drug offenses, including intent to distribute the drug MDMA, commonly known as "ecstasy."

Jamie Allen Ferguson, 20, was arrested in the wake of a 6:30 p.m. traffic stop along Fingerboard Road. Task Force detectives had received information alleging that Ferguson was going to be transporting the drug from West Virginia into Maryland. A search of his 1989 Pontiac Bonneville uncovered 20 tablets of suspected ecstasy from behind one of the vehicle's hubcaps. The estimated street value of the substance is $500.

Ferguson faces charges of intent to distribute MDMA, possession of MDMA, and possession of drug paraphernalia, and remains lodged in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $30,000 bond.

The case is still under investigation, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County and chairperson of the Narcotics Task Force.

Information on this or any other incidents pertaining to suspected ecstasy possession or distribution anywhere in the region may be anonymously relayed to any of the following agencies: the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force at 301-387-9566 or 301-895-5889; the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911; or the Maryland State Police at 301-387-1101.

GRAND CHAMPION MARKET BEEF - The annual 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale was held last Saturday night at the Garrett County Fair, with a total of 218 animals being sold. The Grand Champion Market Beef was owned and sold by Jenna Rush, daughter of Rick and Linda Rush. The 1,349-pound beef was purchased by Oak-Mar Restaurant for $2.50 per pound. Jenna is a member of the Trailblazers 4-H Club. Pictured, left to right, are Andrew Fike, owner of Oak-Mar Restaurant; Jenna Rush; and Melissa Upole, 2000 Garrett County Farm Queen. Additional pictures from the livestock sale will be printed in next week's issue of The Republican. Photo by Susan Parsons, administrative assistant, Garrett Co. Extension Service.

Information On Arrests Corrected

In last week's edition of The Republican, a list of individuals charged with possession of marijuana included the names of several persons who were not, in fact, so charged. The following names should not have been included: Brian M. Parker, 22, Oakland; Heather C. Duckworth, 21, Friendsville; Michelle McRobie, 20, Oakland; and Jessica F. Reightler, 18, Deer Park. The error is regretted.

Local Veterinarian Voices Concern About Safety, Training At Shelter

In the wake of the euthanasia of 15 dogs at the Garrett County animal shelter about two weeks ago, Dr. Paul Deal, a local veterinarian, and other concerned citizens addressed the county commissioners Tuesday about safety and training issues at the public facility. The dogs were put to sleep after shelter staff discovered the presence of the parvovirus, a potentially fatal illness to dogs that is spread through contact.

According to Gary Mullich, director of the county's general services, the shelter staff was advised by two veterinarians to put the dogs down. The facility was also closed for five days to contain the illness.

Deal prefaced his presentation Tuesday by stating that animal control and animal shelter work is risky for all involved. Deal said he is closely involved with the current shelter staff, which consists of two full-time individuals and one part-time, and that he has become aware of their level of training, which he said is nominal. The three people were recently hired following the exit of the former staff, which consisted of two people who were occasionally assisted by other county employees.

"These people have very little experience and no formal training," Deal said. "The shelter is operating at great risk because of this." He said the former manager of the shelter, Josie Shilitio, was often required to euthanize dogs while she was alone.

"It is so easy to get hurt when you are trying to put a big dog down by yourself. She should have never been put in that situation," Deal said.

Deal said that because the current staff has no training, they are possibly adopting out animals that are not healthy, or they are conceivably euthanizing animals that could have made good pets. He said he was not critical of the individuals, but that they are in need of training as soon as possible.

"I had to euthanize a puppy the other day that had more than 50 ticks on it. Tick removal is one of the basic techniques that all shelter personnel should be able to do," Deal said. "But if you haven't had any training in it, you can't possibly know what to do."

Deal asked if there were any guidelines or manuals available at the shelter.

Unwanted Visitor Considered Too Close For Comfort

When the doorbell rang at a Grantsville area home last Sunday afternoon, it was definitely an "unwanted guest," according to homeowner Tammy Rounds. "It was a bear," she explained.

Rounds said that her 9-year-old daughter was sitting in the livingroom watching television when the intrusive animal hit the door bell. "It really scared her. She had seen the bear out in the yard earlier and told her dad," Rounds said, noting that the child had certainly not expected it to come up on the porch and ring the bell.

This is not the first encounter the youngster has had with a bear, the mother said. "We have had them around her a lot. One walked right up on my daughter one time." That encounter instilled a fear in the child, Rounds said.

Two years ago a car the Roundses owned was severely damaged by a bear she said. "He destroyed it. He got up on the hood and crushed it and scratched it all up," she reported, adding that this bear activity on their property has affected the way the family lives. "We keep an automated light on outside all the time and we're not comfortable letting the kids play outside. So most of the time we don't," she noted.

Crellin House, Former Store, Gutted By Fire

The investigation is continuing into the cause of a fire that gutted a single-family, two-story house in Crellin Tuesday afternoon.

Volunteer firefighters from the Oakland, Terra Alta, and Deer Park fire departments were summoned at 1:19 p.m. to respond to the residence of Dinah Marie Hebb, located at 167 Preston Lane in Crellin, after a passerby saw smoke coming from the house and called 911. Upon their arrival, they saw heavy smoke and flames coming from the wood-frame structure. Some two dozen firefighters brought the blaze under control in about 20 minutes, but remained on the scene for over two hours.

Also responding was a tanker from the Gorman VFD, the county air cascade vehicle from the Deep Creek VFC, and the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

According to Steve Wendling, fire investigator for the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, the fire originated on the dining room floor. He estimated a loss of $20,000 in structure damage and loss of contents. He said the house was equipped with smoke detectors, which did activate properly.

GCC Readies To Roll Out Welcome Mat For Incoming Estonian Students

by Joan Crawford

Preparations for the new fall semester at Garrett Community College have taken on a decided international flavor this year, with plans for welcoming four students from the Baltic country of Estonia to the campus and orienting them to life in Garrett County. The four Estonian students have decided to attend GCC subsequent to the visit of Drs. Steve and Gail Herman to their native country in conjunction with efforts of the Maryland National Guard for educational and economic development in that country.

The four students, including three young women, two of whom are sisters, and one young man, will be living with host families while they are in Garrett County. They will arrive by plane in Washington, D.C. on Aug. 30 where a delegation from GCC will greet them and bring them to this area. In addition to the Hermans, dean of academic affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell, associate professor of English Virginia Broaddus, newly appointed head of GCC's office of Global Education, Darlene Reed, and the host families will travel to the airport to welcome the newcomers. No plans have been made for the day following the students' arrival, so they can relax and become acquainted with their host families.

The students will visit the GCC campus for the first time on Friday, Sept. 1, where they will have a tour, meet with their advisor to plan their schedules, obtain their books, and have lunch with their peer mentors. Plans for Labor Day weekend include two more days to relax with the host families and a Sunday picnic at Deep Creek Lake hosted by the Hermans.

The Estonian students will attend new student orientation with their mentors and other new students the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 5, and then will join faculty and staff for lunch and the afternoon activities. The next day they will begin attending class with 700 other students as the fall semester gets under way.

During their first semester at GCC, Estonian students will take a newly developed course, English as a Second Language (ESL) and will have a number of planned experiences to acquaint them with American culture. These will include field trips to historical places, visits to community centers, outings with other young people, etc.

Students from Estonia will be coming to GCC from Tapa, a city that has been matched with Cumberland as a sister city, and Torva, a small town that has been paired with Grantsville. Keit Parks, a recent high school graduate from Torva, will be staying with Linda and Joida Sherwood of Accident. Marina and Tatjuna Kravtsuk, two sisters from Tapa, will be staying with Jack DuBose and Carolyn Collen DuBose of Grantsville. Kalle Rattespell of Tapa will be staying with Judy Sconyers and Peter Finne of Cranesville.

According to Dr. Herman, six additional students from Estonia may be coming to GCC in January. Families interested in hosting one of these students are asked to call the president's office at 301-387-3056.

ESTONIA? DA! — Garrett Community College is preparing to welcome four new students from Estonia for the fall semester. Two staff members, Virginia Broaddus, left, GCC's director of arts and sciences, and Darlene Reed, coordinator of global education, are pictured locating the Baltic nation on the globe. Although the former Russian republic boasts a literacy rate of 100 percent (according to the World Almanac), the country is making preparations to upgrade its higher education offerings by studying Maryland's community college system. GCC president Dr. Steve Herman recently traveled to Estonia to help those efforts along, and subsequently proposed that Garrett offer scholarships to Estonian students interested in studying here. Several area families have volunteered to host the students in their homes. ("Da" is the Estonian word for "yes.")

Special Olympics Sets Orientation For Volunteers

The Garrett County chapter of Special Olympics Maryland (SOMD) will hold an orientation meeting for potential volunteers interested in supporting the work of the organization. The meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 14, 5:30-7:30 p.m., at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park.

"This orientation, which is required by the Special Olympics organization, gives an overview of the goals and activities of Special Olympics," explained Chad Brown, SOMD coordinator for Garrett County, adding that this session will help volunteers to be better informed about the work they will be doing.

SOMD offers opportunities for individuals age 8 and older to spend time in community service. "We can be very flexible about when and how often a person volunteers. We have openings for people interested in handling public relations, planning events, helping at particular events, or serving on committees. Of course, we also need sports coaches," Brown explained.

The Nike Corporation offers a scholarship to students meeting specific guidelines, who perform volunteer work for the Special Olympics program. Brown also noted that the Garrett County chapter of SOMD is qualified to offer service learning hours to students, and those who attend the orientation meeting will be credited two hours of service.

For more information on SOMD in Garrett County, persons may call Brown at 301-895-3793.

Salem Children's Trust Helps To Reunite Family

Salem Children's Trust, located in eastern Garrett County, was instrumental is bringing about an unusual type of family reunion recently, when a "missing" son and his Michigan family were reunited.

The youth, referred to the Salem Shelter by the Allegany County Department of Social Services, arrived at Salem on August 1. "He offered no information about his background, his family, or the town from which he had come," reported Audrey Goslin, residential specialist at Salem.

The young man whom staff and residents at Salem called Jacob was "well mannered" and educated, Goslin noted. "He wasn't the typical kid you find in shelter care," she said.

Several days after the boy's arrival at Salem, a staff member noticed a poster for a missing child in a store in Uniontown, Pa. "The face starring back from the poster was Jacob, except the poster clearly indicated that his real name was George," Goslin stated.

Members of the church to which the boy's family belonged had hung posters throughout Uniontown (and other areas) after George disappeared from his family in Dunbar, Pa., July 29. Because Uniontown has an ordinance prohibiting posters, all had been taken down except one. "It was the one poster that the Salem staff member saw," Goslin said.

The family was contacted and within two days George and his parents were together, reunited at the Cumberland airport on August 7. Goslin said that the plane had just come to a stop when the door opened and the father emerged. "He ran to George to embrace him. They stood embracing for a long time," she concluded.

Correction Noted

The news coverage of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office that appeared in last week's issue of The Republican contained an inaccuracy. A domestic altercation of Wednesday, Aug. 16, did result in second degree assault charges for both Brenda and Keith Chapman; however, those charges were filed via a criminal summons and did not involve any arrests, as stated in the news article.

Business Group Notes Meeting In Grantsville

Members of the Greater Grantsville Business Association will hold the monthly general meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 30, beginning at 8:30 a.m. at Penn Alps Restaurant. The guest speaker will be Char Rogers of the Women's Institute, who will provide information on support services available to businesswomen and those who would like to build businesses.

With offices located in Cumberland and Keyser, W.Va., the institute is a non-profit organization serving western Maryland and nearby West Virginia.

The GGBA meets the last Wednesday of each month at Penn Alps Restaurant at 8:30 a.m. Persons interested in becoming members are invited to attend.

Orientation Event Set For Incoming Students At GCC

An orientation program for new Garrett Community College students is set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 5, in the GCC auditorium. The format for this year's orientation will be different from that of other years, according to Margaret Mahood, coordinator of Student Services. Instead of having a master of ceremonies introduce each person who will speak, theatre professor Ben Sincell and some theater students will perform skits and mime related to each activity on the agenda.

THE RESERVE GRAND CHAMPION MARKET BEEF at the Garrett County Fair Livestock Sale was purchased by Deep Creek Foodland Fresh for $2.40 per pound and donated to Northern High School Athletic Association. The 1,279-pound beef was owned and sold by Randi Rodeheaver, daughter of Donald and Sharon Rodeheaver. Randi is a member of the Snowy Creek 4-H Club. Pictured, left to right, are Hugh Umbel, owner of Deep Creek Foodland Fresh; Randi Rodeheaver; and Melissa Upole, 2000 Garrett County Farm Queen. Photo by Susan Parsons, administrative assistant, Garrett Co. Extension Service.

Following a welcome by college president Dr. Steve Herman and a brief introduction to academic affairs by Dean Lillian Mitchell, the new students will meet campus staff members who will be available to provide assistance during their college education. Information will also be presented on opportunities for membership in campus clubs and other activities, career planning and job placement services, financial aid, and a special organization for students over 25 years of age.

A session with GCC advisors will follow, during which the advisors will review important things the students need to know and dates they should remember.

New students will then have the opportunity to tour the campus, have student IDs made, purchase books, and procure information about the various campus clubs. The day will continue with a noon cookout lunch prepared by Sam Butler and outdoor games.

All students are expected to attend orientation. For further information interested persons may call Mahood at 301-387-3011.

Woman Charged With DWI After Single-Car Crash

An 18-year-old Swanton woman was charged with driving while intoxicated after she lost control of her vehicle on Garrett Road early Saturday morning and struck a telephone box and a tree, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Sara Ann Kelly Vance was traveling east on Garrett Road at 3:30 a.m. when a deer ran out in front of her vehicle. When she attempted to brake she lost control of the vehicle on the wet surface, left the roadway and struck a Bell Atlantic telephone box and a tree.

Vance sustained minor injuries and was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. Her passenger, Thomas Edward Gank, 20, Oakland was not injured. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

Deputies filed an array of charges against the driver and the passenger. Vance faces charges of DWI, speed greater than reasonable, violating a license restriction, and underage possession of alcohol. Gank was charged with underage possession of alcohol as well.

Both suspects were released pending trial in Garrett County District Court.

A two-vehicle collision of this past Thursday afternoon, Aug. 17, resulted in minor injury to one of the drivers, while the other driver was charged with causing the accident.

Hattie G. Hull, 49, Terra Alta, W.Va., was traveling on Hutton Road in the area of Old Crellin Road when her 1992 Subaru station wagon struck the rear of a vehicle that was stopped in the roadway waiting to make a left turn. The driver of the second vehicle, Carolyn R. Beckman, 56, Oakland, was transported by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Hull refused medical treatment at the scene, and deputies charged her with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

FIREMEN OF THE YEAR - The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department recently named Jim Feather as its Fireman of the Year, which was announced at the OVFD's annual dinner. Feather, who has been a member of the department for 13 years, is pictured above left receiving his plaque from Fred Callis, OVFD president and Fireman of the Year for the preceding year. Feather has served the department as a lieutenant and as head of several committees. Many of his artistic designs have been used on OVFD clothing. He holds Firefighter I certification and is a trained pump operator. Callis, who has been a member for 15 years, has served as president for the past several years. He is a Level III firefighter and an emergency medical technician.

Attempted Car Purchase Ends In $2,000 Theft

A meeting arranged in McHenry last week on the premise of selling a car resulted in the potential buyer losing $2,000. According to a report filed at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police, the theft occurred August 16 around 6 p.m.

Tfc. B.A. Bond reported that the victim met an unknown male suspect at the McHenry Plaza in order to purchase a 1987 blue Lincoln Town Car. The man allegedly told the victim that he had locked the keys in the car but that he had a spare set of keys at the Wisp Hotel, where he was staying.

The victim drove the man to the Wisp to get the keys; however, he allegedly took the $2,000 with him and never returned. The victim the drove back to the McHenry Plaza and discovered the Lincoln was gone, police said.

The police are continuing to investigate.

Sept. 1 Blood Drive To Include Rumer Benefit

The regularly scheduled Oakland-area bloodmobile of Friday, Sept. 1, will include the opportunity for concerned individuals to donate blood in honor of Danny Rumer, who recently retired from his post as warden of the Garrett County Detention Center. The American Red Cross-sponsored bloodmobile is slated for noon to 6 p.m. at Proctor Kildow American Legion Post #71, located along Memorial Drive across from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Rumer, a 23-year employee of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, retired this spring because of health concerns. He recently underwent triple bypass heart surgery, a procedure that required the infusion of five points of blood, and is currently undergoing dialysis treatments three days a week. He is also in need of a kidney and pancreas transplant operation, which could take place as early as the end of next month.

While Red Cross spokespersons stress that individual blood donations made at the event are not going to be specifically directed to Rumer, ARC officials and sheriff's office staff members Gloria Burns and Brenda Shaffer encourage the participation of all eligible donors. There will be cards of best wishes at the snack tables for donors to sign, and the ARC will deliver the cards to the Oakland-area resident as an expression of the community's support.

"Any donations procured at this blood drive will go into the community's general blood supply to benefit all those in need," said ARC spokesperson Susan Clemens, who is coordinating the event along with Burns and Shaffer. "Danny is assured of getting the blood he needs, as all patients are.

"We would like to point out that blood donations are now usually separated out into three components, platelets, plasma, and red blood cells, which are distributed on basis of need; therefore, one donor's individual donation can often serve to benefit three or four patients, not just one individual," Clemens concluded.

Four Cyclists In Successive Crashes On 42

Four motor cycle drivers traveling on Route 42 near Hoyes were injured in successive accidents Sunday around 11:30 a.m. Maryland State Police from the McHenry investigated the mishap, which resulted in the four drivers, all residents of Pittsburgh, being transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment.

The police reported that the chain of events began when Michael David Deangelo, 24, the operator of the first vehicle, a Suzuki 1100, crested a hill, saw a farm tractor and slowed his vehicle. The second motor cycle, a Suzuki TL 100 operated by Mark Edward Lewis, then reportedly ran into the back of Deangelo's vehicle, forcing both cycles off the road and into a ditch along the side of the road.

The third, cyclist, Kenny Brian Crownover, 30, driving a CBR 900, reportedly crested the hill and laid down his motorcycle, which traveled into the ditch. The fourth driver, Devlon Brill, 38, operating a Yamaha 600, approached the scene, attempted to stop his motorcycle and was ejected. His cycle then allegedly collided with an oncoming 1992 Chevrolet Caprice. The driver of the car was not injured, according to the report.

DWI

Sharon Conlee, 40, Grantsville, was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Thank You

Sweet Debbie Heselbach
by Nick Nikiforou

The tears are flowing
The sorrow stings
But now Sweet Debbie has angel wings.

Her life was rich, so full of love,
But now she'll watch us from above.

We will all miss her smile and voice,
But in God's Kingdom she will now rejoice.

Debbie, we love you.

Mere words can never express the heartfelt thanks our family wishes to convey to all those persons who shared our most difficult time and helped us care for our beloved Debbie in her time of need.

The volumes of mail, flowers, meals, and contributions to her charities stand as testiment to the number of people she touched. This helped us to realize why she always showed so much pride for her Garrett County heritage.

We were so lucky to have shared in the life of this "angel," and we will continue to be guided by her spirit and passion. Debbie may be gone, but she will live forever in the hearts of those she loved. We will miss her.

Thank you from the Heselbach and Bittinger Families

Do the Humane Thing...

Rarely does a week go by that this newspaper does not contain at least one and usually several photos of abandoned/orphaned dogs and cats, most of which are sitting on death row at the county animal shelter. Adorable Adoptables is what we call them, and fortunately for many of them, persons often step forward and take the responsibility of assuming possession and care of these animals. Of course, many more are ultimately destroyed.

Concerns were expressed this week to the Garrett County commissioners by local veterinarian Paul Deal and some representatives of the Garrett County Humane Society about what is a rather pathetic state of affairs at the animal shelter. There was an outbreak of the deadly parvovirus at the shelter just a few weeks ago, a problem that was exacerbated because the staff at the shelter are not trained to recognize such illnesses. In fact, the level of training of the staff in the care of animals is zero, according to Gary Mullich, director of general services.

First of all, we are clueless as to why Mr. Mullich, whose primary charge is the maintenance of county buildings, has anything whatsoever to do with the staffing of the animal shelter.

Secondly, we want to emphasize that we are not blaming the current staff of the shelter for the problems. It is certainly not their fault that there are not any trained veterinarian technicians working with them. From all indications, they are doing the best they can under extremely difficult, often depressing, circumstances.

Thirdly, our county's record of providing funding for animal control is severely lacking and getting relatively worse rather than better. The county budget for animal control in fiscal year 1998 was $89,500, in FY '99 it was $97,020, in FY '00 it dropped nearly $30,000 to $68,500, and just approved for FY '01 is a slightly improved $76,200, but still over $13,000 less than what was budgeted three years ago. Apparently the amount for FY '01 has been amended upward to add another half-time (also untrained) employee.

We do acknowledge the fact that the commissioners, in the past two budgets, have allocated $2,500 to the Humane Society, which is a positive step. Most of that money is used just to feed the scores of foster animals in the society's care. We think a far better investment would be to provide enough funding to establish a spay/neuter program, something society members have been begging for for at least two decades. Such a program would eventually make a significant impact on the number of abandoned, unwanted animals that are filling the cells at the shelter right now.

But in the meantime, at least one trained person, such as a vet tech (there are undoubtedly some GCC grads available) should be added to the shelter staff as soon as possible, and someone who cares about animals should be placed in charge of staffing the shelter. It's the humane thing to do.

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the town government of Mtn. Lake Park for its outstanding effort in the past two years at Veterans Park, located at Philadelphia Ave. and K Street. The work has included lighting of the flags, enlarging the pavilion, addition of grills, and the overall upkeep. As veterans, we appreciate all that has been done.

Also we would like to thank the Crime Watch organization for helping keep our community safer. Their picnic is being held close to VJ Day, the time that we dedicated the WWII memorial. We participated in last year's Crime Watch picnic and will do it again this year.

See you in Veterans Park on Saturday, August 26. Let's keep our community strong. Let those who gave their all never be forgotten.

To the Editor:

I made up my mind to vote for Ralph Nader, and even changed my registration to Independent. Today I learned that the "independent" counsel has seated a new grand jury, the third to investigate Clinton. After 60 million dollars of our tax money flushed down the commode because the far right of the Republican party could not accept the loss of two presidential elections, I have changed my mind and will vote for Al Gore in hopes that the Republican party will stop pouring my hard-earned tax dollars down a rat hole.

To the Editor:

I read with great interest the letter in last week's paper concerning the new stop signs on Second Street. However, I'm not sure that I do "get" the author's "drift."

Second Street had a problem with excessive traffic and excessive speed. Many people felt that Second Street should be used as a shortcut to avoid the lights on 219. This resulted in many "rush hour" speedsters traveling up and down Second Street at speeds of 30-50 mph or more. It was certain that some drivers would be unable to stop if an obstacle (child, pet, car) should suddenly be placed in their paths. A safety hazard existed on our street.

The town did attempt to correct the problem by issuing tickets. However, it is unreasonable to think that the town has the manpower or money to station an officer there on a regular basis. This approach was therefore ineffective.

The residents of Second Street then decided to unite and petition for additional stop signs as an alternate means of controlling the problem. If this should be "filed under local politics," then I say I'm glad to see an instance where the political system works! I can say that both the volume and speed at the north end of Second Street seem to be improving.

Now, I would like to address some of the specific points raised in last week's letter to the editor.

First, the author compares Second Street to the interstate. I see no comparison. Interstates are intended to move traffic in the most efficient manner possible. For safety reasons, people do not have homes on interstates, and there is limited access and egress. On the other hand, Second Street is residential and not intended to be a throughway. Many homes and intersections line the roadway.

Secondly, the idea to "simply place a police cruiser there permanently and write tickets" would result in spending much more tax money than placing a few stop signs and enforcing them.

Thirdly, I'm not sure how having to stop at a stop sign on a residential street is "punishing the legal driver."

Lastly, I haven't seen any "kids playing in the street." There are, however, a lot of children who play in their yards that border the street. Most parents try to adequately supervise their children. Parents know, though, that it's nearly impossible to watch every child at every instant. Even older children (who've been taught the "rules of the road") occasionally have lapses in judgment. Who would want a lapse in judgment to become a fatal error? If we can prevent a tragedy from occurring, is it so terrible to have to slow down and stop?

To the Editor,

I contacted your newspaper about doing a story about the out-of-court settlement that the board of education had reached with my son in June. I was told by your paper that the story would be too sensitive to cover, but I could write a letter to the editor and it would be published.

After years of repeated harassment the Garrett County Board of Education has paid my son $30,000 in an out-of-court settlement. My son, who has now graduated and will be attending college this fall, has been through four years of hell at the hands of others. He has been teased, taunted, and threatened on a daily basis while others stood by and watched.

I hope that this settlement will encourage schools to protect students from such harassment. I also hope that this settlement will send a clear message that students who are the

WHERE A JEW LEADS, CHRISTIANS MAY FOLLOW

Just so no one is left wondering, let me say at the outset that I shall vote for the Bush-Cheney ticket in November. Having said that, let me also say how impressed I am with Vice President Gore's choice of Senator Joseph Lieberman as his running mate.

Although Senator Lieberman is an Orthodox Jew, the Democrats' choice of him as their number two man is one of the most hopeful things for committed Christians that has happened in American politics during the past 50 years.

Repeatedly — in almost nauseating repetition — the nomination of Joe Lieberman, the Jew, has been compared to the nomination in 1960 of Jack Kennedy, the Catholic. The talk has been about breaking another barrier. It is a decidedly liberal interpretation of Senator Lieberman's nomination. As we know, the press is largely in the hands of liberals, so we should not be surprised.

The plain fact of the matter is that Lieberman's nomination is exactly opposite to that of Kennedy. Forty years ago the Democratic Party and, subsequently, the American people chose John F. Kennedy as president because he was able to persuade them that his Catholicism would not affect the way he performed his duties as president. He was nominated and elected in spite of his religion.

Joseph Lieberman was chosen by the Democrats to be their nominee not only because of his religion but even more because he is religious. For 40 years the Democratic Party altogether and some wings of the Republican Party have pushed religious discourse to the sidelines. In two swift generations Christianity has gone from being a mainstay in the public square to being a resented interloper there.

The Democrats' choice is an admission that it is all right not only to attend worship services but to live in accordance with the principles set forth in those worship services. Senator Lieberman has made it a point that he does not and will not campaign on Jewish Sabbath. Had a strict sabbatarian Christian candidate announced that he or she would not campaign on the Christian Sabbath there would have been accusations of extremism.

Senator Lieberman has set free committed Christians to espouse and to live their principles in the public square as we have not done for more than a generation. The real question is this: Will we?

Many liberal pundits and even a few representatives of the Jewish faith have made public pronouncements saying that Lieberman will be able to distinguish the Jewish law and civil law. Of course, he will. Neither the qualifying explanations nor the patently obvious nature of the statements change the basic fact that Senator Lieberman was chosen because he is religious. John Kennedy was chosen because he wasn't religious.

Senator Lieberman has spent a lot of time talking about how important his religion is. When John Kennedy talked about his religion at all, it was for the purpose of explaining how important his religion wasn't.

My hope is that, notwithstanding the results of the 2000 A.D. General Election, American Christians will be freed from the trend of the past 40 years to be six-day atheists and Christians for an hour a week -- when their schedules permitted. Senator Lieberman has given us permission to be Christians seven days of the week, and to talk about the ways our faith influences daily life.

The greater challenge, and the one I fear we might not rise to meet as a people, is to make sure that faith really does influence daily life. The old question is, If accused of being a Christian, would there be enough evidence to convict me? Senator Lieberman has provided more than ample evidence that he is a Jew. His is an example that Christians would do well to follow.

MIRACULOUS SURVIVORS
by David Foster

With all the recent media hoopla (thankfully not in great evidence here on the mountaintop) over the television show Survivor, it would seem that fairly serious news outfits like National Public Radio are becoming more and more lone voices in a wasteland of trivial pursuits. This morning NPR aired a segment on a "lapsed" Catholic woman who spent several years searching for proof of miracles of the Virgin Mary with surprising results, the main one of which was finding her faith in her own way.

Now, I've never personally witnessed a giant Virgin Mary apparition walking about in the sky, or the pinwheeling sun bouncing up or down on the horizon, or any of the other supernatural events experienced by faithful pilgrims at one of the sites known for hosting the Mother of God when she decides to drop in for a visit, nor do I really expect to; however, I don't rain on other folks' showers of rose petals, and I hope others don't easily dismiss the miracles I have witnessed.

Yes, even I have seen a few miracles with my eyes; for instance:

Eight years ago I took a yearlong break from the "real world" to live in inner-city Buffalo, working with priests, nuns, and lay volunteers as they served the ghetto residents. (Now, when was the last time you heard that politically incorrect term?) What I saw was a lot of people not much different than me struggling to get by in a place that would have eaten me alive if I had been born there. Sure, there were greedy, selfish folks who took advantage of the system and of us on a daily basis; but I also saw some who performed miracles of dignity and grace when their God-given humanity was given the opportunity to shine through.

One master manipulator was Roosevelt D., an admitted crack user and dealer who had a criminal history going back into his teens. Instead of holding down a job and having his own place, he had squandered most of his 30 years on the streets, and had the hard edge of a hustler. Another unsavory character was Bill W., who was in his early 60s and had recently been released from prison. That was not the first occasion he had done time after being convicted of child abuse.

A third individual, Mike K., was 14 years old and a member of a well-off suburban family when he came home from school to learn that his beloved father had unexpectedly suffered an instantly fatal heart attack that day. Confused and hurting, Mike hopped on his bicycle and rode off to try and escape the horrible news and, eyes and judgment clouded by tears, was struck by a car as he sped through an intersection at the bottom of a steep hill. The damage to his body was eclipsed only by the permanent brain damage he suffered, which made him prone to frequent episodes of extreme violence, so Mike had by choice been living on the city's streets for almost a year — a double tragedy for a family that for several years had doing everything in its power to find help for him.

I met this trio at one of our work sites, a homeless shelter on Buffalo's Main Street, a rundown thoroughfare that was far from than the thriving city center it had once been. Little Portion Friary was a tough-love shelter, run by Kathy Gainey, a stalwart married woman who still spoke in a brogue that she had brought with her from Ireland decades ago, and Sister Bea, a plainly dressed, plain-speaking nun who had more in common with a Marine drill sergeant than a Bells of St. Mary's stereotype. Many times I saw these women pull the shelter door shut after throwing someone out (as I had occasion to do myself) who had violated the facility's strict rules, which were based on self-control and personal responsibility as the key components of "getting your act together."

Sometimes though, after one of these iron ladies or another volunteer had put someone back onto the street (sometimes in the snow), they would retreat alone to the chapel and close the door. If you listened real close you would hear several minutes of muffled sobs coming from within.

Well, one day I was working on the men's side of the shelter by myself and was very busy wheeling carts of food out to the men's dining room during the usual suppertime chaos. I had paid scant attention to the men or their prayer of thanks as I took a break to stand among them. After returning to my duties tossing huge bowls of food out onto the table, still not paying those around me any mind, I happened to look across the room to see a black man of my own age and an gray-haired white man sitting on either side of a young white man whose arms were crippled — Mike.

Unasked and unnoticed, both Roosevelt, a drug addict and dealer, and Bill, a convicted child abuser, neither of whom I would invite into my own home, were cutting the meat and potatoes on Mike's plate and taking turns lifting forkfuls of food to his mouth — while their own untouched meals were getting cold.

Now, those were people whose own actions had made the world an uglier place, but still, sparks of their humanity survived. After all, nothing's impossible in this world of miracles.

MDMA Making Inroads In Area, Detective Says

"Ecstasy," a so-called "designer drug" technically known as MDMA, has apparently gained a toehold in western Maryland, according to a supervisor with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

"Ecstasy is here, no doubt about it," GCNTF Sgt. Mark Rodeheaver commented this week as he noted the arrest of an Oakland resident on charges that included MDMA possession of ecstasy with the intent to distribute. "We've been receiving more and more information about the increasing distribution and use of the drug here in Garrett County. It's a very dangerous drug, and should be considered a risk on par with cocaine, heroin, and LSD."

Ecstasy is a manufactured mix of stimulant and hallucinogen that is gaining popularity among white middle class youth, according to the Drug Enforcement Administration. Most often ingested in pill form, the drug reportedly makes the body sensitive to touch and engenders "warm, comforting, accepting feelings," said Michael Gimbel, director of the Baltimore County Bureau of Substance Abuse. Such feelings can be "very seductive to kids who feel alienated from one another" and society at large," he observed.

"Locally we're seeing ecstasy use by 15- to 20-year-olds," Rodeheaver noted. "It was apparently first brought into the county between 12 and 18 months ago by some area youths who were frequenting all-night rave club dances in cities like Pittsburgh, Morgantown, W.Va., and Youngstown, Ohio. The ecstasy we've seen so far has shown up as round white pills, a little larger than a Tylenol™ tablet, with a score mark cut on one side and either a fish or a smiley face engraved on the other.

"The drug goes by a number of slang names in addition to 'ecstasy,' including 'X,' or 'nugs.' Users often keep baby pacifiers or a number of Tootsie Roll™ lollipop sticks handy, because a side affect can be severe grinding of the teeth. Light 'wands,' plastic sticks which contain a glowing substance, are also popular because they apparently enhance the 5- to 7-hour euphoric high, and users often make use of Vicks™ inhalers as part of the drug's subculture as well."

Just because ecstasy's usual tablet shape resembles a medication, it in no way should be considered safe, the narcotics detective added. He and other law enforcement authorities and medical experts say in no uncertain terms that the drug is dangerous, and that it can result in severe physical and psychological harm. A feature story in this past Tuesday's issue of The Baltimore Sun reported that ecstasy causes heart rates to skyrocket and body temperatures to soar, leading to dehydration and, in some cases, death. The drug can also allegedly destroy brain cells, causing memory loss, depression, anxiety, and learning difficulties.

The ABC news program 20/20 recently devoted a segment to the increasing popularity of ecstasy that included video footage of a young man in the throes of severe seizures that began after he ingested no more than five ecstasy pills. The man died during the course of the incident, which lasted several hours as his body temperature reportedly rose to 106 degrees and his internal organs hemorrhaged. The coroner's report directly attributed the young man's death to ecstasy.

Persons who have information pertaining to suspected incidents of ecstasy possession and/or distribution anywhere in or around Garrett County are encouraged to contact the Narcotics Task Force at 301-387-9566 or 301-895-5889. Information may also be relayed to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911, the Maryland State Police at 301-387-1101, or any other law enforcement agency. Anonymity is guaranteed.

Man Flees After Striking Store With Vehicle

An Oakland man faces a charge of fleeing the scene of an accident and several traffic offenses in connection with a Friday incident when he ran his Jeep Cherokee into the side of a Mtn. Lake Park store, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

As of this morning, Kenneth Bushrod Hardesty, 20, remains held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $10,000 bond, as set by a district court commissioner.

A citizen in the area of C.P. Martin's store, located along Maryland Highway, re-ported that shortly before noon Friday she heard a crash and saw a green Cherokee backing away from the building where the sound had come from. Upon DFC Rob Corley's arrival, the store's owner, Daniel Kelley, showed him where a piece of siding had been damaged and the wall had been pushed in near the corner of the building.

Armed with an address for the suspect vehicle, which was procured through a computer check when a citizen provided a tag number, Corley left to make his way to southbound Gorman Road en route to the residence. Near Doc Tolson Road the police cruiser was passed by a green Jeep Cherokee, with the same tags, heading in the opposite direction, and the deputy later stopped the vehicle in the same area.

Corley escorted Hardesty back to the store, and one of the citizens who heard the crash and watched the Jeep leave the scene identified the vehicle and Hardesty as its driver.

A trial date is pending in Garrett County District Court.

In a separate incident, a Vienna, W.Va, man was arrested Friday in the area of Martin's Store and charged with disturbing the peace. Deputies summoned to the scene located Mark Aaron Shockey, 44, lying in a ditch along Maryland Highway near the store.

Shockey, who had reportedly been observed walking in the middle of traffic along Garrett Highway earlier in the day, reportedly told deputies he was from heaven and was looking for work here in Garrett County. He was arrested and subsequently released on his own recognizance.

In other recent arrest activity, Mark Ashley Cannon, 24, Oakland, was served with a warrant charging him with second degree assault. The charge stems from an Aug. 14 incident, although further details were not readily available. Cannon is being held without bond.

A woman was arrested on several charges stemming from a warrant obtained by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation. Shawna Marie Lenhart, 21, Accident, faces charges of four counts each of forgery and uttering false documents, and one count each of misdemeanor theft and participating in a theft scheme. She is being detained on a $35,000 bond.

Jeffrey Charles Minnick, 35, Oakland, was served with an arrest warrant this week on a charge of destruction of property. Correctional officers reported that earlier this month, while incarcerated at the jail, Minnick had smashed a television that belonged to another inmate. The incident was reportedly captured on the jail's video surveillance camera. He is being held on a bond of $6,705.

Johnny Jason Thomas, 39, Oakland was arrested yesterday on a misdemeanor theft charge, the details of which were not available. He has since been released on his own recognizance.

DWI CHARGES

Several persons were charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs recently. They are Lewis Anthony Stumpo, 54, Nutter Fort, W.Va.; Douglas George Barrett, 50, Bel Air; and John Jeremy Lewis, 21, Elk Garden, W.Va.

Lewis's charge was filed after lab results of a blood test indicated that he was allegedly intoxicated at the time of a June 11 single-vehicle accident in the Shallmar area that necessitated his transport via medivac helicopter to Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

Historical Soc. Annual Autumn Fund-Raiser Set

The annual fall fundraiser for the Garrett County Historical Society has been slated for Tuesday, Sept. 26, at Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The event this year is titled "A Second Evening at the Deer Park Hotel."

The social hour will be from 6 until 7 p.m., followed by dinner. After the meal, local singer JoAnne Fletcher will present songs of the Deer Park Hotel era, and John Grant and Bob Boal will give brief histories of the hotel.

Included in the $35 per person ticket is dinner, the noted entertainment, and a raffle chance for a Deer Park Hotel artifact. The tickets are available at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, located in Oakland along Second Street, or at Gonder's Insurance or Gregg's Pharmacy. Society board members are also selling tickets.

The proceeds from the event will go toward the completion of Daily Park in Oakland, where the relocation of the 1873 hotel gas house is now under way. Other expenses include the construction of brick sidewalks, landscaping, and replicated park benches.

Abused Women Invited To New Support Groups

Two support groups, one in Grantsville and one in Oakland, will be offered for women who are currently experiencing abuse or have formally been abused. Facilitated by counselors from the Dove Center, Garrett County's resource for abuse and violence within the home, these groups will meet on an ongoing basis.

The Dove Center office in Grantsville will host the sessions on Thursdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. under the guidance of Kristiann Germaine and Barbara Barrick. The Oakland meetings will be held at the Dove Center administrative office on Wednesdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m., led by Debbie Holler and Brenda LeMay.

"During these sessions the counselors will review the whole cycle of violence, the dynamic in abusive relationships, and options available to women who are being abused," said Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center.

There is no charge to attend these support groups, and persons may join at any time. For more information, one may contact the Dove Center at 301-334-6255 or 301-895-4300.

Prostate Cancer: Early Detection Is Best Defense

Prostate cancer is the most common form of cancer among American men (excluding skin cancer), according to the American Cancer Society, which also points out that improvements in detection of the disease have greatly increased the number of cases found during the last decade.

A blood test known as the prostate-specific antigen, or PSA, test can now be used to screen for this form of cancer. The American Cancer Society estimates that 184,500 new cases of prostate cancer will be diagnosed in the United States this year, and that nearly 1 of every 5 American men will develop it in his lifetime. Risk factors involved in the development of this disease are little known, the ACS notes. However, more than 75 percent of those diagnosed with it are over age 65.

"The highest incidence of prostate cancer is in North America and northwestern Europe. It is rare in Asia, Africa, Central America, and South America," the ACS reported, pointing out that, as with other forms of cancer, the earlier the disease is detected, the better the chances are for effective treatment.

To be tested for prostate cancer, men are encouraged to contact a family physician, call the American Cancer Society toll-free at 1-800-ACS-2345, or visit the web site www.cancer.org.

WINNING TICKET DRAWN - The hand-stitched quilt, raffled off as a fund-raiser by the Garrett county chapter of NAMI (National Alliance for the Mentally Ill), was handed over to the lucky winner at the Grantsville office of The Republican this week. The quilt, in shades of green, mauve, and purple on white, was on display in the office window at Grantsville Plaza for the last month. The winner, Annette Keller of Accident, left, admires the quilt handed to her by Mary Ann Brenneman, secretary of the local chapter of NAMI. Annette said she bought the winning ticket from Ken Buckel of Bittinger. "Every time I saw Ken anywhere, he had a pocketful of NAMI raffle tickets that he was selling," Annette noted. The Garrett County chapter of NAMI meets the second Wednesday of every month in the Continuing Education building of Garrett Community College, 7-9 p.m. The group provides support services for families of those with mental illness. The meetings are free and open to the public.

Hospice Slates Multi-Discipline Volunteer Course

Stress management, listening skills, family dynamics, and infection control are among the topics that will be addressed during a 10-day volunteer caregiver training offered by Garrett County Hospice Inc. The course, scheduled for Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., will begin September 7 and conclude November 16. There will be no class on Thursday, Oct. 12.

The course, to be held at Grantsville Senior Center, will open with a welcome and introduction by Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, and Ida Maust, volunteer coordinator. Nancy Nimmich, a social worker with Hospice, will teach listening skills on September 14, and on September 21, Charee Reckner, director of clinical services, will present information on universal precautions, infection control, documentation, confidentiality and safety.

Reckner will also instruct the final session in September on personal care and the signs and symptoms of a dying person.

Stress management and family dynamics will be the topics covered by Nimmich on October 5, and on October 19, Audrey Kennedy, PT, Garrett Memorial Hospital, will teach physical therapy. Butscher will conclude that session with a review of Hospice.

Shirley Fitzwater of First United Bank and Trust will discuss legal and financial planning during the session slated for October 26. The class will visit the Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville, on November 2 to consider funeral home skills.

Jane Sealing, director of bereavement for Hospice, will offer a program on grief counseling skills on November 9. During the final session on November 16, a graduation dinner is planned.

"Hospice extends an invitation to you to become part of the Hospice team and to be a volunteer caregiver. You will find working with the terminally ill and their families to be very rewarding," Butscher said.

For more information on this course or to register, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151 or 800-521-5252; or TTY 800-735-2258.

Family Violence Team Considers Advocacy Center

Within the Family Violence Coalition a concept is being discussed and plans outlined for a Children's Advocacy Center. Currently in the draft stages only, this program would combine health and safety resources to the best advantage of youngsters who may otherwise be at risk.

Stemming from the National Alliance for Children model, the advocacy center would coordinate the services of law enforcement, child protection, health care, mental health care, and prosecution for children subjected to trauma or in need of support.

Coalition member Erica Mowbray of the Garrett County Department of Social Services (DSS) explained that such a center has been considered and discussed often during the last several years. "We didn't have the number of customers to support such a center," she noted.

However, the project was viewed in a different light when the idea was introduced of creating a joint

by Peggy Santamaria

It is almost that time again. The summer slipped past, barely slowing to nod its golden head, and now the calendar and the cool evenings remind the folks in Garrett County that school is about to open.

The classrooms and hallways, the teachers and office staff, the school administrators, and the parents — oh, yes, the parents — are ready. The students, however, may experience mixed emotions as they prepare to re-enter those portals to knowledge. School days may be filled with friends and activities, clubs and sporting events, and always possibilites of new adventures; but, there are also tests, assignments, and projects to complete.

However, ready or not, Monday morning will arrive, and the 78 school bus contractors will be circling the county's highways and byways gathering up the nearly 5,000 students to be deposited at their various institutions of learning.

The school buildings are most definitely in tip-top shape and ready to accommodate the young scholars who will soon arrive. "It's amazing the amount of work that the maintenance staff accomplishes during the summer," said school superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets.

Money available through a state program to upgrade aging buildings was used to paint and carpet Friendsville Elementary School, Dr. Teets noted, adding that "with all the work that has been done in the county, all the buildings are in good condition."

Garrett County teachers are well prepared to step to the front of the class and begin another season of challenging the young minds entrusted to them. "There are only six new teachers this year. We had very little staff turn-over," Dr. Teets said.

Another critical element of school preparation has taken place in the kitchen. Just this week Scott Germaine, head of the food and nutrition services, received 41,184 servings of pizza and 32,640 cookies. "We also received 3,500 cartons of milk for the first day," he said.

Checking off the items on the list, all does seem to be in order. Everything is prepared. And so it begins again. From the students launching their educational careers in a Pre-K classroom to the older and wiser high school seniors who will be moving on to a new phase of life very soon, each and every one will, no doubt, encounter opportunities to grow and learn during this new school year.

Children Head To School; Safe Driving Urged

Over 850,000 children will be heading off to school next week in communities across the state. AAA Mid-Atlantic urges motorists to slow down and use extra caution to ensure children's safety during this transitional time.

"During the summer months, drivers forget about school kids, bus stops and crossing zones," said Myra Wieman, spokesperson for AAA Mid-Atlantic. The "School's Open — Drive Carefully" campaign is mounted annually by AAA to remind motorists to remain alert, and above all, slow down, Wieman explained.

"Every year we have a new crop of children excited about their first day of school. In a hurry to get to school, children often dash across the street without looking for approaching vehicles, an action commonly referred to as dart-out," Wieman said.

At an average height of 3 feet 5 inches and eye level of about 35-40 inches, children are at a disadvantage because it is harder for them to see vehicles and in turn, drivers to see them, she noted.

To help protect children, AAA offers these tips:

Kids are inexperienced in traffic. Slow down and be extra cautious when driving near routes where students walk to school or wait for buses.

Look for clues that indicate children could be in the area — bicycles, playgrounds, or AAA School Safety Patrol members.

Be on the look-out for kids quickly dashing across streets or darting between parked vehicles. Children are especially susceptible to this type of behavior when trying to get out of the rain.

Be alert for school buses loading and unloading. Do not pass school buses while their lights are flashing. Stay alert for those children running to school buses, forgetting to look for traffic.

Use your headlights. This enables children to see you, especially in the early morning hours and during inclement weather.

Use extra caution at intersection by not rushing through a yellow light, staying alert when making right-on-red turns, and coming to a complete stop at stop signs.

"Driving always demands our full attention, but it is especially important at this time of year. Be prepared for anything and expect the unexpected," concluded Wieman.

This is the 67th year AAA has conducted the School's Open campaign. Each year, AAA clubs distribute nearly 2 million pieces of educational material to remind motorists to drive with extra caution this time of year.

Notable Dates For Students

The calendar for the students in Garrett County highlights dates that may be of particular interest to students — holidays and other school closings.

Once in the classroom on Monday, Aug. 28, the next holiday will be September 4, Labor Day. October 13 will be the only day in that month on which school will be closed.

Students will be out of school on November 7, 17, 23-24 for Thanksgiving break, and again on November 27. From there it is a relatively short haul until the Christmas break, from December 25 through January 1. School closings are also slated for January 15, February 9 and 19, April 13-16, and May 28.

Of course, in Garrett County students may look forward to several closings because of snow.

Free Breakfast Program Set At Two Area Schools

Beginning with the first day of school this Monday, Aug. 28, all students at Kitzmiller and Friendsville elementary schools will be offered the opportunity to eat a free breakfast at school each morning of the coming school year. Students will eat in their classrooms, and breakfast will include milk, juice or fruit, and an entrée such as a muffin or cereal and graham crackers.

The local schools are among 51 Maryland schools selected for the Maryland Meals for Achievement (MMFA) program this year, according to the Food and Nutrition Services of the Garrett County Board of Education. The MMFA program is being funded with monies from the federal School Breakfast Program and with Maryland State Department of Education funds awarded to the county's school system.

Harvard University (Mass.) researchers have concluded that students who take advantage of breakfast programs exhibit improved classroom performance, fewer instances of absences and tardiness, and decreases in complaints of hunger and fatigue.

School lunches will be offered in each of the county's public school cafeterias under the same payment system as in the past. Applications for free and reduced-price meal benefits will be sent home with students at the beginning of the school year.

MARYLAND Education at Work

As children across the state head back to school, the Maryland State Department of Education anticipates challenges and successes. Some of these follow.

Enrollment Increases

This year Maryland State Department of Education officials are projecting a preliminary enrollment of 853,225 students in pre-kindergarten through grade 12, up from 846,582 students during the 1999-2000 school year. Official enrollment figures will be taken on September 30.

Teacher Shortage Concerns

Teacher incentives recently put into place by General Assembly legislation have helped ease the teacher shortage somewhat, but shortages still exist in many subjects and in many school systems. The number of teachers and administrators eligible to retire over the next two years and the number of teachers needed as a result of increasing enrollment and small class sizes continue to be of major concern.

The MSDE will propose additional measures this fall to attract and retain good teachers.

High Schools to Field Test End-Of-Course Assessments

The 2000-01 school year will mark the first full field test of the High School Assessments, or end-of-course tests, in a variety of subjects. Assessment results for students entering ninth grade in the fall of 2001 will be reported by percentile on individual transcripts. The percentile will indicate how the student placed on the test when compared to all other students who took that particular exam. Students entering ninth grade in the fall of 2003 will be required to pass the assessments to receive a high school diploma.

Better Trained Principals, Teachers

The MSDE will focus staff development work on school principals. The Division of Professional and Strategic Development was formed to train principals, and to help local school systems build the instructional and leadership capacity of their educators.

Professional development efforts will be based on the state's comprehensive academic intervention plan, "Every Child Achieving," and the Principals' Task Force Report.

Educators Trained to Use Technology

More than 100 Maryland educators, had three weeks of training in the Maryland Technology Academy Summer Leadership Institute, offered in partnership with Towson University and Johns Hopkins University. Educators were taught to effectively use technology in instruction and to be technology leaders in their schools.

More schools will continue to benefit from the Technology in Maryland Schools (TIMS) program, which includes the wiring of schools to use technology. Last year 565 of Maryland's 1,375 schools benefited from the program. Another 331 will benefit this year, and all state schools are projected to be fully wired by the 2002-03 school year.

Middle School Students to Get Academic Help

As recommended in the state's academic intervention initiative "Every Child Achieving" to be implemented this year, middle school students who fall behind their peers academically will be the first to be helped. The plan will require students needing extra help to spend time with tutors before or after school, during free periods, on Saturdays, or in the summer.

Families Involved with Schools

Family involvement will be a key theme this year as parents and adult family members are encouraged to become equal partners with schools in the educational process.

Maryland recently embarked on the nation's first statewide campaign for better home-school ties as part of the U.S. Department of Education's Partnership for Family Involvement in Education.

The Family Focus Council was formed in April to advise on, advocate for, and help develop programs and policies that encourage effective home-school partnerships. The council will help principals and teachers create family-friendly schools that initiate, sustain, and value the home-school connection.

School, Student Safety

State students will receive training in evaluating the messages they receive from the media, including television, movies, and the Internet. Local school system representatives were trained in the summer to help students better understand the influences of the media, including violence.

The project is supported by Discovery Communications Inc. and was developed in response to the acts of violence that occurred in schools around the country. Messages specifically target elementary, middle, and high school students.

School systems will receive posters and other items to build awareness among students, teachers, and parents of the toll-free Safe School Tip Hotline. Students will be able to report safety concerns by calling 1-877-MD-NOFEAR (1-877-636-6332) 24 hours each day, seven days a week.

MSDE Web Site Continues

The MSDE web site at www.msde.state.md.us provides up-to-date information about the Maryland School Performance Program; state, student, and school performance on MSPAP; the High School Assessments; instructional improvement activities; and links to local school systems in Maryland. The web site received over 525,000 hits in May 2000, the latest month for which information is available.

Fire Safety Steps Suggested For "Latch Key Kids"

To help keep youngsters safe from fire, the state fire marshal, Rocco J. Gabriele, has urged parents and guardians to evaluate their homes and take specific preventive steps for children who are left unattended from the end of the school day until parents return from work.

These "latch key kids" are at risk, Gabriele said, and need extra help. Taking the following steps before school starts may help prevent and accident, he suggested.

- Ensure that smoke alarms are installed on all levels of the house and that they contain fresh batteries.
- Instruct children to leave the house immediately upon hearing the smoke alarm and to go a neighbor's home to report the problem.
- Do not allow children to cook without adult supervision.
- Hide matches and lighters out the reach of children.
- Do not allow the unsupervised use of space heaters, fireplaces, or wood-burning stoves.

Area Businesses Contribute To Student Success

A contribution made by G&S Coal Company to Kitzmiller Elementary School this year has enabled a group of students to return to the classroom next week with stronger reading skills and improved test scores. Principal Sheila Miller credited the donation with enabling the youngsters to attend tutoring sessions throughout the summer.

The whole Garrett County school system benefited from the generosity of a group of retired Bell Atlantic employees, the Pioneers. The group committed hundreds of hours to wire school buildings in the county to bring the latest learning technology to the classrooms.

These are two examples of the many interactions of between education and business in Garrett County. The PIVOT (Partnership in Valuable Ongoing Training) program has linked employers with educators to prepare students to take their places in the community. The dialogue between educator and employer has focused on creating both the job opportunities that will allow the graduates to earn a living here in Garrett County and a skilled workforce to fill those positions.

Student work in offices and businesses through the intern program, which provides real world experience for the students. Such opportunities are created through the effective interactions of the business and school communities.

Service Learning To Link Students With Community

In order to graduate from a public school in Maryland, a student must complete the required number of Service Learning hours. The class of 1997 was the first required to adhere to this dictum. In Garrett County, a group of parents, students, and civic group and agency representatives joined teachers and administrators to help develop the outline for the local service learning program.

The Garrett County plan incorporates the state mandated components of a service learning project which must meet a recognized community need; achieve curricular objectives; incorporate reflection by students throughout the experience; develop student responsibility; establish community partnerships; be planned; and equip students with knowledge and skills for service.

The middle school Service Learning program is incorporated into the curriculum, through classroom projects and related studies. In high school, students will complete the service requirements in school or in community activities.

Three components form the Service Learning program: preparation, action, and reflection. The student is required to plan the project, including transportation and selection of an appropriate organization to serve.

The action may be of direct service to individuals, such as through the Special Olympics. It may entail indirect action, such as protection of the environment through tree-planting. Or the service may be in the form of advocacy, which might include lobbying public officials to take a particular action, distributing literature, or conducting community surveys.

Reflection, which may take several forms, encourages students to consider the actions they have taken and the results of those actions. This could be demonstrated in an essay, a discussion, or journals and scrapbooks.

To qualify as a Service Learning experience, a project must stand up to the guidelines established by the state. The activity must address a need external to the organization for which the student is working. The organization must be approved and listed in the Service Learning Index, which is maintained at the offices of the board of education.

The activity undertaken must meet a human, educational, environmental, or public safety need and must benefit not a business but rather the community. In addition, students are not to replace regular employees and the service may not ordinarily be performed during school hours.

To monitor the volunteer service activity, each student is required to file a validation/tracking sheet describing the project, which has been signed by the student and the supervisor and submitted to the guidance office within four months of the date the project was completed.

For information on this program or to be listed on the approved index, persons may contact the Service Leaning facilitator, Karen Ray, at the Garrett County Board of Education at 301-334-8900, 301-895-3163, or 301-359-9209.

County Education Association Offers Tips To Parents

A new school year will begin with the opening of public schools in Garrett County on Monday, Aug. 28. To help make this a "successful" year for parents, educators, and students, members of the Garrett County Education Association has offered some tips to parents.

The GCEA encourages an active partnership between parents, educators and students. "Parents should make time to get to know their child's teacher. Teachers appreciate knowing parents are open to hearing feedback on how the student is progressing," said Irene Sigel, GCEA president.

Public schools in Garrett County will sponsor open houses and back-to-school nights within the first few weeks of the school year to give parents an opportunity to meet teachers and administrators and hear specifics on the curriculum and student expectations.

The GCEA suggested that parents also make it a point to meet other school personnel, such as cafeteria staff, school bus drivers, and school secretaries. "It is important to build relationships within the total school system," Sigel remarked.

Another point made by the GCEA is that in order to learn, children must believe they can learn and that parents can offer the encouragement that may lead to achievement. "Students should be praised for putting forth their best efforts in projects," Sigel noted.

Other suggestions made to parents by the GCEA to ensure a successful school year are to emphasize reading, homework, and regular teacher conferences. For more information on Parent Tips for the School Year, persons may visit the Maryland State Teacher Association's web site at www.msta.nea.org.

Ram Duffers Tee Off By Sinking Alco

The Southern High School golf team got off to a quick start for the 2000 season this week with a 12-stroke win over Allegany High Tuesday in Cumberland. The 206-194 SHS victory came over the course of nine holes of play during the season opener for both squads.

Justin DiSimone led the Rams with a 46, one stroke off Mike Ruppencamp's 45, which paced the field. Rounding out Southern's scoring were Todd Friend with a 47, Nathan Swartzentruber with a 49, and T.J. Nine with a 52. The Campers' scorecard was rounded out by Keefe Taylor's 51, and Earl Paul's and Matt McKenzie's 55s.

The next match for the Ram duffers will take place Tuesday, Sept. 5, as Southern plays host to Northern, Beall, and Fort Hill at the Oakland Golf Club. Tee time is set for 4 p.m. The Rams are coached by Alan Skidmore.

DNR Announces Migratory Game Bird Seasons

DNR Secretary Sarah Taylor-Rogers announced the 2000-2001 early migratory game bird seasons last week. The seasons for dove, woodcock, rail bird, snipe, and Canada goose are outlined below.

"The dove season, which marks the traditional start of hunting activity each year in Maryland, will open Friday, Sept. 1, and continue through Oct. 21. The second and third split seasons will be Nov. 13-18, and Dec. 18-30," said Secretary Taylor-Rogers. "Mourning doves are Maryland's most abundant migratory game bird and are truly a challenge for even the best of hunters. I encourage dove hunters to take advantage of the state's wildlife management areas where we specifically manage property to attract mourning doves."

The dove season and seasons for other migratory game birds, including a statewide early resident Canada goose season, were contained in a package of Maryland selections forwarded to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Maryland's woodcock season will open Oct. 21 and continue through Nov. 11, and will reopen Jan. 13-20, allowing hunters to take advantage of the late migration of woodcock that occurs along the coast.

The rail bird hunting season will open Sept. 1 and continue through Nov. 9.

The common snipe hunting season will open Sept. 20 and run through Nov. 24, then from Dec. 11 to Jan. 20.

The early resident Canada goose season will open Sept. 1 and continue statewide through Sept. 15. In the western zone, the season will continue through Sept. 25. The daily bag limit is five geese per day.

To continue providing young Maryland hunters with a special day of waterfowl hunting, a Youth Waterfowl Day has been scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 30. "Junior license holders 15 years old and under will have this special day to themselves to experience the excitement and tradition associated with waterfowl hunting," Taylor-Rogers said. As an added bonus, youth hunters will be allowed to take one Canada goose in addition to the five-duck daily bag limit. To participate, a youngster must be accompanied by an adult who is 21 years old or older and who possesses a valid Maryland hunting license or is license exempt.

The person accompanying the youth hunter may assist in calling, waterfowl identification, and other aspects of the hunt, but may not be in possession of a firearm or other hunting device.

All migratory game bird hunters, including landowners who are license-exempt, are required to obtain and carry a HIP (Harvest Information Program) permit in addition to a general hunting license. All waterfowl hunters are also required to carry a Maryland Waterfowl Stamp, except landowners when hunting on their own property. All waterfowl hunters age 16 and over must possess a federal duck stamp.

HIP permits and Maryland Waterfowl Stamps are available at Maryland DNR sport license agents and DNR Regional Service

August 29, 1935 - May 2, 2000

In memory of my husband.

Harold Lipscomb,

on his 65th birthday,
today, was suppose to be a big celebration.
But instead it's a very sad day. We had planned for this day for a long time. Now all
I have is memories of all the good times we had together. All I can do for your birthday is put flowers on your grave and tell you how much I love you.
If tears could build a stairway and memories a lane, I'd walk right up to heaven and bring you home. Then I could tell you Happy Birthday, and how much I love you, miss you, and need you.

Your loving wife,
Boots

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

SATURDAY, PERFECT SAILING; SUNDAY, DIFFICULT
By Dan Muss

Sailors are always talking about the weather ... for good reason. The basis of safety on the water, especially in a sailboat, is to be aware of the weather. But also sailors want wind, so Saturday was one of those "Chamber of Commerce" days: blue sky, puffy white clouds, and winds perfect for sailing, about 7 to 15 knots out of the northwest with puffs up to 20.

Sunday dawned quite cool with more cloud cover, and that boded well for the wind, but alas, it turned out to be a drifter. Ted Rissell had patrol duty, and when it turned out that we were the only C Fleet boat ready to go, we decided to join Ted on the patrol boat and watch.

Race commander John Meredith set an optimistically long course for the light air conditions. After all three fleets had started, the Lasers and Flying Scots A and B became all mixed up. In fact, the three became two, as different zephyrs hit different groups at different times. The race commander then shorted course, and we motored around informing each competitor of the change. After an hour and a half, our patrol crew was getting thirsty and needed a bathroom, so we got permission to leave our station and drop into the Deer Haven Yacht Club to take care of both needs. When we came back out, the sailboats hadn't moved very far.

One of the things we noticed was that many motorboaters do not seem to understand that to be a good neighbor and a good sport when operating near a fleet of racing sailboats on a light air day: LEAVE NO WAKE! Many motorboat operators who are up on a plane see the sailboats and throttle back. Their intentions are good, but that just causes a bigger wake as they come down off their plane and plow through the water instead of riding on top of it.

Last weekend Larry and Debbie Anderson, enthusiastic new racers, finished fourth in the Flying Scot B Fleet. They are really doing well.

Centers. Hunters may obtain federal duck stamps at U.S. Post Offices, National Wildlife Refuges, and some Maryland DNR sport license agents.

In addition to having the required licenses and stamps, hunters are reminded that nontoxic shot is required for hunting waterfowl and coots. Approved nontoxic shot includes steel, bismuth-tin, tungsten-polymer, tungsten-iron, tungsten matrix, and tin. Hunters may not possess or use nontoxic shot larger than size No. T or use or possess any lead shot while waterfowl hunting.

Shooting hours for migratory game birds are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset, except for: one mourning dove during the first season segment, when shooting hours are from noon to sunset; and two teal during the September Teal Season, when shooting hours are from sunrise to sunset.

Hunters are encouraged to report banded migratory game birds by calling toll free 1-800-327-BAND (2263). For a listing of Maryland DNR managed dove hunting areas on state wildlife management areas, interested persons are directed to their nearest Wildlife and Heritage office. Roaring Knob Raceway Park

The Tri-State Champions made their mark on Roaring Knob last Saturday night as they finished the first ever series of three shootouts. Chuck Harper of Beverly, W.Va., took the championship in the Late Model Division. It was Eric Hay of Somerset, Pa., in the Dwarf Division; Shawn Davis, driving Automotive Machine's Gold Digger, in the E-Mods Division; and Greg Hauger of Uniontown, Pa., in the Pure Stock Division. They took the championship in their divisions after the total of all three-race points were added together.

After a very competitive regular Saturday night Late Model race, Chuck Harper took the checkered flag with Jeff Ferguson coming in second, followed by Jeff Ferguson, Gary Tonkery, Chad McDougal, and Jesse Guseman. The top three positions in the Tri-State Shootout championshps were Harper, Mike Benedum, and Scott Miles.

With a full field of cars for the Pure Stock Division race, including Tom Humberson of Grantsville and Mel Minnick driving Jim Bendishaw's car (a Late Model driver driving a Pure Stock car), it was quite a show for the fans. Waiting until just the right moment to make his move, Humberson took over the lead when Minnick moved a little high on the track, and went on to take the checkered flag. There was a lot of moving around among the rest of the field in this class also, with the top five positions taken by Humberson, Scott Herring, Greg Hauger, Mel Minnick, and Mike Kepple of Oakland. The top three positions in the Tri-State Shootout championship were Hauger, Jim Bendishaw, and John Redshaw.

In the Classic Lites (Dwarf cars) race, John Cogar of Fairmont, W.Va., took charge from the get go, taking over the lead after the first lap around the track. The top five positions at the finish were Cogar, Eric Hay, W.L. Stiles, Jeff Barclay, and Mike Hay. The top three positions in the Tri-State Shootout championship were Eric Hay, Mike Hay, and Lynn Knepper.

In the E-Mod race Jerry Haseley of Morgantown, W.Va., his first night at the Knob, found his place in the lead and held it, holding back regular Shaun Davis who placed second, followed by Rick Smith, Wayne Jordan, and Vic Vandergrift. The top three positions in the Tri-State Shootout championshp were Davis, Jordan, and Vandergrift.

Because of unforeseen circumstances at the track last weekend there were no results in the paper last week. The results for the August 12 race were:

Late Models, top five, Nolan Dalton, Gary Tonkery, Chad McDoug, Jeff Ferguson's car driven by Jesse Guseman, and Scott Miles.

Pure Stocks, top five, John Redshaw, Jim Shaffer, Jim Byers, Greg Hauger, and Mike Kepple.

4-Cylinders, top five, Dave Summers, Jason Boncoski, Paul Summer, Frank Spade, and Louis Orris.

This Saturday night at the Knob there will be regular five-division racing and a Gold Rush for the kids.

Track promoters say the web site that has been down for a while will be up and running again soon so that race fans may look there (www.roaringknob.com) for information or call 724-327-0306.

Interstate 79 Speedway

All day drizzle and rain halted action at Interstate 79 Speedway last Friday, leaving only one week in the points championship chase. Tomorrow night will be season championship races with double points awarded to all drivers. Bike races are also rescheduled to run then.

The 4-Cylinder races this season were dominated by two drivers, Mike Simpson and Dave Summers, but Mike Lewis of Oakland won once and was there with the top runners every race, finding himself second in the points with only 150 points separating him from the leader, Simpson, with Summers in the third spot. Tomorrow night's race will be a definitive one for Lewis.

Racing in all five divisions will take place tomorrow night at the Fairmont, W.Va. track, and fans are reminded that the season ends with the Labor Day weekend races. Fri., Sept. 1, the gates will open at 6 p.m., with time trials at 8. On the program that evening will be the Steel Block Late Models, UMP Modifieds, and Pure Stocks. There will also be a practice session for the STARS Late Models. A pit party will be held after the races on Friday evening.

On Sat., Sept. 2, the gates will open at 4 p.m. with time trials for the Renegade STARS Late Models beginning at 7:30. A full program of heats, dash, consolation races, and the 75-lap Mountain State Thunder II will be held, along with racing in the UMP Modifieds and Pure Stocks.

For information, race fans may call 304-592-3200 or the track on race day at 304-592-0916.

Voices Concern

Mullich said the former staff had started writing one, but never finished it.

"Education is important," Mullich said, "but we also rely on people to use good common sense." He said the staff has relied on the assistance of Dr. James Fearer, a local veterinarian, to help diagnose ill animals. Joyce Colbert, a practicing farm animal vet, is also called upon for consultation.

When asked if the current staff had any formal animal control training at all, Mullich said they did not.

In addition to his concern about the lack of training, Deal also asserted that animal control in Garrett County is ineffective.

"What we have now is a 'fire engine' approach," he said. "Someone experiences an animal encounter and calls the authorities, and again, an untrained individual may or may not be able to respond. An animal control officer needs a high level of training to know what to do, and these people simply don't have it." He said the sheriff's office doesn't often get involved in animal control issues, but it would be best if a trained police officer could be utilized.

In an interview with Captain Don Tucker this morning, he said the sheriff's office relies on the expertise of the animal control officer before stepping in. For instance, when an officer is on the scene with a suspected rabid animal, Tucker said the animal control officer is routinely contacted. If there is no response, the suspected animal is most likely shot by the officer, in order to protect the public.

Deal and other individuals stressed Tuesday that the animal control officer should have the benefit of law enforcement expertise, either via the assistance of police officers or through training. He also noted that the county currently has no individual to go out and investigate animal abuse cases.

"It is now a recognized fact that animal abuse is often a precursor to domestic violence," Deal said. "We need someone to look into these cases, along with police back-up." He said potential domestic violence could be diffused if an animal abuse case is detected and attended to by trained individuals.

Annette Robinson, a representative of the Garrett County Humane Society, said that training should be provided to the animal shelter staff.

"It's only fair to them," she said. "They are faced with crises situations every day. They need the education and training to help them deal with these situations." She suggested that the training take place as soon as possible.

Robinson also asked if any of the 15 dogs euthanized could have possibly been saved, perhaps through quarantine. Deal said he could not fairly answer the question, as he was not directly involved. He said the illness is very contagious and if not detected can be spread through contact. But he also noted that he has in the past treated animals for the virus, and, with proper bleach disinfecting, has done so with healthy animals close by. He said, however, that the virus is resistant to some regularly used disinfectants.

"Which brings me back the original concern — training in these issues is needed, no question about it," Deal said. The vet then offered to help train the staff by inviting them to his office to observe and learn. He said one staff member could come in the afternoon for some time while the other remains at the shelter, and then they could switch. Deal said he felt other area vets would also be willing to provide some basic training.

"It's in everyone's interest to have a trained animal shelter staff," Deal said.

The commissioners agreed that training is needed, although they also noted that it could be costly for the county. They thanked Deal for offering his help in training, and said they would take him up on it. The continued development of a basic guidelines manual will also be pursued, they said.

Some time ago, the fiscal authority agreed to raise the dog license fee to help offset costs at the animal shelter. In a later interview with Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator, he said the proposal is being reviewed by the county attorney, along with several pet ordinance adjustments. He indicated that the commissioners will be publicly passing the changes in the near future.

In another later interview with Robinson, she said the business of sheltering abandoned animals is difficult from several standpoints, and that the true remedy to the situation is the widespread spaying and neutering of animals. She said Humane Society members would like to engage in a countywide education program to help inform pet-owners of the importance of spaying and neutering. That way, she said, the numbers of abandoned animals in the county could be brought down and the sheltering dilemmas lessened.

ing in a series of sexual encounters with a juvenile on five separate occasions spanning from Aug. 2 through Aug. 13. He remains lodged in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $50,000 bond set by a district court commissioner.

The second suspect, Billy Joe Eugene Thomas, 29, is being held on a $25,000 bond on charges of attempted second degree rape and second degree assault. DFC Dave Crossland made the arrest this past Thursday evening, Aug. 17, in the wake of secondhand report of a suspected assault. During the course of the investigation he ascertained that a woman's bruises and torn clothing had allegedly resulted from a suspected rape attempt by Thomas.

The GBI is continuing to investigate that incident.

venture with neighboring Allegany County and collectively pursuing the project, Mowbray told the Family Violence Coalition members during the meeting of the board of directors on August 8.

Besides coordinating support services for children, an advocacy center would provide an appropriate venue for supervised child-visitation in specified cases, Mowbray said.

While no particular site has been selected for such an endeavor, the DSS office of the outreach facility under construction in Grantsville has been suggested as one possibility. Further information will be available when the draft is complete and the project is reviewed.

victims of gay bashing, racial slurs, and prejudice can fight for a safe educational environment. School districts must have a firm commitment to enforce anti-harassment policies and must take concrete steps to implement them. Officials must act to ensure that schools are safe and healthy learning environments for all students, regardless of their actual or perceived sexual orientation.

In closing I would like to say the torment my son has been through has made him a better person. He will leave here with no ill feeling toward anyone. He is a kind, loving, and caring young man with much to offer the world, despite what he has been through.

Sadie Liller

P.S. Before you write back concerning this letter, think about how you would feel if this happened to you or your child.

Dear Ms. Liller:

A few points of clarification.

1. The funds paid in this settlement were paid by the board's insurance company rather than by the board itself.

2. Our decision to not do a story about this was based upon the fact that we rarely cover civil lawsuits because there are so many of them and because many are settled before going to court, or are "tossed out" by the court. We also thought a story would/could result in still further abuse of your son by various other thoughtless parties.

Editor

To the Editor:

Hey out there!

The blind and the sick people need some type of reasonable transportation to take to places like Morgantown and Cumberland for doctor appointments. Why should we have to pay high prices to go when our taxes are used for programs such as the Lighthouse? Half of the clients that go there are able to work, but will not! Instead they draw Social Security and Medicaid. They are living on our taxes. The Lighthouse is fine for people who have mental problems, but not for those who are able to work! These clients do not need to go on picnics and to shopping centers in Morgantown and Cumberland. We need services to help those that are disabled, not for those who are able to work!

Also, families that have children married to a disabled spouse, or have a child that is disabled, please do not call your children spoiled brats. These people have a load on their shoulders. You are the child! You need to grow to be an adult — a level headed one at that!

Bill DeWitt

To the Editor:

Let's all get into the pig pen and clean it up. How else can it get done?

Tuesday, Nov. 7, 2000, is the day. Let's get the cleaning equipment and fumigation equipment ready for election day.

Let's try starting at the top with Al Gore and Joe Lieberman, the big government abortion specialists who want the taxpayers to fund baby killers.

How can you spot the killers? Look at their voting record. Neither they nor the liberal news media want you to see their voting record.

The record of the Clinton-Gore administration is an open book. Clinton vetoed an overwhelming congressional vote to ban partial birth abortion.

Now the presidential candidate and Clinton sidekick has picked Joe Lieberman to be his vice president. Birds of a feather flock together.

Lieberman's voting record — opposed a balanced budget amendment (3-2-95 & 3-4-99), voted for partial birth abortion (12-7-95 & 5-20-97), and opposed welfare reform (9-3-95).

Is this your idea of a president? He could be if you don't go to the polls. The truth counts.

To the Editor:

If the Democrats consider the economy the issue, then let's set the facts straight. Bill Clinton is no more responsible for the economy and the "surplus" than was Ronald Reagan responsible for the deficits of the 1980s. Congress passes the spending bills and Congress appropriates the money.

In the 1980s, Congress, led by the Democrats, routinely discarded Reagan's budgets and wrote their own. They gave Reagan the money he wanted for defense, and passed all manner of social spending on top of it. The Democrats created the deficit, and if the media will not get that message right, we must!

Bill Clinton came into power in January of 1993, and immediately passed a massive tax increase, and the Democrats in Congress, viewing even more money for social spending, enthusiastically approved it. The economy in 1993 was by no means stellar, and the returns of almost every major investment index in 1994 were negative! In 1995, suddenly the economy takes off like a rocket and we have 30% returns in the S&P 500.

What happened between 1993/94 and 1995? A Republican controlled Congress was elected! The budget was not allowed to balloon out of control. Spending was controlled, and the economy fed itself with new investment and prospered. It has been the Republicans who have created the economy and "surplus" and for some unknown reason hide and act almost apologetically about it.

We, and the leaders in Congress, should be screaming the message from every soapbox in this country and take the message to the people if the liberal media want to hide the truth. If the Democrats want the message to be "It's the economy, stupid," then let the message be the economy, and let the truth be told, and "the truth shall set us (and the White House) free!"

Local Domestic Incidents Result In Two Arrests

Two men were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this week after separate incidents of suspected domestic violence.

David William Bittinger, 48, Swanton, was arrested Tuesday on a second degree assault charge stemming from an alleged assault that had taken place the day before. The victim arrived at the sheriff's office front counter afterward to display numerous bruises as she filed the complaint.

Bittinger was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center after posting a $2,500 bond, as set by a district court commissioner.

Harry William Mayle Sr., 63, Oakland was arrested late Sunday night when a sheriff's deputy and an Oakland City Police officer summoned to an Oakland residence found a woman displaying marks on her arm. She told police that Mayle had thrown her into a chair during the course of an argument, and the deputy's report stated that alcohol was a contributing factor in the events.

After being arrested on a charge of second degree assault, Mayle was released on his own recognizance.

Allegheny Power New Owner Of Mountaineer Gas

Allegheny Power, the energy delivery business of Allegheny Energy, today announced that it has completed the acquisition of Mountaineer Gas Company (MGC), a wholly owned subsidiary of Energy Corporation of America, for $323 million (which includes the assumption of $100 million in debt).

"We are extremely pleased to announce the completion of this acquisition and look forward to continuing our commitment to West Virginia by serving 200,000 new customers," said Jay S. Pifer, president of Allegheny Power. "Mountaineer Gas is a fine company with employees that share Allegheny's values of providing quality customer service while offering low rates.

"Today's announcement represents the second significant acquisition completed by Allegheny Power in the past nine months," Pifer continued. "It illustrates one component of our growth strategy — the expansion of our business. While we will continue to grow our revenues and achieve operational excellence, we believe that adding energy delivery operations increases our customer base and provides stable cash flow, while at the same time diversifying our asset portfolio. As always, we remain focused on growing our earnings and providing consistent, attractive returns to our shareholders."

With the acquisition of Mountaineer Gas, coupled with the recent acquisition of West Virginia Power, Allegheny Power now provides natural gas sales, transportation, and distribution services to more than 225,000 new customers throughout West Virginia, Pifer said. The transaction also includes Mountaineer Gas Services, a MGC subsidiary that operates natural gas producing properties, gas gathering facilities, and intrastate transmission pipelines, including approximately 375 wells in the Appalachian area.

With the acquisition of MGC, West Virginia's largest natural gas provider, Allegheny will expand its service territory to more than 31,000 square miles with a total customer base of more than 1.6 million. The purchase also provides Allegheny with 11.7 billion cubic feet of gas storage in a region where the company currently provides energy services.

Allegheny Power will not provide either electric or gas service to all of West Virginia's 55 counties. Currently, the Allegheny companies operate six coal-burning power stations, a 24-hour customer service center, a corporate training center, and 21 operating service centers, with approximately 2,000 employees working in the state. Allegheny has been part of the West Virginia business community for more than 100 years.

The Public Service Commission of West Virginia, the Department of Justice/Federal Trade Commission, and the Securities and Exchange Commission approved the transaction. Final regulatory approval was received August 11 and the closing occurred August 18.

According to a book on Crellin history written by Robert Shaffer, the house was at one time a general store, opened by Lewis Adams around 1915 and remaining in business until about 1940. It reportedly also housed an ice cream parlor at the same time.

Assisting Wendling with the investigation into the cause of the fire are Bruce Shaffer, Ryan Chapman, and Tim Warner with a canine unit, all from the office of the state fire marshal, plus personnel from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Mr. Z (Dave Zimmerman) will provide music, as will the Jeff Gilbert Friday Night Garage Band, Allegheny Traditional Acoustics, and A Few Worlds Higher band.

Also expected to attend are Senator John Hafer, Delegate George Edwards, Oakland mayor Asa McCain, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, Mtn. Lake Park mayor Paul Shockey, and town council members Leo Martin, Fred Learey, David Gangler, Fred Callis, and Lou DiCarlo.

All are invited to attend, according to Councilman DiCarlo, coordinator of the event, and admission is free.

DiCarlo said that the Model Communities Crime Prevention Program guide, which is distributed to law enforcement officers throughout the state, recognized the local Crime Watch program for educating residents about crime prevention and its activities with law enforcement. DiCarlo is also president of the Neighborhood Crime Watch Committee, which meets the third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. at the town hall.

Sweet Honey In The Rock To Present GLAF Concert Sept. 2

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival will present Sweet Honey In The Rock on Saturday, Sept. 2, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Garrett Community College, McHenry. Sweet Honey In The Rock is a Grammy Award-winning African American female a cappella ensemble with roots in the sacred music of the Black church, spirituals, hymns, and gospel, as well as jazz and blues.

"The Sweet Honey experience is like no other," a spokesperson said. "Five African American women join their powerful voices, along with hand percussion instruments, to create a blend of lyrics, movements, and narrative that variously relate history, point the finger at justice, encourage activism, and sing praises of love. The music of Sweet Honey speaks out against oppression and exploitation of every kind. The quintet, whose words are simultaneously interpreted in uniquely expressive American Sign Language, demands a just and humane world for all."

The group was founded in 1973 by Dr. Bernice Johnson Reagon, daughter of a Baptist minister of rural Georgia. Reagon had been previously active in the Civil Rights Movement and the Freedom Singers, who had performed at the Newport Folk Festival in 1963 alongside Bob Dylan, Joan Baez, Pete Seeger and Peter, Paul and Mary. Sweet Honey In The Rock sprang from vocal workshops Reagon held at the D.C. Black Repertory Theater.

Joining Reagon in the group are Ysaye M. Barnwell, Nitanju Bolade Casel, Aisha Kahlil, and Carol Lynn Maillard.

The concert is made possible by the Sprenger-Lang Foundation. Season Sponsors of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival are Sprenger-Lang Foundation, Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, Sincell Publishing Company, and Deep Creek Mountain

SINCELL-CORWELL IS FRIEND OF THE ARTS — Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, pictured above center, was presented with the Garrett County Arts Council's annual Friend of the Arts Award on Saturday evening, following the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival chamber concert. Sincell-Corwell has served as executive director of the GLAF classical music series since its inception 14 years ago, assisted by music director and conductor Erick Friedman, shown at left. Steve Schlosnagle, president of the county arts council, presented the award to Sincell-Corwell, noting her "vision, courage, dedication, and hard work" in managing the series. Friedman and Sincell-Corwell were the guests of honor at a reception following Saturday's concert, hosted by GLAF. Beth Johnson, GLAF executive director, gave engraved Simon Pearce glass bowls to them both, and presented GLAF sweatshirts to the performing musicians. Johnson said the gifts to Friedman and Sincell-Corwell were in recognition of "the outstanding contribution that Kathryn and Erick have given to GLAF and to the community for the past 14 years." Sincell-Corwell Is Named Friend Of The Arts '00

Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, a native of Mtn. Lake Park and a resident of Clear Spring, has been named the Garrett County Arts Council's Friend of the Arts for 2000. She was presented with the honor on Saturday evening following the Deep Creek Chamber Players concert, hosted by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

Sincell-Corwell has been the executive director of GLAF's classical music series since the beginning of the organization 14 years ago. This year marked the final appearance of the music series headed up by Sincell-Corwell and Erick Friedman, music director and violinist.

"Each year, the Garrett County Arts Council selects an individual to honor for his or her exemplary support of the arts in Garrett County," said Steve Schlosnagle, president of the arts council. "We are delighted to present our sixth annual Friend of the Arts Award to Kathryn Sincell-Corwell."

Sincell-Corwell and Friedman met at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, some 16 years ago. The two became friends and designed a plan to bring classical music to Garrett County. After meeting with Dr. Stephen Herman and arts council representatives, the plan was put in motion, resulting in the inception of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. GLAF has since grown to include a entire series of arts offerings.

"We present this special award to Kathryn to recognize her for her vision, courage, dedication, and hard work; to honor her for her generosity of spirit, time, and talent; and — most of all — to thank her for making possible 14 seasons of unforgettable classical music in this special place she and we know as home," Schlosnagle said.

He gave her an engraved plaque and a gift certificate to the arts council's gallery in Oakland.

In addition to the arts council award, GLAF's executive director, Beth Johnson, presented Friedman and Sincell-Corwell with engraved glass bowls from Simon Pearce in recognition of their work over the years. GLAF also hosted the reception Saturday to honor them.

The award recipient's tasks over the 14 years included assisting Friedman in obtaining musicians and planning concerts, arranging for housing for the many players, and providing meals for them. She was chiefly assisted by her mother, Hannah Sincell, in the local arrangements, as well as by many members of the community.

Sincell-Corwell is the daughter of Robert and Hannah Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park. She graduated from Southern High School, and then from Frostburg State College with a degree in music performance. She continued her education at SMU, where she earned a master's degree in performance. Currently she teaches voice at FSU and gives piano lessons at her home. She and her husband, Neal Corwell, also an accomplished musician and composer, reside in Clear Spring on the Corwell farm.

Prior recipients of the Friend of the Arts Award are Esther Yoder, 1995; Dorothy Leighton, 1996; Ron Skidmore and Martin Heise, 1997; Nancy Learey, 1998; and Jane Avery, 1999.

Artisans Sought For Festival At DCL State Park

Artisans are being sought to display and sell their works at next month's "Art in the Park" festival at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The event, slated for Saturday, Sept. 23, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., will be held in conjunction with Maryland State Parks Week, Sept. 23—Oct. 1.

The Art in the Park event is intended to highlight Garrett County's natural and human resources in the setting of the state park. Activities scheduled to take place throughout the day will include hayrides, horseback trail rides, Appalachian music, children's crafts, art demonstrations, and food and refreshments.

Artisans interested in participating may register by calling the DCL Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

U.S. Navy Band Cruisers To Give Free GLAF Show

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and Westvaco will continue their tradition of presenting a free concert by a United States military band at Deep Creek Lake State Park. This year, the Cruisers, the U.S. Navy's premier rock ensemble, will perform free for the public. The show will be held on Sept. 3, beginning at 4 p.m. Guests are invited to bring lawn chairs and picnic suppers.

Under the direction of pianist Master Chief Musician Gerard I. Ascione, the Cruisers rock ensemble is the newest specialty unit of the United States Navy Band in Washington, D.C. The group takes its name from the Navy's multi-missioned ship-cruiser, and will perform a variety of music including classic rock, rhythm and blues, and today's top 40 hits.

A versatile musician, Ascione performed George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with the United States Navy Band in 1996 at the 300th anniversary of the Russian Fleet in St. Petersburg, and at the Baltic International Festival of the Fleet in Kaliningrad, Russia. As a solo pianist, he performs frequently for the vice president of the United States, secretary of defense, secretary of the navy, chief of naval operations, and other high-level military officials.

His awards include the Navy Commendation Medal, Navy Achievement Medal, two Meritorious Unit medals, five Good Conduct medals, National Defense Service Medal, and an Expert Pistol Shot Medal.

The group includes Kenneth H. Carr, guitarist, John L. Fisher, vocalist, Benjamin L. Grant, bassist, and John T. Parsons, drummer, all ranked musicians first class.

Should the weather be inclement, the concert will be moved to the Garrett Community College auditorium. This concert has been made possible by a donation from Westvaco.

The event is handicapped accessible. Persons may call the GLAF office in advance for special needs at 301-387-3082.

Cultural Events Series Announced By Frostburg St.

The Frostburg State University 2000-2001 Cultural Events Series will again provide an opportunity to celebrate the diversity of human expression with a mix of dance, theatre, and music performances.

Classical ballet masterpieces and contemporary dance explorations by the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre will launch the series on Saturday, Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Sept. 17, at 2 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

"Considered one of the top five ballet companies outside New York City, PBT's performance promises to enchant and delight with exquisite technique, distinctive artistry, and stunning theatricality," stated an FSU spokesperson. Mirroring the company's diverse repertoire, the five principal dancers bring Hispanic, Chinese, and European influences from their homes in Cuba, China, and London. Artistic director Terrence S. Orr contributes 30 years of accomplishments in the dance world to PBT, and now serves as director of the Agnes B. DeMille Dance Theatre Foundation.

From faraway Kenya in Africa come the Mapapa Acrobats to entertain children of all ages during Parents' Weekend. "The troupe will bounce, bop, and balance to an infectious Benga beat on Saturday, Sept. 23, at 8:30 p.m. in the Cordts Center Main Arena," the spokesperson said. Combining ancient Chinese acrobatics with East African dance moves, the Acrobats put on an energetic show that is part Cirque du Soleil and part Harlem Globetrotters. "Don't be surprised if you find yourself swept into a conga line, wiggling your way under a limbo bar, or skipping rope with the acrobats," said the spokesperson.

Within three months of their arrival in the United States early last year, the troupe was performing for almost every NBA team and soon opened tours for major recording artists like Monica and Blackstreet. They have just completed a CD of original music, "World Traveler, that incorporates contemporary world music trends with African styles.

Homecoming Weekend brings an American popular music icon, Don McLean, to FSU while on his "30th Anniversary Tour" commemorating his 1971 smash hit, "American Pie." The concert is set for 9 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 7, in the Cordts Center Main Arena.

Citing influences like the Weavers, Roy Orbison, Buddy Holly, and Jim Croce, McLean has written more than 200 songs that have, in turn, inspired others. Roberta Flack's Grammy-winning hit "Killing Me Softly with His Song" was penned by a songwriter impressed by one of McLean's performances, and Garth Brooks calls McLean his "idol."

"You won't want to miss this chance to see why McLean remains one of America's most popular entertainers," the spokesperson noted.

From Russia "with love" comes Chamber Orchestra Kremlin to display its distinctively impassioned yet meticulous style that has won rave reviews around the globe. "The group is considered one of Moscow's best," said the Boston Globe. In England, Gramophone said the orchestra is "an expert body under the baton of a keen stylist." Music director Misha Rachlevsky and some of the most notable young orchestral musicians from Moscow will perform Sunday, Nov. 12, at 3 p.m. and Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the PAC Pealer Recital Hall.

During its nine years of existence, the orchestra has maintained a strong presence in the international music world, with an active touring schedule and 12 CDs. Some of its recordings have won prestigious awards, including Gramophone of London's Critic's Choice and the Diapason d'Or of Paris. Its repertoire includes such works by such masters as Mozart, Brahms, and Bartok, along with lesser-known composers — and, of course, Russian greats like Tchaikovsky, Shostakovich, and Prokofiev.

The Christmas spirit, Irish-style, will be presented with "Christmas from Dublin" with the Three Irish Tenors, along with soprano and Irish harpist Jacqueline Whelan, seannachai (story teller), and comedian Jimmy Kennedy, plus a host of Irish dancers and musicians.

This holiday production is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the PAC Pealer Recital Hall.

The hit musical Crazy for You will be staged Thursday and Friday, Jan. 25 and 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the PAC Drama Theatre. Brought to you by Mainstage Productions, this Tony award-winning remake of the musical comedy Crazy for You features Gershwin tunes, choreography, and comedy.

Rich playboy Bobby Childs yearns to perform in "Zangler's Follies" on Broadway with his showgirl friends, despite his mother's disapproval and desire that he settle down with his fiancée Irene. So "Mummy" dispatches her errant son to take care of family business, foreclosing on an old vaudeville theater in Deadrock, Nev. But once there, Bobby falls for the theater owner's daughter Polly, and to win her, promises to bring the Follies to Deadrock to save the theater. "Things don't quite go according to plan and things get wild, but yes there is a happy ending," the spokesman said. The show won nine Tony awards, including "Best Musical," "Best Book," and "Best Choreography."

A different sort of matinee will come to FSU's PAC Pealer Recital Hall on Sunday, March 4, at 3 p.m., when Ethos Percussion Group brings instruments to FSU that range from drums from all over the globe to marimbas to Swiss cowbells to Brazilian scraped percussion, with Chinese opera gongs and plastic tubing courtesy of Home Depot added. This eclectic group of instruments, plus a decade of ensemble experience and worldwide traditional and contemporary compositions, results in a distinctive sound that the Washington Post calls "spellbinding."

An active performance and workshop schedule, along with sponsorship of the acclaimed "Bing! Bang! Boom" program for children, has kept Ethos in the public eye. Appearances include Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall, the Kennedy Center, and the Philadelphia Museum of Art. Students at the Juilliard School, the Berkiee College of Music, and the University of Maryland, among others, have benefited from the group's percussion expertise.

Next spring will bring the Brazilian Guitar Quartet to FSU from the land that brought "The Girl from Ipanema" as part of its tour celebrating the 500th anniversary of the discovery of Brazil. Their performance of little-known works by Brazilian classical composers, whose music reflects native folk music traditions, is set for Friday, April 6, at 8 p.m. in the PAC Pealer Recital Hall. Along with pieces by Villa-Lobos, Mignone, Guarnieri, and Miranda, the Quartet will recognize the 250th anniversary of J.S. Bach's death by performing several of his most famous compositions.

Snoopy will bring the CES season to a close as part of the 50th anniversary tribute to the Peanuts gang's world that has enchanted readers since its first appearance in the "funnies." The hit musical is slated for Tuesday, May 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the PAC Pealer Recital Hall.

Tickets for the Cultural Events Series will go on sale Monday, Aug. 28. For information, ticket reservations, and series subscriptions, persons may call or visit the Lane Center Box Office, Room 235, Mondays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at 301-687-4411. Tickets purchased by mail or phone order will be charged $1.50 per order handling fee. Payment by credit card (VISA, MasterCard, and Discover), check, or money order is accepted. Based on availability, tickets may also be purchased at the venue box office one hour prior to curtain. (Those arriving late for performances will not be admitted until intermission.)

The 2000-2001 CES Series is supported in part by a grant from the Maryland State Arts Council, an agency funded by the state of Maryland and the National Endowment for the Arts. Other sponsors include Pittsburgh Arts on Tour, a program funded by the Vira I. Heinz Endowment and administered by the Mid-Atlantic Foundation, and the FSU Department of Music, Campus Activities Board, Department of Communication and Theatre Arts, Performing Arts Center, Alumni Association, Center for International Education, Remo Incorporated, Yamaha Corp. Band and Orchestral Division, and Innovative Percussion Incorporated.
